¶ The Storie of Sulanna, whiche is the thirtene the Chapitre of Daniel after the Latine.

There dwelt a man in Babilon called Ioachim, that toke a wife whose name was Sulanna, the Daughter of Helchia, a very faire woman, and eche a one as feared God. Her father, and her mother also were Godlie people, and taught their daughter according to the law of Moses. Now Ioachim her husbande was a great riche man, and hadde a faire Orchard ioigning to his house. And to him resorted the Iewes commonly, because he was a man of reputation emong them. The same yeare were there made two Iudges, (eche as the lorde speaketh of: al the wickednesse of Babylon cometh from the elders, (that is,) from the iudges, whiche seeme to rule the people. These came oft to Ioachims house, and all eche as hadde any thing to doe in the Lawe, came thither vnto them. Now when the people came again at after noone: Sulanna went into her husbandes Orchard to walke. The Elders seeing this, that she went in daielye and walked, thei burned for lust to her, ye thei wer almost out of their wittes, & cāke downe their eies, that thei should not see heauen, nor remēbre that God is a righteous iudge. For thei wer bothe wounded with the loue of her, neither durst one shewe another his griefe. And for shame durst thei not tel her their inordinat lust, that thei would faine haue hadde to do with her. Yet thei laid wait for her ernestly, from day to day, that thei might at the least haue a sight of her. And the one saied to the other. Up, let vs go home, for it is dines time. So thei went their way frō her. When thei returned again, thei came together enquiring out the mater betwixt themselues: ye the one tolde the other of his wicked lust.
Then appointed thei a time whē thei might take Sulanna alone. It happened also that they spied out a cōuenient time, when she went forth to walke as her maner was, and nobody with her, but her .ij. maidens, and thought to wash herselfe in the garde, for it was an hote seasō: & ther was not one perſō ther, excepte the .ij. elders that had hid themselues to behold her. So she said to her maidens, go fet me oile & sope, & shut thorchard doore that I may wash me. And thei did as she bad theim, and shut the Orchard doore, and went out themselues at a backe doore, to fetche the thing that shee had commaunded. But Sulanna knewe not that the elders laie there hid within. Nowe when the maidens were gone out, the two elders gat them vp, and ranne vppon her saying: Now the Orchard doores are shut, that no man can se vs, we haue a lust vnto thee,

If thou wilte not, wee wille bring a Testimonial against the, that there was a younge felowe with the, and that thou hast sente away thy maydens from the. For the same cause Sulanna sighed, and said: Alas, I am in trouble on euery side. Though I folow your mind it wil be my death. And if I consente not vnto you, I cannot escape your handes. Wel, it is better for mee to fall into your handes without the deede doing, then to sinne in the sight of the Lorde: and with that wee cried oute with a loude voice, the elders also cried out against her. Then ranne there one to the orchards doore, and smote it open. Now whe the seruauntes of the house heard the crie in the orcharde, thei rushed in at the backe doore, to se what the matter was. So when the elders tolde their, the seruauntes were greatlye ashamed, for why? ther was neuer suche a reporte made of Sulanna. On the morowe after came the people to Joachim her husbād: & the .ij. elders came also ful of mischeuous imagination against Sulāna to bring her vnto deth, & spake thus before the people. Sende for Sulanna the daughter of Helchias, Joachims wife. And immediatly thei sente for her. So she came with her father, & mother, her children, and all her kinred. Now Sulanna was a tender persone, and meruelous faire of face. Therfore the wicked men commaunded to take of the clothes from her face, for shee was couered, that at the least, thei might be satisfied in her beautie. Then her friendes: yea, and al that knewe her, began to wepe. These .ij. elders stode vp in the midst of the people, & laid their handes vpon the hed of Sulanna. Ecclus. xxix. a.

And the elders said: As we were walking in the orcharde alone, this woman came in with her .ij. maidens, whom she sent away from her and sparred the orcharde dooores, and a young felowe which there was hid, came vnto her, and lai with her. As for vs we stode in a corner of the orcharde. And when we sawe this wickednesse, we ranne to her, and perceiued that thei had medled together. But we coulde not holde him: for he was stronger then we, F. he opened the doore, & gate him awaie. Nowe when we had taken this woman we asked her what young felowe this was, but she would not tel vs. This is the matter, and wee are witnesses of the same. The common sort beleued them, as thase that were the Elders, and iudges of the people, and so thei condemned her to death. Sulanna cried out with a loude Deu. xxij. c.

What meane these wordes that thou hast spoken? Daniel stode in the midst of the and said. Are ye so foole, o ye children of Israel that ye cannot discerne nor knowe the truethe? Ye haue here condempned a daughter of Israell vnto deathe, and knowe not the truethe wherfore. Go sit in iudgemēt again, for they haue spoken false witnesse against her: wherfore the people turned again in all the haste. And the elders (that is the principal heades) said vnto him, come sit doune here among vs, and shew vs this mater, seing God hath geuen the as great honor as an elder. And Daniel said vnto them: Put these two a side one from another, and then wil I heare them. When thei were put asonder one from another, he called one of them, & said vnto him, o thou old cankered carle, that hast vsed thy wickednes so long, thine vngracious deedes which thou hast vsed before, are now come to light. Thus dealt ye afore, with the daughters of Israel, and they for feare consented vnto you: but the daughter of Juda would not abide your wickednes. Now tel me then, vnder what tree didst thou take them speaking together? He answered vnder a Pomegranate tree. Then said Daniel vnto him: Very wel, now liest thou also vpon thine owne headd. ¶ The ſtorie of Bel, and the Dragone, whiche is the fourteene Chapiter of Daniel after the Latine.

Daniel did eate at the Kinges table & was had in reuerēce aboue al his frendes. There was at Babylone, an Image called Bel: and ther were ſpent vpon him euery day .xv. cakes. xl. shepe and vi. gret pottes of wine. Him did the king worship himſelf, and went daiely to honoure him: but Daniel worshipped his owne God. And the Kinge ſaied vnto him, why doeſt not thou worship Bel? He answered and saied: Becauſe I make not worship thinges that be made with handes. But the liuing God, whiche made heauen and earth, and hath power vpon al fleshe. The king saied vnto him thinkeſt thou not that Bel is a liuing God? Or seeſt thou not howe moche he eateth, and drinketh euery daie? Daniel smiled, and saied: O King deceaue not thyſelfe, for this is but made of claie within, and of mettall without, *neither eateth he euer any thing. Then the king was wroth, and called for his prieſtes and saied vnto them: Yf ye tel me not who is this, that eateth vp theſe expenſes, yee shall die: but if ye can certifie mee that Bel eateth them, then shal Daniel die, for he hath ſpoken blaſphemy againſt Bel. And Daniel saied vnto the king, let it be as thou haſt ſaid. The prieſtes of Bel were .lxx. beſides women and children. And the king went with Daniel in to the temple of Bel. So Bels prieſtes saied lo, we wil go out, and ſet thou the meate ther O King, and powre out the wine, then ſhutte the doore faſt, and ſeale it with thine annel: and to morow whē thou comeſt in, if thou findeſt not that Bel hath eaten vp al, we will ſuffre death, or els Daniel that hath lied vpon vs. The prieſtes thought thēſelues ſure enough, for vnder the altare thei had made a priuy entraunce, and there went thei in euer, and dide eate vp what there was. So when thei were goen furth, the king ſet meate before Bel. Then Daniel had commaunded his ſeruauntes to bring aſhes, and theſe he ſifted throughout al the temple, that the king might ſe. Then went thei out, and ſparred the doore ſealing it with the Kinges Signet, and ſo departed. In the night came the prieſtes, with their Wiues, and Children, (as thei were wont to doo) dideat, and drinke vp al. In the morning betimes, at the breake of the daie the king aroſe, and Daniel with him. And the king ſaied: Daniel are the ſeales whole yeat He answered, yea o king thei be whole: now aſsone as he had openen the doore, the King loked vnto the aultare, and cried with a loud voice. Great art thou O Bel, and with thee is no deceit. Then laughed Daniell, and helde the king that he would not goe in, and saied: Beholde the pauement, marke wel whose fote ſteppes are theſe? The king saied: I ſee the fote ſteppes of men, women, & children. Then waxe the king was angrie, & toke the prieſtes, with their wiues, and their children, and thei ſhewed him the priuy doores, wher thei came in, and did eate vp ſuche thinges as were ſet vpō the altar. For the which cauſe the king ſlue them, and deliuered Bel into Daniels power, whiche deſtroied him and his temple. And in that ſame place there was a gret dragon which thei of Babilon worshipped, and the king ſaied vnto Daniell: ſaieſt thou that this is but a God of mettal also? he liueth he eateth and drinketh, ſo that thou canſt not ſaie that he is no liuing God, therfore worship him. Daniel ſaied vnto the king, I wille worship the lorde my God: for he is the true liuing God: as for this, he is not the God of life. But geue me leaue O king, and I shal deſtroy this Dragon without ſweard or ſtaffe. The king ſaid: I geue the leaue. Then Daniel toke pitche, and fat, and heary woolle, and dide ſeethe them together, and made lompes therof, this put he in the Dragones mouthe, and ſo the Dragon brake in ſonder: and Daniel ſaied: lo, ther is he whom ye worshipped. When ther of Babylon hearde that, ther tooke great indignation and gathered them together againſt the king: ſaiyng: The King is become a Jewe, and he hath deſtroyed Bell, hee hath ſlain the Dragon, and put the prieſtes to death. So thei came to the king, and ſaid: let vs haue Daniel, or els we wil deſtroi the and thine houſe. Nowe when the king ſawe, that ther entiſed in ſo ſore vpō him, and that neceſſitie conſtreined him, he deliuered Daniel vnto theim, whiche caſt him into the lions denne, where hee was ſixe daies. In the denne ther were vij. lions, & thei had geuē them euery daie two bodies, and two ſhepe, whiche then were not geuen theim to the entente that thei might deuoure Daniel. There was in Jurie a Prophete called Abacuc, whiche had made Potage, and broken breade into a depe platter, and was going into the fielde, for to bring it to the reapers. But the Aungel of the lorde ſaied vnto Abacuc, go carye the meate that thou haſt into Babylone, vnto Daniell, whiche is in the Lions denne. And Abacuc saied: Lorde, I neuer ſawe Babilon, kinges commaundement was that they ſhuld put hym to death. And thorow his auctorite they executed theſe thinges euery Moneth vpon the people of Iſrael that were founde in the cities. * The xxv. and twenty daye of the Moneth, what time as they dyd ſacrifice vpon the auiter (whyche ſtoode in the ſtede of the auiter of the Lorde) according to the commaundement of kynge Antyochus, they put certayne women to death, which had cauſed theyr chyldren to be circumcyſed: Not onlye that, but they hanged their chyldren by the neckes thorowout al their houſes, & ſlewe the circumcyſers of them. Yet were there many of the people of Iſrael, whiche determyned in them ſelues, that they wolde not eate vncle ane thinges: but choſe rather to ſuffer death, then to be defyled with vncleane meates: So becauſe they wolde not breake the beſſed law of God, they were cruelly ſlaine. And this great tyrranny increaſed very ſore vpon the people of Iſraell.

a IN thoſe dayes there dyd ſtande vp one Mathathyas the ſonne of John the ſon of Simeon the prieſt (out of the kinred of Joarib) from Jeruſalem, and dwelt vpon the mount of Modin, and had .v. ſonnes, John called Godds, Simeon called Thaſy: Judas, otherwiſe called Machabeus: Eleaſer otherwiſe called Abaron: and Jonathas, whoſe ſyr name was Appus. Theſe ſawe the euell that was done among the people of Juda, and Jeruſalem. And Mathathyas ſaid Woo is me: alas that euer I was borne, to ſe this miſery of my people, and the piteous deſtruccion of the holy citie: and thus to ſit ſo ſtill, it being deliuered into the handes of the enemies. * Yer Sanctuary is comein to the power of ſtrangers: her temple is as it were a man that hath loſte his good name Yer precyous ornamentes are caried awaie captiue. Yer olde men are ſlaine in the ſtretes, and her young men are fallen thorowe the ſweard of the ennemies. What people is it, that hath not ſome poſſeſſion in her kingdō? Or who hath not gotten ſomme of her ſpoiles? All her glory is taken away. She was a free woman & now ſhe is become an hand mayde. Behold our Sanctuary, our bewtye & honoure is waſted away, and defyled by the Gentiles. What helpeth it vs then to lyue?

B. And Mathathias rent his clothes, he and his ſonnes & put ſackecloth vpon them, and mourned very ſore. Then came the men thyther whiche were ſent of kyng Antyochus, to compell ſuche as were fled into the citie of Modyn, for to do ſacrifice, and to burne incenſe vnto Idolles, & to forſake the lawe of God. So many of the people of Iſraell conſented and enclined vnto them, but Mathathias & his ſonnes remained ſtedfaſte.

Then ſpake the commiſſioners of kyng Antiochus, & ſaid vnto Mathathias: Thou art a noble man, of hie reputacion & great in this citie, hauing faire children & brethrē. Come thou therfore firſt, & fulfyl the kinges commaundemēt, like as al the Heathē haue done, yee, & the men of Juda, & ſuch as remaine at Jeruſalē: ſo ſhalt thou & thi children be in the kinges fauour & enriched with gold, ſiluer, & great rewardes. Mathathias anſwered, and ſpake with a loud voice. Though al nations obey the king Antiochus, & fal away euery manne frō keping the law of their fathers: though thei cōſent to his cōmaundemēts, yet will I & my ſonnes & my brethren, not fal frō the law of our fathers. God forbid we ſhuld that were not good for vs * that we ſhulde forſake the law & ordinaunces of God, and to agre vnto the commaundemente of kynge Antyochus. Therfore we will do no ſuch ſacrifice, nether breake the ſtautes of oure lawe * to go another way. And when he had ſpoken theſe wordes, there came one of the Jewes, which openly in the ſight of al, did ſacrifice vnto the Idolles vpon the auiter in the citie of Modyn, according to the kinges commaundemente. When Mathathias ſaw this, it grened him at the herte, ſo that his raines ſhoke withal, and his wrath kindled for very zeale of the law. With that he ſtarte vp, and killed the Jewe beſide the auiter: Yee, and ſlew the kinges commyſſioner, that compelled him to do ſacrifice, and deſtroied the auiter at the ſame time: ſuche a zeale had he vnto the law of God * Lyke as Phinees did vnto zambry the ſonne of Salomy. And Mathathias cryed with a loude voice thorow the cytye ſayinge. Whoſo is feruent in the lawe, and wil kepe the couenaunt, let him folowe me. * So he and his ſonnes fled into the mountaynes, and left al that euer they had in the citie. Manye other godly men alſo departed into the wildernesſe wyth their chyldren, their wiues and their catell, and remayned there: for the tirannye increaſed ſore vpon them. Nowe when the kinges ſeruauntes, & the hoaſt whiche was at Jeruſalem in the cytie of Mauyd harde that certaine men had broken the kynges commaundement, and were gone their way to the wildernes into ſecret places, and that there were many departed after them: they folowed vpon them, to fight againſt them on the Sabboth day & ſaid, wyl ye yet rebell? Get you hence and do the commaundemente of kyng Antyochus, & ye ſhal liue. Then anſwered: * We wyll not go forth, nether will we do the kinges cōmaundemente, to defile the Sabboth day. Thē began they to fyght againſt them, neuertheleſſe, they gaue them none other anſwer, nether caſt they one ſto-

but saide: we wil die all in our innocency, beare we earth and heauen witnesse with vs, that ye put vs to death wrongfully. Thus they sought against them vpon the Sabboth, & slewe bothe men & cattel, their wiues & their children to the nombre of a thousand people. When Mathathias & his frendes herd this, they mourned for the right sore & said one to another: If so be that we al do as our brethren haue done, & fight not for our liues & for our lawes against the heathen, then wil they the sooner rote vs out of the earth. So they concluded amog them selues at the same time: saying, what so euer he be that cometh to make battaile with vs vpon the Sabboth day, we wil fight against him & not die al, as our brethren that were murthered so wickedly. Upō this came the congregacion of the Iewes vnto the stōg men of Israel, al such as were feruent in the law. And al they that were fredde for persecuciō, came to helpe them & to stand by them: In so much e that they gathered an hoste of men, & slue the wicked doers in their greuous & the vngodly men in their wrathe. Some of the wicked fled vnto the heathen, & escaped. Thus Mathathias & his frendes went about, & destroied the aulters, & circūcised the children, that had not yet receaued circumcisiō: as many as they founde within the coastes of Israel: & folowed mightely vpon the childrē of pride & this acte prospered in their hāde: In so much, that they kept the law against the power of the Gentiles & the kinges: & gaue not ouer their dominion vnto wicked doers. After this, whē the time drue on fast, that Mathathias should die, he said vnto his sonnes: Now is pride & persecucion increased, now is the time of destruccion & wrathful displeasure: wherefore (O my sonnes) be ye feruent in the law, & ieoparde your lyues for the Testamēt of the fathers, cal to remēbraunce what actes our fathers did in their time, so shal ye receue great honour & an euerlasting name. * Remembre Abraham, was not he found faithful in temptacion, & it was reckened vnto him for ryghtwesnes? * Joseph in time of his trouble kept the cōmaūdement & was made a Lord of Egipt. * Phinehes our father was so feruent for the honour of God, that he obtained the couenaūt of an euerlasting priesthod. * Josua for fulfilling the word of god, was made the captaine of Israel. * Caleb bare recorde before the congregacion & receaued an heritage. * Dauid also in his merciful kindnes, obtained the trone of an euerlasting kingdō. * Elias beīg geleous & feruēt in the lawe, was take vp into heauē. Ananias, Asarias & Misael remained stedfast in faithe, & were deliuered out of the fire. In like maner * Daniel beīg vnguilty, was saued frō the mouth of the Lions. And thus ye may consider throwout al ages, that the world begā, * that whosoeuer put their trust in god were not ouercome. * Feare not ye then the wordes of an vngodly mā: For his glory is but dounge & wormes: to day is he set vp, and to morow is he gone: for he is turned into earth & his memorial is com to nought. Wherefore, (O my sōnes) take good hertes vnto you, & quite your selues like mē in the lawe, for if ye do the thinges that are commaunded you in the law of the Lord your God, ye shall obtaine great honour therein. And beholde, I know that your brother Simō is a man of wisdom set ye giue eare vnto him alway, he shalbe a father vnto you. As for Judas Machabeus, he hath ever ben mighty & strong frō his youth vp: let him be your captaine, and order the battaile of the people: thus shal ye bring vnto you al those that fauour the law, and se that ye auenge the wrong of youre people & recompence the heythen againe & apply your selues whole to the commaūdemēt of the law. So he gaue thē his blessing & was laide by his fathers: & died in the hūdreth. xlvi. yere at Modin, wher his sōnes buried him in his fathers sepulchre, & al Israel made great lamētacion for him. The iii. Chapter.

Then rose vp Judas Machabeus in his fathers stede, & al his brethren helped him & so did al they that helde with his father, & fought, with cheerefulnes for Israel. So Judas gat his people great honour. He put on a brestplate as a Gyaunt, and araied him self with his harnesse, and defended the host with his sweard. In his actes he was like a Liō, & as a Lyons whelpe roaring at his pray. * He was an enemie to the wicked, & hūted them out: & brent vp those that vexed his people: So that his enemies fled for feare of him, & al the workers of vngodlines were put to trouble: such lucke & prosperitie was in his hād. This greued diuers kinges, but Jacob was greatly reioysed throw his actes, & he gat him self a great name for euer. He went throwow the cities of Juda, destroying the vngodly out of them, turninge away the wrath frō Israel, & receyuing suche as were oppressed: and the fame of him went vnto the vttermost part of the earth. Then Apolonius (a prynce of Syria) gathered a mighty great hoost of the heythen, & out of Samaria, to fight against Israel which whē Judas perceiued, he went forth to mete him & fought with him, slue him, & a great multitude with him, the remnant fled, & he toke their substaūce. Judas also tooke appolonius owne sweard, & fought with it al his life lōg. Now when Seron (another prince of Syria) herd say that Judas had gathered vnto him the cōgregaciō & church of the faithful, he said I wil get me a name & a praise throwoute the realme: for I wil go fight with Judas wer afrayde of Judas and his brethren: so that the rumour of him came vnto the kin-when he saw, that there was not money eto gather much money. So he left Lysias (a noble man of the kinges blod) to ouersee the kinges businesses, from the water Euphrates his son Antiochus, tyl he came again. More

A. Then toke Gorgias fyue thouſande men Ioſeph. li. b. of fote, & a thouſand of the beſt horſe- xii. capit. x. men, & remoued by night, to come nie where the Iewes hooſt lay: & ſo to ſlaie them ſodenly. Nowe the men that kepte the caſtell, were the conueyers of them. The aroſe Iudas to ſmite the chiefe and principall of the kinges hoofte at Emmaus, for the armye was not yet com togither. In the meane ſeaſon came Gorgyas by night into Iudas tẽtes: & when he found no man ther, he ſought them in the Mountaines, & thought they had ben fled awaye, becauſe of him. But when it was day, Iudas ſhewed him ſelfe in the feld with thre thouſand men onely, which had̃e nether herneſſe nor ſwearde to their myndes. But on the other ſide, thei ſawe that the Heathen wer mightie & wel harneſſed, and their horſmen about them, and al theſe well expert in feates of warre. Then ſayd Iudas to the men that were with him: Feare ye not the multitude of them, be not afraied of their vyolent running: remembre, how our fathers Exod. xiiij. f. were deliuered* in the red ſee, when Pharao folowed vpon them with a great hoofte. Euẽ ſo let vs alſo cry now toward heauen: and the Lorde ſhal haue mercy vpon vs, & remẽber the couenaunt of our fathers: yea, & deſtroye this hoofte before your face this daie And al the Heathen ſhal know, that it is god B. him ſelfe, which deliuereth & ſaueth Iſrael Then the Heathen lift vp their eyes: & whẽ they ſaw that they were commynge againſte them, they went out of their tentes into the 1. Mac. viii. d battaile: and thei that wer with Iudas, blew vp the trompettes.* So they buckled togeather, and the Heathen wer diſcomfyted and fled ouer the plaine felde: but the hinmoſt of them wer ſlaine. For they folowed vpon thẽ vnto Aſſaremoth, and into the feldes of Idumea toward Azot and Jamnia: ſo that ther wer ſlaine of them vpon a thre thouſande men. So Iudas turned againe with his hoofte, and ſayd vnto the people: Be not gredye of the ſpoiles, we haue yet a battayle to fight, for Gorgyas & his hoſte are here by vs in the mountaines, but ſtand ye faſt againſt our enemies, & ouercome thẽ: thẽ may ye eaſily take the ſpoyles. C. As Iudas was ſpeaking theſe wordes, behold, ther appered one part of thẽ vpõ the mount. But whẽ Gorgias ſawe that thei of his part wer fled, & the tentes burnt vp (for by the ſmoke they myght vnderſtand what was done) they perceauing this, wer very ſore afrayed: and when they ſawe alſo that Iudas and his hoofte were in the feld readye to fyghte battaile, they fled euery chone into the land of the heathẽ. So Iudas turned againe to ſpoile the tentes, wher they gat much gold and ſiluer, precyous ſtones, purple and gret richeſſe. Thus they went home, and ſong a Pſalme of thãke ſeuginge, and praiſed God in heauen:* for pſa. cvii. a. he is gracious, and his mercy endureth for Pſal. cxviii. a euer. And ſo Iſrael had a great victorie in that daie. Now al the Heathen that eſcaped came and told Lyſias euery thing as it happened. Wherfore Lyſias was ſore afrayed, and greued in his minde, becauſe Iſrael had not gotten ſuche myſchefune, as he would̃e they ſhould, neither as the king commaunded. The next yeare following gathered Lyſias thre ſcore thouſand choſen men of fote, and fiue thouſand horſmen to fyght againſt D. them. So they came into Jewry, and pytched their tentes at Bethoron, where Iudas came againſt them wyth ten thouſande men. And when he ſawe ſo great and mightie an hoofte, he made his praier, and ſaide: Bleſſed be thou (O ſauyoure of Iſrael)* which didſt i. reg. xvii. g deſtroy the violent power of the Giãt, in the hande of thy ſeruaunte Dauid, * and gaueſt the hoofte of the Heathen into the hãd i. reg. xiiii. b. of Jonathas (the ſonne of Saull) and of hys weapon bearer. Put this hoſt now into the hande of thy people of Iſrael, and let them be confounded, in their multitude and horſemen. Make them afrayde, and diſcomfort the boldneſſe of their ſtrength that they may be moued thorow their deſtruccion. Caſt them downe thorow the ſwerde of thy louers, thẽ ſhal al they that know thy name, praiſe thee with thankeſgeuing. So they ſtroke the battayle, and ther wer ſlaine of Lyſyas hoofte, fyue thouſand men. Thẽ Lyſias ſeing the diſcõfiting of his men and the manlines of the Iewes, how they wer readie, eyther to lyue or die like mẽ: he wẽt vnto Antioch, & chooſe out mẽ of war: that when they wer gathered together, they might come againe into Jewry. Then ſaid Iudas & his brethren, behold, our enemyes are diſcomfited: Lette vs nowe go vp, to clenſe and to repare the Sanctuarie.* Vpon this, al the hoſt gathered them ii. Mac. x. a. togither, & went vp into mount Sion. Nowe whẽ they ſaw the Sanctuary laied waſte, the aulter defiled, the doores brent vp, the chambres growing in the courtes, like as in a wod or vpon mountaines: yea, and that the priestes Celles wer broken downe; They rent their clothes, made gret lamentacion, cast ashes vpō their heedes, fell downe flat to the grounde, made a gret noise with the trompettes, & cried toward heaue. Then Judas appointed certaine men to fight against those which wer in the castel till they had clensed the Sanctuary. So he chose priestes that wer undefiled, such as hadde pleasure in the law of god: & they clensed the Sanctuary: & bare out the defiled stones into an vncleane place And for so much as the aulter of burnt offeringes was vnhalowed, he tooke aduisemente, what he mighte doo withall, so he thought it was best to destroy it (lest it shold happē to do them any shame) for the heathē had defiled it, & therfore they brake it downe as for the stones, they layed them vp vpon the mountaine by the house in a conuenient place: till there came a prophete, to shewe the enemies led away captine. While these letters wer yet a reding, behold, ther came o ther messēgers frō galile with rent clothes which told euē the same tidinges, & said: that they of Ptolomays, of Tyrus & Sidon wer gathered against thē, & that al Galyle was filled with enemies to destroy Israel. * Whē ii. mac. viii. f.

Judas & the people heard this, they came together (a great congregacīō) to deuise, what they might do for their brethren, that were in trouble & beseeged of their enemies. And Judas said vnto Simon his brother: Chose thren in Galilee: As for me & my brother Jonathas, we wil go into Galaadyt hym. So he left Josephus the sonne of Zacharie, and Azarias to be Captaine of the people, & to kepe the remnaunt of the hoste in Jewry, and cõmaunded them saying: Take the ouersight of this people, & se that ye make no war against the Heathen, vntill the time that we come againe. And vnto Simon he gaue three thousand mẽ for to go into Galile, but Judas himself had eight thousãd in Galaaditym. The went Simeon into Galyle, & made diuers battailes with the Heathen: whome he discõfited, & followed vpon them vnto the porte of Ptolomays. And there were slaine of the Heathẽ almost three thousãd men. So he toke the spoiles of them, & caried away the Israelites that were in Galile and Arbatis with their children, and all that they hadde, and broughte them into Iewry with greate gladnes. Judas Machabeus also and his brother Jonathas wente ouer Jordan, and trauailed iii. daies iourneye in the wilderne: Where the Nebuthees mete them, and receaued them louingelye, and tolde them euerye thinge that had happened vnto their brethrẽ in Galaaditbym, & howe that manye of them were besieged in Barasa, Bozor, Alymys, Casphor, Mageth & Cornaim (al these are stronge walled and mightie great cities) and that they were kept in other cities of Galaad also: and to morow they are apointed to bring their hoost vnto these cities, to take them, & to winne thẽ in one day. So Judas & his hoost turned in al the hast in the wildernesse toward Bozor, & wan the citie, slewe al the males with the swerde, tooke all their goodes, & set fyre vpon the citie. And in the night they toke their iourney frõ thence, and came to the castell. And betimes in the morning whẽ they lo'ked vp, behold, ther was an innumerable people bearing ladders and other instrumentes of war, to take the castell and to ouercome thẽ. When Judas saw that the battayle began, and that the noise thereof went vp, and range into the heauen, and that there was so greate a crye in the cytie: He sayde vnto his hoostes: fighte this daye for youre brethren. And so came behind their enemyes in three companies and blew vp the trompettes, and cried in their prayer to God. But as soone as Timothes hoost perceaued that Machabeus was ther, they fled from him, and the other slewe them downe right sore: so that ther were killed of them the same day, almost eyght thousãd mẽ.

D. Then departed Judas vnto Masypha, layde seege vnto it, and wanne it: slew al the males in it, spoiled it, & set fire vpõ it. From thence went he & tooke Chaspon, Mageth, Bozor, & the other cities in Galaad. After this gathered Timothy another host, which pitched their tentes before Raphon beyond the water. Judas also sente to espy the hoost, & they brought him word againe, saying: All the heathen that be rounde about vs are gathered vnto him, & the hoost is verye greate. Yee they haue hyred the Arabyans to helpe them, and haue pitched their tentes beyond the water and are redy to come & fight against the. So Judas went on to mete them. And Timothye said vnto the captaines of his hoostes: when Judas and his hoost come me the riuer: if ye go ouer first, we shal not be able to withstãd him, for why? He will be to stronge for vs. But if he dare not come ouer so that he pitche his tente beyond the water: then wil we go ouer, for we shalbe strong inough against him. Now as soone as Judas came to the riuer, he appointed certaine scribes of the people, and cõmaunded them, saying: se that ye leaue none behind vpon this side of the riuer but let euery mã come to the battaile. So he went first ouer vnto them, and his people after him. And al the Heathen were discomfited before him, and let their weapons fal, and rãne into the temple that was at Carnaym. Which citie Judas wan, and burnt the temple with al that were in it: So was Carnaym subdued, and might not withstande Judas. Then Judas gathered al the Israelites that were in Galadathym, frõ the least vnto the most, with their wiues and their children a very great hoste, for to come into the lande of Israell.

E So they came vnto Ephron, whiche was a mighty greate and stronge citie, and lay in their way. For they could not go by it, neither of the right hand nor of the left, but must go thorow it. Neuertheles they that were in the citie wold not let them goo thorowe, but walled vp the portes with stones. And Judas sent vnto them with peaceable wordes saying: Let vs passe thorow your land, that wee may go into our owne coũtre: ther shal no body do you harme, we wil but only go thorow on fote. But they wold not let them in. Wherfore Judas cõmaunded a proclamacyon to be made thorowout the hoostes, that euerye man shoulde kepe his ordre: and so they did their best like valeaunt men. And Judas besieged the citie al that day and al that nighte, and so wanne it, wher they slew as manye as were males, and destroyed the citie, and spoiled it, and went thorow al the citie ouer them that were slaine. Then went they ouer Jordaine into the plaine felde before Bethsem. And Judas helped those forwarde that came behinde and gaue the people good exhortacion all the waie thorowout, till they were come into the lande of Juda. Thus they went vp vnto the mount Sion, where they offred with mirth, & thankes geuing, because ther were none of them slaine, but come home againe peaceably. About what time as Judas and his nathas were in the lande of Galaad, and Simon their brother in Galaad before Ptolemays. Then Josephus the sonne of Zachary and Azarye the captaines, hearinge of the actes that were done & of the battailes that were stycken, said: let vs get vs a name also, and go fight against the Heathen that are round about vs. So they gaue their hoste a commaundement, and went towarde Jamnya. Then came Gorgias and his men out of the citie, to fighte against them: Josephus also and Azarye were chased vnto the borders of Jewry, and there were slaine that daye of the people of Israel, two.m.men: so that there was a great misery among the people* and al because they were not obedyente vnto Judas and his brethren, but thought they wold quite them selues manfully. Nuertheles they came not of the seede of these menne, by whome Israel was holped. But the men that were with Judas, were greatly commended in the sight of al Israel, & al the Heathē, where soeuer their name was heard vpon, & the people came vnto them, bydding them welcome. After this went Judas forth with his brethren, and fought against the children of Esau, in the land that lieth toward the southe where he wan the citie of Edron, & the townes that lie beside it: and as for the walles & towres round about it, he brent them vp. The remoued he to go into the land of the Philystynes, and went thorow Samaria. At the same time were there many Priestes slaine in the battaile, which wilfully and without aduisement went oute for to fighte, to get them honoure. And when Judas came to Azot in the Philystynes land,* he brake down their altares, brent the Images of their Idolles, spoiled the cities, and came againe into the lande of Juda.

8. Josu. ca. xiij. lib. xii. anti.

Now when Kinge Antyochus trauailed thorow the hie countries, he heard that Elymais in Persya was a noble and plenteous cytye in syluer and gold, and that there was in it a very ryche temple: where as were clothes, rote armoures and shyldes of gold, which Alexāder the son of Philyp, kynge of Macedonia (that raygned fyrste in Greke lande) hadde left behinde him. Where fore he wente about to take the cytie and to spoyle it, but he was not able: for the citezins were warned of it, and fought with hym. And so he fled and departed with great heuynesse, and came againe into Babylon. Moreouer, there came one which brought hym tydynges in Persyde,* that his hoostes whyche were in the land of Juda, were driuen away, and howe that Lysyas wente forth fyrste with a greate power, and was dryuen away of the Jewes: howe that they hadde wonne the byclosure, and gotten greate goodes oute of the hoostes that perysshed, howe they had broken downe the abhominacion * which he set vp vpon the aulter at Jerusalem, and fensed the Sanctuarye with hye walles, lyke as it was afore: yea, and Bethsura his cytie also.

i. Mac. i. b

So it chanced, that when the kyng had heard these wordes, he was afraied and greued verye sore. Wherefore he laied him downe vpon hys bedde, and fell sycke for very sorowe: and all because it hadde not happened as he hadde deuysed. And there continued he long, for his greefe was euer, more and more, so that he sawe he must nedes dye. Therefore he sente for hys frendes, and sayd vnto them: the slepe is gone from myne eyes, for the verye sorowe and vexacyon of my heartte that I haue. For when I consyder in my mynde the greate aduersitie that I am come vnto, and the floudes of heauynesse whyche I am come in, where as afore tyme I was so merye, and so greatelye setted by (by reason of my power.) Agayne, consyderynge the euell that I haue done at Jerusalem, from whence I tooke all the rychesse of golde and syluer that were in it, and sente to fetche away the inhabitours of Jewry with oute anye reason whye: I knowe that these troubles are com vpon me for the same cause And beholde, I muste dye wyth great sorowe in a straunge lande. Then called he for one Philip a frende of hys, whome he made ruler of all hys realme, and gaue hym the Crowne, his roobe and hys ryngc: that he shoulde take hys sonne Antiochus vnto him, and bringe him vp, til he myghte raygne him selfe.* So the kynge Antyochus dyed ther in the hundred and fortie and nyne yeare.

i. Mac. ix. a. b.

When Lysyas knew that the kyng was deed he ordeyned Antyochus hys sonne (* whome he had brought vp,) to raygne in hys fathers steade, and called hym Eupator, (howe they that were in the castell (at Jerusalem) kepte in the Jewes round about the Sanctuarye, and sought euer syll to do them harme for the strengthenynge of the Heathen.

He hyred men of warre alſo out of other realmes and out of the Iles of the ſee, whiche came vnto hym. And the nombre of his hoofte was an hundred thouſand foote men, & twenty thouſand horſmen, & two and thyrty Elephan-

So the kyng arose before the day, and brought the power of his hoofte into the way to Bethzacaran, wher the hooſtes made them ready to the battayle, blowing the trompetes. And to prouoke the Elephantes for to fyght, they ſhewed them the lap of red grapes & mulberies, & deuided the Elephantes amonge the hooſte: ſo that by euery Elephant ther ſtod a thouſand men wel harnelled, and helmettes of ſtele vpon their headdes. Yee, vnto euery one of the Elephantes alſo were ordeined fyue hundred horſmen of the beſt, which waited on the Elephant, goyng wherſoeuer he went, & departed not from hym. Euery Elephant was couered with a ſtronge towar of wood, where vpon were two and thyrty valiaunt men with weapons to fight, and with in was a man of Inde to rule the beaſte. As for the remnaunt of the horſmen, he ſet vpõ both ſides in two partes with trompettes, to prouoke the hoofte, & to ſtyre vp ſuche as wer ſlowe in the army. And when the ſunne ſhone vpõ their ſhieldes of fold & ſtele, the mountaines glittered againſt them, & wer as bright as the creſſettes of fyre. The kinges hoofte alſo was deuided, one part vpõ the hie mountaines, the other low beneth: ſo they went on takyng good hede: & keping their order. And al they that dwelte in the lande, wer aſtonied at the noyſe of their hoſte, when the multitude went forth and when the weapons ſmot together, for the hoofte was bothe great & myghty. Iudas alſo & his hoſte entred into the battayle and ſlew fyue hundred men of the kinges army. Now when Eleazar the ſonne of Saura, dyd ſe one of the Elephantes dect with the kinges badge, and was amoze goodly beaſt then the other: he thought the kyng ſhould be vpon him, & iopard him ſelf to deliuer his people: and to get him a perpetual name. Wherefore he ran with a corage vnto the Elephant in the middeſt of the hooſt, ſmytynge them downe on bothe ſides, & ſlewe many aboute him. So went he to the Elephantes fete, & gat him vnder him, and ſlew him, then fel the Elephante downe vpon hym, and there he dyed. Iudas alſo and his men feynge the power of the kynge and the myghty violence of hys hooſt departed from them. Wher he made al maner of ordynaunce, handbowes, fire dartes, rackettes to caſt ſtones, ſcorpions to ſhote arrowes, and ſlynges. The Iewes alſo made ordinaunce againſt theirs, & fought along ſeaſon. But in the citie, ther wer no vytayles, for it was the ſeuenth yeare of the warres and thoſe heathen that remained in Iurye, had eaten vp al their froze, And in the Sanctuary wer fewe men left, for the hunger came ſo vpon them, that they wer ſcattered abrode euerye man to his owne place. So when Lyſyas heard that Philipe* whome Antiochus the i Ma.vi.b

Lette vs agre with theſe men, and take truce wyth them, & with al their people, and graũt them to lyue after their law, as they dyd afore for they be greued, & do all theſe thinges againſt vs, becauſe we haue diſpiſed their law. So the king and the princes wer contente, and ſent vnto them to make peace, and they receaued it. Now when the king & the princes had made an oth vnto them, they cam out of the Caſtell, and the kynge went vp to mouñt Syõ. But when he ſaw that the place was wel defenced, he brake the oth that he had made, & cõmaunded to deſtroy the wal about. Then departed he in al the hast, and returned to Antioche, where he found Philip hauing dominion of the citie. So he coughte against him, and toke the citie again into his handes.

¶ The. xv. Chapitre

1. In the. cli. yeare came Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus from the citie of Rome with a small company of men, vnto a citie of the sea cost, and there he bare rule. And it chaunced that when he came to Antioche the citie of his progenitours, his host toke Antiochus, and Lisias, to bring them vnto him. But when it was tolde him, he said, let mee not se their faces. So the hoste put them to death. Now when Demetrius was set vpon the throne of his kingdome, there came vnto him wicked, and vngodly men of Israel, whose capiteine was Alcimus, that would haue ben made hie preest. These men accused the people of Israell vnto the King, saying. Judas and his brethren haue slaine thy frendes, and driuen vs out of our lande. Wherefore sende now some man to whom thou geuest credence that he maie go and se al the destructiō, whiche he hath doen vnto vs, and to the Kinges lande, and let him be punished and al his frendes, and fautores. Then the king chose Bachides a frende of his, whiche was a man of great power in the realme beiōd the great water & faithful vnto the king, & sent him to se the destruction that Judas had dooen. And as for that wicked Alcimus, he made him hie preest and commaunded him to bee auenged of the children of Israel. So thei stoode vp & came with a great host into the lande of Juda sending messengers vnto Judas, and his brethrē and speaking vnto them with peaceable wordes, but vnder deceipt. Therefore Judas and his people beleued not their saying, for thei saw that they were come with a great hoste. After this came the Scribes together vnto Alcimus, and Bachides, trusting best vnto them. And first the Assidians required peace of them saieng: Alcimus the preest is come of the sede of Aaron, howe can hee deceiue vs? So thei gaue them louing wordes, & swore vnto them and said, we will do you no harme neither your frendes: and they beleued them. But the very same daie tooke thei three score men, and slue them, according to the wordes that are written. ✝ Thei haue cast the flesh of thy saintes, and their blouode rounde about Jerusalem, and there was no man that would burie them. So there came a great feare and dreadde among the people, saying: there is neither Truethe nor Rygh teousnesse in them, for thei haue broken the apoinctment and othe that they made.

And Bachides remoued his hoste from Jerusalem, and pitched his Tentes at Bethzeka, where he sent furth, and toke many of them that had forsaken him. He slewe many of the people also, and cast them into a great pytte. Then committed he the lande vnto Alcimus, and left men of warre with him to help him. And Bachides him self went vnto the King. And thus Alcimus defended his preesthod and all soche as vexed Israell resorted vnto him. In somoche that thei obteined the lande of Juda, and did more euel vnto the Israelites. Now when Judas sawe al the mischief that Alcimus & his cōpany had doē, yee more then the heathē the selues vnto the Israelites: he went furth round about al the borders of Jury & punished those vnfaithful runnagates, so that thei came no more out into the countreie. So when Alcimus sawe that Judas and his people had gotten the vpper hande, and that he was not able to abide them, he went againe to the king and said all the worst of them that he could. Then the King sent Nichanor one of his chiefe Princes, whiche bare euel wille vnto Israell, and commaunded him, that he shoulde vtterly destroye the people. ✝ So Nichanor came to Jerusalem with a great host, and sent vnto Judas, & his brethrē with peaceable wordes but vnder deceit, saying: there shalbe no war betwixt me & you: I will come with fewe mē, to se how you do with frendship. Vpō this he came vnto Juda, and they saluted one another peaceably but the enemies were appointed to take Judas by violence. Neuertheles it was told Judas that he came vnto him but vnder deceipte wherfore he gatte him awaie from him, and would se his face nomore. When Nichanor perceiued that his counsail was bewraied, he went out to fight against Judas, beside Capharsalama, where there were slaine of Nichanors host. v. M. men, and the residue fled vnto the castel of Dauid.

After this came Nichanor vp to mount Sion: and the preestes with the Eldres of the people went furth to salute him peaceably, & shewed him the burnt sacrifices that were offred for the king. But he laughed them and the people to scorne, mocked them, defyled their offringes, and spake distainfully: Yea, and swore in his wrath saying. Ye Judas, & his host be not deliuered now into my hands as sone as euer I come again and fare wel, I shall burne vp this house. With that hee went oute in a greatte angre. Then the preestes came in, and stoode before the aultare of the temple, weping, and saying. * For so moche as thou o lorde hast chosen this house that thy name might be called vppon therein, and that it shoulde be an house of prayer, and petition, for thy people. Be auenged of this man, and his hoste, and lette them bee slayne with the sweard, remembre the blasphemies of them, and suffre them not to continue any longer. When Nichanor was gone from

So the Iues came furth of al the tounes therabout, and blue out their hornes vpon them, and turned againſt them. Thus were thei all ſlaine and not one of them left. Then thei toke their ſubſtaunce for a praie, and ſmote of Nichanoꝛs head, and his right hande, * whiche he helde vp ſo proudly, and brought it with the and hanged it vp afore Ieruſalem. Wherfore the people were exceedingly reioiſed, & paſſed ouer that daie in great gladneſſe. The.viij. Chapitre

Iudas hearde alſo of the fame of the Romaines that thei were mighty and valiant men, and agreable to all thinges that are requited of them, and make peace with all men whiche come vnto them, and howe they were noughty men of ſtrength. Beſides that it was told him of their battails, and noble actes whiche thei didde in Galacia, howe thei had conquered them, and brought them vnder tribute, and what great thinges they had doe in Spaine: howe that with their wiſedom and lohed behauiour they had wonne the mines of ſiluer, and golde, that are ther, and obteined al the lande, with other places farre from thē: how they had diſcomfited, and ſlayne doune the kinges that came vppon theym, from the vttermoſt part of the yearth, and howe other people gaue theim tribute euery yere: howe they hadde ſlayne, and ouercome Philippe, and Perſeꝰ kynges of Cethim, and other mo, (in battaile) which had brought their ordynaunce againſt them: how thei diſcomfited greatte Antiochus Kynge of Aſia, (that would nedes fyghte with theim,) hauyng an hundzed and twentie Elephantes, with horſe menne, Charettes, and a very great Hoſte, howe they tooke hymſelf aliue, and ordeined him wyth ſuche as ſhoulde reigne after hym, to paye theym a greatte Tribute. * Yea, and to fynde theim good ſureties and pledge. Beſydes all this, howe they hadde taken B. from him India, Media, and Lydia (thys beſt Landes) and geuen theym to Kynge Eumenus. Agayn, howe theie (perceiuyng that the Greekes were commyng to vexe them,) ſent agaynſt theym a capiteine of an hoſte, whyche gaue theim battaile, ſlewe manye of theym, ledde awaye their wiues, and Chyldren captiue, ſpoyled them, and toke poſſeſſion of their lande, deſtroied their ſtrong holdes, and ſubdued theim to bee their bondemen vnto this daie. Moꝛeouer, howe that as for the other kyngdomes, and Iles, whyche ſometime withſtode the, they deſtroied theym, and brought theim vnder their dominion, But helped euer their owne Frendes, and thoſe that were confederate wyth theym, and conquered kyngdomes bothe farre, and nyghe. And that whoſo euer heard of their renoume was afrayed of theym. For whom thei wolde helpe to theyze kyngdomes, thoſe reigned, and whome it liked them not to reigne, theie putte him downe. And how theie were come to great preheminence, hauing no kinge among them, neither any man clothed in Purple, to be magnified there thoꝛowe, but hadde ordeined themſelues a Parlamente, wherein there ſate thꝛe hundzed, and twentie Senatours daiely vppon the counſaile, to diſpatche ouer the buſineſſe of the people, and to kepe good ordze. And how that euery yere thei chooſe a Maioꝛ to haue the gouernaunce of all their lande, to whome euery man was obedient, and there was neither enill wil noꝛ diſcention emong theym.

ye there come firste anye warre vpon the Romaines or any of their frendes, throughout all their dominion, the people of the Iues shall helpe them, as the time requireth, and that with al their hartes. Also thei shal neither geue nor sende vnto their enemies bi smalles, weapons, monie, nor shippes, but fulfil this charge at the Romaines pleasure, and take nothing from them therefore. Againe, ye the people of the Iewes happen firste to haue warre, the Romaines shal stande by thē with a good wil, accordyng as the time wil suffre. Neither shal thei geue vnto the Iewes enemies, bi smalles, weapons, monie nor shippes. Thus are the Romaines contented to doo, and shall fulfille their charge without any deceipte. According to these articles, the Romaines make the bond with the Iewes. Now after these articles saied thei if any of the parties wil put to them, or take any thing from thē, they shal doe it with the consent of both, & whatsoeuer thei adde vnto thē, or take from them, it shal stand fast. And as touching the euill that Demetrius hathe doen vnto the Iewes, wee haue written vnto him saiyng: Wherefore laiest thou thy heauye yoke vpon the Iewes oure frieuces, and louers? Yf thei make any complaint of thee again vnto vs, we shal defende them, and fight with the by sea and by lande.

1.Ma.vi.c.A. Jo.vbi.xi.li. In the meane season when Demetrius heard that* Nichanor and his host was slayne in the fielde, hee proceaded further to sende Bachides, and Alcimus againe into Jury, and those that were in the right wing of his host with them. So they went furth, by the wate that leadeth vnto Galgala, and pitched their tentes before Mesaloth, whiche is in Arbelis, and wanne the Citie, and slewe moche people. In the firste moneth of the. clu yere thei brought their host to Jerusalem, & came to Bera, with twenty thowsande footemenne, and twoo. M. horsemenne. Now Judas had pitched his tente at Laisa, with thre thousande chosen menne. And when theie sawe the multitude of the other armie that it was so great, they were sore afraied, and many conueighed theym selues out of the host. Insomoche that there abode no moe of them but eight hundred men. When Judas saw that his host failed him, and that he must nedes fight, it brake his hart, that he had no time to gather theim together: Wherfore the man was in extreme trouble. Neuertheles he saied vnto theim that remained with hym. Vp let vs go against oure enemies, peraduenture we shal be able to fight with theim. But they would haue stopped him, saiyng: we shall not be able, therfore let vs now saue our lyues, and tourne againe to our brethren, and then but fewe. And Judas saied: God forbid that we shoulde flie from theim. Wherfore, yf our time be comelie, let vs manfully lie for our brethren, and let vs not staine our honour. Then the host remoued out of their tentes, & rode against them. The horsemen are diuided into two parties, the slingeatters & archers went before the host, and all the mighty men were formost in the fielde. Bachides himselfe was in the right wing of the battaile, and the host drue nigh in to parties, and blew the Trompets. They of Judas syde blue the trompets also, & the erth shoke at the noyse of the hostes, and thei stroke a fielde from the morowe til night. And when Judas saw that Bachides host was strongest on the right side, hee toke with him all the hartie men, & brake the right wing of their order and folowed vpon thē vnto the mount Azot. Now whē thei whiche were of the left wing saw that the right side was discomfited, thei persecuted Judas, & them that were with him. Then was there a sore battaile, for many were slaine and wounded of bothe the parties. Judas also himselfe was killed, and the remnaunt fledde. So Jonathas, and Simon tooke Judas their brother, and buried him in his fathers sepulcre in the citie of Modin. And all the people of Israel made greate lamentacion for him, and mourned lōg, saiyng. Alas, that this worthy sholde be slaine, which deliuered the people of Israel. & for other thinges perteining to the battailes of Judas, the noble actes that he didde and of his worthinesse: thei are not writte, for thei wer very many. And after the deathe of Judas, wicked men came in all the coostes of Israel, and there arose all soche as woorke vngodlines. In those daies was there a great dearth in the lande, and all the countrie gaue ouer thē selues & theirs vnto Bachides. So Bachides chose wicked men, and made them Lordes in the lande, these sought out, and made searche for Judas frendes, and brought them vnto Bachides: which auenged himselfe vpō theim with great despite. And there came so greatte trouble in Israelle, as was not sence the time that no Prophete was seen there. Then came all Judas frendes together, and saied vnto Jonathas: forsomoche as thy brother Judas is dead, there is none like him to goe furth against our enemies, against Bachides, and soche as are aduersaries vnto our people. Wherefore, this dai we chose the for him to be our Prince & capiteine, to ordre our battail and Jonathas tooke the gouernance vpō him at the same time & ruled in stead of his brother Judas. When Bachides gat knowlege therof, he sought for to slee him. But Jonathas, & Simon his brother perceiuing that, fled into the wildernes of Thecua with all their company, and pi-

Joseph.ca.ij. lib.xij. Antiq. C.

Whiche when Bachides vnderstode, he came ouer Jordaine with all his hoste vppon the Sabboth daie. Now had Jonathas sent his brother Jhon (a capitaine of the people) to praie his frendes the Nabuthites, that they woulde lende theym their Ordinaunce, for they hadde moche. So the children of Jambry came out of Medaba, and toke Jhon and all that he had, and went their waie withall.
Then came worde vnto Jonathas and Simon his brother, that the Children of Jambry made a great Mariage, and broughte the bride from Medaba with greate pompe: for he was daughter to one of the noblest princes of Canaan. Wherefore they remembred the bloud of their brother Jhon, & went vp, & hid themselues vnder the shadow of the mo-untaine. So they lift vp their eies, and loked and beholde, there was moche a doe, and great repaire, for the bridegrome came forth, & his frendes and his brethren met the with timpanies, instrumentes of Musique, and manye weapons. Then Jonathas and theie that were with him rose out of their lurking places against theim, and slewe many of theim. As for the remnaunte, they fled into the mountaines, and they toke al their Substaunce. Thus the Mariage was turned into mourning, and the noyse of their melodie into lamentacion:
And so, when they had auenged the bloud of their brother, they tourned again vnto Jordane. Bachides hearing this, came vnto the very border of Jordan with a greate power vppon the Sabboth daie. And Jonathas saide to his company, let vs get vp, and fight against our enemies: for it standeth not with vs, to daie as in times past: Beholde, our enemies are in our waie, the water of Jordan vppon the one side of vs, with banckes, fennes, and woodes of the other side, so that there is no place for vs to depart vnto. Wherefore cry now vnto heauen, that ye maie bee deliuered from the power of youre enemies. So they stroke the battaile. And Jonathas stretched out his hande to smite Bachides, but he fled backewarde. Then Jonathas, and they that were with him lept into Jordane, and swymmed ouer Jordane vnto him, and there were slaine of Bachides side that daie a M. meune Therefore Bachides with his hoste turned againe to Jerusalem, and built vp the castles, and strong holdes that were in Jury, Jerico Emaus, Bethoron, Bethel, Thamnata, Phara Topo, with highe walles, with Yoates, and Lockes: and set men to keepe them, that they might vse their malice vpon Israel. He walled vp the citie of Bethsurath, Gazara, and the castelle, and prouided theym with meune, and victailes. He toke also the chiefest mens Soonnes in the Countreie for pledges, and putte theim in the Castelle at Jerusalem to moneth. Alcimus commaunded that the wal-les of the inmost Sanctuarie (houlde bee destroied, and the buildinges of the Prophetes also. And when he began to destroy them, the thinges that he went about were hindred, for he was smitten with a palsie, and his mouth shut, so that he coulde nomore speake, nor comaund any of his house: concerning his businesse. Thus died Alcimus in great miserie, at the same time. And when Bachides saw that Alcimus was deade, he tourned again to the king, and so the lande was in rest two yeres.

Then all thungodly men helde a counsaile, saying: Beholde Jonathas, and his company are at ease and dwel without care. Wherefore let vs cal Bachides hether, & he shal take the al in one night. So they went and gaue Bachides this counsaille whiche arose to come with a gret host: and sente Letters priuily to his adherentes, whiche were in Jury, to take Jonathas, and those that were with him: but they might not, for that other hadde gotten knowlege of their deuice. And Jonathas to-ke the menne of the Countrie, whiche were the ringleaders of them, and slue theim. Then Jo nathas and Symon with their company departed vnto the Citie of Bethbessen, whiche lieth in the wilderneesse, and repaired the decaie therof, and made it strong. When Bachides knewe this, hee gathered al his host, and sent worde to them that were of Jurie. The came hee, and laied siege to Bethbessen, & fought against it a long season, and made Instrumentes of warre. Nowe Jonathas lefte his brother Symon in the Citie, and went forth himselfe into the countrey, & came with a certeine numbre, and slue Odares and hys brethren, & the children of Phaseron in their tentes, and so he began to be strong, & to en-crease in power. As for Simon and his com pany they went out of the citie, and brente vp the instrumentes of war, and fought against Bachides, and discomfited him. And Bachides, was sore vexed, because his counsail, & trauail was in vain. Wherefore he was wroth at the wicked men that gaue him counsail to come into their lande, and slue many of theim Then purposed he with his company to goe awaie into his owne countrie, whereof when Jonathas hadde knowlege, he sent Ambassa-dours vnto him, for to make peace with hym, and that he would deliuer his prisoners againe. To the whiche Bachides consented gladly, and did according to his desire, yea, and made an Othe, that hee houlde neuer do him harme, all the daies of his life. So hee restored vnto him all the prisoners that he had taken out of the lande of Jude, & then turned, and went his waie into his own lande neither proceded he any further to come vnto the borders of Jude: thus Israel had no warr and beganne there to gouerne the people, and destroyed the vngodly men out of Israell.

¶ The.x. Chapitre

A. In the hundred and three score yeare came Alexander the sonne of noble Antiochus, and toke Ptolomays, whose citizeines receiued him, & there he reigned. When Demetrius herd therof, he gathered an exceding gret host, and went forth against him to fyghte.
Wherfore Demetrius sent letters vnto Jonathas, with louing wordes, and praised him greatly: For he said, we wil first make peace with him before he binde himself with Alexander against vs, els he shal remembre the euel that wee haue doen against him, his brother and his people. And so hee gaue Jona-thas leaue to gather an hoste, to make weapons, & to be cõfederat with him, & cõmaunded the pledges that were in the castel to bee deliuered vnto him. Then came Jonathas to Jerusalem, and redde the letters in the audience of all the people, and of theim that were in the castel And therfore were thei sore a-fraied: and, because thei herd that the kynge had geuen him license to gather an hoste.
Thus wer the pledges deliuered vnto Jona-thas, whiche reckoned theim to their Eldres.
Jonathas also dwelte at Jerusalem, and be-ganne to builde vp, and to repaire the Citie, commaunding the woorkmenne to wal it, and the Mounte Sion, rounde aboute with free stone, to be a strong holde, and so thei didde.
As for the Heathen that were in the castelles whiche Bachides had made vp, their fled so that euery man left the place, & went into his owne countrie. Onely at Bethsura remay ned certeine of the Jewes, whiche had forsaken the lawe, and commaundementes of god for Bethsura was their refuge. Nowe when king Alexander hearde of the promises that Demetrius had made vnto Jonathas, & whe it was told him of the batailes, and noble actes, whiche he, and his brethren hadde doen C. and of the gret trauailes that thei had taken he saied: where shal we finde sorche a manne?
Wel, we wil make him our frende, and be cõ federate with him. Upon this he wrote a letter vnto him, with these wordes. King Alexander saluteth his brother Jonathas. Wee haue herd of the, that thou art a valiant man & mete to be our frende, wherfore this day we ordeine the to be the hie preest of thy people & to be called the kinges frende. Upon this he sent him a Purple clothing, & a croune of Golde, that thou maiest considre what is for our profit, and kepe frendeship towarde vs.
So in the seuenth moneth of the hundred and three score yere vpon the solempne feaste daye of the tabernacles, Jonathas put the holye raiment vpon him. Then gathered he an hoste & made many weapons. Which when Demetrius herd, he was merueilous sory, and said Alas what haue we doen, that Alexander hath preuented vs in getting the frendship of the Jues, for his own defence? Yeat wil I write louingly vnto them also, yea, and promise thẽ dignities, and rewardes that they maie bee of my side. Wherevpon he wrote vnto thẽ these wordes. King Demetrius sendeth greting vnto the people of the Jues. ¶ Whereas you haue kept your couenaunt towarde vs, & continued in our frendship, not enclining to our enemies, we were glad when we heard ther-of wherefore remaine stil, and bee faithful to D vs, and we shal well recompence you for the thynges that ye haue doen on our partie: we shall release you of many charges, and geue you rewardes. And nowe I discharge you and all the Jewes from tributes, I forgeue you the customs of salt, and release you of the croune taxes, of the third part of sede and halfe of the Fruirte of Trees whiche is mine owne duetie. These leaue I for you, from this daie furth: so that they shal not be taken of the lande of Juda, nor of the three Cities, whiche are addded therunto, out of Samaria, and Galile, from this dai furth for euermore Jerusalem also, with all thynges belonging therto, shalbe holy, and free. Yea, tithes, and tributes, shal pertaine vnto it. As for the po wer of the Castell, whiche is at Jerusalem, I remyt, and geue it vnto the highe Preeste, that he may set in it sorche meanne, as hee shall chuse to kepe it. I freely deliuer all the Jues that are prisoners throughout al my realme, so that euery one of them shalbe free from pai ying any Tribute, Yea, euen of their cattal.
All the Solempne feastes, Sabaothes, new Moones, the Dayes appointed, the three dayes before, and after the feast, shalbee free for all the Jewes in my realme, so that in thẽ no man shall haue power to doe any thing, or to mone any businesse against any of them in any maner of cause. There shal thyrtie. M. also of the Jewes be written vp in the Kynges hoste, and haue their wages paied, as all other men of warre of the kinges host should haue: And of theim shalbe ordeined certein to E keepe the Kinges stronge holdes: Yea, and some of them shalbe set ouer the kinges busines, that they may faithfully deale with the-same. The Jewes also shall haue Princes of their owne, and walke in their owne Lawes, as the king hath commaunded in the lande of Juda. And the three cities that are falle vnto Jewry from the Countrie of Samaria, and Galile, shalbe taken as Jurye, and bee vnder one: neither be subiect to any straunge lorde but to the high preest. As for Ptolomays, & the lãd perteining therto, I geue it vnto the Sanctuarye at Jerusalem, for the necessarye expences of the holye thynges. Moreouer I will geue euerye yeare. xv. M. Sycles of siluer out of the Kynges Exchequier. whiche perteineth vnto me, to the woꝛke of the temple yea, and loke what remaineth which thei that had our matters in hande in tymes paſt haue not payed: the ſame ſhal they gepe vnto them alſo. And beſides al this, the kyng thoꝛſyeles whiche they toke yeaꝛely of the renten of the Sanctuary, ſhall belonge vnto the prieſtes that do ſeruyce.

Item whoſoeuer thei be, that flee vnto the temple at Ieruſalem, oꝛ within the libertyes therof, whereas they are falſe into the kinges daũger foꝛ any maner of buſines, thei ſhalbe pardoned, & all the goodes that they haue in my realme ſhalbe free. Foꝛ the building alſo & repayꝛing of the woꝛke of the Sanctuary, expẽces ſhalbe geuẽ out of the kinges Exchequier. Yea, & foꝛ the makinge of the walles roũde about Ieruſalẽ, foꝛ the breaking doun of the old, & foꝛ the ſetting vp of the ſtrong holdes in Iewry, ſhall the coſtes & charges be geuẽ out of the kinges Exchequier. But when Ionathas and the people heard theſe woꝛdes, they gaue no credence vnto them neither receyued theym, foꝛ they remembred the great wickednes that thei had doen vnto Iſrael, and how ſoꝛe thei had vexed them. Wher foꝛe, he agreed vnto Alexander, foꝛ he was a prince that had dealt frendly with them, and ſo they ſtode by him alway. Then gathered kyng Alexander a great hoſt, and brought his army againſte Demetrius. So the two kinges ſtroke battail together, but Demetrius poſte fledde, and Alexander folowed after, and fel vpon them, a mighty ſoꝛe field was it continuing til the Sunne went doune and Demetrius was ſlayne the ſame dai. And Alexander ſent ambaſſadours vnto Ptolomy the king of Egipt with theſe woꝛdes ſaying Foꝛſomuche as I am come agayne to my realme, and am ſet in the throne of my progenitours, and haue gotten the dominion, ouercomed Demetrius, conquered the lãd and diſcomfited both him and his hoſt, and ſytte in the throne of his kyngedome: Let vs nowe make frendſhip together, geue me thy doughter to wyfe, ſo ſhal I be thy ſon in lawe and both geue the rewardes, & yet great dignite.

Ptolomy the kynge gaue anſwere ſaying: Happy be the day wherein thou art come agayne vnto the land of thy progenitours and ſet in the throne of their kyngdome. As now wyl I fulfyll the wayteyng: but mete me at Ptolomais, that we maye ſe one another and that I maye marrye my doughter vnto the accordynge to thy deſyre. So Ptolomye went out of Egipt with his doughter Cleopatra, and came vnto Ptolomais, in the .C. lxij. yere where kynge Alexander met him. and he gaue Alexander his doughter Cleopatra, and maryed them at Ptolomais with great woꝛſhype, lyke as the maner of kynges is to be. Then wrote kyng Alexãder vnto Jonathas that he ſhould come, and mete him. So he went honourably vnto Ptolomais & there he mette the two kinges, and gaue thẽ greate preſentes of Gold and ſiluer, and foũde fauour in their ſight. And ther came to gether againſt Jonathas, certeine wicked men, and vngracious perſones of Iſrael, making complaintes of him, but the king regarded them not. As foꝛ Jonathas, the king cõmãded to take of his garmentes & to cloth him in purple: and ſo thei did. Then the king appointed him to ſitte by him: and ſaide vnto his princes. Go with him into the middeſte of the citie, and make a proclamation, that no man complain againſt him of any matier, and that no man trouble him, foꝛ anye maner of cauſe. So it happened: that when hys accuſers ſawe the woꝛſhip which was proclaymed of him, and that he was clothed in purpl thei fled euerycheone. And the kinge made moch of him, wrot him among his chiefteines. made him a Duke, and partaker of hys Dominion. Thus Jonathas went againe to Ieruſalem with peace, & gladnes. In the .clxb. yeare came Demetrius, the ſonne of Demetrius krome Tretain into hys fathers lande: wherof, when Alexander hearde tell, he was ryghte ſoꝛie, and returned vnto Antiochie. And Demetrius choſe Appolonius which had the gouernaunce of Celoſiria, to be his capitaine. So he gathered a greate hoſte, and came vnto Jamnia, & ſent woꝛd vnto Jonathas the high preſt, ſaying: Dareſt thou withſtand vs thy ſelf alone? As foꝛ me I am but laughed to ſcome, and ſhamed, becauſe thou proueſt thy ſtrength againſte vs in the mounteines. Nowe therefoꝛe if thou truſteſt in thine own ſtrength, come doune to vs in to the plaine fielde, & ther let vs proue our ſtrength together: thou ſhalt find that I haue valiant meñ of war with me, & ſhalt know whom I am, and the other that ſtand by me, which ſaie that your fote is not able to ſtand before our face. Foꝛ thy fathers haue ben twyſe chaſed into their owne lande. And now how wilt thou be hable to abyde ſo great an hoſt of horſemen and fote men, in the fyeld, where is neither Wocke, Cone, noꝛ place to flee vnto. When Jonathas heard the woꝛdes of Appolonius, he was moued in his mynde, wherfoꝛe he choſe ten thouſande men, & went out of Ieruſalem, and Simeon his brother met hym foꝛ to helpe hym. And they pitched their tentes at Joppa, but the citie kept him furth. foꝛ Joppa was an holde of Appolonius. Then Jonathas layed ſiege to it, & they that were within the citie, foꝛ very feare let hym in, and ſo Jonathas wan Joppa. Appolonius hearyng of this toꝛne. iij. M. horſmen with a great hoſt on fote, & went as though he would go to Azotus, and came immediatly into the plaine field: because he had so many horsmen, and put his trust in them. So Jonathas followed vpon him to Azotus, and there the ſtroke the bataile. Now had Appolonius left a thousande horsmenne behinde theim priuily in the tentes. And when Jonathas knewe that soche waite was laied behynde them, thei went round about the enemies host and shot dartes at the people from the morning to the euening. As for Jonathas people, thei kept their order as he had commaunded theim, and the enemies horses were euer labouring. Then brought Simon furthe his host, and set theym againſt the footemen, for the horsemen were wery already. So he discomfited theim, and they fledde. And thei that were scattered in the fielde gat them to Azotus and came into the temple of Dagon their idol, that ther thei might saue their liues. But Jonathas set fire vpon Azotus, and all the cities rounde about it, and toke their goodes, and brent vp the temple of Dagon with all theim that were fled into it. Thus wer slain and brent vp, wel nie. vi. M. men. So Jonathas remoued the host from thence, and brought them to Ascalon, where the menne of the citie came furth, and met him with great worship. After this went Jonathas and his host again to Jerusalem with great substaunce of good. And when King Alexander heard these thinges, he thought to doo Jonathas more worship, and sent him a coler of Gold, as the vse is to bee geuen vnto soche as are of the kinges next bloud. He gaue him also the city of Accaron, with the landes belonging ther to in possession.

II. And the king of Egipt gathered an hoste like the sande that lieth on the sea shore and many shippes, and went about through deceipt, to obteine the Kingdome of Alexander and to ioigne it vnto his owne realme. Vpon this he toke his iorney into Siria, and was letten into the cities, and men came furth to mete him, for king Alexander had commaunded theim so to doo, because he was his father in lawe. Now when Ptolomy entred in to any citie, he left men of warre to keepe it, and this he did through out al the cities. And when he came to Azotus, thei shewed him the Temple of Dagon, and Azotus that was burnt vp with the other thinges which wer destroied, the dead bodies cast abrode, and the graues that thei had made by the waie syde for soche as were slaine in the field. And told the King that Jonathas had dooen all these thinges, to the entente that they myghte get him euill wille. But the Kynge saied not a woorde therto. And Jonathas met the Kynge with great honour, at Joppa, where they saluted one another, and toke their rest. So when Jonathas had gone with the king vnto the water that was called Eleutherus, he turned again to Jerusalem. Now Ptolomy had gotten the dominiō of the cities vnto Seleucia vppon the sea cost, imagined wicked counsailes againſt Alexander, and sente Ambassadors vnto Demetrius, saiyng come lette vs make a bonde betwixt vs, so shall I geue the my daughter, that Alexander hathe, and thou shalte reigne in thy fathers Kyngdome. I repent that I gaue Alexander my daughter, for he goeth about to slay me. And thus he slaūdred Alexander, because he wold haue had his realme. Thus he toke his daughter from him, gaue her vnto Demetrius, and forsoke Alexander, so that his malice was openly knowē. And Ptolomy came to Antioch where he set two crounes vpon his own hed the croune of Egypt, & of Asia. In the meane season was King Alexander in Cicilia, for thei that dwelt in those places, had rebelled againſt him. But whē Alexāder herd of this he came to warre againſt him: so king Ptolomy brought furth his host, & met him with a mighty power, & chased him awaie. Then fled Alexander into Arabia, there to be defended, and king Ptolomays honour encreased. And Zabdiel the Arabian smote of Alexāders hed and sent it to Ptolomy. But the thirde daye after died King Ptolomy himselfe, and they whom he had set in strong holdes, wer slain of those that wer within the cities. And Demetrius reigned in the. c.lxvij. yere. At the same tyme gathered Jonathas theym that were in Jurie to laie siege vnto the Castelle whiche was at Jerusalem, and so they made many instrumentes of warre againſt it.

1.Mac.xi.b.

Then went there certeine vngodly persones, which hated their own people, vnto king Demetrius: and tolde him that Jonathas besieged the castel. So when he herd it, he was angrye, and ymmediatly came to Ptolomays, and wrote vnto Jonathas, that he shold laye no siege vnto the castel, but come and speake with him in all the hast. Neuertheles, when Jonathas herde this, he commaunded, to besiege it. He chose also certeine of the eldres and prestes of Israel and put himselfe in the peril, and toke with him gold, siluer, clothing and diuers presentes, and went to Ptolomays vnto the king and founde him gracious. And though certeine vngodlie menne of his owne people made complaintes vpon him: Yeatte the King entreated him like as his Predecessoures had dooen before: and promoted him in the sight of all his frendes, confyrmed him in the high Priesthode withal the worship that he had afore, and made him his chiefe friend. Jonathas also desired the king that he would make Jurie free with the three shed cities of Samaria, and the landes perteining therto. Upon this did Jonathas promise him three hundred Talentes. Wherunto the Kynge consented, and gaue Jonathas writing of the ſame, contening theſe wordes King Demetrius ſendeth greeting vnto his brother Jonathas, & to the people of the Je-wes. We ſend you here a copie of the letter, whiche we did write vnto our elder Lathenus, concerning you, that ye ſhould know of it. King Demetrius ſendeth greeting vnto Lathenus his elder. For the faithfulneſſe that our frendes the people of the Jues kepe vnto vs, and for the louing kindenes whiche thei beare towardes vs: we are determined to doe theim good. Wherfore we ordeine al the coſtes of Jurie with thre cities, Lidda, and Ramatha, whiche are added vnto Jury from Samaria, and al the landes perteining there vnto, to be frely ſeparated for ſuche as doe ſacrifice at Jeruſalem, both concerning the paimentes whiche the kinge tooke yerely acore time, and the fruites alſo of the earthe, and trees, & for other tithes, and Tributes that belongeth vnto vs, we diſcharge theym therof from this time forthe. In like maner we graunt vnto them al the cuſtomes of ſalt and crowne taxes whiche were brought vnto vs. And this freedome that thei haue ſirme, & ſtedfaſt, from this time forthe for euermore.

Therefore ſee that ye make a Copie of theſe our letters, and deliuer it vnto Jona-thas, that it maie be kept vpō the holy mount in a conuenient place. After this whan Demetrius the king ſawe that his lande was in reſt, and that no reſiſtence was made him: he ſent awai al his hoſt euery man into his own place except an army of ſtraungers whom he brought out of the iles of the heathen, wher fore al his fathers hoſt had euel wil at him.
1. Mac. xj. c. Now was there one Triphon, that had ben of Alexanders parte afore, whiche when he ſawe that al the hoſt murmured againſt Demetrius he wente to Emalcuell the Arabian, that brought vp Antiochus the ſone of Alex ander, and laie fore vpon him to deliuer hym this yong Antiochus that he might reigne in his fathers ſteade. He tolde him alſo what great euel Demetrius had doen, and how his meane of warre loued him not, and ſo remayned there a long ſeaſon. And Jonathas ſente vnto king Demetrius to driue them out whiche were in the Caſtel at Jeruſalem, and in the other refugies, for thei did Iſrael greate harme. So Demetrius ſent worde vnto Jonathas, I wil not onely do theſe thinges for the and thy people, but at time conuenient I wil doe bothe the, and thy people great worſhip. But now thou ſhalt doe mee a pleaſure, if thou wilt ſende me men to helpe me, for all mine army is gone from me. So Jonathas ſent him three. M'. ſtrong menne vnto Antiochie, and thei came vnto the king, wherfore the king was very glad at their coming: but thei that were of the citie, euen. cxx. M. men gathered themſelues together, & would haue ſlaine the king whiche fled into his Courte, and the citizeines kept the ſtretes of the ci-tie, & began to fighte. Then the king called for the Jues helpe, whiche came to him altogether, and went abrode through the Citie, and ſlue the ſame daie an. c. M. men, ſet fire vpon that citie, gat many ſpoiles in that daie: and deliuered the king. So when the citizeines ſawe that the Jewes had gotten their wil of the citie, and themſelues diſapointed of their purpoſe, thei made their ſupplication to the king, ſaieng: graunt vs peace, and let the Je-wes ceaſſe from troubling vs and the citie, & vpon this they caſt away their weapons.

Thus thei made peace: and the Jues gat great worſhip in the ſight of the King, and in the ſight of al that were in his realme, and were ſpoken of throughout the kingdom: and ſo they came again to Jeruſalem with great goodes. So the King Demetrius ſate in the throne of his kingdome, and had peace in his lande. Neuertheleſſe he diſſembled in all that euer he ſpake, and withdrue himſelf from Jonathas, neither rewarded him accoding to the benefites whiche he hadde doen for hym, but troubled him very ſore. After this came Triphō again with yong Antyochus, which reigned, and was crowned King. Then there gathered vnto him al the men of warre whom Demetrius had put awaie, theſe foughte a-gainſt Demetrius, whiche fled, and tourned his backe. So Triphō toke the Elephantes and wanne Antioche. And young Antiochus wrote vnto Jonathas ſaieng. I confirme the in thy priefthod, and make the ruler ouer iiij. countries, that thou maieſt be a frende of the kinges. Upon this he ſent him Golden veſſelles to be ſerued in, and gaue him leaue to drinke in Golde, and to be clothed in purple, and to weare a collar of Golde. He made his brother Simon alſo capitaine from the co-ſtes of Tirus vnto the borders of Egipte.
Then Jonathas toke his iourneie, and wente through the cities beyonde the water of Jor dan, and al the men of warre of Syria gathered theim together for to helpe him. So he came vnto Aſcalon, and thei of the citie receued him honourably, and from thence wente he vnto Gaza, but thei would not let him in.
Wherfore he laied ſiege vnto it, burning vp and ſpoiling the places that were about the citie. And the citizeines of Gaza ſubmitted themſelues vnto Jonathas, whiche made peace with them, but toke of their ſonnes to pledge, ſente theim to Jeruſalem, and went thorowe the countrie vnto Damaſcus. Now when Jonathas heard that Demetrius princes were come into Cades whiche is in Ga lile with a great hoſt, purpoſing to put Demetrius out from medling in the Realme, he came againſt theim, and left Simon his brother there in the lande whiche came to sara, and layed siege to it a longe season and discomfited them. So they desyred to haue peace with him, which he graunted them, and afterwarde put them oute from thence, tooke the citye & set men to kepe it. And Jonathas with his hoste came to the water of Genesar and betymes in the morning gat them to the playne fielde of Azor.

And beholde, the hostes of the Heathen met them in the field, & layed watche for hym in the mountaynes: so that when Jonathas came agayne them, the other (whiche were layed to watch) rose out of their places and fought, and they that were of Jonathas side fled, euery man, & there was not one of them left excepte Mathathias the son of Absolomus and Judas the sonne of Calphi the captaine of the hoste. Then Jonathas rent his clothes layed earthe vpon his heade, made hys praier and turned agayne vnto them in the fielde: where they fought together & he put them to flight. Nowe when his owne men that were fled saw this: they turned agayne vnto him and helped hym to folowe vpon all their enemyes vnto their tentes at Cades. So there were slayne of the heathen the same day, ix. M. men: and Jonathas turned agayne to Jerusalem.

Jonathas seyng that the tyme was mete for him, chose certayn men and sent them vnto Rome for to stablishe and to renew the frendship with the. He sent letters also vnto Sparta and to other places in lyke maner. So they went vnto Rome, & entred into the counsell, and sayde: Jonathas the hie priest and the people of the Jewes sent vs vnto you: for to renew the olde frendship & bond of loue. Vpon this the Romaines gaue the safe passporte that men should lead them home in to the lande of Juda peaceably. And this is the copye of the letters that Jonathas wrote vnto the Spartians. Jonathas the hie priest with the elders, and priestes, and the other people of the Jewes, sende greating vnto the Spartians their brethren. There were letters sent long ago vnto Onias the hie priest, from Arius: whiche then saigned among you that ye are our brethren, as the writinge made therupon specifyeth. And Onias entreated the ambassadour that was sent honourably, and receyued the letters, wherin ther was mention made of the bonde of loue and frendship: but as for vs, we nede no such writinges: for why? we haue the holy bokes of scripture in our handes to our comforte. Neuertheles we had rather sente vnto you, for the renuynge of the brotherhod and frendship: lest we shulde be straunge vnto you, for there is longe space the tyme that ye sent vnto vs. Wherfore: in the sacrifyces that we offre and other ce-ther we alwaye remembre you without ceasyng (lyke as reason is, & as it becometh vs to thinke vpon our brethren) yea, & are right glad of your prosperous honour. And though we haue had grea te troubles and warres, so that the kynges about vs haue soughten against vs: yet would we not be grenous vnto you, nor to other of our louers and frendes in these warres. For we haue had helpe from heuen, so that we are deliuered, & oute enemies subdued. Wherfore we chose Numenius the sonne of Antiochus, & Antypater the sonne of Jason, & sent them vnto the Romans, for to renew the old bonde of frendship & loue with them. We commaunded them also to come vnto you, to salute you, & to deliuer you our letters, concerning the renouacion of our brotherhod. And now ye shal do right wel to geue vs an answere thereunto. And this is the copye of the writyng, which Arius the kyng of Sparta sent vnto Onias. Arius kynge of the Spartians sendeth greting vnto Onias the high priest. It is founde in writing, that the Spartians and the Jewes are brethren, and come out of the generacion of Abraham. And now for smuche as this is come to our knowledge, ye shal do wel to write vnto vs of your prosperite. As for vs, we haue written our minde vnto you. Oure cattel and goodes are yours and yours ours. These thynges haue we commaunded to be shewed vnto you.

When Jonathas heard that Demetrius princes were com forth to fight against hym with a greater hoste then afore, he went from Jerusalem and met them in the land of Hemathe, for he gaue them not space to come into hys owne countrey. And he sente spies vnto their tentes, which came againe and told him, that they were appointed to come vpon him in the night season. Wherfore when the sunne was gone downe, Jonathas commaunded hys men to watche al the nyght, & to be redy with weapons for to fight: and set watche men rounde about the hoste. But when the aduersaries heard that Jonathas was readye with his men to the battail: they feared, and wer afraied in their heartes and kindled fires in their tentes, brake vp and gat them away. Neuertheles, Jonathas and his company knewe it not tyl the morning, for they sawe the fires burning. Then Jonathas folowed vpo them, but he might not ouertake the, for they were gone ouer the water of Eleutherus. So Jonathas departed vnto the Arabians (whiche wer called Zabadei) slew them and toke their goodes. He proceaded further also, & came vnto Damascus, & went thorow al that countre. But Simon his brother toke his iourney and came to Ascalon and to the nexte stronge holdes, departing vnto Joppa, and wanne it. For he heard that they wold fauor of Demetrius cytie to kepe it. After this came Jonathas home agayne, and called the elders of the people together, and deuiſed with theym for to builde vp the ſtronge holdes in Jewrye, and the walles of Jeruſalem, to ſet vp an hie wal bet wixte the caſtel and the citie, for to ſepe rate it frō the cytie, that it might be alone, that men ſhould neither bye nor ſel in it. Upō this they came together for to builde vp the city, & for ſo much as the wal vpon the broke of the weſt ſyde (called Caphetah) was fallen downe they repayred it, and Simō ſet vp Adidah in Sephelah, and made it ſtronge ſet tynge portes & lockes vpon it.

Nowe when Triphon purpoſed to raygne in Aſia, to be crowned, and to ſlay the kyng Antiochus: he was afrayed that Jonathas wolde not ſuffer him: but fight againſt him. Wherfore he wēt about to take Jonathas & to kyll him. So he departed, and came vnto Bethſan. Then went Jonathas for the agaynſt hym to the battayll with .xl. M. chooſen mē, & came vnto Bathſan alſo. But whē Tryphō ſawe that Jonathas cam with ſo great an hoſt to deſtroi him, he was afrayd & therfore receaued him honorably, cōmended him vnto all his frendes, & gaue him rewardes and cōmaūded his mē of war to be as obedient vnto him as to him ſelf. And ſaid vnto Jonathas, why haſte thou cauſed thys people to take cache trauayle, ſeyng there is no warre betwixt vs? Therfore ſende them home agayne, and chooſe certayne men to wayt vpon thee, and come thou with me to Ptolomais for I wyll gene it thee, with the other ſtrong holdes mē of war & their officers: As for me I muſt depart, this is onely the cauſe of my comming. Jonathas beleued him, & dyd as he ſayd, putting away hys hoolte, which he went into the lande of Juda. He kept but thre M. by him, wherof he ſent two M. into Galile and one thouſande wente with him ſelfe. Now aſſone as Jonathas entred into Ptolomais, the citezyns ſparred the gates of the citye, and toke him, & ſlew all theym with the ſwerd, that came with him. Thē ſent Tryphō an hoolte of fote mē & horſe men in to Galyle, and into the greate playne to deſtroy Jonathas company. But when they knew that Jonathas was taken: & all thei ſlayne that wayted vpon him, thei toke counſel together, and came forth ready to the battel. So when they which followed vpō thē, ſaw that it was a matter of lif, they turned back againe. As for the other thei went into the lande of Juda peaceably, & bewayled Jonathas, & them that were with him right ſore. And Iſrael made great lamentacion. Then all the heathen that were rounde about them ſought to deſtroy them. For thei ſayd: now haue thei no captaine, nor any mā to helpe them. Therfore let vs ouercome them, & rote out their name from among men.

The .xij. Chapter.

Nowe when Symon hearde that Tryphon gathered a great hoolte to come into the lande of Juda, and to deſtroye it, and ſawe that the people was in great fearefulneſſe and fere: He came vp to Jeruſalem, and gathered the people together, and gaue them exhortacion, ſayinge: ye knowe what great battayles I and my brethren and my fathers houſe haue fought for the law and the Sanctuarye, and what maner of troubles we haue ſene: therfore* all my brethren are ſlayne for Iſraels ſake, and I am leſte alone. And nowe let me not ſpare myne owne lyfe in anye maner of trouble, for I am no better then my brethren, but will auenge my people and the Sanctuarye, oure chyldren and oure wyues: for all the heathen are gathered together to deſtroi vs of very malice. 1. maca. xi.c. xi.b, xij.b.

At theſe woordes the hearte of the people was kyndled together, ſo that they cried with a loude voyce ſaying: Thou ſhalt be our captayne in ſtead of Judas, & Jonathas thy brethren, order thou oure battayle, and whatſoeuer thou commaundeſt vs, we ſhall doe it. So he gathered all the men of warre, makynge haſte to fynyſhe all the walles of Jeruſalem, wherby he made ſtronge rounde aboute. Ioſeph. 1. libe. xi

Then ſent he Jonathas the ſonne of Abſomes with a freſhe hoolte vnto Joppa, which droue them out that were in the caſtell, and remayned there hym ſelfe. Tryphon alſo remoued from Ptolomais with a great armye, to come into the lande of Juda, & Jonathas wyth hym in warde. And Symon pytched his tentes at Addus before the playne fielde.

But when Tryphon knewe that Symon ſtode vp in the ſteade of his brother Jonathas, and that he wolde warre agaynſte hym, he ſente meſſengers vnto hym ſayinge: Where as I haue kepte Jonathas thy brother, it is for money that he is owyng in the Kynges accounpte concernynge the buſyneſſe that he hadde in hande. Wherfore, ſende nowe an hundred talentes of Syluer, and hys two ſonnes for ſuertye, that when he is letten forthe, he ſhall not forſake vs, and we ſhall ſende hym agayne. Neuertheleſſe, Symon knewe, that he deſſembled in hys woordes, yet commaunded he the money and chyldren to be delyuered vnto hym, leaſt he ſhoulde be the greater enemye agaynſt the people of Iſrael, and ſaye: becauſe he ſente hym not the money and the chyldren, therfore is Jonathas dead.

So Symon ſente hym the chyldren and an hundred talentes, but he deſſembled, and woulde not let Jonathas goe. Afterwarde came Tryphon into the lande, to deſtroye it, and wente rounde aboute by the waye, that leadeth vnto Ador. But wherſoeuer they wente, thyther wente Symon and hys hoolte alſo. Nowe they that were in the caſtell ſe rente meſſengers vnto Tryphon, that he ſhoulde make haſte to come by the wyld' neſſe, and to ſende them vytayles. And Tryphon made readye all hys horſemen to come the ſame nyghte. Neuertheleſſe it was a verye greate ſnowe, ſo that they came not in Galaadithim. And when he drewe nye Bacchama, he ſlewe Jonathas and hys ſonnes there, and then turned for to goe home into hys owne lande. Then ſente Symon to fette hys brothers deas coarse, and buryed it in Modin in hys fathers Cytye. So all Iſraell bewayled hym wyth greate lamentacion, and mourned for hym verye longe. And Symon made vpon the Sepulchre of hys father & hys brethren, a buyldyng hye to loke vnto, of free ſtone behynde and before, and ſet vp ſeuen pyllers, one agaynſte another (for hys father, hys mother, and foure brethren) and fette greate pyllers rounde aboute wyth armes vppon them for a perpetuael memorye, and carued ſhyppes beſyde the armes that they myghte be ſene of men ſayllynge in the ſea. Thys Sepulchre wyche he made at Modin: ſtandeth yet vnto thys daye.

Joſeph. ca. 7. libe. xiij.

Nowe as Tryphon went forthe to walke wyth the younge Kynge Antiochus, he ſlewe hym treaterouſlye, and raygned in hys ſtede, crowned hym ſelfe Kynge of Aſia, and dyd muche euyll in the lande. Symon alſo buylte vp the Caſtelles in Jewrye makynge them ſtronge wyth hye towres, greate walles, and portes, and lockes, and layed vp vytayles in the ſtronge holdes. And Symon choſe certayne men, and ſent them to Kynge Demetrius, to deſyre hym, that he woulde diſcharge the lande from al bondage, for Tryphon had ſpoyledit verye ſore. Whereupon Demetrius the Kynge anſwered hym, and wrote vnto hym after this maner.

Demetrius the Kynge ſendeth greetyng vnto Symō the hye Prieſt hys frende, wyth the Elders and people of the Jewes. The golden crowne and precious ſtone that ye ſente vnto vs, haue we receaued, and are readye to make a ſtedfaſte peace with you: yea, and to wryte vnto oure officers, for to releaſe you, concernynge the thynges where in we made you free, and the appoyntment that we make wyth you, ſhall be fyrme and ſtable. The ſtronge holdes wyche ye haue buylded ſhalbe your owne. As for anye ouerſyghte or faulte committed vnto this daye, we forgeue it, and the crowne taxe that ye oughte vs alſo. And where as was anye other trybute in Jeruſalem, it ſhall be nowe no trybute: And loke who are mete amonge you to be in our courte, let them be wrytten vp, that there may be peace betwyxte vs.

Thus the yocke of the heathen was taken from Iſraell in the hundreth and ſeuentie the yeare. And the people of the Jewes beganne to wryte in theyr letters and actes on thys maner. In the fyrſte yeare of Symon the hye prieſte, and Prynce of the Jewes. In thoſe dayes wente Symon vnto Gaza and beſeegedit rounde aboute, wher he ſette vp ordinaunce of warre. And wanne a towre, which he toke. So that thei gat into the towre, leapt into the cytye, whyche was in a great feare: In ſo muche that the people of the cytye rente theyr clothes and clymed vp vpon the walles wyth their wyues, and chyldren, beſechynge Symon to be at one wyth them, ſayinge: O reward e vs not after oure wyckednes but be gracious vnto vs, and we ſhall doe thee ſeruyce. Then Symon for verye pytye woulde tyghte no more agaynſte them, but put them oute of the cytye, and cauſed the houſes (where in the ymages were) to be clenſed, and ſo entred the cytye with Pſalmes of prayſe, geuynge thankes vnto the Lorde. So when he hadde caſte all abhominacions oute of the cytye, he ſet ſuche men in it as kepte the lawe of God and made the cytye ſtronge and buylded a dwellynge place for hym ſelfe.

Nowe, when they in the caſtell at Jeruſalem were kepte ſo ſtraytelye, that they coulde not come forthe into the countrye, and myghte neyther bye nor ſell, they were verye hungrye, and manye of them famyſhed to death. In ſo muche that they beſought Symon to be at one wyth them, whyche he graūted them. So he putte the out from thence, and cleanſed the caſtell from fylthyneſſe. And vpon the thre and twentye daye of the ſeconde moneth in the hundreth. lxxi. yeare they entred into it with thanke geuynge and braunches of Palme trees, wyth Harpes, Croudes, Symbales, and Lutes, ſyngynge Pſalmes and Songes of prayſe vnto God: for that the greate enemye of Iſraell was ouercome. And Symon ordained that the ſame dai ſhoulde be kepte euerye yeare in gladneſſe, and made ſtronge the hyll of the temple that was beſyde the caſtell, where he dwelt hym ſelfe wyth hys companye. Symon alſo perceaunge that John hys ſonne was a myghtye man of armes, made hym captayne of all the hooſtes and cauſed him to dwel at Gaza.

The. xiij. Chapter.

In the hundreth and two and twenty yere gathered Kynge Demetrius hys hoſte, and departed vnto Medea to get hym helpe for to fyghte agaynſte Tryphon. Nowe when Arſaces Kynge of Perſia and Media hearde, that Demetrius was entred wythin hys borders, he ſent one of hys princes, to take hym alyue: and to bryngе hym vnto hym. So he wente and ſlewe Demetrius hoſte, tooke hym ſelfe, broughte hym to Arſaces, whyche kepte hym in warde.

Had all the land of Iuda rest so longe as Simon lyued, for he sought the wealthe of hys people, therefore, were they glad to haue him for their ruler, and to do him worshyp alway. Simon wan the city of Ioppa also for an hauen towne and made it an entraunce into the Iles of the sea. He enlarged the boudes of his people, & conquered them more lande. He gathered vp many of their people that were prisoners: he had the dominiō of Gaza. Bethsura & the castel, which he cleansed from vnthynges, and ther was no man that resisted him. So that euery man tylled his grounde in peace, the lande of Iuda, and the trees gaue their fruite and encrease.

The elders sat al in iudgement and toke their counce for the wealthe of the lande, the yonge men put on worshyp and harnesse vpon them. He prouided victayles for the cities, & made goodly stronge holdes of them, so that the fame of hys worshyp was spoken of vnto the ende of the world. * For he made peace thorow out the land, and Israel was ful of mirth and ioye. Euery man sat vnder his vine & fyg tree, and there was no man to fraye them away. Ther was none in the land to fyght agaynst them, for then the kynges were ouercome. He helped those that were in aduersitie among his people, he was diligent to see the law kept, as for such as were vngodly & wicked he toke the away. He set vp the sanctuary, and encreased the holye vessels of the temple. When the Romayns & the Spartias had gotten worde, that Ionathas was dead they were right sory. But when they heard that Simon his brother was made hie priest in his steade, & how he had wonne the land agayne with the cities in it, they wrote vnto him in tables of brasse, to renew the frendeship, and bonde of loue, which they had made afore with * Iudas & Ionathas his brethrē. Which writinges were read before the congregation at Ierusalem. And this is the copye of the letters that the Spartians sente.

The Senators & cytizyns of Sparta sende greeting vnto Symon the great priestte, with the elders, priestes, and the other people of the Iewes their brethrē. When your ambassadours that were sent vnto our people certified vs of your worshyp, honor and prosperous welth, we wer glad of their comming & haue written the arraude whiche they spake before the counsel of the people, namely that Numenius the sonne of Antiochus & Antipater the son of Iasō, the Iewes ambassadours are come vnto vs, for to renew the old frendship with vs. Vpō this the people consented that the men should be honorably entreated, and that the copy of their arraude should be written in the speciall bokes of the people, for a perpetual memory vnto the Spartians. Wil and that we should sende a copy of the same vnto Symō the great priest. After this did Simon send Numenius vnto Rome, with a golden shilde of a thousande pounde weight, to confirme the frendshyp with them, whiche when the Romans vnderstode, they sayde: what thanke shal we recompence agayne vnto Simon & his children? For he hath stablished his brethren, & ouercome the enemies of Israel. Wherfore they graūted him to be free. And all this wrote the Iewes in tables of brasse, & nayled it vnto the pyllers vpon the mount Sion. The copye of the writinge is this. The .xviij. day of the moneth * Elul in the .C.lxxx. yeare in the thyrde yeare of Simon the hie priest, in the great congregacion of the priestes, rulers of the people & elders of the country at Asaram, were these wordes openly declared. Forsomuche as ther was mutche warre in our land, therfore Symō the sonne of Mathathias (come of the children of Iarib) and his brethrē, put them selues in parel, & resisted the enemies of their people: that their sanctuary & law might be maynteined, and did their people great worshyp: Ionathas in lyke maner after that he had gouerned his people & bene their hie priest: died & lyeth buried besyde hys Elders. After that wolde their enemies haue troden their holye thinges vnder fote, destroied their land, & vterly wasted their Sanctuary. Then Simon withstode them, & fought for his people, spēt much of his owne money, weapened the valeaūt men of his people, gaue them wages, made stronge cities of Iuda, with Bethsura that lyeth vpon the borders of Iurye (where the ordinaūce of their enemies lay comlyme) and set the Iewes for to kepe it. He made fast Ioppa also, which lyeth vpon the sea, & Gaza bordreth vpon Azotus (where the enemies dwelt afore) & there he set Iewes to kepe it: and whatsoeuer was mete for the subduing of the aduersaries, that layed he therin. Nowe whē the people saw the noble actes of Simō, and what worshyp he purposed to do for the his godly behauour, & faithfulnes whiche he kept vnto them, & howe he sought by al wayes the welth of his people, because he did al this therfore they chose him to be their prince, and hie priest. And in his time they prospered wel by him, so that the heathen wer taken out of their land: and they also which wer in the citie of Dauid at Ierusalem in the castel (wher they went out and defyled all thynges that were about the Sanctuarye, and dyd greate harme vnto cleanlynesse) and Symon putte men of the Iewes in it, for the defence of the lande and cytye, and sette vp the walles of Ierusalem. And kynge Demetrius confyrmed hym in hys hye prynesthode, made hym his frende, and dyd hym great worshyppe. For he harde that the Romans called the Iewes theyr frendes, louers and brethren, home honourablye receaued Symons ambassadours: Howe the Iewes and priestes consented that he shoulde be theyr Prynce and hye priestе perpetualye (tyll God rayse vp the true Prophete) and that he shoulde be theyr captayne to care for the Sanctuarye, and to set officers vppon the workes therof, ouer the lande, ouer the weapons, ouer the houses of defence, to make prouysyon for the holye thynges, and to be obeyed of euery man, and all the wrytynges of the lande to be made in hys name: That he shoulde be clothed in purple and golde, and that it shoulde be lawfull for none of the people nor priestes to breake anye of these thynges, to withstande hys wordes, nor to call anye congregacion in the lande wythout hym, that he shoulde be clothed in purple, and weare a colar of gold. And yf there were anye whyche disobeyed or brake thys ordynaunce that he should be punished. So all the people consented to alowe Symon and to do accordyng vnto these wordes. Symon also him selfe tooke it vpon him, & was content to be the hye Priest, the Captayne, and Prince of the Iewes and priestes, and to gouerne them all. And they commaunded to make this writing in tables of brasse, and to fasten it to the compasse of the Sanctuarye in an open place, and laye vp a copye of the same in the treasury, that Symon and his posteritie might haue it

Moreouer, kyng Antiochus the sonne of Demetrius sent letters from the Iles of the sea, vnto Symon the hie Priestе and Prynce of the Iewes and to all the people, containynge these wordes: Antiochus the kynge sendeth greating vnto Symon the hie priest, and to the people of the Iewes. For so muche as certayne wycked men haue gotten the kyngdome of oure progenitours I am purposed to calenge the realme agayne and to restore it vnto the olde estate. Wherfore I haue gathered a great hoste and made shippes of warre, that I maye goe thorowe the countrye, and be auenged of them which haue destroyed our lande, and wasted manye cytyes in my realme. And therfore, now I make thee free also from all the tributes, whereof all kynges my progenytours haue discharged the: and from other customes (wher from they haue released thee) whatsoeuer they be yea, I geue the leaue to smyte money of thine owne within thy lande. As for Ierusalem, I wyll that it be holy & free: and all the weapons and houses of defence, which thou hast buylded, and kepeste in thy handes, shalbe thyne. Where as any thynge is or shalbe owynge to the kinge, I forgeue it thee, from this tyme forth for euermore. And when we haue obtayned oure kyngdome we shall doe thee, thy people, and the temple greate honour: so that youre honour shalbe knowen thorow out the whole worlde. In the. Clxxiiii. yeare went Antiochus into his fathers lande, and al the men of warre came together vnto him, so that fewe were lefte with Tryphon. So the kynge Antiochus folowed vpon him, but he fled vnto Dora, whyche lyeth by the sea syde: for he saw that there was muche myschiefe comming vnto him, and that his hoste had forsaken hym. Then came Antiochus vnto Dora with an. C. and twentye thousande men of armes vpon foote, and eyght thousand horsmen. So he compassed the cyty round about, and the shippes came by the sea. Thus they vexed the cytye by lande and by water, in so muche that they suffred no man to go in or out. In the meane season came* Numenius (and they that had ben with hym) from the city of Rome, hauing letters writtē vnto the the kinges and prouinces, wherin wer cōtained these wordes: Lucius the Mayre of Rome sendeth greatynge vnto Ptolomye the kynge. The ambassadours of the Iewes our frendes beinge sent frome Symon the hye priest, and from the people of the Iewes, came vnto vs for to renewe the olde frendshyp and bonde of loue, broughte a shylde of golde weyinge a thousande pounde, whyche we wer content to receaue of theym. Wherefore we thought it good to wryte vnto the kynges & prouynces, to do theym no harme, nor to take parte agaynst theym, theyr cytyes, nor countrye, neyther to maintayne theyr enemyes agaynst theym. Yf there be anye wycked persons therfore fled frome theyr countrye vnto you, delyuer them vnto Simon the hye priest that he may punish theym according to theyr owne law. The same wordes wrote the Romans also vnto Demetrius the kynge, to Attalus, Araba, Arsaces, and to al the regions, as Samsanes to them of Sparta, Delo, Mindo, Sidon, Caria, Samos, Pamphilia, Licia, Halicarnassum, and to the Rhodes, to Faselis, Coo, Side, Arado, Gortina, Gnidum, to Cypres, and Cirē. And of euerye letter they sent a copye to Symon the hye priest & to the people of the Iewes. So Antiochus the kyng brought his hoost to Dora the seconde tyme to take it: where he made diuers ordinaunce of warre, and kept Tryphon in, that he shoulde not come forthe. Then sent Symon to Antiochus two thousande chosen men to helpe him with golde and syluer, and other plenteous gere: Neuertheles, he wold not receaue them. but brake al the couenaunte which he made with Symon afore, and withdrew himself from him. He sent Athenobius also a frend of his vnto Symon, for to reason with him sayinge: Ye withholde from me Joppa & Gaza (with the castell that is at Ierusalē) which are cytyes of my realme. whose borders ye haue destroyed & [illegible] the lande, hauing the dominacion in many other places of my kyngdome. Wherfore now deliuer the cyties which ye haue taken, with the tributes of the places that ye haue rule vpon without the borders of Iewry: Or elis geue me fyue. C. talentes of syluer: yea, and for the harme that ye haue done in the cyties: and for the tributes of the same other fyue C. talentes. Yf no, we shall come & fight agaynste you. So Athenobius the kinges frend came to Ierusalem, and when he saw the great worshyp and honoure of Symon in golde, syluer and so great plenty of ornamentes, he maruailed, & tolde Symon as the kinge commaunded him. Then answered Symon and sayde vnto him: We for vs, we haue neither taken other mens landes, nor withholden them, but onlye our fathers heritage, which our enemies had vnrighteously in possession a certayne tyme. This heritage of our fathers haue we chalenged in processe of time. And wher as thou complainest concerninge Ioppa & Gaza, they did great hurt to our people and in our lande, yet will we geue an C. talentes for them.

Iudith xi.c

Neuertheles, Athenobius answered him not one worde, but turned agayne wrothfully vnto the kyng & tolde him al these wordes, and the great dignitie of Symon, with al that he had sene, & the king was very angry. In the meane tyme fled Tryphon by shyp vnto Orthocadia. Then the kynge made Cendebius captayne of the sea coast, & gaue him an host of fotemen and horsemen, commaundinge hym to remoue the hoost toward Iewry, and to buylde vp the cilie of Cedron, to make vp the portes, & to warre agaynst the people of the Iewes. As for the king him self: he folowed vpon Tryphon. So Cendebeus came vnto Iamia, & began to vexe the people, to treade downe Iewry, to take the people prysoners, to slay them, & to buylde vp Cedron, where he set horsemen & other men of warr: that they might come forth, and go throw the stretes of Iewry, like as the king had commaunded hym.

¶ The. xvi. Chapter.

Then came Iohn vp fro Gaza and tolde Symon his father, what Cedebeus had done amonge their people. Upon this called Symon two of his eldest sonnes, Iudas and Iohn and sayd vnto them: I & my brethren & my fathers house haue euer fro our youth vp vnto this day fought against the enemies of Israel, & God gaue vs good fortune to deliuer Israel ofte times. And now for so much as I am old, be ye in steade of me & my brethren, go forth & fight for our people & the helpe of God be with you. So he chose .xx. M. fighting men of the country with horsemen also, which went forth agaynst Cendebeus, & rested at Modin. In the morninge they arose, & went into the playne felde: & behold, a mighty great host came agaynst them both of fote men & horsemen. Now was there a water broke betwixt them, & Iohn remoued his hoste toward them. And when he saw the people was afrayd to go ouer the water broke, he went ouer first himselfe, & the men seinge this, folowed him. Then Iohn set his horsmen and fotemen in order, the one by the other, for their enemies horsmen were very many. But when they blewe vp the priestes trompets, Cendebe⁹ fled with his host, wherof many were slayn, & the remnaūt gat them to their stronge hold. Iudas also Iohns brother was wounded at the same time. And Iohn folowed fyl vpon the enemies, tyl he came to Cedron⁹ which he builded. The enemies fled also vnto the towres that were in the fieldes of Azotus, & those did Iohn burne vp. Thus were ther slayne two .M. men of them, & Iohn turned agayne peaceably to Iewry. And in the felde at Iericho was Ptolomye the son of Abobus made captayne, whiche because he had aboundaunce of syluer and golde (for he had maryed the doughter of Symon the hye priest) waxed proude in his mynde, & thought to conquere the lande, ymaginynge falsheed agaynste Symon and his sonnes, to destroye them. Now as Symon was goynge about thorowe the cities that were in the countrye of Iewry, & caryng for them, he came downe to Iericho with Mathathias and Iudas his sonnes, in the .Clxxvij. yere in the xi. moneth called⁹ Sabat. Then Ptolomy the son of Abobus receaued them (but with deceate) into a strong house of his, called Doch, which he had builded where he made them a banket. So when Symon & his sonnes, were merye and had dronken well, Ptolomy rose vp with his men (whom he had hid ther) and toke their weapons, entred into the bāket house, & slew Symon with his two sonnes, and certaine of his seruauntes. Such great vnfaythfulnesse dyd Ptolomy in Israel, & recompenced euyll for good. The wrote thys Ptolomy the same vnto the king Antiochus, requiting him that he would send him an hoost to helpe him: and so would he deliuer him the lande, with the cities and tributes of the same. He sent other men also vnto Gaza, for to take Iohn, and wrote vnto the captaynes to come to him, & he would geue them syluer, gold, & rewardes. And to Ierusalē he sent other to take it, and the sanctuary. Then ranne there one before, and tolde Iohn in Gaza, that his father and his brethren were slayne, and how that Ptolomy had sent to slaye him also. When Iohn heard this he was sore abashed, & layed handes on them that were come to destroy him, & slew them, for he knewe, that they went about to kyl him. As for other thinges concerning Iohn: of his warres, and of his noble actes [wherin he behaued him self manfully] of the bildyng of the walles which he made, & other

The firſt Chapitre.

The brethre of the Jewes which be at Jeruſalē, and in the land of Jewry, wiſhe vnto thoſe brethren of the Jewes that are throwout Egypt good fortune, health, and peace. God be gracious vnto you and thincke vpon his couenaunte that he made with Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob his faithfull ſeruauntes: * & geue you all ſuche an heart, that ye maye loue and ſerue him: yea, and performe his wil with an whole heart & of a willynge minde. He open your heartes in his law and in his cōmaunde mētes, ſend you peace, heare your prayers, be at one with you, & neuer forſake you in time of trouble. This is here our prayer for you. What time as Demetrius raigned, in the C, lxix. yeare, we Jewes wrote vnto you in the trouble and violence that came vnto vs. In thoſe yeres, after that Jaſon departed out of the holy land & kingdome, thei brent vp the porte & ſhed innocent bloud. Then made we our prayer vnto the Lorde, and were heard: we offered, and lighted the candles, ſetting forth cakes and bread: * and nowe come ye vnto the feaſt of tabernacles in the moneth * Caſlu.

In the Clxxxbix. yeare, the people that was at Jeruſalem & in Jewry, the counſayll, and Judas him ſelfe ſent this wholſom ſalutacīō vnto Ariſtobolus king Ptolomais mayſter, which came of the generacion of the anoynted prieſtes & of the Jewes that were in Egypt: In ſo much as God hath deliuered vs frō great perels we thanke him highly, In that we reſiſted ſo mightie a king. And why? He brought men out of Perſia by heapes, to fight againſt vs and the holy city. For as he was in Perſia (namely, the captayn with the great hooke) he perſhed in the temple of Nanea, being diſceaued throwe the deuice of Naneas prieſtes, For as he was purpoſed to haue dwelt there Antiochus & his frendes came thether to receiue much money for a dowry. So when Naneas prieſtes had layed forth the money, he entred with a ſmal cōpany into the cōpaſſe of the tēple, & ſo thei ſhut the tēple. Nowe when Antiochus entred by opening the priuy entraūce of the temple, the prieſtes ſtoned the captayne to death, hewed them in peaces that wer with him, ſmote of their heades, & threw them out in al thinges God be praiſed which hath deliuered the wicked into our handes. Where as we are nowe purpoſed to kepe the puriſicacīō of the temple vpon the xxv. day of the moneth Caſlu, we thought neceſſary to certifie you therof, that ye alſo might kepe the tabernacles feaſt day, & the dai of the fire, which was geuen vs when Nehemias offred, after that he had ſet vp the tēple & thalter. For what time as our fathers were led awai to Perſia, the prieſtes (which the then ſought the honor of God) toke the fier priuely frō the aulter and hyd it in a valley, wher as was a dry pit, & therin they kept it, ſo that the place was vnknowen vnto euery man. Now after many yeares when it pleaſed God that Nehemias ſhold be ſent frō the king of Perſia, * he ſēt the children of thoſe prieſtes (which had hid the fire) to ſeke it: and as thei told vs, thei foūd no fire but thicke water. Then cōmaūded he them to draw it vp & to bring it him, & the offeringes withal. Now when the ſacrifices were laied on & ordred, the prieſt Nehemias cōmaunded to ſprinkle thē, & the wood with water. Whē this was done & the time come that the ſon ſhone, which afore was hid in the cloud, ther was a great fier kindled. In ſo much that euery mā maruciled. Now al the prieſtes prayed, while the ſacrifice was a making. Jonathas prayed firſt, and the other gaue answer, And Nehemias prayer was after this maner: O Lord God maker of al thinges, thou fearful & ſtrōg, thou righteous & merciſull, thou that art only a gracious king, only liberal, only iuſte, almyghtie and euerlasting, thou that deliuerest Iſrael frōal trouble, thou that hast chosen the fathers, & halowed them, receiue the offring for the whole people of Iſrael, preſerue thine owne portiō, & halow it, gather thoſe together that are ſcatred abrod frō vs: deliuer them that are vnder the heathens bondage, loke vpō them which are diſpiſed & abhorred, that the heathen may know & ſe how that thou art our God: punish them that oppreſſe, and proudly put vs to dishonor. Set thy people again in thy holy place, like as Moſes hath ſpoken, And the prieſtes ſonge pſalmes of thākeſgeuing, ſo long as the ſacrifice endured. Nowe when the ſacrifice was brent, Nehemias commaunded the great ſtones to be ſprinkled with the reſidue of the water: * which when it was done, ther was kindled a flame of them alſo: but it was conſumed throw the light that ſhined frō thalter. So when this matter was knowē, it was tolde the kinge of Perſia, that in the place where the prieſtes which wer led awai had hid fire, ther apeared water in the ſtead of fire: & that Nehemias & his cōpany had purified the ſacrifices withall. Then the kinge conſidering & pondring the matter diligently, made him a temple to proue the thing that was done. And when he foūde it to in dede, he gaue the prieſtes many giftes & diuers rewardes: yea, he toke them with his owne hād and gaue them. And Nehemias called the ſame place Nephtar, which is as much to ſaie as a clenſing: but many men call it Nephi.

It is found also in the writynges of Ieremy the prophet, that he commaũded the whiche were carryed awaye to take fyre, * as it is sayde afore. * He commaunded the also, that they should not forget the lawe and commaundementes of the Lorde, & that they should not erre in their myndes, when they se ymages of syluer & gold, with their ornamentes. These & suche other thinges commaunded he them, & he exhorted theym, that they shoulde not let the law of God goe out of their heartes. It is written also: how the prophet (at the commaundement of God) charged them to take the tabernacle & the arke with the: & he went forth vnto the mountayne, wher Moses clymed vp, * and sawe the heritage of God. And when Ieremy came there, he founde an open cane, wherin he layd the tabernacle, the arke, & the aulter of incense, & so stopped the hole. Ther came certen men together also folowing him to marke the place, but they could not fynd it. Which when Ieremy perceyued, he reproued them, saying: As for that place, it shalbe vnknowen, vnto the tyme that God gather his people together agayne, & receaue them vnto mercy. Then shal God shew the theese thinges, & the maiestie of the Lord shal appeare * and the cloude also lyke as it was shewed vnto Moses: and lyke as when Salomon desyred that the place might be sanctified, and it was shewed him. For he beynge a wyse man, handled honourably & wysely, offeryng vnto God in the halowing of the temple, when it was finished. * And lyke as when Moses prayed vnto the Lorde the fire came downe frõ heauen, & consumed the burnt offeryng: euen so, prayed Salomon also, * and the fire came downe from heauen, & consumed the burnt offring. And Moses sayde: because the tyn offringe was not eaten, therfore it is consumed. In lyke maner Salomon kept the dedication (or halowing) .viii. dayes. ¶ In the annotacions & writinges of Ieremy, were these thinges put also: and how he made a lybrarye, and how he gathered out of al countreys the bokes of the prophetes, of Dauid, the Epystles of the kynges and of the presentes. Euen so Iudas also, loke what he learned by experyence of warres such thinges as hath happened vnto vs, he gathered them altogether, & so we haue them by vs. Yf ye nowe desire to haue the same, sende some body to fetche them vnto you. Where as we then are about to celebrate the purificacion, we haue written vnto you. Therfore ye shall doe wel if ye kepe the same dayes. We hope also, that the God which deliuered his people, & gaue the al the heritage, kingdõ, priesthode, and sanctuary, * that he promysed them in the law, shal shortly haue mercy vpon vs, and gather vs together from vnder the heauen into his holy place: for he hath saued vs frõ great perils, & hath clensed the place. ¶ As concernyng Iudas Machabeus and his brethren, the purification of the greate temple, the dedicacion of the aulter: yea, and of the warres that conterne noble Antiochus, & * Eupator his son, of the myracles that came downe frõ heauen vpon those which manfully defended the Iewes. For though thei were but fewe, yet defended thei the whole lande, droue awaye the enemies hoost, recouered againe the temple that was spoke of throughout al the world, deliuered the citye, doinge their best, that the law of the Lord which was put down, might with all tranquilite be restored agayne vnto the Lord, that was so mercyfull vnto the. ¶ As touching Iason also of Cyrene, we haue vndertaken compendiously to dryue into one boke the thinges that wer cõprehended of him in v. For we considering the multitude of the bokes, & howe heard it would be for the that would medle with storyes & actes (and that because of so diuers matters) haue vndertake so to cõprehend the stories: that such as are disposed to read, might haue pleasure & pastime therin: & that thei which are diligẽt in such thinges, might the better thancke vpon them: yea, & that whosoeuer read them might haue profyte therby. Neuertheles, we oure selues that haue medled with this matter for the shortening of it, haue taking no smal labour, but great diligence, watchinge and trauayle. Like as they that make a feast, wolde fayne do other men pleasure: euen so we also (for many mens sakes) are very wel content to take the labour, wheras we may shortly cõprehend the thinges that other men haue truly written. For he that buyldeth an house a newe, must prouide for many thinges, to the whole buildyng, but he that paynteth it afterward, seketh but onely what is comely, mete and conuenient to garnish it withall. Euen so do we in lyke maner. And why? He that beginneth to write a storye for the firste, must with his vnderstanding gather the matter together, set his wordes in order and diligently seke out at euery parte. But he that afterwarde wil shorten it, vseth fewe wordes, and toucheth not the matter at the largest. Let this be sufficient for a Prologe. Now wyll we begyn to shewe the matter, for it is but a foolishe thing to make a longe Prologe, & to be short, in the storye it selfe.

In so muche that Selacus kinge of Asia of his owne rentes, bare al the costes belonginge to the seruyce of the offeringes. The mar.iii.a.
* Symon of the tribe of Ben Jamin, a ruler of the temple, laboured to worcke some mischefe in the citie, but the hie preest resisted him. Neuertheleße, when he might not ouercome Onias, he gat him to* Appolonius the sonne of Thersa (whiche then was chiefe Lord in Celosyria and Phenices) and tolde him that the treasury in Jerusalem, was ful of innumerable money, & how that the comen goodes (which belonged not vnto the offringes) wer exceading great also:yee, & howe it wer possible that al these might come vnder the Kinges power. Now whe Appolonius had shewed the kinge of the money, as it was tolde him: the king called for Heliodorus his Stewarde, and sente him with a commaundement, to bring him the same money. Immediatli Heliodorus toke his iourney but vnder a colour, as though he would go thorow Celosyrias & Phenices to visit the cities, but his purpose was to fulfyll the kynges pleasure. So when he came to Jerusalem, & was louinglye receaued of the hie preest into the citie: he tolde what was determyned concerning the money, & shewed the cause of his coming, & asked also if it wer so in dede. Then the hie preest told him that ther was such money layed vp for the vpholding of widdowes & fatherles children & how that certaine of it belonged vnto Hyrcanus Tobias a noble man, & that of al the money (which that wycked Symon had bewrayed) There were iiii. C. talentes of syluer, & two. C. of gold:yee, & that it were vnpossible for those mens mea nynge to be disceaued that had layed vp their money in the place & temple (which is had in worshipp thorowe the whole worlde) for the mayntenaunce & honour of the same. Whervnto Heliodorus answered, that the king had commaunded him in any wise, to bring hym in the money. So at the day appointed, Heliodorus entred into the temple to ordre thys matter. But there was no smal feare thorow out the whole citie. The preestes fell downe before the aulter in their vestimentes, & called vnto heauen vpon him* which had made a law concerning suche geuen to kepe, that they should be safely preserued for such as committ them vnto kepinge. Then whoso had loked the hie preest in the face it would haue greued his herte. For his countenaunce and the chaunging of his colour, declared the inward sorow of his minde. The manne was al in heauynes, and his body in feare, whereby they that loked vpon him, might perceaue the greefe of his herte, the other people came out of their houses by heapes vnto the comen praier, because the place was like to come into confusion. The women came together the rome the streates, with hery clothes about their breastes. The virgins also that were kept in towne to Onias, come on the walles, other come loked out of the windowes: yee, they al held vp their handes toward heauen, & prayed. A miserable thinge was it, to loke vpon the comen people, & the hie preeste beynge in such trouble. But they besought almyghty God that the goods which wer committed vnto them, might be kepte whole, for those that had deliuered them vnto their kepynge. Neuertheleße, the thyng that Heliodorus was determyned to do, that performed he in the same place, he him selfe personally beyng about the treasury with his meane of warre. But the spirite of almighty God shewed him selfe openly, so that al they which presumed to obey Heliodorus, fel thorowe the power of God into a great fearfulnes & dred. For ther appered vnto them an horse, with a terrible man sittinge vpon him, decked in goodly aray, & the horse smote at Heliodorus with his fore fete. Now he that sat vpō the horse had harnes of gold vpō him: Moreouer, there apeared two faire and bewtyfull yonge men in goodly aray, which stod by him and scourged him on both the sides, & gaue him many stripes without ceassinge. * Wyth that fel Heliodorus sodenly vnto the grounde. So they toke him vp (beyng cōpassed about with greate darcknesse) and bare hym oute vpon a beare. Thus he that came with so many runners & men of warre into the sayde treasurye was borne out, where as no manne might helpe him: & so the power of god was many fest & knowen. He lay tyl domme also by the power of God destytute of al hope and lyfe. And they praised the Lord that had shewed his power vpon his place & temple, which che a lytle afore was ful of feare & trouble: & that thorow the reuelacyon of the Almighty Lord it was filled with ioye and gladnes. Then certaine of Heliodorus frendes prayed Onias, that in al hast he would cal vpon God to graunt him his lyfe, which was geuing vp the ghost. So the hie preest considerynge the matter, and least the kinge shuld suspect that the Jewes had done Heliodorus some euell. He offered an healthe offring for him. Now whe the hie preest had obtained his petition, the same yonge men in the same clothing appeared & stode beside Heliodorus, saying: Thācke Onias the hie preeste, for* his sake hath the Lorde graunted the thy lyfe: seth erfore seing that God hathe scourged the, geue him praise and thankes, & shew every man his might and power. And when they had spoke these words they apere no more. So Heliodorus offered vnto God made great vowes vnto him, which had graūted him his lyfe, thaūcked Onias, toke his poost and went againe to the king. Then recitied he vnto euery man of the gret workes of God that he had seue with his eies. And when the kyng asked Heliodorus who were mete to be sent yet once agayne to Ierusalē, he said: if thou hast any enemy or aduersarye vnto thy realme, sende him thither, and thou shalt haue him punished, if he escape with his life: for in that place (no doubte) there is a special power & worcking of God. For he that dwelleth in heauen, visiteth & defendeth that place, & al that come to do it harme, he punisheth & plageth thē. This is now the matter concerning Heliodorus, & the keping of the treasury at Ierusalem.

2.mac.iii.a.b. THis Simon now* (of whome we spake afore) being a bewrayer of the money & of his owne naturall countrye, reported the worst of Onias: as though he hadde moued Heliodorus vnto this, & as though he had bene a bringer vp of euel.

Thus was he not ashamed to cal him an enemy of the realme: that was so faithful an ouerseer & defender of the citie & of his people: & so feruent in the lawe of God. But when the malice of Symon encreased so fer, that by him slaine were certain men slaughters competed: Onias considered the perel that might come thorow this strife and how that Appolonius (namely the chefe Lord in Celosiria & Phenices) was al set vpon tirany, and Symons malice increased the same. He gat him to the kinge not as an accuser of the citezins, but as one that by him sawe intended the comen wealthe of the whole multitude. For he saw it was not possible to liue in peace, neither Simon to leaue of his folishnes, except the kyng did loke therto. But after the deth of Selucus: when Antyochus (which is called the noble) toke the kingdome, Iason the brother of Onias laboured to be hye preiste: For he came vnto the kinge, and promysed him. iii. C. & lx. talentes of syluer, & of the other rentes lxxx. talentes. Besides this he promised him yet an. C. if he might haue the scole of children, and that he might cal theim of Ierusalem Antiochyans. Which when the kyng had graunted, and that he hadde gotten the superioritie he beganne immediatly to drawe his kynesmen to the custome of the Heathen, put downe the thynges that the Iewes had set vp of loue, by Iohn the father of Eupolemus which was sente ambassadoure vnto Rome, for to make the bonde of frendship and loue. He put downe all the Iewes and libertyes of the Iewes, and set vp the wicked statutes. He durst make a feghtyng scole vnder the castel, and set faire yonge men to learne the maners of whores and brothels. This was now the beginninge of the Heathenish & straūge con-ons and vnheard wickednes of Iason, which (wold not be called a preist, but an vngodly persone. Insomoche that the priestes were now nomore occupied about the seruice of the alter, but despised the temple, regarded not the offringes: yea, gaue their diligence to learne to fight, to wrastle, to leape, to daunce, and to put at the stone, not setting by the honoure of the fathers, but lyked the glorie of the Grekes best of all, for the whiche they fell from the true religion horribly, and were gredy to folow their statutes. Yea, their lust was in al thinges to be like vnto theim whiche afore were their enemies, and destroiers. Howbeit to doe wickedly against the Lawe of God, shall not escape vnpunished, but of this we shal speake hereafter. What time as the* Olympiades sportes were plaied at Tyrus (the king himselfe beyng present) this vngracious Iason sent wicked men, bearyng from theim of Ierusalem (whiche now were called Antiochians) iii. C. dragmas of siluer, for an offryng to Hercules. These had they that caried thē, desired vnder soche a fashion, as though they shoulde not haue been offered, but bestowed to other vses. Neuertheles he that sent them, sent them to the entent that they should be offred vnto Hercules. But because of those that were present, they were geuen as to the making of shippes. And Appolonius the sone of Mestus, was sente into Egypte, because of the noble meane of Kinge Ptolomye Philometor. Now when Antiochus perceyued that he was put oute from medlyng in the realme, he sought his owne profite, departed from thence, came to Ioppa, and then to Ierusalem, where he was honourably receiued of Iason, and of the citie, and was brought in, with torche light, and with great praise, and so he turned his host vnto Phenices. After thre yere Iason sent Menelaus the forsaid Simons brother, to bere the money vnto the kyng, and to bring him answer of other necessarie matiers. But he when he was prayed of the king for magnifiyng of his power tourned the priesthode vnto himselfe, layng vp. iii. c. Talentes of siluer for Iason. So when hee hadde gotten commaundementes from the king, he came hauing nothing that becommeth a preist, but bearyng the stomach of a cruel tirant, & the wrath of a wilde haute beast. Then Iason whiche had deceiued his owne brother, seyng that he himselfe was beguiled also, was faine to flie into the lande of thammonites. & Menelaus gat the dominion. But as for the moneie that he had promised vnto the king, he dide nothing therin, when Sostratus the ruler of the Castell required it of him. For Sostratus was the man that gathered the customes, wherfore they were both called before the king. Thus was Me-thus his brother came in his stede. Sostratus was made lorde of the Cypriās. It happened in the meane season, that the Thatcians, and Galacians made insurrection because they were geuen for a present vnto King Antiochus concubine. Then came the kynge in all the hast to stil them againe, and to pacifie the matter, leauyng Andronicus ther to be his deputie as one mete therefore. Nowe Menelaus supposing that he hadde gotten a right conuenient time, stole certeine vesselles of golde out of the Temple, and gaue theym to Andronic⁹ for a present, and some he solde at Tyrus, and in the cities thereby. Whiche when Onias knewe of a certetie, he reproued him: but he kept him in a Sanctuary besyde Dapnis that lieth by Antioche. Wherefore, Menelaus gat him to Andronicus, and prayed him that he would slaie Onias: So when hee came to Onias, hee counceled him craftely to come out of the Sanctuary geuing him his hande with an othe (how be it he suspecte him) and then he slue Onias without any regarde of righteousnesse. For the which cause not onely the Jewes but other nations also tooke indignation, & were displesed for the vnrighteous deth of so godly a man. And whe the king was come againe from Cicilia, the Jues and certein of the Grecks went vnto him, complaynyng for the vnrighteous death of Onias. Yea, Antiochus himself was sorie in his minde for Onias, so that it pitied hym and he wept remembryng his sobrenes, and manerlye behaueour. Wherefore he was so kindeled in his minde, that he commaunded Andronic⁹ to be striped out of his purple clothing, and so to be led throughe the citie. Yea and thungracious man to be slain in the same place, where he committed this wickednesse vpon Onias. Thus the lorde rewarded hym his punishment as he hadde deserued. Nowe when Lisimachus had wen many wicked dedes in the Temple throwe the counsaile of Menelaus, and the voice came abroade, the multitude gathered theim toguether againste Lisimachus, for he had caried out now moche Golde. So when the people arose, and wer ful of displeasure, Lisimachus armed. 3. M. vnthrifties to defende him: a certeine tyraunt beyng their capiteine, whiche was growen both in age, & wodnesse. But when the people vnderstode the purpose of Lisimachus, some gat stones, some good great clubbes, & some cast ashes vpon Lysimachus. Thus there were many of them wounded, some being slain and al the other chased awaie. But as for the wicked churchrobber himself, ther killed him beside the treasury. Of these matters therefore there was kept a counte against Menelaus. Now when the king came to Tyrus, there made a complaint vnto him of Menelaus, concerning this busynesse, and the ambassadors were. 15 What Menelaus wente and promised Ptolomye to geue him moche Monie, yf hee woulde perswade the King. So Ptolomye went to the Kynge into a Counte where hee was set to cole him, and brought him out of that minde. Insomoche that hee discharged Menelaus from thaccusations that notwithstandyng was cause of al mischief: and those poore men whiche if thei hadde tolde their cause, yea before the Scithians, thei would haue been iudged innocent, them he condemned to death. Thus were thei soone punished whiche folowed vpon the matter for the city for the people, and for the holy vessel. Wherefore, theis of Tyrus tooke indignacion, and buried theym honourably. And so throwgh the couetousnes of them that were in power, Menelaus remained still in auarytie encreasing in malice, to the hurt of the citizeines.

AT the same time Antioch⁹ made him redie to go again into Egypt. Then were ther seene at Jerusalem. xl. daies long, horsemen runnyng to, and fro in the aire, whiche hadde raimente of Golde, and Speares. Ther were seen also whole hostes of men weaponed, and horses running in an ordre, how thei came to gether, how theye helde cooth their wieldes howe the harnessed Menne drewe oute their Swoardes, and shotte their Dartes. The shine of the Golden weapons was sene, and of all maner of armure. Wherefore euery men prayed that those signes might turne to good Now when there was goen furth a false rumour, as though Antiochus had been deade. Jason tooke a thousande menne, and came sodenly vpon the citie. The citizeines ranne vnto the walles, at the last was the Citie taken, and Menelaus fledde into the castel. As for Jason he spared not his own citizeines, in the slaughter, neither considered he what great euel it were to destroy the prosperitie of his owne kinsmen: but did euen as one that had gotten the victorie of his enemies, & not of his frendes. For al this gat he not the superitorie, but at the laste receiued confusion for his malice, & and fled again like a vagabond into the lande of the Ammonites. Finally, for a reward of his wickednesse he was accused before Aretha, the kinge of the Arabians. Insomoche that he was fain to flie from citie to citie, beyng despised of euery man, as a forsaker of the lawe, and an abhominable persone. And at the last (as an open enemy of his owne natural countrie, and of the citizeines) was driuen into egipt. Thus he that afore put many out of theyr owne native land, perished from home himself. He went to Lacedemon, thynckynge there to haue gotten succour by reason of kynredde. And he that afore hadde caste many one vnburied, was thrown out himselfe, no Manne mournyng for

He commaunded his men of warre also: that they shulde kill and not spare, but slay downe such as withstode them, or clymed vp vpon the houses. Thus was there a great slaughter of yonge men, old men, wemē childrē, and virgins. In thre daies were there slaine. lxxx. M. comly thousand put in prison, and no lesse solde. So mad was Antiochus, that he consydered not how that God was a lytle wrothe for the sinnes of thē that dwelt in the citie, for the which such confusyon came vpon that place. And

And then he commaunded his men to take thē to their weapons (for the Jewes kept holye day) and to the Iewes all them that were gone forth to the open play, runninge here and there thorow the citie with his men weapened & mur thered a great nombre. * But Judas Macha- 1. This wicked sedicyon of the vngodly was heauy vpon al the people, for the temple was ful of voluptuousnes, byldyng & hollynge of the Heathen, of ribbaudes and harlots together. The wemen went into the holye place, and bare in, that was not lawful. The auter also was ful of vnlawful thinges, which the law forbiddeth to lay vpon it. The Sabbothes were not kepte, the other solempne feastes of the lande wer not regarded. To be plaine, ther durste not Moreouer thorow the counsel of Ptolomy, there went out a commaundemente in the next cities of the Heathen, that they would intreat the Jewes in like maner, namely to compel them for to do sacrifice after the lawes of the Gentyles: and who so wold not, to put them to deathe. Lamētable thinge was it to se. For this grace haue we of God more then other people, that he suffereth not vs long to synne vnpunished like as other nacions, that when the day of Judgement commeth, he may punish them in the fulnes of their sinnes. vertethe vs, but he neuer withdraweth his mercy from vs, and thoughe he punyth with aduersity, yet doth he neuer forsake his people. But let this that we haue spoken nowe with few wordes be for a warninge and exhortacio of the Heathen. Now wil we come to the declaryng of the matter. Eleazer one of the principall Scribes aged man & of a wel fauoured countenaunce, was cõstrayned to gape with an open mouthe, * & to eate swynes flesh, But he desiringe rather to dye glorioustye then to lyue with shame offered himselfe willingly to the martyrdome. Nowe when he saw that he must nedes go to it, he toke it patiently: for he was at a point with himselfe, that he wold cõsent to do no vnlawful thing for any pleasure of life. They that stode by beinge moued with pitie (but not a right) for the old frendship of the man tooke him aside priuely & praied him that he wold let such flesh be brought him as wer lawfull to eat, & thẽ to make a countenãce as though he had eaten of the flesh of the sacrifice like as the kinge commãded: for so he might be deliuered frõ death, & for the olde frendeship of the man, they shewed him this kindenes. But he began to conder his discrete & honorable age his noble & worshipful stoke & how that frõ his youth he had bene of an honest, & good conuersacyon, yee, & howe cõstantly he had kept the ordinãces & lawes cõmãded by god, wherfore he gaue thẽ this answere & said: Yet had I rather tyrke be laide in my graue: * For it becommeth not mine age (said he) in anye wise to dissemble, wherby many yong persõs might think, that Eleazer being .lxxx. yere olde & .x. wer now gone to a straũge life, & so thorow mine porcrisy (for a litle tyme of a transytory life) they myght be disceaued: by this meanes also should I defile myne age, & make it abhomynable. For though I were now deliuered frõ the tormentes of men, yet shuld I not escape the hand of Almighty God nether aliue nor deade, wherfore I wil die manfully and as it becommeth mine age. Whereby I maye peraduenture leaue an example of stedfastnes for such as be yong, if I with a readye minde and mãfully die an honest deth, for the most worthy & holy lawes. Whẽ he had said these wordes, immediatly he was drawen to the torment. Now they that ledde him & wer wylde a litle afore, began to take displeasure because of the wordes that he said: for they thought he had spoken them of an hie minde But whẽ he was in his martyrdom, he mourned and said: Thou (O Lorde) which hast the holy knowledge: knowest openly that where as I myght be deliuered from death, I suffer these sore paines of my body, but in my mind am wel content to suffer them because I feare the. Thus they maner died, leauinge the memorial of his deathe for an example, not onlie vnto yong men, but vnto all the people, to be stedfaste and manly.

It happened also that there were seuen brethrẽ (with their mother) taken, & compelled by the kynge * against the law, to eat swines flesh, namely with scourges & lethren whippes. And one of them whiche was the chefe saide: What seekest thou and what requirest thou of vs? As for vs, we are readye rather to suffer deathe, then to offende the lawes of God and the fathers. Then was the king angry & bad heate cauldrons and brasen pottes. Which when they were made hote, immediatly he cõmaunded the tonge of him that spake first to be cut out, & to pul the skynne ouer his head, to pare of the edges of his handes & fete: yee, & that in the sight of his mother, & the other of his brethrẽ. Now when he was cleane marred, he commaunded a fyre to be made, and so while ther was any breath in him) to be fried in the cauldron. In the whyche when he had bene longe payned: the other brethren with their mother exhorted him to die manfully, sayinge: The Lorde God shal regarde the truthe: & comforte vs, like as Moses testifieth * & declareth in his song, saying, & he wil haue compassion on his seruaunte. So when the first was dead after this maner, they brought the seconde, to haue him in derision pulled the skynne, with the heare ouer his heade, and asked him yf he would eate swines flesshe, or he were payned in the other membres also thorow oute his body. But he answered boldly, & said: I wil not do it, And so was he tormented lyke as the first, and when he was euen at the geuyng vp the ghoste he sayd: Thou moste vngracious persoune puttest vs now to death, but the king of the world shall raise vs vp) which die for his lawes) in the resurrecyon of euerlastinge life. After him, was the third had in derysyon & when he was required he put out his tonge, & that right soone, holding forth his handes manfully, & spake with a stedfast faith. These haue I of heauen, but nowe for the law of God I despyse them: for my truste is that I shall receaue them, of him againe. In so muche that the king & they which wer with him, marueiled at the younge mannes boldnes, that he nothing regarded the paines. Nowe when he was dead also, they vexed the fourthe with the tormentes in lyke maner. So when he was now at his death, he saide. It is better that we being put to death of men, haue our hope and truste in God, for he shall rayse vs vp againe. * As for thee, thou shalte haue no resurrection to lyfe.

Deut. xxxii.

Iohn. v. c.

And when they had spoken to the fyrsthe, they tormented him. Then loked he vnto the kynge, and sayde thou hast power amonge men, for thou art a mortal man also thy selfe, to do what thou wilte, but thincke not, that God hath forsaken our generacion. Abyde the, tary tyll awhyle, and thou shalte see the great power of God, howe he will punyshe the and thy sede. After hym they brought the fyfte, which beinge at the poynte of deathe, sayde: We not deceaued (O king) for this we suffer for our owne sakes, because we have offended our God, and therefore merueilous thinges are wrought vpon vs. But thincke not thou, which takest in hande to striue against god that thou shalt escape vnpunished. This excellent mother (worthy to be well reported of, and had in remembraunce) sawe her seuen sonnes die in one day, and suffred it patiently because of the hope that she had in god ward, she exhorted euery one of them in especial and that boldly and stedfastly with perfecte wisdome, makyng vp her wiuishe thoughte with a manly stomake, and sayde vnto them: I can not tell howe ye came in my wombe, for I neither gaue you breth nor soule, no nor lyfe. It is not I that ioyned the membres of your bodies together but the maker of the worlde, which fashioned the byrthe of man, & began all thinges. Euen he also of his owne mercie shal geue you breth and life againe like as ye nowe regarde not youre owne selues for his lawes sake. Now thought Antiochus that she had despyted him, therefore he let her go wyth her reproues, and began to exhorte the youngest sonne, (wheth yet was left) not only wyth wordes but swore vnto hym with an othe that he would make hym a ryche and welthy man, if he would forsake the lawes of his fathers) yee, and that he would geue him whatsoeuer were necessary for him. But when the younge man would not be moued, for al these thinges, he called his mother, & counsayled her to saue her sonnes lyfe. And when he had exhorted her with many wordes, she promised him that she would speake vnto her sonne. So she turned her vnto him (laughing the cruell tiraut to scorne) & spake with a bolde voice. O my sonne, haue pitiee vpon me, that bare the nine monethes in my wombe, that gaue the sucke, norysshed the and brought the vp vnto this age. I beseech the (my sonne) loke vpon heauen and earthe and al that is therin, and consider that God made them and manes generacion of nought, so shalt thou not feare this hangman, but suffre death stedfastly, lyke as thy brethren haue done: that I may receaue the agayne in the same mercy with thy brethren. Whyle she was yet speakinge these wordes, the yonge man sayde: whome loke ye for. Wherefore do ye tarye? I will not obeye the kynges commaundemente, but the lawe that God gaue vs by Moses. As for thou that imagynest al myschefe against the Iewes, thou shalte not escape the handes of God, for we suffer these thynges, because of our sinnes. And though god be angry with vs a lytle while (for oure chastenynge and reformacion) yet shal he be at one a gayne with his seruauntes. But thou (O shameful and most abhominable persone.) Reioyce not thy selfe thorow vaine hope, in beinge so malicious vpon the seruauntes of God: for thou hast not yet escaped the iudgement of the God which is almighty & seeth al thinges. My brethren that haue suffered a lytle paine, are nowe vnder the couenaunt of euerlasting life: but thorow the iudgement of God, thou shalt be punished ryghteously for thy pryde. As for me (lyke as my brethren haue done) I offre my soule and my body for the lawes of our fathers, callinge vpon God, that he will soone be mercyfull vnto our people: yee, & with paine and punishment to make the confesse, that he onelye is God. In me nowe and in my brethren the wrath of almighty God is at an ende, which ryghtfully is fallen vpō al our people. The kinge beynge kindled in anger was more cruel vpon him then vpon al the other: and toke indignacyon, that he was so lyghtely regarded. So this yonge man died vndefiled and put his truste fully in the Lord. Laste of all after the sonnes, was the mother put to death also: let this now be ynough spoken, concerninge the offeringes, and extreme cruelnes.

The.viii. Chapter.

Then Iudas Machabeus, and they that were with him, went priuelye into the townes, called their kynsfolkes and frendes together, toke vnto them all suche as continued yet in the faith and law of the Iewes, and brought forth. vi. M. men. So they called vpon the Lord that he would haue an eye vnto his people which was troden downe of euerye man: to be gracious vnto the temple that was defiled of the vngodly: to haue compassion vpon the destruccion of the citie, whiche was worthy lyke to be laied waste, to heare the voice of the blonde that cried vnto hym: to remembre the most vnryghteous deathes of younge innocent children, the blasphemyes also done vnto hys name, and to punish them. Now when Machabeus hadde gathered this multytude together, he was to mighty for the Heathen (for the wrathe of the LORDE was turned into mercye) he fel vpon the townes and cities vnwares, brent them, toke the most commodyous places: and slewe many of the enemies. But specially he made such chases by nyghte, in so muche that his manlynesse was spoke of euery where.

So when Philippe sawe that the man increased by litle and lytle and that the mat-the spoyles brought they to Jerusalē. They slew also Philarches that wycked persone which was with Tymotheus, and had dyuers many Jewes. And when they held the thankesgeuynge at Jerusalem for the dyscoyse, they brent those that had set fyre on the portes of the temple: namely Calisthenes, which was fled into an house: and so they gat a wor-the moste vngracyous Nycanor, whiche had brought a. M. marchaūtes, to bye the Jewes he was euen thorowe the helpe of the Lorde brought downe euen of them whom they regarded not, in so much, that he put of his glo-ryous rayment & rode by see, & came alone to Antioch, with great shame & dishonour which he gat thorowe the destruccō of his hoaste.

Thus he that promised the Romaynes to paye their tribute, whē he toke Jerusalē: began now to say plainly: that God was the defēder of the Jewes, & therfore not possible to wounde thē, because they folowed the lawes which god had made. ¶ The.ix. Chapitre.

At the same time, came * Antiochus again i.mach.vi.a with dishonour out of Persia. For when he came to Persepolys, & vndertoke to rob the temple: & to subdue the citie, the people ran together, & defended the selues in so much that he & his were fayne to flie with shame.
And so after that it ye, it happened that An-

tiochus came againe with dishonoure. But when he came to Egbathana, he gat knowlege what was happened vnto Nycanor & Tymotheus: Howe, as he was auauncynge him selfe in his wrath, he thought he was able to auenge the iniurye that was done to them, vpon the Jewes, and therfore cõmaunded to make ready his charet, hastyng on his iourney, without ceassing, the iudgemente of God prouoking him, because he had spoken so proudely, that he would come to Jerusalem, and make it a graue of the Jewes. But the Lord God of Israel, that seeth all thinges, smote him with an inuysyble plage, which no man could heale. For assoone as he had spoken these wordes, there came vpon him an horrible paine of his bowels, and a sore greefe of the armes: And that was but ryghte, for he had martyred other menns bowels with diuerse and straunge tormentes, howbeit he would in no wyse ceasse frõ hys malice. Yee, he was yet prouder and more malicyous against the Jewes. But whyle he was commaunding to make haste in the matter, it happened that he fell downe violently from the charet, so that it broke his bodye, & dyd him great paine. And so he that thought he might commaunde the floudes of the see, (so proud was he beyonde the condycion of man) and to wey the hie mountaines, in a paire of balaunce, was now brought downe to the grounde, & caried vpon an horse litter, knowlegyng the manifest power of God vpon him: so that the wicked body of his was * full of wormes, which in his paine fell quycke oute of his flesh: In so much that his hoost was greued with the smell and stynche, of hym. Thus he that a lytle afore thought he might reach to the starres of heaue, him might no man now abyde nor beare for the vehemency of stynche. Therfore, he beyng brought frõ his great pride began to come to the knowledge of him selfe: for the punishment of God wrought him, & his paine encreased euer more & more. And whe he him selfe might not abide his owne stynche, he sayd these wordes: It is reason to obedient vnto god, and that a mã desire not to be like vnto him. This wicked persone prayed also vnto the Lord of whome he should haue obtained no mercy. And as for the cytie that he came vnto so hastelye, to bryngе it downe to the ground, and to make it a graue for deade men: now he desireth to deliuer it free. And as touchinge the Jewes, whome he had iudged not worthy to be buried, but wold haue cast them out for to be deuoured of the foules & wild beastes, sayinge: that he wold haue destroyed both old & yong: Now he promiseth, to make them like the citizyns of Athens. And whereas he had spoyled the holy temple afore, now he maketh promises to garnish it with great giftes, to encrease the holye ornamentes, & of his owne rentes to beare the costes & charges belõging to the offringes: yea, & that he would also become a Jew him selfe to go thorowe euery place of the world, and to preache the word of God. But when his paines would not ceasse, (for the righteous iudgement of God was come vpõ him) oute of a verye dyspaire he wrote vnto the Jewes, a letter of intercessiõ, cõteining these wordes. The king and prince Antiochus, wisheth vnto the verteous citizyns of the Jewes much helth and good prosperite. Yf ye & your childrẽ fare wel, & if al thinges go after youre minde, we geue great thanckes. In my sycknes also do I remember you louingly: for as I cam out of Perfia, & was take with a sore disease I thought it necessary to care for the cõmen welth. Not ether dispaire I in my selfe, but haue a good hope to escape this sickenes. But cõsidering that my father led an host cõtinuallye in the hier places, & shewed who should raigne after him, that if ther happened anye cõtrauersy, or any heard thing were declared, they in the land might know their chefe lord that ther shuld be no insurrectiõ against, when I ponder by my selfe, howe that al the mightye men & neyghbours round aboute, are layinge waite, & loke but for oportunite to do harme: I haue ordeined that my sonne Antiochus shal raigne after me, whome I oft cõmended to many of you: whe I was in the hier kingdoms, & haue written vnto him as followeth hereafter. Therefore, I praye you & require you, to remember the benefites that I haue done vnto you generally, & inespecial (so that euery mã wil be faithful to me & to my sonne.) For I hope that he shalbe of sober & louing behauoure, & if he folow my deuyse, he shalbe indifferent vnto you. Thus that murtherer & blaspheme of God was sore smitten, and lyke as he had intreated other men, so he died a myserable death in a straũge country vpon a mountaine. And his body did Philip (that went with him) cary away: which fering the sonne of Antiochus, went into Egypte to Ptolomy Philometor.

The .x. Chapter.

Machabeus now & his cõpany (thorowe the helpe of the Lord) wan the temple & the citie again, destroied the altere & chapels that the heathẽ had buylded thorow the stretes, clensed the temple, * made an other aulter of bricke stone, and after two yeares they offered sacrifices, set forth the inrence the lyghtes and the shewbreade. When that was done, they fell downe flat vpon the grounde, & besought the Lorde, that they might come nomore into suche trouble: but yf they synned any more against him, he him selfe to chastē them with mercy, and not to come in the hande

Exod. xx. b

Now vpon the same day that the straungers polluted the Temple, it happened that in the very same daie it was clensed again, namely* the .xxv. day of the moth called Casleu. Thei kept .viii. daies in gladnesse, lyke as in the feast of the tabernacles, remembring that not long afore thei held the feast of the tabernacles: vpon the mountaines, and in dennes like beastes. And to the same tozen thei bare grene bowes, braunches, and palmes before hym that had geuen theym good fortune to clense his place. They agreed also together, & made a statute that euery yere those daies should be solemply kept of all the people of the Iewes. Now Antiochus then that was called the noble died, it is sufficiently tolde. Now wil we speake of Eupator the son of that wicked Antioch, how it hapned with him, & so with fewe wordes to comprehende thadversitie that chaunced in the warres. When he had taken in the kingdome, he made one Lisias whiche had been capiteine of the hoost in Phenices, & Syria, ruler ouer the matiers of the realme. For Ptolomy that was called Macron, beyng a Ruler for the Iewes, (and specially to sit in iudgement for soche wrong as was doen vnto theym) vndertooke to deale peaceably with the. For the which cause he was accused of the frendes before Eupator: and when he was suspect to be a traitor (because he had left Cypres that Philometor had committed vnto him: and because hee departed from noble Antiochus, that he was come vnto) he poisoned himself and died. Now when Gorgias was gouernour of the same places, he toke straungers, and vndertoke oft times, to warre with the Iewes. Moreouer, the Idumeans that helde the strong holdes, receiued those that were driuen from Ierusalem and toke in hand to warre also. * But thei that were with Machabeus besoughte and praied vnto the Lorde that he would bee their helper, and so they fel vpon the strong holdes of the Idumeans, & wan many places, by strength. Soche as came against the thei slue, and killed no lesse of all together, then .xx.M. Neuertheless some, no lesse then .x. M. were fled into two strong towres, hauyng al maner of Ordinaunce to withstande them. Then Machabeus leuing Simon, Iosephus, zacheus, and those that were with them, whiche wer very many, went to besege theim, & to fight where most nede was. Now thei that were with Simon being led* with couetousnes, were intreated for money thoroow certeine of those that laie in the towers: toke .lxx.M. tragmes, and let some of theim escape. But when it was tolde Machabeus what had happened, he called the capiteines of the people together, accusing those persones, that they had tolde their brethren, for

So De. xxbiij. a. after the praier, thei went on further to the Citie: and when thei came nere the enemies they prepared themselues against them. And betimes in the morning at the breake of the daie, both the hostes buckled together. The one part had the LORDE for their refuge Je. xbi. b. whiche is the gouernour of prosperitie, strength, & victorie. The other had a manly stomach whiche is a Capiteine of warre. The battaile nowe being great* there appeared vnto the enemies from heauen. v. men vpon horsebackes, with Bridles of golde, leedyng the Iewes, & two of the hauing Machabe* betwixt theim, that kept him safe on euery side, with their weapons, but not dartes, & lightenynges vpon the enemies, where throughe thei were confounded with blindenes, and so sore afraied that they fel doune. There were slaine of footemen .xx.M.v.c.v.c. horsemen as for Timothes himselfe, he fled vnto Gazar a very strong holde, wherin Cereas was capiteine. But Machabeus, and his companye laied siege to it cherefully. iij. dayes. Now they that were within, (trusting to the strength of the place) cursed, and banned exceedingly, and made grete crakyng with wicked woordes. Neuertheless, vpon the fifth daie in the morning .xx. yong men of Machabeus company (being set a fire in their mindes because of the blasphemy) came manfully vnto the wal, and with bolde stomaches they and their other companions climed vp vpon the towres, vndertaking to set fire vpon the portes, and to burne those blasphemous persons quicke. Two daies were thei occupyed in the castle, whiche when theie founde Timotheus that was crepte into a corner, theie killed him, and slue Cereas his brother in like maner, with Apollophanes. When this was doen, thei song Psalmes with prayses, and thankes geuing vnto the lorde, which had doen so great thinges for Israell, and geuen them the victor. displeasure for the thinges that had happened, and when he had gathered .lxxx. M. men of fote with al the host of the horsemen, hee came against the Jewes, thinkyng to wynne the citie, to make it an habitation for the heathen, * & the Temple would he have to bee an house of lucre, like as the other Gods houses of the heathen are, and so kill the Prestes office every yere. So he came into Jewry, and then to Bethsura a castel of defence lying in a narrow place .v. furlonges frō Jerusalē, & wāne it. Now when Machabe⁹ & his cōpany knew that the frōg holdes wer taken, * they fel to their prayer, with weping, and teares before the lorde. And all the people in like maner besought him that he would sende a good Aungell to deliuer Israell. Machabeus hymselfe was the first that made him ready to the battaile, exhorting the other that were with him to ieopard themselues, and to helpe their brethren. And when thei were goynge furthe of Jerusalem together with a reame, and wylyng minde⁴ there appeared before them vpon horsebacke a manne in white clothing wyth harneste of Golde shaking his speare. Then they prayed the Lorde altogether, whiche had shewed them mercie, and were comforted in their mindes, insomoche that they wer redy, not only to fight with men, but with most cruel beastes, yea, and runne through the walles of Iron. Thus they went on willyngly hauing an helper from heauen, and the lorde merciful vnto theim. Thei fel mightely vpon their enemies like Lions, brought doune .xi. M. fotemen, .vi. c. horsemen, put all the other to flight, many of theym beyng wounded, and some got awai naked. Yea, Lisias hymselfe was faine to flie shamefully and so to escape. Neuertheles, that man was not without vnderstanding, but considered by himself that his power was minished, & pōdred how the Jues being defended by the helpe of almighty god, were not able to be ouercome, wherfore he sent them worde, and promised that he would consent to al thinges whiche were reasonable and to make the king their frende. To the whiche prayer of Lisias, Machabe⁹ agreed, seking in al things the cōmon welth, & what soeuer Machabe⁹ wrote vnto Lisias concerning the Jues, the king graūted it. For ther wer letters writte vnto the Jues frō Lisias conteinyng these wordes. Lisias sēdeth greting vnto the people of the Jues. Jhō, & Absalon which were sent frō you, deliuered me writinges, & required me to fulfil the thinges cōcernyng their erēd. Therfore loke what myght be graunted, I certified the king therof, and whatsoeuer was conuenient, I agreed therto. Yf ye now wil be faithful in the matters, I shal entreate my self hereafter also to do you good. As cōcerning other thinges by euery article therof: I haue committed them to youre messengers, and to those whome I sent vnto you, to common with you of the same. Fare ye well. In the .xlviii. yeare, the xxiv. day of the moneth Dioscorinthi⁹. Now the kinges letter conteined these woordes. King Antiochus sendeth greeting vnto his brother Lisias. Forsomoche as our father is now dead, our will is, that they which are in our realme, liue without any insurrection, & euery man to be diligent in his owa maters. We vnderstande also, that the Jewes would not consent to our father, for to bee brought vnto the custome of the Gentiles, but stifly to kepe their owne statutes, for the whyche cause thei require of vs also to let them remayne stil by their owne lawes. Wherefore, our minde is, that this people shal liue in rest. We haue concluded and determined also to restore them their temple againe, that they may liue acording to the vse and custome of their forefathers. Thou shalt doue vs a pleasure therfore, if thou sende vnto theim, and agree with theym, that when they are certified of our mynde, they may be of good chere, & loke to their owne wealth. And this was the letter that the king wrote vnto the Jues. King Antioch⁹ sendeth greeting vnto the counsail, and thother people of the Jues. Yf yee fare wel, we haue our desire: as for vs, we are in good health. Menelaus came & told vs how that your desire was to come downe to youre people whiche are with vs. Wherfore those that wil come, we geue them fre liberty, vnto the .xxx. daie of the moneth of April, that they maye vse the meates of the Jewes, and their owne lawes, like as afore, and none of theym by any maner of wayes to haue harme for thinges doen in ignorance. Menelaus who we haue sent vnto you, shal comen with you, at large: Fare ye wel. In the .clvi. yere, the xv. daie of the moneth of April. The Romās also sent a lette cōtening these wordes. Quintus Menius, & Titus Manili⁹ ambassadors of the Romains, sende greting vnto the people of the Jues. Loke what Lisias the kinges kinsma hath graunted you, we graunt you the same also. But as concerning the things whi che he referred vnto the King, sende hether some wyth spede, and pondre the matter diligently emōg your selues, that we mai cast the best to your profite. For we must depart now vnto Antioche. And therfore wayte hortly again, that we may know your mind. Farewel in the .C.lvij. yeare, the xv. day of the moneth of April.

nius the sonne of Gemei, Jerome, and Demophon the proude, Nicanor the Capitaine of Cipres, & thei that laie in those places, wolde not let them liue in rest, and peace. They of Joppa also did euen soche a shameful dede Thei praied the Jewes that dwelte emonge them, to go with their wiues, and children in to the shippes which thei had prepared, & did with them as though thei had ought thē none euil wil, forsomoch thē as ther was gō furth a generall proclamatiō thorow the city because of peace thei cōsented therto & suspect nothing: but whē thei were goen furth into the depe, thei drounded not lesse thē .v. c. of them. Whē Judas knew of this cruelty wrought vnto his people, he cōmaūded those that wer with him to make thē redy, exhorting thē to call vpon God the righteous iudge: wēt furth against those murtherers of his brethren, set fire in the hauen by night, brent vp the shippes, and those that escaped from the fire, he slue with the sweard. And when he had doen this, he departed as though he would come againe, and vtte out al them of Joppa. But when hee had gotten woorde that the Jammites were minded to doe in like maner vnto the Jewes whiche dwelt emong them, he came vpon the Jammites, by night, and set fire on the hauen with the shippes, so that the light of the fyre was seen at Jerusalem, vpon twoo hundred .xl. furlonges. Now when they were gone from thence .x. furlonges, in their iourneye towarde Timotheus. v. M. men of fote. v. c. horsemen of the Arabians fought with hym so when the battaile was erneste, & prospered with Judas through the helpe of GOD, the residewe of the Arabians beyng ouercomen besought Judas to be at one with theim, and promised to geue hym certeine pastures, and to doe him good in other thinges. Judas thinking that they should in dede be profitable concerning many thinges, promised thē peace: wherupon they stroke handes, and so they departed to their tentes. Judas wente also vnto a citie, whiche was very fast kepte with bridges, fensed roūd about with walles and diuerse kindes of people dwelling therin, called Caspin. Thei that wer within, put soche truste in the strength of the walles & in ther store of vitailes: that thei wer the slacker in their dooinges, cursing & reuiling Judas with blasphemies & speking soch wordes as it becōmeth not. But Machabe° calling vpō the great prince of the world, which without any battail rāmes, or ordinaunce of war, did cast doune the walles of Jerico, in the time of Josua, fel mānfully vpō the walles, toke the citie thorow the help of the lord made a exceding great slaughter, insomoch that a lake of .v. furlonges broade whiche laie there by semed to flowe with bloud of the slain. When departed to Taracha vnto the Jues that are called Tubianē. But as for Timothe°, thei coulde not get him there, for not one matter dispatched he was departed frō thens, & had left certein men in a very stronge hold. But Dosithe°, & Sosipater which wer capteins with Machabe°, slue those that Timothe° had left in the hous of defēce, euen .x. m. mē. And Machabe° prepared him, with the, vi. m mē that wer about, him set thē in ordre by cōpanies, & wēt furth against Timothe°, which had with him an C. xx. M. men of fote. & M. v. C. horsemen. When Timotheus hadde knowlege of Judas comyng, he sent the women, children, and the other baggage vnto a castel called Carnion for it coulde not be wonne, and was hard to come vnto, the waies of the same places wer so narrow. And when Judas companye came first in sight, the enemies were smitten with feare, through the presence of God, whiche seeth al thinges: Insomoche that thei flyng one here, & another there, were rather discōfited of their own people, & wounded with the strokes of their owne sweardes. Judas also was verie ernest in folowing vpō them, punishing those vngodlie, & slue. xxx M. men of thē. Timotheus also himself fel into the hādes of Dositheus, and Sosipater, whō he besought with many praiers to let him go with his life, because he had many of the Jues fathers, and brethren in prisone, which if they putte him to deathe, might bee disappointed. So when he hadde promised faithfully to deliuer them againe, according to the condition made, they let him go without harme for the health of their brethren. And when Judas had slain. xxv. m. he went to Carnion. Now after that he had chased away & slain his enemies, he remoued the host toward Epphron a strōg citie, wherin dwelt many diuers people of the Heathen, and the strong young men kept the walles, defending them wightely. In this citie was moche Ordinaunce, and prouision of dartes. But whē Judas & his cōpany had called vpon almightie God whiche with his power breaketh the strēgth of the enemies, they slue the citie, & slue. xxv. M. of thē that were within. From thence went thei to the city of the Scithiās, whithweth, vi. c. furlōgs from Jerusalē: but whē the Jues which wer in the city testified, that the citizens delt louingli with thē, yo, & intreted thē kindly in the time of their aduersite. Judas & his cōpany gaue thē thankes, desiring thē to be fredly stil vnto thē, & so thei came to Jerusalē, the hie feast of the wekes being at hande. And after the feast of Pētecost, thei went furth against Gorgias the gouernor of Idumea with .iij. m. mē of fote & .iij. c. horsmē: which whē thei met together it chāced a few of the Jues to be slain, & Dositheus one of the Bachenors a mighti horseman

But an horsseman of Thracia fel vppon hym and smote of his arme, so that Gorgias escaped and fled into Marcia. When thei nowe that were of Gorgias side, had fought a long and were wery: Judas called vpon the lorde that he would be their helper, and Capiteine of the fielde: and with that hee began with a manly voice to take vp a song of praise, and a crie Insomoch that he made the enemies afraied, and Gorgias men of warre toke their flight. So Judas gathered his host, & came into the citie of Odulla. And when the seuenth day came vpon them, thei clensed theimselues as the custome was: and kept the Sabbaoth in the same place. And vpon the day folowing Judas and his company came to take vp the bodies of theym that were slayne, and to burye theym in theyre Fathers Graues. Now vnder the cotes of certein of the Iues whyche whiche were slaine, thei found iewels that thei had taken out of the temple, and from the Idolles of the Iamites: whyche thing is forbidden the Iewes by the lawe. Then euery man sawe that this was the cause wherfore thei were slaine. And so euery man gaue thankes vnto the lorde for the righteous iudgement which had opened the thing that was hid. Thei fel doune also vnto their prayers, and besought god that the fault whiche was made, might be put out of remembrāce Besides that, Judas exhorted the people ernestly to kepe themselues from sothe synne. Forsomoche, as they sawe before their eies that these men were slaine for the same offence. So he gathered of euery one a certein insomoche that he brought to gether. ij. M. dragmes of siluer whiche he sent vnto Jerusalem that there might bee a Sacrifice offred for the misdede. In the whiche place hee did wel, and right, for he had some consideration, & pondring of the life that is after thys time. For if he had not thoughte that they whiche were slaine did yet liue, it had ben superfluous, and vaine, to make any powre, or Sacrifice for them that were dead. But forsomoche as he sawe that they whiche die in the fauour and belief of God, are in good rest and ioye, he thought it to be good and honorable for a reconcilyng to dooe the same for those that were slain, that the offence might be forgeuen.

In the. cli. yere gat Judas knowlege that Antiochus Eupator was comming with a great power into Jewrie, and Lisias the stewarde, and ruler of his matiers with him hauing an. C. and. x. M. men of foote. v. M. horssemenne. xxx. Elephantes, and. iij. C. charettes. Menelaus also ioigned himselfe with theim but with great deceipt, and spake faire to the Kynge, not for anye good of the countre, but because he thought to haue the kyng of kinges moued Antiochus mind against this vngodly person, and Lisias enformed the King that this Menelaus, was the cause of all mischiefe: to the King commaunded to take him, & as the maner of theim is, to put him death in the same place. There was also in the same place a tower of. l. cubites hyghe, heaped with ashes, but aboue it was so made, that menne might looke doune on euery side. Wherinto the king commaunded that wicked persone to bee caste among the ashes, as one that was cause of al vngraciousnesse. And reason it was the vnhappie sholde die sothe a death, and not to be buried for he had doen mothe mischief vnto the aultare of God (whose fire and ashes wer holy therfore was it righte that hee himselfe also sholde be destroied with ashes. But the King was woodde in his minde, and came to shewe himselfe more cruell vnto the Jewes then his father was. Whiche when Judas perceaued he commaunded the people to cal vpon the lorde night and daie, that he wolde now helpe theim also, like as he had doen alwaie. For they were afraied to be putte from their lawe, from their natural countreye, and from the holye Temple: and not to suffre the people which a litle while afore began to recouer to be subdued again of the blaspemous nacions. So when thei had done this together, and besought the lorde for mercie, with weping and fasting. iij. daies long flat vppon the grounde. Judas exhorted theym to make themselues redy. But he and the eldres together deuised to go furth fiersle with the people, afore the King brought his host into Jury, and afore he besieged the citie, & to commit the matier vnto God. Wherfore, he ascribed the power of al thinges vnto GOD the maker of the world, exhorting his people to fight manfully cyee, euen vnto deathe for the lawes, the temple, the citie, their own native countreie, and to defende the Citizeines: and set his host before Modin. Thus when thei had brought a greate feare and tumor emong the tentes of their enemies and all thinges wente prosperously with them, they departed in the breake of the daye, God beyng their helper, and defender. Now when the King perceiued the manlinesse of the Iues, he went about to take the stronge places by cralte, and remoued his hoste vnto Bethsura, whiche was a wel kept house of defence of the Iewes: but they were chased away, hurt, and discomfited. And Judas sente vnto theim that were in it soche thynges as was one Rhodochus whiche tolde the enemies their secretes: but thei sought him oute and when thei had gotten him, they put hym in prysone. After this did the King commune with them that were in Bethzura, toke truce with theim, departed and stroke battaile with Judas whiche ouercame him. But when hee vnderstode that Philip whom he had left to be ouerseer of his busines at Antioche bega to rebel against hym, he was astonnied in his mind so that he yelded himselfe to the Jues, & made them an othe to doo whatsoeuer theye thought right. Now when hee was reconciled with theim, he offered, made moche of the temple, gaue greate giftes vnto it, embraced Machabeus, makyng him capiteine, and gouernour from Ptolomays vnto the Gerrenes. Neuertheles when hee came to Ptolomays, the people of the citie were not content with the bonde of frendeship, for they were afraied that he woulde breake the couenaunt. Then went Lisias vp into the seate, and enformed the people, shewed them the cause why: and pacified theim. So he came again vnto Antioche. This is now the mater concerning the kinges iourney, and his retourne.

After thre yeres was Judas enformed, whom that Demetrius the sone of Seleucus was come vp with a greate power, and shippes, through the hauen of Trapolis, to take certeine comodious places, & countries against Antiochus, and his capiteine Lisias. Now Alcimus whiche had been highe priest, and wilfully defiled himself in the time of the mixting, seyng that by no meanes hee coulde be helped, nor haue any more entrance to the aultare, he came to king Demetrius in the. c. yere presenting vnto him a croune of Gold, a Palme, and an Olive tree: whiche (as menne thought) belonged to the temple, and that date he held his tong. But when he had gotten opportunitie for his madnesse: Demetrius called him to counsaile, and asked him what things, or counsailes the Jues leaned vnto. He aunswered. The Jues that be called Asside, whose capiteine is Judas Machabeus, mainteine warres, make insurrections, and wil not let the realme be in peace. For I being depriued of my fathers honour, I meane the high priesthod am come hether, partely because I was faithful vnto the king, and partly because I sought the profite of the Citizeynes. And why? al our people, through the wickednes of them, are not a litle troubled: wherfore I beseche the o king considre al these thinges diligently, and then make some prouision for the land, and the people, accordyng to the kindenes that thou hast offred vnto the. For as long as Judas hath the vpper hande, it is not possible that men can liue in peace. Whē also, hauing euill will at Judas, set the king Demetrius on fire against him* whith imediatly sent Nichanor ruler of the Elephantes, a capitein into Jury, cōmaundyng hym to take Judas hymself alyue, but to leye the that wer wyth hym, and to make Alcymus hy preest of the great temple. Then the Heathen whiche fled out of Jury, from Judas, came to Nichanor by flockes, thynckyng the harme, and decaye of the Jues to be their welfare. Now when the Jewes heard of Nichanors comyng, and the gatheryng together of the heathen, they sprinckled themselues with earth *besought hym whiche made them hys people, and euer defended his owne porcio with euident tokens, that he would preserue them still. So at the commaundement of the Capiteyne they remoued thens, and came to a toune called Dessacan. And Simon Judas brother fel in hande wyth Nycanor, but through the sodaine comyng of the enemies, he was afraid. Neuertheles, Nycanor hearyng the manlines of them that were with Judas, and the bolde stomaches that they had to fyghte for their natural country, durst not proue the matter wyth bloudheadyng. Wherfore he sēt Dositheus Theodotius, and Mathias before, to geue, and to take peace. So whē they had taken long aduisement therupon, and the capytayne shewed it vnto the multytude, theye were agreed in one minde to haue peace. And they appoynted a daye to syt vpon these maters quietly emōg themselues, the Gentiles also wer brought, & setforth: neuertheles, Judas cōmaunded certein men of armes to waite in conuenient places, least there should sodainly arise any euel through the enemies. And so they comoned reasonably together. Nycanor, while he abode at Jerusalem, ordred himself not vnreasonably, but sent awaie the people that were gathered togeuther. He loued Judas euer with his harte, and fauored him. He prayed him also to take a wyfe, and to bringe forth chyldren. So he maryed, lyued in rest, and led a common life. But Alcymus perceyuyng the loue that was betwixte them and howe theie were agreed togeuther, came to Demetrius and tolde hym that Nycanor had taken straunge maters in hande, and ordeyned Judas an enemy of the realme, to let the kinges succession. Then the kyng was sore displeased, and through the wycked accusacyons whyche Alcymus made of Nycanor, hee was so prouoked that he wrote vnto Nycanor saiyng that he was verye angrye for the frendeship, and agreement whiche he had made wyth Machabeus. Neuertheles hee commaunded hym in al the hast that he shold take Machabe, & send him prisoner to Antyoche. Which lres when Nycanor had seen, he was at his wyttes ende, and sore greeued that hee agreed, especially seing Machabe⁹ was the man that neuer dyde him harme. But because he might not withstande the king he sought opportunitie to fulfil his commaundemente. Notwithstanding when Machabeus sawe that Nicanor began to be churlish vnto hym and entreated him more roughly then he was wont, he perceiued that suche vnkindenesse came not of good. And therfore he gathered a fewe of his men, and withdrue himselfe from Nicanor. Whiche when he knewe that Machabeus had manfully preuented him, he came into the great, and most holy Temple: and commaunded the preistes whiche were doyng their vsual offringes to deliuer him the man. And when thei sware that thei coulde not tel where the manne was whom thei sought, hee stretched out his hand, and made an othe saiyng: Yf ye wil not deliuer me Judas captiue I shal remoue this tẽple of God into a plain field, I shal breake doune thalter, and consecrate this temple vnto Bachus. After these 2.Mach.vii.f. wordes he departed. Then the preistes litte vp their handes towarde heauen, and besought him that was euer the defender of their people, saiyng: Thou O Lorde of al whiche hast nede of nothing woldest that the tẽple of thy habitacion should be among vs. Therfore now O moost holy lord, kepe thys house euer 2.Mac.iiij.c. vndefiled⁹ whiche lately was clensed. Vpon Razis whome there accused vnto Nicanor, one Razis an Alderman of Jerusalem, a louer of the holie citie, and a man of good reporte, whiche for the kinde hart that he bare vnto the people, was called a father of the Jewes. Thys man ofttimes when the Jewes wer minded to kepe themselues vndefiled, defended, and deliuered them, being content fredfully to spend his bodie and his life for his people. Now Nicanor willing to declare the hate that hee bare to the Jues, sent v C. men of warre to take him: for he thought if he gatte him: hee should bring the Jewes in great pecary. Now when the people began to rushe in at his house, to breake the gates, and set fire on it: hee being now taken would haue defended himself with his sworde, choosing rather to die manfully, then to yeld himselfe to those wicked doers, and because of his noble stock, he had rather to haue been put to extreme cruelty. Notwithstanding, what time as he missed of his stroke for hast, and the multitude fel in violently betwixt the doores, he ranne boldlie to the wal, and cast himselfe downe manfullie among the heape of them, whiche gaue some place to his fal, so that he fel vpon his bely. Neuertheles, while there was yet breath in him, he was kindled in his minde, & while his blood gushed out exceedingly, for he was very sore wounded, he ran through the middest of the people, & gat him to the top of a rocke out his own bowels with bothe his handes and thrue them vpõ the people, calling vpon the Lorde of life, and spirite to restorde him this again, and so he died.

The .xv. Chapitre.

Now when Nicanor knew that Judas was in the countre of Samaria, he thought with al his power to strike a feld with hym, vpon a Sabboth day. Neuertheles, the Jewes that were compelled to goe with him saied: O do not so cruelly, and vnkindly, but halowe the Sabboth daie, and worship hym that seeth all thinges. For al this, yet saied thungracious persone. Is there a mightye one in heauen, that commaunded the Sabboth daie to be kept? And when thei said, Yea, the liuyng God, the mightie Lord in heauen cõmaunded the seuenth daie to be kept. he saied And I am mightye vpon yerth to cõmaund the for to arme thẽselues to performe the kinges businesse. Notwithstanding he might not haue his purpose. Nicanor had deuised with great pride to ouercome Judas, and to bring awaie the victorie. fast confidence, and a perfecte hope in God, that hee woulde helpe him, and exhorted his people not to be afraied at the coming of the Heathen, but alwaye to remembre the helpe that hath been shewed to theim from heauen. Yea, and to be sure now also, that Almightie God would gene them the victorie. We spake vnto them out of the lawe and prophetes, putting theim in remembraunce of the battailes that thei had striken afore, and made thẽ to be of a good corage. So when their hartes wer plumbe vp, he shewed them the receiptfulnes of the Heathen, and how thei would kepe no couenaunt nor othe. Thus they weaponed them not with the armour of shield, and speare, but with wholsome wordes, and exhortacions. We shewed them a dreame also, wher thorow he made them al glad, whiche was thys. Hee thought that he sawe Onias (which had ben high preest a verteous, & a louyng man, sad, & of honest conuersacion, wel spoken, and one that had ben exercised in al Godlinesse frõ a chylde, holdyng vp hys handes toward heauen, and prayeng for hys people. After thys ther appered to him another mã which was aged, honorable, & glorious. And Onias said Thys is a louer of the brethren, and of the people of Israell. Thys is hee that prayeth moche for the people, and for the holy citie, Hieremye the Prophete of God. Me thought also, that Hieremye held out hys ryghte hande, and gaue vnto Judas a Swearde of Golde saiyng: Take thys holye Swearde a gyfte from GOD, wherewith thou shalte smite downe the enemies of the people of Israel.

And so they wer wel comforted thorow the

In somorhe that i, the thinges which they tokē in hande, their boldnes shewed the same, because the holy citie, and the Temple were in peril, for the whiche they toke more care for thē for their wiues, childrē, brethrē & kinsfolkes: again thei that wer in the citie, wer most careful for those whiche wer to fight. Now when they were all in a hope, that the iudgement of the matier was at hande, and the enemies drue nie, the host being set in araie, the Elephantes and horsemen euery one standyng in hys place: Machabeus considerynge the coming of the multitude, thordinaunce of and diuers weapons, the cruelnes of the beastes, held vp his handes toward heauen, callyng vpon the Lorde that doeth wonders. * whiche geueth not the victory after the multitude of the weapons, and power of the host but to them that please him, accordyng to hys owne will. Therfore in his praier he sayed these wordes. O Lorde * thou that didst sende thine Aungel in time of Ezekias king of Iuda, and in the host of Senacherib slewest an c.lxxxv. M. sende now also thy good Aungel before vs, O lorde of heauen, in the feare fulnes, and dred of thy mightie arme, that thei which come against thy holy people to blaspheme thē, may be afraied, & so be mate an end of his wordes. Then Nicanor and thei that were with him, drewe nie with shalmes, and songes, but Iudas & his company myth praier & callyng vpon God. With their handes thei fought, but with ther hertes thei praid vnto the lord & slue no lesse then. xxxv. m. mē: for throw the present helpe of God, they were glorioufly comforted. Now when they lefte of, and were tournyng againe with ioye, they vnderstode that Nycanor himselfe was slaine with the other. Then thei gaue a great shout and a cry, praisyng the almighty lord myth a loude voice. And Iudas whiche was euer redy to spende his bodie, and life for his citizens, commaunded to smite of Nicanors head with his arme, and hande, and to be brought to Ierusalem. When he came there, he called all the people, and priestes to the auter myth those that were in the castle, and shewed them Nicanors hed and hys wicked hande which he had presumptcously holde vp against the temple of god. He caused the tong also of that vngodly Nicanor to bee cut in litle pieces, & to be cast vnto the fowles, & the cruel mans hande to be hanged vp before the temple. So euery man gaue thankes vnto the Lorde sayyng: blessed be he, that hath kept this place vndefiled. As for Nicanors head, he hanged it vpon the high castle, for an euidēt, & plain tokē of the help of god. And so thei agreed al together: to kepe that holi day namely the. xiij day of the moneth Adar, whiche in thassirians language is the next day before Mardocheus day. Thus was Nicanor slaine, and from that time furth, the Iues had the citie in possession. And ther I wil now make an ende

The first Chapter.

THis is the boke of the generacion of Jesus Christe, the sonne of Dauid, the sonne of Abraham, * Abraham begate Isaac. * Isaac begate Jacob. * Jacob begate Judas and his brethren. * Judas begate Phares and Zaram of Thamar. * Phares begate Ezrom, * Ezrom begate Aram. * Aram begat Aminadab. * Aminadab begate Naasson, * Naasson begat Salmon. * Salmon begat Boos of Rahab. * Boos begate Obed of Ruth. * Obed begat Jesse. * Jesse begat Dauid the king. * Dauid the king begate Salomon, of her that was the wife of Vrie. * Salomon begat Roboam. * Roboam begat Abia. * Abia begat Asa. * Asa begat Josaphat. * Josaphat begat Joram. * Joram begat Osias. * Osias begat Joatham. * Joathā begat Achas, * Achas begate Ezechias, * Ezechias begat Manasses. * Manasses begat Amon. * Amon begat Josias. * Josias begat Joachin. * Joachin begat Jechonias and his brethren, about the time they were caried away to Babilon. And after they were brought to Babilon, * Jechonias begate Salathiel. * Salathiel begat Zorobabel. * Zorobabel begat Abiud. * Abiud begat Eliachim. * Eliachim begat Azor. Azor begat Sador. Sador begat Achin. Achin begat Eliud. Eliud begat Eleazar. Eleazar begat Matthan. Matthan begate Jacob. Jacob begate Joseph the husbande of Marie, of whome was borne Jesus, euen he that is called Christe.

And to all the generations from Abraham to Dauid, are fourtene generations. And frō Dauid vnto the captiuitie of Babilon, are fourtene generations. And from the captiuitie of Babilon vnto Christe, are fourtene generations.

The birth of Jesus Christe was on this wise. When his mother Marie was maried to Joseph (before they came to dwell together) she was founde with childe by the holie ghost. Then Joseph her husbande (because he was a righteous man, and would not put her to shame) he was minded priuelie to depart from her. But while he thus thought, behold, the aungel of the LORD appeared vnto him in a dreame, saying: Joseph, thou sonne of Dauid: feare not to take vnto thee Marie thy wife. For that which is conceiued in her, commeth of the holie ghost. She shal bring forth a sonne, and thou shalt call his name * JESVS. For he shal saue his people from their sinnes.

All this was done that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lorde by the Prophet, saying: * Beholde, a maide shall be with childe, and shal bring forth a sonne, and they shall call his name Emanuel, which is a man enterprete it is as much as to say, as God with vs.

And Joseph awoke as he awoke out of sleepe, did as the aungel of the Lord had bidde him: & he toke his wife vnto him, & knew her not, till she had brought forth * her first begotten sonne, and called his name Jesus.

The. ij. Chapiter.

WHen Jesus was borne at Bethleem a citie of Jurie, in the time of Herode the king: Behold, there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, saying: Where is he that is borne king of Iewes? For we haue seene his * starre in the east, and are come to worship him. When Herode the king had heard these tidinges, he was troubled, and all the citie of Jerusalem with him. And when he had gathered all the chiefe priestes & scribes of the people together, he demaunded of them where Christ should be borne. And they saied vnto him: At Bethleem in Jurie. For thus it is written by the Prophete. * And thou Bethleem in the lande of Juda, art not the least emong the Princes of Juda. For * out of the shall there come vnto me the capitaine, that shall gouerne my people Israel. Then Herode (when he had priuelie called the wise men) he enquired of them diligentlie what time the starre appered, and he bade them go to Bethleem, and saied: Go your waie thither, and searche diligently for the childe. And when ye haue founde him, bring me word againe, that I maie come and worshippe him also. When they had heard the king, they departed: and loe, the starre which they sawe in the east, went before them, till it came and stode ouer the place, where the childe was. When they sawe the starre, they were exceadyng gladde: and went into the house, & found the childe with Marie his mother, * and fell downe flatte and worshipped him, and opened their treasures, and offered vnto him giftes, golde, frankincence, and myrre. And after they were warned of God in sleepe (that they should not go againe to Herode) they returned into their owne countrey another waie. When they were departed, beholde the aungell of the Lorde appeared to Joseph in sleepe, saying: arise, and take the childe and his mother and flie into Egipt: and be thou there till I bring the worde. For it will come to passe that Herode shall seke the childe to destroye him. So when he awoke, he toke the childe and his mother by night, and departed into Egipt, and was there vnto the death of Herode, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lorde by the prophet, saying:

* out of Egipt haue I called my sonne. Then Herode when he saw that he was mocked of the wise men, he was exceadyng wrothe, and sent foorthe men of warre, and slewe all the children that were in Bethlem, and in al the coastes (as many as were two yere olde and vnder) accordyng to the time, whiche he had diligentlie knowen of the wise men. Then was fulfilled that which was spoken by the Prophet Jeremie: where he saieth: in Rama was there a voyce heard, * lamentation, weepyng, and great mourning. Rachel weepyng for her children, and would not be comforted because thei were not. ¶ But when Herode was deade: behold, ✠ an aungel of the Lorde appeared in a sleepe to Joseph in Egipt, saiyng: arise, and take the child and his mother and go into the lande of Israel, * for thei are deade whiche sought the childes life. And he arose, and toke the childe and his mother and came into the lande of Israell. But when he hearde that Archelaus did reigne in Jurie, in the rowme of his father Herode, he was afrayed to go thither. Notwithstanding after he was warned of God in a sleape, he turned aside into the parties of Galile, and went and dwelte in a citie whiche is called Nazareth: that it might be fulfilled whiche was spoken by the Prophetes: he shall be called a Nazarite. ✠

The iii. Chapt. ✠

In those dayes came John the * Baptist, preachyng in the wildernesse of Jurie, & saiyng: Repēt of the life that is past, for the kingdome of heauen is at hande. * For this is he of whō the Prophet Esaie spake, whē he saieth: * The voyce of a crier in the wildernesse, prepare the waie of the Lorde: and make his pathes straight. This John had his raiment of Camels heare, * and a girdle of a skynne about his loynes. * His meate was locustes and * wilde honie. Then went out to him Hierusalem and all Jurie, and all the region rounde about Jordane, and were baptised of him in Jordane, confessyng their sinnes. But when he saw manie of the Pharisees and Saduces come to his baptisme, he saied vnto them: * O generatiō of vipers who hath taught you to flie frō the vengaūce to come? Bring foorth therfore the fruites that belong to repentaunce. And be not of suche minde that ye would saie within your selues: we haue Abraham to our father. For I saie to you, that God is able to bringe to passe, that of these stones there shal rise vp children vnto Abraham. And now is the axe also put vnto the rote of the trees: so that * euery tree which bringeth not forth good fruite is hewē downe, and cast into the fire. I baptise you in water * vnto repentaunce: but he that shall come after me, is mightier then I, whose shoes I am not worthy to beare. He shal baptise you with the holie ghost, & with fire * whose fan is in his hād, & he wil purge his floore, & gather his wheat into the barne but wil burne the chaffe with vnquenchable fire. ✠ Then cometh Jesus from Galile to Jordane vnto John, * to be baptised of him. But John forbade him, saiyng: I haue nede to be baptised of the: and cōmest thou to me? Jesus answered and saied vnto him: Let it be so now. For thus it becometh vs to fulfill all righteousnesse. Then he suffred him.

And Jesus when he was baptised, came straight waie out of the water. And lo, * heauen was open vnto him: & he sawe the spirite of God, descending like a doue, and lighting vpon him. And lo, there came a voice frō heauen, saiyng: * This is my beloued sonne in whom I am well pleased. ✠

Then was Jesus * led awaie of the spirite into wildernes: to be tempted of the deuil. And when he had fasted foxtie daies & foxtie nightes, he was at the last an hongred. And whē the tempter came to him, he saied: if thou be the sonne of God, commaunde that these stones be made breade. But he answered and saide: it is writte, * man shal not liue by breade onely, but by euery woorde that proceadeth out of the mouth of God. Then the deuil taketh him vp into the holie Citie, and setteth him on a pinacle of the temple, and saieth vnto him: if thou be the sonne of God, cast thy selfe downe headlyng. For it is writte: * He shal geue his aungelles charge ouer the, and with their handes thei shal holde the vp, lest at ani time thou dashe thy fote against a stone. And Jesus saied to him: it is written againe: * Thou shalt not tempt the Lorde thy God.

Againe, the deuil taketh him vp into an exceadyng high mountaine, and sheweth him all the kingdomes of the woride, and the glorye of them, and saieth vnto him: all these will I geue the, if thou wilt fall downe and worship me. Then saieth Jesus vnto him: Auoide Satan. For it is written: * Thou shalt worship the Lorde thy God, and him onely shalt thou serue. Then the deuil leaueth him, & behold, * the aungell came and ministred vnto him. ¶ ✠ When Jesus had heard * that John was taken, he departed into Galile, and left Nazareth, & went & dwelt at Capernaum: which is a citie vpon the sea coast, in the borders of Zabulon & Nepthalim, that it might be fulfilled whiche was spoken by Esai the Prophet, saiyng: * The lande of Zabulon & Nepthalim, by the waie of the sea beyond Jordane Galile of the Gentiles: the people whiche sate in darkenes, and in the shadowe of death sawe great light: & to thē whiche sate in the Region and shadowe of death, is the light sprange vp. From that time Jesus began to preache, and to saie. Repent, for the kingdome of heauen is at hande. And Iesus walked by the sea of Galile, he sawe .ii. brethren: Simon whiche was called Peter, and Andrew his brother, castyng a nette into the sea, (for they were fishers) and he saieth vnto them: Folowe me, & I will make you to become fishers of men. And they straightwaie left the nettes, and folowed him. And when he was gone forthe thence, he sawe other two brethren, Iames the sonne of Zebede, and Iohn his brother, in the ship with Zebedee their father, mendyng their nettes, and he called them. And they immediatly * left the shippe & their father, & folowed him. And Iesus went about al Galile, teachyng in their synagogs, and preachyng the gospel of the kingdome, & healyng all maner of sickenes, and all maner of disease emong the people. And his fame spreade abroade throughout all Syria. And they brought vnto him all sicke people that were take with diuers diseases & gripings, and them that were possessed with deuils: & those that were lunatike, and those that had the palsie: & he healed them. And there folowed him great multitudes of people, from Galile, & from the ten cities, and frō Ierusalem, and from Iurie, and from the regiōs that lie beyond Iordane. The .v. Chapt.

When he saw the people, he went vp into a mountaine, and when he was set, his disciples came to him, & after that he had opened his mouthe, he taught them, saiyng: Blessed are the poore in spirite, for theirs is the kingdome of heauē. Blessed are they that mourne: for they shall receiue cōfort. Blessed are the meke: for they shall receiue the enheritaunce of the earth. Blessed are they which * hunger and thirste after righteousnesse: for they shalbe satisfied. Blessed are the merciful for they shal obteine mercy. Blessed are the pure in hert: for they shal se god. Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of god. Blessed are they which suffer persecution for righteousnes sake: for theirs is the kingdome of heauen. * Blessed are ye when men reuile you, and persecute you, and shall falsely saie all maner of euill saiyng against you, for my sake. * Reioyce & be glad, for great is your reward in heauen. For so persecuted they the Prophetes, whiche were before you. Ye are the salt of the earth. * But if the salte haue lost the saltnes, wherwith shalbe seasoned therwith? It is thenceforth good for nothyng but to be cast out, and to be troden downe of men. Ye are the light of the world. A citie that is set on a hill, can not be hid, * neither do men light a candle, and put it vnder a bushell, but on a candelsticke, and it geueth light vnto all that are in the house. Let your light so shine before men, * that they may se your good workes, and glorifie your father which is in heauen.

Think not that I am come to destroye the lawe, or the Prophetes: no, I am not come to destroye, but * to fulfill. For truly I saie vnto you: * till Heauen and earth passe, one iotte, or one title of the lawe shall not escape, till all be fulfilled. Whosoeuer therefore breaketh * one of these least commaundementes, and teacheth men so, he shall be called the least in the kingdome of heauen. But whosoeuer dothe and teacheth, the same shalbe called great in the kingdome of heauē. For I saie vnto you, * except your righteousnesse excede the righteousnesse of the Scribes and Phariseis, ye cannot enter into the kingdome of heauen. Ye haue heard that it was said vnto them of old time. * Thou shalt not kyll: whosoeuer killeth shall be in daunger of iudgement. But I saie vnto you, that whosoeuer is angrye with his brother (vnaduisedly) shalbe in daunger of iudgemēt. And whosoeuer saieth vnto his brother Racha, shalbe in daunger of a counsel. But whosoeuer saieth, thou foole, shall be in daunger of hell fire. Therefore, if thou offrest thy gift at the aultare, and there remembrest that thy brother hath ought against thee: leaue there thine offeryng before the aultare * and go thy waie first, and be reconciled to thy brother, and then come & offer thi gift. Agree with thine aduersarye quickelye whiles thou art in the waie with him, least at any time the aduersarie deliuer thee to the Iudge, and the Iudge deliuer thee to the minister, and then thou be cast into prison. Verely, I saie vnto thee: thou shalt not come out thence, till thou haue paied the vtmoste farthyng. Ye haue heard that it was said vnto them of olde time: Thou shalt not commit aduoutrye. But I saye vnto you, * that whosoeuer loketh on an other mans wife to lust after her, hath committed aduoutry with her already in his hert. * If thy right eye hinder the, pluck him out, and cast him frō the. For better it is for thee, that one of thy membres perishe, then that thy whole bodie should be cast into hell. And if thy right hād hinder the, cut him of, and cast him from the. For better it is vnto the, that one of thy membres perishe, then that all thy body should be cast into hell. It is said, whosoeuer putteth away his wife, * let him geue her a letter of diuorcemente. * But I saie vnto you: that whosoeuer doth put away his wife (except it be for fornication) causeth her to breake matrimonie. And whosoeuer marieth her that is diuorced, committeth aduoutry. Againe, ye haue heard how it was said to them of olde time: * thou shalt not forsweare thy selfe, but shalt performe vnto the Lord thine othes. But I saie vnto you, sweare not at all: neither by heauen, * for it is Goddes seate, nor by the earth, for it is his fotestole: neither by Hierusalem: for it is the citie of the great king: neither shalte thou sweare by thy heade, because thou canste not make one heare white or blacke. But your communication shal be: yea, yea: naye, naye. For whatsoeuer is added more then these, it cometh of euil.

Ye haue heeard that it is saied: * an eye for an eye, and a tothe for a tothe. But I saie vnto you, that ye resist not euill. But * whosoeuer shall geue the a blow on the right cheke, turne to him the other also. And if any man will sue the at the lawe, and take away thy coate: let him haue thy cloke also. And whosoeuer wyl compell the to go a mile: go with him twaine. Geue to him that axeth thee, and from him that would borowe, turne not thou awaye.

Ye haue heard that it is saied, * thou shalt loue thy neighboure, and hate thine enemye. But I saie vnto you: loue your enemies, Blesse them * whiche curse you. * Do good to them that hate you. Pray for them whiche hurt you, and persecute you, that ye maye be the children of your father which is in heauen: for he maketh his sunne to arise on the euil, and on the good, and sendeth rayne on the iust, and on the vniust. For * if ye loue them whiche loue you: what rewarde haue ye? Do not the Publicans also euen the same? And if ye make muche of your brethren onely, what singuler thing do ye? Do not also the Publicans likewise. * Ye shall therefore be perfect, euen as your father whiche is in heauen is perfecte.

Take hede that ye geue not your almes in the sight of men, to the intent that ye would be seene of them. Or els you haue no rewarde with your father which is in heauen. Therefore, whe thou geuest thine almes, let not trumpets be blowne before the, as the ypocrites do in the Synagoges, and in the stretes: for to be praised of men. Verely I saye vnto you, they haue their rewarde. But when thou wilt geue almes, let not thy lefte hande know what thy right hande doth, that thine almes may be in secrete, and thy father whiche seeth in secrete, shall rewarde the openly. And when thou prayest * thou shalt not be as the ypocrites are. For they loue to stande prayng in the Synagoges, and in the corners of the stretes, that they may be seene of menne. Verely I saye vnto you: they haue their rewarde. But when thou prayest * entre into thy chamber, and when thou hast shutte thy dore, praye to thy father which is in secrete, and thy father whiche seeth in secrete shall rewarde the openly. But when ye pray, * bable not much, as the Heathen do: for they thinke it will come to passe that they shal be hearde for their much babblinge sake. Be not ye therefore like vnto them. * For your father knoweth what thinges ye haue nede of, before ye aske of him. After this maner therefore praye ye. * Our father whiche art in heauen, halowed be thy name. Let thy kingdome come. Thy will be fulfilled as well in earth, as it is in heauen. Geue vs this daye our dayely bread. And forgeue vs our debtes, as we forgeue our debters. And lead vs not into temptation, But deliuer vs from euil. For thine is the kingdome, and the power, and the glorye for euer, Amen. Therefore * if ye forgeue other men their trespaces, your heauenly father shall forgeue you your trespaces. But if ye wil not forgeue men their trespaces, no more shal your father forgeue you your trespaces.

Moreouer when ye fast, be not sad as the ypocrites are. For they disfigure their faces that it may appeare vnto men, how that they fast. Verely I saye vnto you, they haue their rewarde. But thou, when thou fastest, anoynte thy heade and washe thy face, that it appeare not vnto men how that thou fastest: but vnto thy father, which is in secrete, and thy father whiche seeth in secrete, shall rewarde the openly. Lay not vp for your selues treasure vpon earth, where rust and mothe dothe corrupt, and where theues breake thoroughe and steale. * But lay vp for you treasure in heauen, where neither rust nor mothe dothe corrupt, and where theues do not breke thorow nor steale. For where your treasure is, there will your hert be also. * The light of the bodye is the eye. Wherefore if thine eye be single, al thy body shal be full of light. But & if thine eye be wicked, all thy body shal be ful of darkenes. Wherefore if the light that is in the, be darkenesse, howe greate is the darkenes! * No man can serue two maisters. For either he shal hate the one and loue the other: or els leane to the one, and despise the other: ye can not serue God and Mammon.

Therefore I saie vnto you: * be not careful for your life, what ye shall eate or drinke, nor yet for your bodye, what rayment ye shal put on. Is not the life more worthe then meate and the bodye more of valure then rayment? Beholde the fowles of the ayre: for they sowe not, neither do they reape, nor carye into the barnes: and your heauenly father fedeth the. Are ye not much better then they? * Whiche of you (by takyng carefull thought) can adde one cubite vnto his stature? And why care ye for rayment? Consider the lilies of the felde, howe they growe. They labour not, neither do they spinne. And yet I saye vnto you, that euen Salomon in al his royalte was not arayed like one of these. Wherefore if God so cloth the grasse of the felde (which though it standeth to daye, is to morowe cast into the furnasse) shall he not much more do the same for you, O ye of little faieth? Therfore, *whatsoeuer ye wolde that men should do to you: do ye euen so to them also. For this is the lawe and the Prophetes.

Enter in at the straight gate: for wide is the gate, and broade is the waye that leadeth to destruction: and many there be which go in therat. But straight is the gate, and narow is the way whiche leadeth vnto life, and few there be that finde it. ✠ *Beware of false prophetes, which come to you in sheepes clothing, but inwardly they are rauenyng wolues. Ye shal know them by their fruites. *Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figges of thistles? Euen so, euerye good tree bringeth forth good fruites. But a corrupte tree, bringeth forth euil fruites. *A good tree can not bring forth bad fruite: neither can a bad tree bring forth good fruites. *Euery tree that bringeth not forth good fruite, is hewen downe, and cast into the fire. Wherefore by their fruites ye shall know them. Not euerye one that saieth vnto me, *Lord, Lord, shal enter into the kingdome of heauen, but he that dothe the will of my father which is in heauen. He shall enter into the kyngdome of heauen. ✠ Many will saie to me in that day: Lord, Lord, haue we not prophecied through thy name? *And through thy name haue cast out Deuils? And done many myracles through thy name? And then will I knowledge vnto them: I neuer knewe you, *Depart fro me, ye that worke iniquitie.

For whosoeuer heareth of me these wordes, and dothe the same, I will liken him vnto a wise man *which builte his house vpon a rocke, and a mower of rayne descended, and the flodes came, and the windes blewe, & beate vpō that house, and it fell not, because it was grounded on the rocke. And euery one that heareth of me these wordes *and dothe them not, shall be likened vnto a folishe man, which builte his house vpon sande: and a mower *of rayne descended, and the flodes came, and the windes blewe, & beate vpō that house, and it fell, and great was the fal of it.

And it came to passe, that whe Iesus had ended these sayinges, the people were astonied at his doctrine. *For he taught them as one hauyng power, and not as the Scribes & Pharisees them, and the Pharisees.

The.viii. Chapter.

When he was come downe fro the mountayne, muche people followed him. And beholde, *there came a Leper, and worshipped him, saiyng: Maister, if thou wilte, thou canst make me cleane. And Iesus put forthe his hand, and touched him, saiyng: I will, be thou cleane, and immediatly his leprosy was cleansed. And Iesus saieth vnto him: see thou tel no man, *but go and shew thy selfe to the priestes, and offer thy gifte (that Moses commaunded to be offred) for a witnes vnto thē.

✠ And when Iesus was entred into Capernaum, there came vnto him a Centurion, and besought him, saiyng: Maister, my seruaunt lieth at home sicke of the palsye, & is grieuously pained. And Iesus saieth: When I come vnto him, I will heale him. The Centurion answered and saied: Syr, I am not worthye that thou shouldest come vnder my roofe: but *speake the woorde onelye, and my seruaunt shall be healed. For I also my selfe am a man subiect to the authoritie of an other, and haue souldiours vnder me, & I saie vnto this man: go, and he goeth: & vnto another: come, and he cometh, & to my seruaunt do this, and he doeth it.

When Iesus hearde these wordes, he marueiled: and saied to them that followed him: Verely I say vnto you: I haue not founde so great faieth in Israel. I saye vnto you: that *many shall come from the East and West, and shall reste with Abraham, and Isaac, and Iacob in the kingdome of Heauen: but the children of the kingdome shall be cast out into vtter darkenesse: there shalbe wepyng and gnashyng of teeth. And Jesus saied vnto the Centurion: go thy waie and as thou beleuest, so be it vnto thee. And his seruaunte was healed in the selfe same houre. ¶ And when Jesus was come into Peters house, he sawe his wiues mother lyyng in bedde, and sicke of a feuer, And he touched her hande, and the feuer left her: & she arose, & ministred vnto them. When the euen was come, they brought vnto him many that were possessed with deuils. And he cast out the spirites with a worde, and healed all that were sicke, that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by Esaie the Prophete, when he saieth: *He toke on him our infirmities, and bare our sicknes. When Jesus sawe muche people about him, he commaunded that they shoulde go vnto the other side of the water. And a certaine Scribe (when he was come) saied vnto him: *Maister, I will folow the, whither soeuer thou goest. And Jesus saieth vnto him: the foxes haue holes, and the birdes of the ayre haue nestes: but the sonne of man hath not where to rest his head. And another of the number of his disciples saied vnto him: *Maister, suffer me first to go and burye my father. But Jesus saied vnto him: Folow me, and let the deade bury their dead. ¶ And when he entred into a shippe, his disciples folowed him. And beholde, *there arose a great tempest in the Sea, insomuche that the shippe was couered with waues, but he was a sleape. And his disciples came to him, and awoke him, saiyng: Maister, saue vs, we perishe. And he saieth vnto them: why are ye fearefull, O ye of little faieth? Then he arose and rebuked the windes and the sea and there folowed a great calme. But the men marueiled, saiyng: What maner of manne is this, that both windes and sea obey hym? ¶ *And when he was come to the other side, into the countrey of the Gergesites, there met him two possessed of deuils, which came oute of the graues, and were oute of measure fierce, so that no man might go by that way. And beholde, they cried out, saiyng: O Jesu, thou sonne of God, what haue we to doe with thee? Art thou come hither to torment vs before our time? And there was a good way from them a hearde of many Swine, feedyng. So the deuils besought him, saiyng: If thou cast vs out, suffer vs to go our way into the heard of swyne. And he saied vnto them: go your waies. Then went they out, & departed into the heard of Swyne. And beholde, the whole heard of swyne was caried headlong into the sea, and perished in the waters. Then they that kept them fledde, & went their waies into the citie, & tolde euery thing and what had fortuned vnto the possessed of the deuils. And beholde, the whole citie came out to mete Jesus, and when they sawe him, *they besought him that he woulde departe out of their coastes.

He entred also into a shippe, and passed ouer, and came into his owne citye. & beholde, *they brought to him a man sicke of the palsye, lyyng in a bedde. And when Jesus sawe the faieth of the, he saied vnto the sicke of the palsie: Sonne, be of good cheare, thy sinnes be forgeuen the. And beholde: certaine of the Scribes saied within them selues: this man blasphemeth. And when Jesus sawe their thoughtes, he saied: Wherefore thinke ye euil in your hertes? Whether is easier to saye, thy sinnes be forgeuen the, or to saye, arise and walke? But that ye maie know, that the sonne of man hath power to forgeue sinnes in earth. Then saith he vnto the sicke of the palsye: *arise, take vp thy bedde, and go vnto thine house. And he arose, and departed to his house. But the people that sawe it, marueyled, and glorified God, which he hadde geuen such power vnto men. ¶ And as Jesus passed forth from thence, he sawe a man (named Mathew) sittyng at the receipt of custome, and he saith vnto him: folow me. And he arose, & folowed him. And it came to passe as Jesus sate at meate in his house: behold, many publicans also and sinners that came, sate downe with Jesus and his disciples. And when the Phariseis sawe it, they saied vnto his disciples: why eateth your maister with publicans and sinners? But when Jesus heard that, he saied vnto them: They that be stronge nede not the Phisicion, but they that are sicke. Go ye rather and learne what that meaneth. *I will haue mercy and not sacrifice. For I am not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentaunce. ¶ Then came the disciples of John vnto him, saiyng: Why dooe we and the Phariseis fast oft, but thy disciples fast not? And Jesus saied vnto the: can the bridegromes chil dren mourne as longe as the bridegrome is with them? But the dayes will come, when the bridegrome shalbe taken from them, and then shall they fast. No man putteth a pece of newe cloth in an olde garment. For then taketh he the pece from the garment, and the rente is made worse. Neither do men put newe wyne into olde bottels: els the bottels breake, & the wine runeth out, and the bottels perish. But they put newe wine into new bottels, & both are saued together. ¶ While he thus spake vnto them, *behold, there came a certain ruler, & worshipped him, saiyng: my daughter is euen now diseased, but come and laye thy hand vpon her, and she shall liue. And Jesus arose, & folowed him, and (so did) his disciples. And beholde, a womanne which was diseased with an issue of bloude

Marke, vi. b Luke. vi. d

And whā he* xii. disciples were called vnto him, he gaue them power againste vncleane spirites, to cast them out, and to heale al maner of sicknes, & al maner of diseace. The names of the. xii. Apostles are these. The first, Simō which is called Peter: and Andrewe his brother: James the sonne of zebede, & John his brother: Philip & Bartholomew: Thomas & Mathew, which had ben a Publican: James the son of Alphe, & Lebbeus (whose surname was Taddeus) Simon of Canaā, and Judas Iscariotch, whiche also betrayed hym. * These sent he forth, these twelue in numbre, whom he cōmanded, sayenge: Go not into the way of the Gentyls, & into the citie of the Samaritās entre ye not. But go rather to the lost shepe of the house of Israel. Go & preache sayeng: The kingdō of heauen is at hande. Heale the sicke, clense the lepzous, raise the dead, cast out deuils. * Freely ye haue receaued: geue freely. Gette ye not gold nor syluer nor braase in your purses, nor yet scrip towardes your iorney: neither two cotes, neither shoes, nor yet a rod. * For the worke mā is worthy of his meat. But in whatsoeuer citie or towne ye shal come, enquire who is worthy in it, & ther abide til ye go thence. * And when ye come into a house, salute the same. And yf the house be worthy, let youre peace come vpō it, but yf it be not worthie, let your peace retourne to you againe. And whosoeuer shall not receaue you, nor wyll heare your preachinge: when ye depart out of that house or that citie * shake of the dust of your fete. Verely I say vnto you: It shalbe easyer for the lāde of Sodoma & Gomorra in the day of iudgement, then for that sytye. * Behold, I sende you forth, as shepe amōg wolues. Be ye therfore wyse as serpentes, & innocent as doues. * But beware of men, for they shal delyuer you vp to the coūsels, and shal scourge you in their synagoges. And ye shalbe brought to the heade rulers, & kynges, for my sake, in witnes to them & to the gentils. But * when they deliuer you vp, take ye no thought, how or what ye shall speake: * for it shal be geuen you, euen in that same houre what ye shal speake. For it is not ye that speake, but the spirite of youre father which speaketh in you. * The brother shal deliuer vp the brother to death, & the father the sonne. And the children shal ryse against their fathers & mothers, & shal put them to death: & ye shalbe hated of all men for my names sake. * But he that endureth to the ende, shalbe saued. But * when they persecute you in this citie, flye ye into another. For verely I saye vnto you: ye shal not go throwe al the cities of Israel til the sonne of mā be come. * The disciple is not aboue the master: nor the seruaunt aboue his Lorde. It is ynough for the disciple, that he be as his master is, & that the seruaunt be as his Lord is. If they haue called the Lord of the house, Belzebub: how much more shall they cal them of his householde? For feare them not therefore. * For there is nothing clos, that shal not be opened: and nothing hid, that shall not be knowen. What I tell you in darknes, that speake ye in lyght. And what ye heare in the eare, that preache ye on the house toppes. * And feare ye not them which kyl the body, but are not able to kyl the soule. The xi. Chap.

And it came to passe, that when Jesus had made an ende of cōmanding his twelue disciples, he departed thēce, to teach & to preach in their cities. * When Jhō being in prison hearde the workes of Christ, he sent two of his disciples, and said vnto him: Art thou he that shal come: or do we loke for another? Jesus answered & said vnto them: Go, and shewe Jhō again, what ye haue heard & sene. * The blind receiue their syght: the lame walke, the lepers are clensed: & the deaf heare, the deade are raised vp, & the poore * receiue the glad ti-dinges of the Gospel. And happy is he, that is not offended by me. * And as they departed, Jesus began to say vnto the people concerning Jhō. What went ye out into the wildernes to see? A reed that is shake with the wind?
But what went ye out for to se, a man clothed in soft raiment? Behold: they that weare softe clothing, are in kinges houses. But what went ye out for to see? a Prophet: Verely I say vnto you: & more then a prophet. For this is he of whō it is written: * Behold, I sende my messenger before thy face, which shal prepare amōg them that are borne of wemen, arose not a greater then Jhō the Baptist. Notwithstāding he that is lesser in the kingdō of heuen is greater then he. * For the daies of John Baptist, vntil this day, the kingdō of heuen suffereth violence, & the violent plucke it vnto them.

* For all the prophetes & the law it tolde propheci vnto Jhō. And * if ye will receiue it, this is Helias, which he was for to come. * He that hath eares to heare, let him heare. * But wher vnto shal I liken this generaciō? It is like vn to childrē, which sit in the market places, & cal vnto their felowes, & say: we haue piped vn to you, & ye haue not daūced: We haue mourned vnto you, & ye haue not folowed. For Johan cam neither eating nor drinking, & thei say, he hath the deuil. The son of man cam eatinge & drinking, & thei say: behold a glutto, & an vn mesurable drincker of wyne: & a frende vnto publicans & sinners. And wisedō is iustified of her children. * Then began he to vpbraid the cities wherin moost of his miracles were done in: because they repented not of their sin nes. * Wo vnto the Chorazin: Wo vnto the Bethsaida: for if the miracles which were werked in you had ben done in the cities of Tyre & Sidō, thei had repented of their sinnes long agone, in sackecloth & ashes. Neuertheles I which haue bene done in the, had bene shewed in sodō: thei had remained vntil this day. Ne-uertheles, I say vnto you: that it shalbe easier for the land of sodō in the day of iugemēt, then for the. * At that time Jesus answered & said: I thanke the O father, Lord of heuen & erth, because thou hast hid these thinges frō the wise & prudent, & hast shewed them vnto babes: Verely father, euen so was it thy good pleasure. * All thinges are geuen ouer vnto me of my father. And no man knoweth the sonne but the father: neither knoweth any man the fa ther, saue the son, & he to whō soeuer the sonne wil open him. Come vnto me al ye that labour & are laden, & I wil ease you. * Take my yocke vpō you, & learne of me, for I am meke & lowly in hert: & ye shal fynde rest vnto your soules.

For my yocke is easy, * & my burden is light.

foyse, yet ye will not what this meneth * I require mercy & not sacrifice: ye wold not have condemned innocentes. For the sonne of man also is Lord even of the Sabboth day. And he departed thence, & went into their synagoge. And behold, ther was a man which had his honde dried up. And they asked him, saying: * Is it lawful to heale upō the Sabboth daies? that they might accuse him. And he said unto them: which of you will it be, that have * a shepe, & it fal into a pit on the Sabboth day, will he not take it, & lift it out? How much more then is a man better then a shepe? Wherefore it is lefal to do a good dede on the Sabboth daies. Then saith he to the man, Stretch forth thy hād. And he stretched it forth. And it was restored unto helth, like as the other. * Then the Pharises went out, & held a counsel against him, how they might destroy him. But when Jesus knew it, he departed thence, & much people followed him, & he healed them al, & charged them that they should not make him knowen: that it might be fulfilled which he was spoken by Esai the prophet, which saith: * Behold, my child, whō I have chosen, my beloved, in whō my soule delyteth. I wil put my spirit upō him, and he shal shew iugemēt to the gētils. He shal not striue nor crie, neither shal any man heare his voyce in the stretes: a bruised rede shal he not breake, & smoking flaxe shal he not quench, til he lede forth iudgement unto victorie, & in his name shal the gentils trust. * Then was brought to him a blinde & dome man, that was vexed with a deuil, & he healed him, insomuch, that the blinde & dome, both spake & sawe. And al the people were amased, & said: Is not this the son of David? But when the Pharises heard it, they said: This felow driueth the deuils no nother wise out, but by the help of Belzebub the chefe of the deuils. But when Jesus knew their thoughtes, he said unto them: Every kingdō deuided against it self, shalbe brought to nought. And every citie or house deuided against it self, shal not stande. And if Satan cast out Satan, then is he deuided against him self. How shal then his kingdō endure? Also if I by the help of Belzebub cast out deuils, by whose helpe do your children cast them out? Therefore they shalbe your iudges. But if I cast out the deuils by the spirit of God, then is the kingdō of God come unto you. Or else * how can one enter into a strōg mannes house, & spoile his Jewels, except he first bind the strōg mā, & then spoile his house? * He that is not with me, is against me. And he that gathereth not with me, scattereth abrode. Wherefore, I say unto you, al manner of syn & blasphemy shalbe forgeuen unto men * but the blasphemy against the spirit, shal not be forgeuen unto men. * And whosoeuer speaketh a word against the sonne of man, it shalbe forgeuen him. But whosoeuer speketh against the holi goost, it shal not be forgeuen him, neither in this world, neither in the worlde to come. * Either make the tree good, & his frute good: or else make the tree euil, & his frute euil. * For the tree is knowen by his frute. O generacion of vipers, how can ye speake good thinges, when ye your selues are euil? * For out of the abondaūce of the heart, the mouth speaketh. A good man out of the good treasure of the hert, bringeth forth good thinges. And an euyl man, out of the euil treasure, bringeth forth euil thinges. But I saye unto you, of euery idel worde that men shal speken, they shal geue accōpte for it in the day of iudgement. * For out of thy wordes thou shalt be iustified: & out of thy wordes thou shalt be cōdemned. * Then certaine of the Scribes, & of the Pharises asked him, saying: * Master, we wil se a signe of the. But he answered & said to them. * The euel & adulterous generacion * seketh a signe, & ther shal no signe be geuen to them, but the signe of the prophet Jonas. * For as Jonas was three daies, and three nightes in the whales belly, so shal the son of mā be three daies, & three nightes in the hert of the erth. The men of Ninive shal rise in the iudgement with this nacion, & condemne it, because * they amended at the preaching of Jonas. Behold here is one greater then Jonas. * The quene of the South shal rise in the iudgement with this generacion, & shal condemne it: for she came frō the vtmost partes of the world to heare the wisdō of Salomō. And behold in this place is one greater then Salomō. * When the vnclene spirit is gone out of a mā, he walketh through out drie places, seking rest, & findeth none. Then he saieth: I wil returne into my house, frō whēce I cam out. And when he is come, he findeth it empty & swept, & garnished. Then goeth he, & taketh unto him seuen other spirites worse then him selfe, & so entreth he in, & dwelleth there. And * the ende of that man is worse then the beginning. Euē so shal it be also unto this frowarde generacion. Whyle he yet talked to the people: * behold, his mother, & his brethrē stode without desiring to speake with him. Then one said unto him: behold, * thy mother, & thy brethren stande without, desiring to speake with thee. But he answered, & said unto him that had told him: Who is my mother? or who are my brethren? And he stretched forth his hande toward his disciples, and said: * Behold, my mother and my brethrē. For whosoeuer doth the wil of my father which is in heauen, the same is my brother, syster, and mother.

The xiii. Chapter.

THe same day went Jesus out of the house, * and sat by the sea side, and much people were gathered together unto him, so greatly that he went, and sat in a shippe, and all the people stode on the shore. And he spake many thinges to them by similitudes, saying: Behold, holde, the fowes went forth to sowe. And whē he sowed, some seedes fell by the wayes syde, & the fowles came & deuoured them vp. Some fell vpō stony places, where they had not much earth, & anone they sprōge vp, because they had not depnesse of earth: & when the sunne was vp, they caught heat, & because they had no rote, they wydred awaye. Again, some fell amōg thornes, & the thornes sprunge vp & choaked them. But some fell in to good grou̇d, & brought forth fruite: some an hundred folde, some sixtie folde, some thirtie folde. Whosoeuer hath eares to heare, let him heare. And the disciples came, & said vnto him: Why speakest thou to them in parables? He answered & said vnto them: * it is geuen vnto you to know the secretes of the kingdō of heauen, but vnto them it is not geuen. * For whosoeuer hath, to him shal be geuen, & he shal haue abondaunce. But whosoeuer hath not, frō him shalbe taken awaye euen that also whiche he hath. Therefore speake I to them by similitudes: for they seinge, se not: & hearing, they heare not, neither do they vnderstande. And in them is fulfylled the Prophecie of Esaias, whiche saieth: * with the eares ye shal heare, & shal not vnderstande: & seynge, ye shal se, & shall not perceaue: For these peoples heartes is waxed grosse, & their eares are dul of hearinge, & their eyes haue they closed, lest at any tyme they should se with their eyes, & heare with their eares, & should vnderstande with their hert & be cōuerted, that I also might heale them. * But blessed are your eyes, for they se: & your eares, for they heare. Verely I say vnto you, * that many Prophetes & righteous men haue desired to se those thynges, which ye se, & haue not seen them: & to heare those thinges which ye heare, & haue not heard them. * Heare ye therfore the similitude of the sower. Whō one heareth the word of the kingdō, & vnderstādeth it not, then cōmeth the euil man, & taketh away that which was sowen in his hert: this is he, which was sowen by the way syde. But he that receaued the sede which was cast into stony places, the same is he that heareth the word, & anone with ioye receaueth it, yet hath he no roote in him self, but dureth for a season: for whā tribulacio or persecutiō happeneth because of the word, by & by he falleth. He also that receaueth sede into the thornes, is he that heareth the word: & the care of this world, & the deceiptfulnes of riches choke vp the worde, and so is he made vnfruteful. But he that receaueth sede into the good grou̇d is he that heareth the word, & vnderstādeth it: which also beareth frute: & bringeth forth, some an. C. folde, some lxxtie folde, some thirtye folde. Another similitude put he forth vnto them, saying: * The kingdom of heauen is likened vnto a mā, whiche sowed good seed in his felde. But while men slept, his enemy came, & sowed tares amonge the wheate, & went his way. But when the blade was sprongē vp & had brought forth fruite, there appeared the tares also. So the seruauntes of the housholder came, & said vnto him: Sir, diddest not thou sowe good seed in thy felde? frō whence then hath it tares? He said vnto them, the enui⁹ man hath done this. The seruauntes said vnto him: Wilt thou then that we go, & wede them vp? But he said, nay: lest while ye gather vp the tares, ye plucke vp also the wheate with them. Let both grow together vntil the haruest, & in time of haruest, I wil saye to the reapers, gather ye first the tares, & binde them together in sheaues to be brent: but gather the wheate into my barne. * Another parable put he forth vnto them, saying: * The kingdome of heuen is like to a graine of mustard seed, which a man take & sowed in his field, which is the leest of all the seedes. But whē it is growen, it is the greatest amonge herbes, & is a tree: so that the birdes of the aier come, & make their nestes in the braunches therof. Another similitude spake he vnto them: * The kingdō of heauen is like vnto leuen, which a woman taketh and hideth in three peckes of meale, til al be leuened. * All these thinges spake Iesus vnto the people by similitudes, & without a parable spake he nothing vnto them: that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the Prophet, that saieth: * I will open my mouth in parables: I wil speake forth thinges which haue bene kept secrete frō the beginning of the worlde. When the people were sent away, then came Iesus into the house, & * his disciples came vnto him saying: declare vnto vs the parable of the tares of the field. He answered, & said vnto them. He that soweth the good seed is the sonne of mā. The felde is the worlde. And the children of the kingdō, they are the good seed: the tares are the children of the wicked, the enemy that soweth them, is the deuil. The haruest is the ende of the worlde: the reapers be the ángels. Euen as the tares therfore are gathered & brent in the fire: so shal it be in the ende of this world. * The sonne of mā shal sēd forth his angels, and they shal gather out of his kingdō al thinges that offende, & them which do iniquitie: & shal cast them into a fournace of fire. There shalbe wailing & gnasshing of teeth. * Then shal the righteo⁹ shyne as the sūne in the kingdō of their father. Whosoeuer hath eares to heare, let him heare. * Again, the kingdō of heuen is like vnto a treasure hid in the feild, the which a mā hath found & hid: & for ioy therof, goeth & selleth all that he hath, & byeth the felde.

A Marke. iv. a

Agayne, the kyngdō of heauē is lyke vnto a marchaunte man sekynge goodly pearles, which (whē he fouȝde one precious pearle) went and solde al that he had, and bought it.

Agayne, the kyngedō of heauē is lyke vnto a net that was caste into the see & gathered of al kyndes of sydes, which whē it was ful, mē drewe to lād, & sat downe & gathered the good into vessels, but caste the bad awaye. So shal it be at the ende of the worlde. The angels shall come & seuer the bad from amonge the good, & shal cast thē into a furnace of fyre: there shalbe wailing & gnashing of teeth. Iesus saieth vnto them: Haue ye vnderstād al these thinges? They saye vnto him: Yee Lorde. Thē said he vnto them. Therefore euery Scribe whiche is taught vnto the kingdō of heauē, is like vnto a mā that is an housholder, which bringeth forth out of his treasure, thinges newe & olde. And it came to passe that whē Iesus had fynished these symilitudes, he departed thence: And whē he came into his owne coūtrey, he taught thē in their Synagoges, in so much that they were astonyed & said: Whence cometh this wysedō & powers vnto him? is not this the carpēters sonne? Is not his mother called Mary? And his brethre, James & Joses, & Simō & Judas? And are not al his sisters with vs? Whēce hath he then al these thinges. And they were offended at him. Iesus said vnto thē: A prophet is not without honour, saue in his owne countrey, & in his owne house. And he did not many miracles there, because of their vnbelefe.

The. xiiii. Chapter.

At that tyme Herode the Tetrarcha herde of the fame of Iesu, & said vnto his seruātes: this is Johan the Baptist. He is risen frō the dead, & therfore are miracles wrought by him. For Herode had taken John & bōd him, & put him in prisō because of Herodias, his brother Philippes wyfe. For John said vnto him: It is not lawful for the to haue her. And whē he would haue put him to death, he feared the people, because they coūted him as a Prophet. But when Herodes birth daye was kepte, the doughter of Herodias daūsed before thē, and pleased Herode. Wherefore he promysed with an othe, that he would geue her whatsoeuer she wold aske. And she being instruct of her mother before said: Geue me here Jhō Baptistes heade in a platter. And the kynge was sory. Neuertheles, for the others sake, & them which sat also at the table, he cōmanded it to be geuen her: And sent to, & smote of, & beheded John in the prisō, & his head was brought in a platter, and geuen to the dāsel, and she brought it to her mother. And his disciples came and toke vp his body, & buried it: went, and tolde Jesus. When Jesus heard of it, he departed thence in a ship vnto a desert place, out of the waye. And when the people had heard thereof, they folowed him on fote & left the cities. And Jesus wēt forth, and saw much people, and was moued with mercy towarde them, & he healed of thē those that were sicke. And whē the euē drew on, his disciples came to him, saying: This is a desert place, and the houre is now past, let the people depart, that they may go into the townes, & bie them vitayles. But Jesus said vnto thē: They haue no nede to go awaye. Geue ye them to eate. They said vnto him we haue here but. v. loues & two fyshes. He said: Bring them hither to me. And he commaunded the people to syt downe on the grasse, & he toke the. v. loues and the. ii. fyshes, & lyft vp his eyes towarde heauē, & blessed. And whan he had broken thē, he gaue the loaues to his disciples, & his disciples gaue them to the people. And they dyd all eate, & were suffised. And they gathered vp (of the fragmentes that remayned,) xii. baskettes ful. And they that dyd eat, were about. v. M. men, besyde wemen and children. And streight waye Jesus made his disciples to get vp into a ship, and to go before him vnto the other side while he sent the people away. And when the people were sent awaye, he wēt vp into a moūtayne to pray alone. And whē night was come, he was there him selfe alone. But the ship was now in the myddes of the see, and was tost with waues, for it was a cōtrary winde. And in the fourth watch of the night, Jesus went vnto them walkynge on the see. And whē the disciples sawe hym walkynge on the see, they were troubled, saynge: It is some spirit, & they cried out for feare. But streight waye, Jesus spake vnto them, saynge: Be of good cheare, it is I: Be not afrayed. Peter answered him, and said: Lorde, yf it be thou, bid me come vnto the on the water. And he said: Come. And whē Peter was come downe out of the ship, he walked on the water, to go to Jesus. But whē he sawe a mighty winde, he was afraied. And whē he began to sincke, he cried, saynge: Lord saue me. And immediatly Jesus stretched forth his hande, & caught him, & sayde vnto hym. O thou of lytle faith, wherfore diddest thou doubte? And whan they were come into the ship, the winde ceased. Then they that were in the ship came and worshipped him, saynge: Of a trueth thou arte the sonne of God. And whē thei were gone ouer, they came into the lād of Genezareth. And whē the mē of the place had knowledge of him, thei sēt out messāgers into al the coūtrey roūd about the coast, and brought vnto him al that were sicke, & besought him, that thei might touche the hēme of his vesture only. And as many as touched it, were made safe.

Then * came to Jesus Scribes and Pharyses (which were come from Jerusalem) sayinge: why do thy disciples trāgresse the tradicion of the elders? for they washe not their hādes whē they eate bread.

Mar.vii.a

But he answered and sayd vnto them: why do ye also transgresse the commaundemente of God, because of youre owne tradicion? For God commaundeth, sayinge: * Honoure father and mother: And he that curseth father or mother, let him dye the deathe.

Exod.xx.b Deu.v.b Mar.vii.b

But ye saye: euery one shall saye to his father and mother: * what gyfte soeuer thou haue come of me the same is turned vnto thy profyte: and so shal he not honoure his father or his mother. And thus haue ye made the commaundement of God of none effecte, because of youre owne tradicion. Ypocrytes, full well dyd Esay prophecy of you, sayinge: * This people draweth nye vnto me with their mouthe, and honoureth me with their lyppes, howbeit, their hertes are far from me: but in vayne do they serue me, teachynge the doctrines and precepte of men.

And he called the people to hym, & sayde vnto them, heare and vnderstāde. That which goeth into the mouthe, defyleth not the man: but that whyche commeth out of the mouth, defyleth the man.

Then came his disciples, and sayd vnto him: Knowest thou not, that the Pharyseis were offended at this sayinge? But he answered and sayde: Euery plante whiche my heauenly father hathe not planted, shalbe plucked vp by the rootes. Let them alone, they be the blynde leaders of the blynde. Yet the blynde leade the blynde, & both shall fal into the dyche. Then answered Peter & sayd vnto him: Declare vnto vs this parable. Jesus sayd: Are ye also yet without vnderstandynge? Do not ye yet vnderstande, that whatsoeuer entreth in at the mouthe, goeth into the bely, and is caste oute into the draught? But those thynges whiche proceede oute of the mouthe, come forth from the herte, and they defyle the man. For oute of the hert proceede euel thoughtes, murders, breakynge of wedlocke, whoredoms, theftes, false witnesse, blasphemies. These are the thinges which defile a mā. But to take meat with vnwashē handes, defyleth not a man.

¶ * And Jesus went thence, and departed into the coastes of Tyre and Sidon, and beholde a woman of Canaan (whiche came oute of the same coastes) cryed vnto hym, sayinge: Haue mercy on me O Lorde, thou sonne of Dauid: my doughter is pyteously vexed with a deuel. But he answered her nothynge at al, and his disciples came and besought hym, sayinge: Sende her away, for she cryeth after vs. But he answered, and sayde: I am not sent * but vnto the lofte shepe of the house of Israel. Then came she, and worshypped hym, sayinge: Lorde, helpe me. He answered and said: It is not mete, to take the childrens breade, and to cast it to dogges. She answered and said: Truth Lord, for the dogges eate of the crummes, which fal from their masters table. Then Jesus answered and said vnto her: O womā, great is thy fayth, be it vnto the, euen as thou wylt. And her doughter was made whole euen at that same tyme.

¶ And Jesus went away from thence, and came nye vnto the see of Galile, and went vp into a mountayne, and sat downe there. And much people came vnto hym, bryngynge with thē those that were lame, blynde, deafe, maymed, and other many: and caste them downe at Jesus fete. * And he healed them: in so much, that the people wondered, whā they sawe the domme speake, the maymed to be whole, the lame to walke, & the blynde to se. And they glorifyed the God of Israel.

* Then Jesus called his disciples vnto hym, and said: I haue compassion on the people, because they contynue with me now thre dayes, & haue nothing to eate: & I wyl not let them departe fastynge, lest they mysfarry by the waye. And his disciples sayde vnto hym: Whence shuld we get so muche breade in the wyldernesse as to suffice so great a multytude? And Jesus sayeth vnto them: how many loaues haue ye? And they saye: * Seuē, and a fewe lytle fyshes. And he commaunded the people to syt downe on the grounde: and toke the seuen loaues, and the fyshes: and after that he had geuen thankes he brake them, and gaue to his disciples, and the disciples gaue them to the people. And they dyd all eate, and were fulfyled. And they toke vp (of the broken meate that was left) seuen basketes full. And yet they that dyd eate were .iiii. M. men besyde wemen and chyldren. The * Pharyses also with the Saduces, came and tempted hym, and desyred him, that he would shewe them a sygne from heauen. Then Jesus sayde vnto them * Take heede and beware of the leuen of the Pharyseis and of the Saduces. And they thoughte in them selues, saying: we haue taken no bread with vs. Which whan Jesus vnderstode he said vnto them: O ye of lyte faith, why take ye thought within your selues, because ye haue brought no bread? Neither the .vii. loaues when there were .iiii. M. men, and how many basketes toke ye vp? How happeneth it that ye do not vnderstande, that I spake it not vnto you concernynge bread, that ye would beware of the leuen of the Pharises and of the Saduces? Then vnderstod they, how that he bad not them beware of the leuen of bread: but of the doctryne of the Pharises, and of the Saduces. ¶ When Jesus came into the coastes of the cytye, which is called Cesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples saying: * Who do men say that I the sonne of man am? They said: Some say, that thou art Jhon the Baptist, some Helyas, some Jeremias, or one of the nombre of the prophetes. He sayeth vnto them: But whom say ye that I am? Simon Peter answered & said: * Thou art Christ the son of the lyuynge God. And Jesus answered & said vnto him: Happy art thou Simon the sonne of Jonas, for flesshe and bloude hathe not opened that vnto the, * but my father which is in heuē. And I say vnto the, that thou art Peter: and vpon this * rocke I wil buylde my congregacion. And the gates of hel shal not preuayle against it. And I wyl geue vnto thee, the keyes of the kyngedome of heauen: And * whatsoeuer thou byndest in earth, shal be bounde in heauen: and whatsoeuer thou loosest in earth, shalbe loosed in heauen. * Then charged he his disciples, that they shoulde tel no man, that he was Jesus Christ. * From that tyme forth began Jesus to shewe vnto his disciples, how that he must go vnto Jerusalem, and suffer many thynges of the elders, and hye Prieestes, and Scribes, and must be kylled, and be rayssed agayne the thirde daye. And whē Peter had take him aside, he began to rebuke him, saying: Master, fauourthy selfe, this shal not happen vnto the: But he turned him about, & said vnto Peter: Go after me Satan, thou hindrest me: for thou sauourest not the thynges that be of God, but those that be of men. Then sayde Jesus vnto his disciples: Yf any man wyl folowe me, let him forsake him selfe, and take vp his crosse, and folowe me. * For who so wyll saue his lyfe, shall loose it. Agayne, who so doth loose his lyfe for my sake, shall fynde it. For what doth it profyte a man, ye he wynne all the whole worlde, and lose his owne soule? Or what shal a man geue to redeme his soule agayne withal? For the sonne of man shal come into the glory of his father, with his angels: and * then shall he rewarde euery man after his dedes. Verely I say vnto you, * There be of them that stande here, which shal not taste of death, tyll they se the sonne of man come in his kyngdome. ¶ The .xvii. Chapter. *

And behold: there appeared vnto them Moses and Elias talkynge with hym. Then answered Peter, and sayde vnto Jesus: Lorde, here is good beynge for vs. Yf thou wilt, let vs make here thre tabernacles: one for the, & one for Moses, & one for Elias. Whyle he yet spake, behold, a bright cloude shadowed them. And behold, there came a voyce out of the cloude which said: * This is my beloued sonne * in who I delyte, * heare him. And when the disciples heard these thynges, they fel on their faces, and were sore afrayed. And Jesus came and touched them, and sayde: aryse, and be not afrayed. And when they had lyft vp their eyes, they sawe no man, saue Jesus onely. * And when they came downe from the mountaine, Jesus charged the saying: Shewe the vision to no man, vntyl the sonne of man be rysen agayne from the dead. ¶ And his disciples asked hym, saying: Why then say the scribes, that Helias must fyrst come? Then came Peter to him, and said: Lorde, how oft shall I forgyue my brother, yf he synne against me: tyl seuen tymes? Jesus sayeth vnto hym: I say not vnto the vntyl seuē tymes: But seuēty tymes seuen tymes. Therefore is the kyngedome of heauē lykened vnto a certaine man that was a king, which would take accountes of his seruauntes. And whē he had begon to rekē, one was brought vnto him, which ought him ten thousande talentes, but forasmuch as he was not able to paye, hys Lord cōmaunded him to be solde, & his wyfe and his children, and al that he had: And paiment to be made. The seruaūt fel downe, and besought him, sayinge: Syr haue patience with me, and I wil paye the al. Then had the Lord pitie on the seruaunte & losed hym, and forgaue him the debt. So the same seruaūt went out, & founde one of his felowes which ought him an hundred pence: And he layed hādes on him, & toke him by the throte, sayinge: Paye that thou owest. And his felowe fel downe, and besought him, sayinge: Haue patience with me, and I wil paye the al. And he would not, but went, & cast him into prison, tyl he shuld paye the det. So when hys felowes sawe what was done, they were verie sorye, and came, & tolde vnto their Lorde al that had happened. Then his Lord called him, and said vnto him: O thou vngracious

AND it came to passe* that whe Jesus had finished these sayings, he gate him frō Galile, and came into the coasts of Jury beyond Jordane, & much people folowed him, and he healed them there. The Pharisees also came vnto him, tempting him, & saying vnto him: Is it lawful for a man to make a deuorcement with his wife for any maner of cause? He answered and said vnto them: Haue ye not read, how that he which made man at the beginning* made the man & woman, and said: For this cause shal a man leaue father & mother, and shal cleaue vnto his wife, and they twaine shalbe one flesh, wherfore now they are not twaine, but one flesh. Let no man therfore put a sunder, that which God hath coupled together. They said vnto him: Why did Moses the cōmand to geue a testimonial of deuorcement, and to put her away? He said vnto them: Moses (because of the hardnes of your hartes)* suffred you to put away your wiues: But frō the beginning it was not so. I say vnto you: whosoeuer putteth away his wife) except it be for fornication) & marieth another, breaketh wedlocke, And whosoeuer marieth her whiche is deuorced, dothe cōmit aduoutry. His disciples said vnto him: if the matter be so betwene man and wife, then is it not good to mary. He said vnto them: All men can not comprehend this saying* saue they to whom it is geuen. For there are some chast whiche are so borne out of their mothers wombe. And there are some chaste, whiche be made chaste of men. And there be chaste, whiche haue made thē selues chast for the kingdome of heauens sake. He that can cōprehēd it, let him comprehend it. *Then were there brought vnto him yong children, that he should put his handes on them and pray. And the disciples rebuked them. But Jesus said vnto them: Suffer the children, and forbid thē not to come vnto me: for of such is the kingdome of heauen. And when he had put his handes on them, he departed thence. And beholde, one came, and said vnto him: * good master, what good thing shal I do, that I may haue eternal life? He said vnto him: Why callest thou me good? *there is none good but one, & that is God. But if thou wilt enter into life, kepe the commaundementes. He saieth vnto him: Whiche? Jesus said. * Thou shalt not commit manslaughter. Thou shalt not committe aduoutry. Thou shalt not steale: thou shalte not beare false witnesse: Honoure father and mother: * And thou shalt loue thy neighbour as thy selfe. The yong man saieth vnto him: All these thinges haue I kept frō my youth vp: what lacke I yet? Jesus said vnto him: if thou wilt be perfit* go & sel al that thou hast, and geue to the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in heauen, and come and folow me. But when the yong man heard that saying, he went away sory. For he had great possessions. Then Jesus said vnto his disciples: Verely I saye vnto you: * it shall be harde for the riche to enter into the kingdome of heauen. And agayne, I saie vnto you: It is easier for a Camel to go through the eye of a needle, then for the riche to enter into the kingdome of GOD. When the disciples hearde this, they were exceadingly amased, saying: who then can be saued? But Jesus behelde them: and said vnto them: with menne this is impossible, * but with God all thinges are possible. Then answered Peter, and said vnto him. Behold* we haue forsaken al, and folowed the, what shall we haue therefore? Jesus said vnto them: Verely I say vnto you: that whē the sonne of man shal sit in the seate of his maiestye, ye that haue folowed me, in the regeneration* shal sit also vpon. xii. seates, & iudge the twelue tribes of Israel. * And euery one that forsaketh houses, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or landes for my names sake, shall receaue an hundred folde, and shall enherite euerlasting life. But* manye that are first shal be last, and the last shalbe first.

FOr* the kingdome of heauen is like vnto a manne that is an housholder, whiche went out early in the morning to hire laboreers into his vineyard. And when the agreement was made with the labourers for a peny a daye, he sent them into his vineyarde. And he went out about the third houre, and sawe other standing idle in the market place, and said vnto them: go ye also into the vineyarde: and whatsoeuer is right, I will geue you. And they went their way. Againe, he went out about the sixt and ninth houre, & did likewise. And about the eleuenth houre he went out, and founde other standyng idle, & said vnto them: Why stande ye here all the daye idle? They say vnto him: because no man hath hyred vs. He saieth vnto them: go ye also into the vineyarde: & whatsoeuer is right, that shal ye receaue. So when euen was come, the lord of the vineyard saieth vnto his stewarde: call the labourers, and geue them their hire, beginning at the last vntil the first. And whē they did come that came about the eleuenth houre, they receiued euery manne a peny. But when the first came also, they supposed that they should haue receiued more, and they like-

For many be called, but few be chosen. ✠ And Jesus going vp to Jerusalem, toke the. xii. disciples aside in the waie, & said vnto them: *Behold, we go vp to Jerusalē, & the sonne of man shalbe betraied vnto the chief priests and vnto the Scribes, & thei shall condemne him to death, and shal deliuer him to the Gentils, to be mocked, and to be scourged, & to be crucified: and the third daie he shall rise againe. ✠ *Then came to him the mother of Zebedes children, with her sonnes, worshipping him, & desiring a certain thing of him. And he saith vnto her: what wilt thou. *She said vnto him: Graunte, that these my two sonnes may sit the one on thy right hande, & the other on the left, in thy kingdom. But Jesus answered & saide: Ye wote not what ye aske. Are ye able to drinke of the cup that I shal drinke of, & to be baptised with the baptime that I am baptised with? Thei say vnto him: we are. He said vnto thē, ye shal drinke in dede of my cup: & be baptised with the baptime that I am baptised with. But to sit on my right hande, & on my left, is not myne to geue: but it shal chaunce vnto them, *that it is prepared for of my father. ✠ *And when the ten. herde this, thei disdained at the two brethren. But Jesus called them vnto him, & saide: *ye knowe that the princes of the nacions haue dominion ouer thē, And thei that are great men, exercise auctorite vpon thē. It shal not be so among you. But whosoeuer wil be great among you, let him be your minister, & whoso wilbe chefe amōg you, let him be your seruaunt: euen as *the sonne of man came not to be ministred vnto, but to minister, and to geue his life, a redemption for many. ✠ *And as thei departed frō Hierico, much people folowed him. AND when thei *drewe nie vnto Jerusalē, and were come to Bethphage, vnto mount Oliuete: then sent Jesus two disciples, saying vnto them: Go into the towne that lieth ouer against you, & anone ye shal finde an asse bound, & a colte with her: loose thē, & bring them vnto me. And if any man saie ought vnto you, saie ye: the Lorde hath nede of them: & streightway he will let them go. All this was done, that it might be fulfilled, whiche was spoken by the prophet, saying: *Tell ye the doughter of Syon: behold, thy king cometh vnto the meke, sitting vpon an asse & a colte, the cole of the asse vsed to the yocke. The disciples went & did as Jesus cōmaunded thē, and brought the asse & the colt, & put on thē their clothes, & set him theron. And many of the people cyred their garmentes in the way. Other cut downe braunches frō the trees, & strawed them in the way. Moreouer, the people that went before, & thei that came after, cried, saying: Osanna to the sonne of Mauid. Blessed *is he that cometh in the name of the Lorde: *Osanna in the highest. ✠ And when he was come to Jerusalem, all the citie was moued, saying: who is this? And the people saide: this is Jesus *the Prophete of Nazareth (a citie) of Galile. *And Jesus went into the temple of God, & cast out all thē that solde and bought in the temple, & ouerthrewe the tables of the mony changers, & the seates of them that solde doues, & said vnto thē: *It is written: *my house shalbe called the house of prayer. But ye haue made it *a denne of theues. And the blinde and the halte came to him in the temple, & he healed them. When the chief priestes and Scribes sawe the wōders that he did, and the children crying in the temple (and saying: Osanna to the sonne of Mauid) thei disdained, and said vnto him: hearest thou what these saie? But Jesus saieth vnto them: why not? haue ye neuer read, Out of the mouth of babes and suckelinges thou hast ordeined praise. And he left them, & went out of the citie *vnto Bethanie, & had his abiding there. ✠ *In the morning as he returned vnto the citie againe, he hongred: & when he had spied a *figge tree in the waye, he came to it, and found nothing theron, but leaues onely, & said vnto it: neuer frute grow on the hence forwarde. And anone the figge tree withered away. And when his disciples sawe it, thei marueiled, saying: How soone is the figge tree withered away? Jesus answered, and saide vnto them: Verely I saye vnto you. *If ye haue faith and doubt not, ye shal not onely do this that is happened vnto the figge tree: but also if ye shall saye vnto this mountayne: remoue, and cast thy selfe into the sea, it shalbe done. *And al thinges whatsoe

ner ye acke in prayer (if ye beleue) ye shal receaue them. ✠ And when he was come into the temple the chiefe priestes and the elders of the people came vnto him (as he was teaching) and saied: By what auctoritie doest thou these thinges? and who gaue the this power? Jesus answered and sayd vnto them: I also wil aske of you a certain thing, which (if ye tell me, I in likewyse will tell you by what auctoritie I do these thinges. The baptisme of Jhon: whence was it? from heauen or of men? And thei thought among themselues, saying: If we say from heauen, he will say vnto vs: why did ye not then beleue him? But if we shal saye of men, then feare we the people, * for all men holde Jhon as a prophet. And they answered vnto Jesus, & sayd: we can not tel. And he saied vnto them: neither tell I you, by what auctoritie I doo these thinges. ✠ What saye ye to this? ✠ A man had two sonnes, and came to the first, & sayd: sonne, go and worke to day in my vineyarde. He answered and said: I will not, but afterwarde, he repented, and went. Then came he to the second, & said likewise. And he answered, & sayd: I wil: syr, & went not. Whether of the twaine did the will of the father? And thei saye to him: the first. Jesus saith vnto them: verely I say vnto you, the Publicans & harlottes go into the kingdome of God before you. For Jhon came vnto you by the waye of ryghteousnesse, & ye beleued him not: but publicanes & harlottes beleued him. And ye (when ye had sene it) were not moued afterwarde with repentaunce, that ye might haue beleued him. ✠ Herken another similitude. * There was a certaine man an housholder, which planted a vineyarde, & hedged it rounde about, & made a wyne presse in it, & buylte a tower, & let it out to husbandmen, & went into a straunge countrey. And when the tyme of the frute drewe neare, he sent his seruauntes to the husbandmen, that thei might receiue the frutes of it. And the husbandmen caught his seruauntes, & beat one, killed an other, & stoned another. Eftsoones he sent other seruauntes mo then the first, & thei did vnto them likewise. But last of al, he sent vnto them his own sonne saying: they will stand in awe of my sonne.

But when the husbandmen sawe the sonne, thei said among themselues: * This is the heire: come let vs kil him, & let vs enioy his inheritaunce. And they caught him, & thrust him out of the vineyarde, & slewe him. When the lorde therfore of the vineyarde cometh, what wil he do vnto those husbandmen? Thei saide vnto him: For asmuch as thei be euil, he will cruelly destroy them, & will let out his vineyarde vnto other husbandmen, which shal deliuer him the frute in due seasons. Jesus saieth vnto them: did ye neuer reade in the scriptures? * The stone which the builders refused, the same is become the head of the corner: this is the Lordes doing, & it is maruelous in our eyes. Therfore saye I vnto you: the kyngdome of God shalbe taken from you, & geuen to a nacion which shal bring forth the frutes therof. And * whosoeuer falleth on this stone, shalbe broken in peces: but on * whomsoeuer it falleth it shall all to grynde him. And when the chefe priestes & Pharises had heard his parables, they perceiued that he spake of them. * And thei went about to laye handes on him, * but they feared the people, because thei took him as a prophet. ✠ And Jesus answered, & spake vnto them again by parables, & said. ¶ The xxii. Chap.

The kingdome of heuen is like vnto * a man that was a kyng, which made a mariage for his sonne & sent forth his seruauntes, to cal them that were bidden to the wedding, and they would not come. Again, he sent forth other seruauntes, saying: Tel them which are birden: behalde, I haue prepared my dyner, myne oxen, & my fatlinges are killed, & al thinges are ready, come vnto the mariage. But thei made light of it, & went their waies one to his ferme place, another for his marchandise, & the tenaunt toke his seruauntes, and intreated them shamefully & slewe them. But when the kyng heard thereof, he was wroth, & sent forth his men of warre & destroied those murtherers, & beat vp their citie. Then said he to his seruauntes: the mariage in dede is prepared. But they which were bidden were not worthy. Go ye therfore out into the hye waies: & as many as ye find, byd them to the mariage. And the seruauntes went out into the hye waies, & gathered together al, as many as they culd find, both good and bad, & the wedding was furnished with gestes. Then the king came in to se the gestes, & when he spied there a man, which had not on a * wedding garmet, he sayd vnto him: frende, howe camest thou in hether, not hauing a wedding garment? And he was euen speechlesse. Then saied the king to the ministers: take & bynd him hand & fote, and caste him into vtter darkenesse * there shalbe weping & gnashing of teeth. For many be called, but few are chosen. ✠ Then went the Pharises & toke counsaile how they might tangle him in his wordes. And they sit vnto him their disciples, with Herodes seruauntes saying: * Maister, we knowe that thou art true, & teachest the way of god truely, neither carest thou for any man, for thou regardest not the outward appearaunce of men. Tel vs therfore: howe thinkest thou? Is it lawfull that tribute be geuen vnto Cesar or not? But Jesus perceauyng their wickednes, saide: Why tempte ye me, ye ypocrites? Shewe me the tribute money. And they toke vnto a penie. And he saied vnto them: whose is this?

ymage and superscription. They saye vnto him, Cesars. Then saied he vnto thē: * Geue therfore vnto Cesar, the thinges which are Cesars, & vnto God, those thinges that are Gods. ¶ When they had heard these wordes, they marueiled, & left him, & went their way. * The same daye came to him the Saduces (which say that there is no resurrection) and asked him, saiyng: Master, Moses said: that if a man die hauyng no child, his brother should marry his wife, & raise vp sede vnto his brother. There were with vs seuen brethren & the first maried a wife, & deceased without issue, & left his wife vnto his brother. Likewise the second & third, vnto the seuenth. Last of all the woman died also. Therefore, in the resurrection, whose wife shall she be of the seuen? For they al had her. ¶ Iesus answered & said vnto thē: Ye do erre, not knowing the scriptures: nor the power of god. For in the resurrection, thei neither marie, nor are maried, but are as the aungels in heauen. But as touchyng the resurrection of the deade: haue ye not reade that whiche is spoken vnto you of God, which saieth: * I am the God of Abraham, & the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. God is not a god of deade, but of lyuyng. And when the people heard this, they were astonied at his doctrine. ¶ But when the Pharises had heard, that he had put the Saduces to silence, thei came together, & one of them (which was a doctour of the law) asked him a question, tēpting him, & saiyng: Master which is the great cōmaundement in the law? Iesus said to him: Thou shalt loue the Lord thy God with al thy hert, & with al thi soule, & with al thy minde. This is the first & great cōmaundement. And the second is like vnto it. * Thou shalt loue thy neighbour as thi self. In these two cōmaundementes hange all the lawe and the Prophetes. ¶ While the Pharises were gathered together, Iesus asked thē saiyng: What thinke ye of Christe? Whose sonne is he? Thei said vnto him: the sonne of Dauid. He said vnto thē: * how then dothe Dauid in spirit call him Lorde, saiyng: The Lord said vnto my lord: * sit on my right hād til I make thine enemies thi fotestole? If Dauid then cal him Lorde, howe is he then his sonne? And no man was able to answere him any thing, neither durst any man (from that daye forth) aske him any mo questions. ¶

The. xxiii. Chapter.

¶ Then spake Iesus to the people, & to his disciples, saiyng: * The Scribes & the Pharises sit in Moses seat. All therfore what soeuer thei bid you obserue, that obserue and do: but do not ye after their workes: for they say, & do not. * For they binde together heuy burthens, and grieuous to be borne, & laye them on mens shoulders, but they them selues wil not moue at them with one of their fingers. All their workes do thei for the entent that they maye be sene of menne. They set abroade their phylacteries, and make large the borders of their garmentes, & loue the vppermost rowmes at feastes, and to sitte in the chiefe place in councelles, and greetynges in the market, and to be called of men, Rabbi. ¶ But be not ye called Rabbi, for one is your master, euen Christ, and all ye are brethren. And call no man your father vpon the earth, for one is your father which is in heauen. Neither be ye called masters, for one is your master, euen Christ. He that is greatest amōg you, shalbe your seruaunt. But who so exalteth him selfe, shalbe brought lowe. And he that humbleth him selfe, shalbe exalted. ¶ Wo vnto you Scribes & Pharises, ye ypocrites, for ye shutte vp the kingdome of heauen before men, * neither go in your selues, neither suffer ye them that come to enter in. ¶ Wo vnto you Scribes and Pharises, ye ypocrites: for ye deuour widowes houses, and that vnder a pretence of long prayer: therefore shall ye be the more punished. ¶ Wo be vnto you Scribes and Pharises, ye ypocrites: for ye compasse sea and land, to make one proselite, & when he is become one, ye make him two fold more the child of hell, then ye your selues are. ¶ Wo be vnto you, ye blinde guides, for ye say: whosoeuer doth sweare by the temple, it is nothing: but whosoeuer sweareth by the golde of the temple, he is gilty. Ye fooles and blinde: for whether is greater, the golde or the temple that sanctifieth the golde? And whosoeuer sweareth by the aultare, it is nothing, but whosoeuer sweareth by the gyft that is vpō it, he is gilty: ye fooles and blind, for whether is greater the gifte, or the aultare that sanctifieth the gifte? whosoeuer therfore sweareth by the aultare, sweareth by it, and by al thinges that are theron. And whosoeuer sweareth by the temple, sweareth by it, & by him that dwelleth therin. * And he that sweareth by heauen, sweareth by the seate of God, and by him that sitteth theron. ¶ Wo vnto you Scribes and Pharises, ye ypocrites. * For ye tithe mint, and anise: and cūmin, and haue left the waightier matters of the law: iudgement, mercy, & faith. These ought ye to haue done, & not to leaue the other vndone: ye blind guides, which straine out a gnat, & swalow a Camel. ¶ Wo vnto you Scribes & Pharises, ye ypocrites: for ye make cleane the vtter side of the cup, & of the platter: but within they are full of bribery and excesse. ¶ Thou blinde Pharisey, cleanse first that which is within the cup & platter, that the outside of them may be cleane also. ¶ Wo vnto you Scribes & Pharises, ye ypocrites: for ye are like vnto painted sepulchres, which appeare beautiful outward, but are within ful of dead mens bones, & of al filthines:

euil to ye eies, outwardly apeare righteous vnto men. But within ye are ful of hipocrisie and iniquitie, * Wo vnto you Scribes and Pharises, ye ypocrites: ye build the tombes of the Prophetes, and garnisshe the Sepulchres of the righteous, and saye: if we hadde ben in the daies of our fathers, we wold not haue bene parteners with them in the bloud of the prophets. The xxiiij. Chapter

A Nd Iesus went out and departed frō the temple: & * his disciples came to him for to shew him the buildynges of the temple. Iesus saied vnto them: Se ye not all these thinges? Verely I saie vnto you * there shal not be here left one stone vpon another, that shal not be destroyed. And as he sate vpon moūte Oliuet, his disciples came vnto him secretly saiyng: Tell vs: when shal these thinges be: and what shalbe the token of thy cōming, and of the ende of the worlde? And Iesus answered and saied vnto them: * Take hede, that no man deceiue you. For many shall come in my name, saiyng: I am Christe: and shal deceiue many. Ye shal heare of warres, & tidinges of warres: be not troubled. For all these thinges must come to passe, but thend is not yet. * Nacion shall rise against nacion, & realme against realme: and there shalbe pestilence, & honger, and earthquakes in all places. All these are the beginnynges of sorowes. * Then shall they putte you to trouble, and shall kyll you, and ye shall be hated of all Nacions for my names sake. And then shal many be offended, & shal betray one another, & shal hate one another. And many false Prophetes shall arise, and shal deceiue many. * And because iniquitie shal haue the vpper hande, the loue of many shal abate. * But he that endureth to the ende, the same shalbe safe. * And this Gospel of the Kingdome shall be preached in all the worlde, for a witnesse vnto all Nacions, and then shal the ende come. * When ye therefore shal see the abhominacion of desolacion (that was spoken of by * Daniell the Prophete) stande in the holy place, who so readeth it, let him vnderstande. Then let them whiche be in Jurye, flye into the mountaines. And let him whiche is on the house top not come doune, to fetch any thing out of his house. Neither let him which is in the felde, retourne backe to fetch his clothes. Woe shall be in those dayes to them that are with childe, & to thē that geue sucke. But pray ye that your flight be not in the winter, neither on the Sabboth daie. For then shalbe great tribulatiō * such as was not sēce the beginnyng of the worlde to this time, nor shalbe. Yea, and except those dayes shoulde be shortened, there shoulde no flesh be saued, but for the chosēs sake, those dayes shalbe shortened. * When if any man saie vnto you: lo, here is Christe, or there, beleue it not. For there shal arise false Christes and false prophetes, * & shal shewe great miracles & wonders. In so much that if it were possible, the very elect should be deceiued. Behold: I haue tolde you before. Wherefore if they saie vnto you: beholde, he is in the desert, go not ye forthe: behold, he is in the secrete places, beleue it not. For as the lightenyng cometh out of the east, & appeareth vnto the west: so shall the commynge of the sonne of man be. * For whersoeuer a deade carkes is, euen there will the Egles be gathered together. Immediatly * after the tribulations of those daies, shall the sunne be darkened, & the mone shal not geue her light, & the starres shal fall from heauen, & the powers of heauen shalbe moued. And then shall appeare the token of the sonne of man in heauen. And then shall all the kindredes of the earth mourne, & they shal se * the sonne of man cōmyng in the cloudes of heauen, with power & great glory. And he shall sende his Angels with the great voice of a trūpet, & they shal gather together his chosē, frō the .iiij. winds, euē frō the hiest parts of heuen, vntil thende thereof. * Learne a similitude of the fig tree: whē his braunches is yet tender, & the leaues spring, ye know that somer is nye. So likewise ye when ye see all these thinges, be ye sure that it is neare, euen at the doores. Verely I saie vnto you, this generatiō shal not passe, til all these thinges be fulfilled. * Heauen and earth shall passe, but my wordes shall not passe. But of that day & hour * knoweth no man, no not the angels in heauen, but my father onely. * But as the daies of Noe were, so shall also the cōming of the sonne of man be. For as in the

But and if that euill seruaũt saie in his hert: my Lorde will be long a comming (and to begyn to smite his felowes: yea, and to eate and drinke with the dronken) the same seruaũtes Lorde shall come in a daye when he loketh not for him, & in an houre that he is not ware of, and shal hewe him in peces, and geue him his porcion with ipocrites: there shalbe wepyng & gnashyng of teeth. Then shal the kyngdome of heuen be like vnto ten virgines, which toke their lampes, and went to mete the bridegrome (and the bride.) But fiue of them were folishe, and fiue were wise. They that were folishe, toke their lampes, but toke none oyle with them. But the wise toke oile with them in their vessels, with the lampes also. While the bridegrome taried, they al slombred and slept. And euen at midnight there was a crye made: beholde, the bridegrome cometh: go out to mete him. Then all those virgins arose, and prepared their lampes. So the folishe saied vnto the wise: geue vs of your oyle, for our lampes are gone out. But the wise answered, saiyng: not so, lest there be not inough for vs & you, but go ye rather to them that sel, and bye for your selues. And while they went to bye, the bridegrome came: & they that were redy, went in with him to the mariage, and the gate was shut vp. Afterwarde came also the other virgins, saiyng: *Lorde, lorde, open to vs. But he answered and said: verely I say vnto you: I know you not. *Watche therefore, for ye know neither the daie, nor yet the houre: wher in the sonne of mã shal come. For *Likewise as a certaine man readye to take his iourney into a straunge countrey, called his seruãtes, and deliuered vnto them his goodes. And vnto one he gaue fiue talentes, to another two, and to an other one: to euery man after his abilitie, & straight waie departed. Then he that had receiued the fiue talentes, went, and occupied with the same, and wanne other fiue talentes. Likewise also, he that receiued two, gayned other two. But he that receiued one, went and digged in the earth, and hidde his Lordes money. After a long season the Lorde of those seruauntes came, and reckened with them. And so he that had receiued fyue talentes came, & brought other fiue talentes, saiyng: Sir thou deliueredst vnto me fiue talentes: beholde, I haue gayned with the fiue talentes mo. His Lorde saied vnto him: well thou good and faithful seruaunt. Thou hast bene faithful ouer fewe thinges, I wil make the ruler ouer many thinges: Enter thou into the ioye of the Lord. He also that had receiued two talentes, came and saied: Syr, thou deliueredst vnto me two talentes: beholde, I haue wonne two other talentes wyth theim: His lorde said vnto him: wel good & faithful seruaunt. Thou hast bene faithful ouer fewe things, I wil make the ruler ouer many things, Enter thou into the ioie of thy lorde. C He which had receiued thoue talēt, came, and saied: Syr, I knew the, that thou art an harde manne, reapyng where thou hast not sowen, and gatherying where thou hast not strawed, & therfore was I afraied, & went and hid thy talent in the earth: lo, there thou hast that thine is. His Lorde answered and said vnto him, thou euil & slougthfull seruaũt, thou knewest, that I reape where I sowed not, & gather wher I haue not strawed, thou oughtest therefore to haue deliuered my money to the exchaungers, and then at my commynge shoulde I haue receiued mine owne with vãtage. Take therfore the talent from him, and geue it vnto him which hath ten talentes. *For vnto euery one that hath, shalbe geuen, and he shal haue aboundaũce: but he that hath not, frõ him shalbe taken away, euẽ that which he hath. And cast the vnprofitable seruaunt into vtter darkenes, *there shalbe wepyng & gnashing of teeth. *Whe the sonne of man cometh in his glory, & al the holy angels with him, then shal he sit vpõ the seate of his glory, & before him shalbe gathered al nacions. And he shal seperate them one frõ another, as a shepeheard deuideth the shepe from the goates: and he shall set the shepe on his right hãd, but the goates on the left. Then shal the king saie to thẽ that shalbe on his right hãd. Come ye blessed of my father, inherit the kingdome, *prepared for you frõ the beginyng of the world. *For I was an hongred & ye gaue me meate, I was thirsty, & ye gaue me drinke, I was herbedles, & ye toke me in, naked, & ye clothed me, *sicke, & ye visited me, I was in prison, & ye came vnto me. AND it came to passe, when Jesus had finished all these saiynges, he said vnto his disciples: ¶ * Ye know that after two daies shalbe Easter, and the sonne of man shalbe deliuered ouer to be crucified. * Then assembled together the chiefe priestes, & the scribes, & the elders of the people, vnto the palaice of the hie priest (whiche was called Cayphas) and helde a counsail that they might take Jesus by subtiltie, & kil him. But they said: not on the holy day, lest there be an vproze emōg the people. When * Jesus was in Bethany, in the house of Symeon the leper, there came vnto him a womā, * hauing an alabaster boxe of precious ointmente, and poured it on his head as he sate at the boxde. But whē his disciples saw it, they had indignacion, saiyng: Wherto serueth this waste? This ointment might haue ben wel solde, & geuē to the poze. When Jesus vnderstode that, he said vnto them: why trouble ye the woman? For she hath wrought a good worke vpō me. For ye haue the poze alwaies with you: But me shall ye not haue alwaies. And in that she hath cast this ointment on my bodye, she did it to burye me. Verely I saie vnto you, wheresoeuer this gospel shalbe preached in the worlde, there shal also this that she hathe done, be tolde for a memorial of her. * Then one of the .xii. which was called Judas Iscarioth, went vnto the chiefe priestes, & said vnto them: what will ye gene me, & I wil deliuer him vnto you? And they appointed vnto him .xxx. peces of siluer. And frō that time forth, he sought opportunitie to betray him. * The first day of swete breade, the disciples came to Jesus, saiyng

And he said: go into the citye to such a man, & saie vnto him, the master saith: my time is at hande, I will kepe mine Easter by the, with my disciples. * When the euen was come, he sate downe with the twelue. And as they did eate, he said: Verely I saie vnto you, that * one of you shal betray me. And they were exceadyng sorowful, & began euery one of thē to say vnto him: Lord is it I? He answered & said: He that dippeth his hād with me in the disshe, the same shal betray me. * The sonne of man truely goeth, as it is written of him: but woe vnto that man, by whō the sonne of man is betrayed. It had bene good for that man, if he had not ben borne. Then Judas which betrayed him, answered & said: master, is it I? He said vnto him: thou hast said. When they were eatyng, Jesus toke bread, & when he had geuen thākes, he brake it, & gaue it to his disciples, & said: * Take, eate, this is my bodye. And he toke the cuppe, and thanked, & gaue it them, saiyng: Drinke ye al of this, for this is my bloud (which is of the new testament) that is shed for many, for the remissiō of sinne. But I saie vnto you: I wil not drinke hereafter of this fruite of the vine tree, vntil that day when I shal drinke it new with you in my fathers kingdome. * And when they had said grace, they went out vnto mount Oliuet. Then saith Jesus vnto them: All ye shal be offended because of me this night. For it is written: * I wil smite the shepeheard, & the shepe of the flocke shalbe scattered abroade. But after I am risen againe, I wil go before you into Galile. Peter answered & said vnto him: * though all men be offended because of the, yet wil not I be offended. And he toke with him Peter & the .ii. sonnes of Zebede, & began to waxe sorowful & heauy. Then said Jesus vnto thē: * My soule is heuy euē vnto the deth. Tary ye here & watch with me. And he went a little further, & fell flat on his face, & prayed, saiyng: O mi father, if it be possible, * let this cup passe frō me: neuerthelesse, not as I will, but as thou wilt. When the morowe was come, * all the chiefe Priestes and the Elders of the people, helde a counsaile against Jesus, to put him to death, and brought him bound * & deliuered him vnto Poncius Pylate the debitie. Then Judas (which had betrayed him) seyng that he was condempned, repented him selfe, and brought againe the thirtye plates of siluer to the chefe priestes and elders, saiyng: I haue sinned: betraiyng innocēt bloud. He had then a notable prisoner, called Barrabas. Therfore when thei were gathered Mar.xv.a together, Pilate said: * whether will ye that John.xviij.g I geue loose vnto you, Barrabas, or Jesus, which is called Christ? For he knewe that for enuie they had deliuered him. When he was set doune to geue iudgement, his wyfe sent vnto him, saiyng: haue thou nothing to do with that iust man. Likewise also the hie priestes, mocking him with the Scribes and elders, said: * He saued other, him self can he not saue. If he be the king of Israel, let him now come downe frō the crosse, and we wil beleue him. * He trusted in God, let him Psal.xxii.b deliuer him now, if he wil haue him, for he said: I am the sonne of God. The theues also which were crucified with him, cast the same in his tethe. * Frō the sixt houre was Mar.xv.c ther darknes ouer al the land vnto the ninth Luke.xxiij.e houre. And about the .xi. houre, Jesus cried, f with a loude voice, saiyng: Eli, Eli lama sabathani. That is to saye: * My God, my Mar.xv.c God, why hast thou forsaken me? Upon an euening of the * Sabbothes which dawneth the first day of the Sabbothes, came Mary Magdalene, & the other Mari to see the sepulchre. And behold, there was a great earthquake: for the angel of the Lord descended frō heaue, & came & roulled backe the stone frō the doore, & sat vpon it. His countenaunce was like lightening, and his raiment white as snowe. And for feare of him the kepers were astonnied, & became as dead men. * The angel answered, and said vnto the wemen, feare ye not. For I knowe, that ye seke Jesus which was crucified: he is not here: he is risen as he said. Come se the place where that the Lord was laid. And go quickly, & tel his disciples, that he is risen again frō the dead. And behold, he goeth before you into Galile, there ye shal se him. Lo I haue told you. ❧ * And thei departed quickly frō the sepulchre with feare and great ioye, & did runne, to bringe his disciples worde. And as thei went to tel his disciples: behold, Jesus met them, saiynge: All haile. And thei came & helde him by the fete, & worshipped him. Thē said Jesus vnto thē: be not afeaide. And immediatly when Iesus perceaued in his spirit that they so thought within them selues, he saieth vnto them: why thinke ye suche thinges in youre hartes? Whether it is easier to saye to the sicke of the palsye: thy sinnes be forgeuen the, or to say: arise, take vp thy bed, & walke? But that ye may know, that the sonne of mā hath power in earth to forgeue synnes, he spake vnto the sicke of the palsie: I saye vnto the: * arise, and take vp thy bed, and get the hence vnto thine owne house. And he entred again into the Synagoge, and there was a man there, which had a withered hande. And they watched him, whether he would heale him on the Sabboth day, that they might accuse him. And he said vnto the man which had the withered hand: arise, & stande in the midde. And he saith vnto them: whether it is lawful to do good on the Sabboth daies, or to do euel? to saue life, or to kil? But they held their peace. And when he had loked rounde about on them, with anger, mourning on the blindnes of their hertes, he saith to the man: Stretch forth thine hande. And he stretched it out. And his hande was restored, euen as whole as the other. And the Pharises departed, & straight way gathered a counsel (with them that belonged to Herode) against him, that they might destroy him. But Iesus avoided with his disciples to the sea. And a great multitude followed him from Galilee, from Iewry, & from Ierusalem, & from Idumea, & from beyonde Iordane. And they that dwelled about Tire & Sidon, a great multitude of men (which when they had hearde what thinges he did) came vnto him. Assone as Jesus heard the word that was spoken, he said vnto the ruler of the Synagoge: be not afraied, onely beleue. And he suffred no man to folow him, saue Peter, & James, & John the brother of James. And he came vnto the house of the ruler of the Synagoge, & saw the wondring, & them that wept & wailed greatly, and wist in, & said vnto them: why make ye this a do, & wepe? The damsel is not dead, but sleepeth. And they laught him to scorne. But he put them al out, & taketh the father, & the mother of the damsel, & them that were with him, and entreth in wher the damsel lay, & taketh the damsel by the hande, & saieth vnto her: Talitha, cumi: which is (if one do interprete it) damsel, I saye vnto the, aryse. And straighte way the damsel arose, & walked. For she was of the age of twelue yeres. And thei were astonied out of measure. And he charged them straitely, that no man should know of it, & cōmaūded, to geue her meate.

And he departed thence, and came into his owne countrie, and his disciples folowed him. And when the Sabboth day was come, he began to teache in the Synagoge. And many that heard him were astonied, & said: from whence hath he these thinges? And what wisedome is this that is geuen vnto him: & such vertues that are wrought by his handes? Is not this the carpenter, Maries sonne, the brother of James & Joses, & of Juda, & Simon? & are not his sisters here with vs? And thei were offendid at him. Jesus said vnto them: A prophet is not despised, but in his owne countrie, and emong his owne kin, and in his owne household. And he could there shewe no miracle, but laide his handes vpon a fewe sicke folke, and healed them, and marueled, because of their vnbeleue. And he went about by the townes that lay on euery syde, teaching. And he called the. xii. & began to sende them forth two and two, and gaue them power against vncleane spirites. And commaunded them, that thei should take nothing in their iourney saue a rodde onely: no scrip, no bread, no money in their purse, but should be shod with sandals. And that thei shold not put on two coates. And he said vnto them: whersoeuer ye entre into an house, there abide til ye depart thence. And whosoeuer shal not receaue you, nor heare you, whē ye depart thence, shake of the dust that is vnder your fete, for a witnesse vnto them. Verely I say vnto you: it shalbe easier for Sodom & Gomor in the day of iudgement, then for that citie. And thei went out & preached, that men should repent, and thei cast out many deuels: and anoynted many that were sycke, with oyle, and healed them. And kynge Herode heard of him (for his name was spred abrode) and he said: John baptist is risen again from the dead, and therfore myracles are wrought by him. Other said: it is Helias, some said: it is a prophete, as one of the prophetes.

propheter. But when Herode heard of him he said: It is John whome I beheaded, he is risen from death againe. For Herode hym selfe had sent forth men of warre, and layed handes vpon John, and bounde him, and cast him into prison, for Herodias sake, his brother Philippes wyfe (because he had maried her) For John said vnto Herode: * It is not lawfull for thee to haue thy brothers wife. Herodias laied waite for him, & would haue killed him, but she coulde not. For Herode feared Iho, knowing that he was a iust man, and an holy: and gaue him reuerence: & when he hearde him, he did many thinges, & hearde him gladly. And when a conuenient daye was come, that Herode on his* birth daye, made a supper to the lordes, hie captaines, and chefe estates of Galile: & when the daughter of the same Herodias came in, and daunced, and pleased Herode, and them that sat at bourde also: the king said vnto the damsel: aske of me what thou wilt, & I will geue it the. * And he sware vnto her, whatso euer thou shalt aske of me, I wil geue it the, euen vnto the one halfe of my kingdome. And she went forth & said vnto her mother: what shal I aske? she said: John Baptistes heade. And she came in straight waye with haste vnto the kinge, and asked, saying: I wil, that thou geue me by and by in a charger, the heade of John Baptist. And the kynge was sorie: howbeit for his othes sake, & for their sakes which sat at supper also, he woulde not caste her of. And immediatly the kynge sent the hangman, & comaunded his head to be brought in. And he went & beheaded him in the prison, and brought his heade in a charger, & gaue it to the damsel and the damsel gaue it to her mother. And when his disciples heard of it, they came, and toke vp his body, and laied it in a graue. And the Apostles gathered them selues together vnto Jesus, and tolde him al thinges, both what they had done, and what they had taught. And he said vnto them: * come ye alone, out of the way into the wildernes, and rest a whyle. For there were many comers and goers, and they had no leasure so much as to eate. * And he went by ship out of the waye into a desert place. And the people spied them, when they departed: and many knew him, and ranne a foote thither out al cities, and came thither before them, & came together vnto him. And Jesus went out and sawe much people, * and had compassion on them, because they were like sheepe, not hauing a shepherde. And he beganne to teache them many thinges. * And when the daie was now farre spent, his disciples came vnto him, saying: this is a desert place, and nowe the time is farre passed, let them depart, that they may go into the countrie rounde about, and into the townes, and bie them breade: for they haue nothing to eate. He answered, and said vnto them, geue ye them to eate. And they said vnto him: shal we go & bie two hundred penieworth of breade, and geue them to eate? He said vnto them: * How many loaues haue ye? Go and loke. And when they had searched, they said: fyue, and two fishes. And he commaunded them, to make them all sit downe by companies vpon the grene grasse. And they sat downe, here a rowe, and there a rowe, by hundredes, and by fyftyes. And whē he had taken the .v. loaues, & the two fishes, & loked vp to heauē, he blessed, & brake the loaues, and gaue them to his disciples, to set before them, & the two fishes deuided he among them al. And they al did eate, and were satisfied. And they toke vp twelue backettes full therof, and of the fishes. And they that did eate, were about fyue thousande men. * And straight waie he caused his disciples to go into the ship, and to go ouer the sea before vnto Bethsaida, while he sent away the people. * And assone as he had sent them awaye, he departed into a mountaine to praie. And when euen was come, the ship was in the middes of the sea, and he alone on the lande, and he sawe them troubled in rowing, for the winde was contrary vnto them. And about the fourth watch of the night, he came vnto them, walking vpon the sea, & would haue passed by them. But when they saw him walking vpon the sea, they supposed it had bene a spirite, & cried out: for they al saw him, & were afraied. And anone he talked with them, & said vnto them: be of good cheare, it is I, be not afraied. * And he went vp vnto them into the ship, and the winde ceassed, and they were sore amased in them selues beyonde measure, & marualled. For they remembred not of the loaues, because their herte was blinded. And when they were ouer the water, they came into the lande of Genezareth, and drue vp into the hauen. And assone as they were come out of the shippe, straight way they knew hym, and ranne forth throughout al the region rounde about, and beganne to carie about in beddes those that were sicke, whē they heard that he was there. And whither soeuer he entred, into townes, cities, or villages, they laied the sicke folkes in the stretes, and prayed hym that they myghte touche, & it were but the hemme of his vesture. And as many as touched hym, were safe.

And he spake that saiyng openly. And Peter toke him aside, and began to chide him. But he turned about, and loked on his disciples, and rebuked Peter, saiyng: Go after me Sathan, for thou sauourest not the thinges that be of God, but the thinges that be of men. * And when he had called the people vnto him with his disciples also, he saied vnto them: Whosoeuer will folow me, let him forsake himself, & take vp his crosse and folow me. For whosoeuer will saue his life, shall lose it. But whosoeuer shall lose his life for my sake and the Gospels, the same shall saue it. For what shall it profite a man, if he wynne all the worlde, and lose his owne soule? Or what shall a man geue to redeme his soule withal againe? *Whosoeuer therfore shalbe ashamed of me and of my wordes, in this aduouterous and sinnefull generacio of him also shall the sonne of man be ashamed when he cometh in the glorye of his father, with the holy aungels.

ancion, how long shall I be with you? Howe long shal I suffer you? Bring him to me. And they brought him to him. And as sone as the spirit saw him, he tare hym. And he fell downe on the ground, walowyng & fomyng. And he asked his father: howe longe is it ago sence this happened hym? And he saied, of a chylde: and oft times it hath caste him in the fire, & in to the water to destroy him. But if thou canst do any thing, haue mercy on vs, and helpe vs. Jesus saied vnto him: If thou coudest beleue, * all thinges are possible to him that beleueth. And straight waye the father of the chylde cryed with teares, sayyng: Lorde, I beleue, helpe thou mine vnbeliefe. When Jesus sawe that the people came runnynge together vnto him, he rebuked the foule spirit, sayyng vnto him: Thou dombe and deafe spirite, I charge the come out of him, and enter no more into him. And the spirite (when he had cryed, and rent him sore) came out of him and he was as one that had bene deade, in so muche, that one saied: he is deade. But Jesus caught his hand, and lift hym vp, and he rose. And when he was come into the house, * his disciples asked him secretelye: Why coulde not we cast him out? And he saied vnto them: This kinde can come forth by nothing, but by prayer and fastyng. * And they departed thence, and toke their iourney thorow Galile, and he woulde not, that any manne shoulde knowe it. For he taught his disciples, and saied vnto them: * the sonne of manne shalbe delyuered into the handes of men, and they shal kyll him: and after that he is killed, he shall arise againe the thirde daye. But they wiste not what he saied, and were afraied to aske him. And he came to Capernaum. And when he was come into the house, he asked them: what was it that ye disputed amonge youre selues by the way? And they held their peace: for by the waye they hadde reasoned amonge them selues, who shoulde be the chiefest. And when he was set downe, he called the twelue to him, & said vnto them: If any man desire to be first, the same shal be last of al, & seruant to al. * And he toke a chyld, & set him in the myd's of the. And whē he had take him in his armes he saied vnto them: Whosoeuer receiueth any suche chylde in my name, receiueth me. And whosoeuer receiueth me, receiueth not me but him that sent me. John answered him saiyng: Master, we sawe one cast out deuils in thy name, and he folowyth not vs: and we forbade him, because he folowyth vs not. But Jesus saide: forbid him not. For there is no man which (if he do a miracle in my name) can lightly speake euil of me. For he that is not against vs, is on our parte. * Whosoeuer shal in my name gene you a cup of water to drink, because ye belong to Christe, verely I saye vnto you, he shall not lose his reward. * And whosoeuer shall offende one of these little ones that beleue in me, it were better for him if a mille stone were hanged about his neck, and he were caste into the sea. * Wherefore if thy hande hinder thee, cut it of. It is better for the to enter into life maymed, (hauing two handes) to go into Hell, into fire that neuer shalbe quenched: where their worme dieth not, and the fyre goeth not out. And if thy foote be a hinderaunce vnto thee, cut it of. It is better for the to go halte into life, then (hauyng two fete) to be cast into hell, into fire that neuer shalbe quenched: where their worme dieth not, and the fyre goeth not out. * And if thine eye hinder the, plucke it out. It is better for the to go into the kingdome of God with one eye, then (hauyng two eyes) to be cast into hell fire: where their worme dyeth not, and the fire goeth not out. For euery man shalbe salted with fire. * And euery sacrifice shalbe seasoned with salt. * Salt is good, but if the salt be vnsauery, what shalbe seasoned therwith? Haue salt in your selues: and haue peace among your selues: one with an other.

And when he rose from thence, he * went into the coastes of Jewry, throughe the region that is beyonde Jordane: And the people resorted vnto him agayne, and as he was wont, he taught them againe. And he answered and said vnto them: * What did Moses bidde you do? and they saied: Moses suffred to write a testimonial of deuorcement, and to put her away. And Jesus answered and said vnto them: For the hardnes of your hertes, he wrote this precept vnto you. But at the firste creacion, * God made them, man and woman. Therfore shall a man leaue his father and mother, and bide by his wife, * and they twayne shall be one flesshe. So then are they nowe not twayne, but one flesshe. Therfore what God hath coupled together, let not man seperate. And in the house his disciples asked him agayne of the same matter. And he saieth vnto them. * Whosoeuer putteth away his wife, and marieth another, breaketh wedlocke to her warde. And if a woman forsake her husbande, and be maried to another, she committeth aduoutry. * And they brought children to him, that he would touche them. And his disciples rebuked those that broght them. But when Jesus sawe it, he was displeased, and saied vnto them: Suffer the children to come vnto me, forbid them not. there there came one runnyng, and kneled to him, and asked him: * Good Maister, what shall I do, that I maye enherite eternall life? Jesus saied vnto hym: Why callest thou me good? There is noman good but one, whiche is God. Thou knowest the cõmaundementes: breake not matrimonie: kyll not: steale not: beare no false witnes: defraude no manne: honoure thy father and mother. He answered & said vnto him: Maister, all these I haue obserued from my youth. Jesus beheld him, and lououred him, & said vnto him: one thing thou lackest. * Go thy way: Sell that thou hast, & geue to the poze, and thou shalt haue treasure in heauen, and come folowe me, & take vp my crosse vpon thy shoulders. But he was disconforted because of that saiyng, and went away mournyng, for he had great possession.

And when Jesus had loked rounde about, he said vnto his disciples. * How vneasy shall they that haue money enter into the kingdome of god. And the disciples were astonied at his wordes. But Jesus answereth again, & saith vnto the: childzen, how hard is it for the that trustest in money, to enter into the kyngdome of God. It is easier for a Camel to go thorow the eye of a needle, then for the riche to enter into the kingdome of God.

And they were astonied out of measure, saiyng betwene them selues: who then can be saued? Jesus loked vpon the, & said: with men it is impossible, but not with God: for * with God all thinges are possible. And Peter began to saye vnto him: Loe, we* haue forsaken all, and haue folowed the. Jesus answered, and said Verely I say vnto you, there is no man that hath forsaken house, or Brethren, or Sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or childre or landes for my sake and the gospels, but he shal receiue an hundred fold now in this life, houses, & brethren, & sisters, & mother, & childzen, & landes, with persecutions: and in the world to come, eternal life. * But many that are first shalbe last, & the last first. And they were in the way goyng vp to Jerusalem. And Jesus went before them, and they were amased, & folowed, and were afrayed. And Jesus toke the twelue againe, & began to tell the what thinges should happen vnto him. * Behold we go vp to Hierusalem, and the sonne of man shalbe deliuered vnto the hie Priestes and vnto the Scribes: & they shal condemne him to death, and shal deliuer him to the Gentiles, and they shal mocke him, and scourge him, spit vpõ him and kyll him. And the thirde day he shall ryse agayne. * And James and John the sonnes of zebede came vnto him, saiyng: Maister, we would that thou shouldest do for vs whatsoeuer we desire. He said vnto the: what would ye that I should do for you? They said vnto him: Graunt vnto vs, that we may sit, one on thy right hãd the other on thi left hãd, in thy glory. But Jesus said vnto the: Ye wotte not what ye aske: Can ye drynke of the cup that I drynke of? and be baptised with the baptisme that I am baptised with? And they said vnto hym: that we can. Jesus said vnto them: Ye shall in dede drynke of the cuppe that I drynke of, and wyth the baptisme that I am baptised wythall, shall ye be Baptised in, but to sitte on my right hande, and on my left hand, is not myne to geue, but it shal happen vnto them, for whom it is prepared.

* And when the ten heande it, they beganne to disdayne at James and John. But Jesus when he hadde called them to hym, said vnto them: ye knowe that * they whiche are sene to beare rule amonge the people, raigne as Lordes ouer theim. And they that be greate among the, exercise authoritie vpon the, Nevertheles, so shalit not be amõg you: but who soeuer of you wil be great among you, shalbe your minister. And whosoeuer of you wil be chefe, shalbe seruaũt of all. For * the sonne of man also came not to be ministred vnto: but to minister, & to geue his life for the redẽptiõ of many. And they came to Jericho: * and as he went out of the citye of Hierycho, with his disciples, and a greate number of people, blynde Bartimeus, the sonne of Timeus, sate by the high wayes side beggyng. And when he hearde that it was Jesus of Nazareth, he beganne to crye, and saye: Jesus, thou sonne of Dauid, haue mercy on me. And many rebuked him, that he should hold his peace. But he cried the more a great deale: Thou Sonne of Dauid haue mercye on me. And Jesus stode still, and commaunded him to be called. And they called the blynde, saiyng vnto him: Be of good comforte: ryse, he calleth the. And he threwe awaye his cloake, and rose, and came to Jesus. And Jesus answered, and said vnto hym: What wylte thou that I do vnto thee? The blinde said vnto hym: Maister that I myght see. Jesus said vnto him: Go thy waye, thy faieth hath saued thee. And immediatlye he receiued his sight, and folowed Jesus in the waye.

The. xi. Chapter.

AND when they came nye to Hierusalem vnto Bethphage, and Bethany, beside mounte Oliuete, he sendeth foorthe two of his disciples, and sayeth vnto them: Goo your way into the towne, that is ouer against you. And as sone as ye be entred into it: ye shall fynde a colte bounde, wheron neuer man sate: lose him, and bryng him hether. And if anye manne saye vnto you, why do you so? Saye ye that the Lord hath nede of him: and straight way he will sende him hether. And they wente their waye, & founde the colte tyed by the doze without in a place where two wayes mette, and they loosed hym. And diuers of theim that stode there, said vnto them: * What do ye loosynge the colte?

And they saied vnto them: euen as Iesus had commaunded, And they let them go. And they brought the colte to Iesus, and caste their garmentes on him: and he sate vpon him. And many spredde their garmentes in the way. Other cutte downe braunches of the trees, and strawed them in the waie. And they that went before, and they that followed, cried, saiynge: Hosanna, * blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord. Blessed be the kingdome that cometh in the name of him, that is lord of our father Dauid. Hosanna in the hieste. And the lord entred into Ierusalē, into the temple. And whē he had loked round about vpō al things, and now the euentide was come, he went out vnto Bethany with the twelue. * And on the morowe, when they were comme oute from Bethany, he hongred. And when he had spied a figge tre a farre of, hauyng leaues, he came to se, if he might find any thing therō. And when he came to it, he founde nothing but leaues. for the time of figges was not yet. And Iesus answered and said vnto the figge tree: neuer manne eate fruite of the hereafter while the worlde standeth. And his disciples hearde it. And they came to Hierusalem. And Iesus wente into the temple, and began to * caste out them that solde and bought in the temple, and ouer threw the tables of the money chaungers, & the stoles of the that solde doues: and wolde not suffer that anye manne should cary a vessell through the temple. And he taught, saiyng vnto them: * Is it not written: my house shalbe called the house of prayer vnto all nacions? But ye haue made it a denne of theues. And the Scribes and high Priestes hearde it, and sought howe to destroy him. * For they feared him, because al the people marueyled at his doctrine. And when euen was come, Iesus went out of the citye. * And in the morning as they passed by, they saw the figge tree dried vp by the roote. And Peter remembred, and saied vnto him: Master, behold the figge tre which thou cursedst, is withered awaye. And Iesus answered and saied vnto them: haue confidence in God. * Verely I saie vnto you, that whosoeuer shall saye vnto this mountayne: remoue, & cast thy selfe into the sea, and shal not doubte in his herte, but shall beleue that those thinges which he saith shall come to passe, what soeuer he sayeth, he shall haue. Therefore I saie vnto you: * what thinges soeuer ye desire, when ye pray, beleue that ye receiue thē, and ye shall haue them. And when ye stande and praye, * forgeue, if ye haue ought against any man: that your father also which is in heauen, maye forgeue you your trespaces.

And they came againe to Hierusalem. * And as he walked in the temple, there came to him the high Priestes and the Scribes, and the elders, and saie vnto him: By what auctoritie doest thou these thinges? and who gaue the this auctoritie to do these thinges? Iesus answered, and saied vnto them: I will also aske of you a certaine thing, and answere me, and I will tell you by what auctoritie I do these thynges. The Baptisme of Iohn, whether was it from heauen, or of men? Answere me. And they thought in them selues, saiyng: If we saye from heauen, he will saye: why then did ye not beleue him? But if they had saied, of men: they feared the people, For all menne counted Iohn, that he was a verye Prophete. And they answered and said vnto Iesus: we can not tell. And Iesus answered, and saied vnto them: neither will I tell you, by what auctoritie I do these thinges.

And he began to speake vnto them by parables. A certayne man planted * a Vyneyarde, and compassed it about with an hedge, and ordeyned a wine pressle, and built a tower and let it oute to hire vnto husbandmen, and went into a straung countrey. And when the tyme was come, he sent to the husbandmen a seruaunte that he might receaue of the husbandemen, of the fruite of the Vyneyarde. And they caught him, and beate him, and sent him agayne emptye. And moze ouer, he sent vnto them another seruaunt, and at him they cast stones, and brake his heade, and sent him away agayne all to rented. And agayne, he sent another, and him they killed, and manye other, beatyng some, and killyng some. And so when he hadde yet but one beloued sonne, he sente hym also at the laste vnto theim, saiyng: they will feare my sonne. * But the husbandmen saied among them selues: this is the heire: come * let vs kyll him, and the enheritaunce shall be ours. And they toke hym, and killed him, and cast him out of the vyneyarde. What shall therefore the Lorde of the vyneyarde do? He shall come and destroy the husbandmen, and let out the vyneyarde vnto other. Haue ye not redde this scripture: * The stone which the builders did refuse, is become the chiefe stone of the corner: this is the Lordes doynge, and it is marueylous in our eyes. They went about also to take him, and feared the people. For they knew that he had spoken the Parable against them. And they left him, and went their way.

* And they sente vnto him certaine of the Pharisees, and Herodes seruauntes, to take him in his woordes. And as sone as they were come, they saied vnto hym: Master, we knowe that thou art true, & carest for no man: for thou considerest not the outwarde appearaunce of menne, but teachest the way of God truely. Is it lawfull to paye tribute to Cesar, or not? Ought we to geue, or ought we not to geue? But he vnderstode their simulation, and saied vnto them: Why tempte ye me me? Bryng me a penye, that I may see it. And they brought it. And he saith vnto them: Whose is this ymage and superscription? And they said vnto him, Cesars. And Jesus answered and said vnto them: * Geue to Cesar the thinges that belongeth to Cesar: & to God the thinges that perteine to God. And they marueiled at him. Rom. xiij.b Math. xvii.c and xxii.c.

Then came also vnto him the Sadduces, * which saie that there is no resurrection. And they asked him, saiyng: Master, * Moses wrote vnto vs, if any mans brother dye, and leaue his wife behind him, and leaue no childre: that his brother should take his wife & raise vp seede vnto his brother. There were seuen brethren, and the first toke a wife, and when he died, left no seede behind him. And the second toke her, and died, neither left he any seede. And the third likewise. And seuen had her, & left no seede behind them. Last of al the wife died also. In the resurrection therefore, when they shal rise againe, whose wife shall she be of the? For seuen had her to wife. And Jesus answered, & said vnto them. Do ye not therefore erre, because ye vnderstand not the Scriptures, neither the power of God? For when they shall rise againe from deathe, they neither marye, nor are maried: but are as the angels which are in heuen. As touching the deade, that they rise againe: haue ye not reade in the booke of Moses, how in the bush god spake vnto him, saiyng: * I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob? He is no God of dead, but the God of liuyng. Ye are therefore greatly deceued. Mat. xxii.a Mark. xii.a Luke. xx.a and xxxviii.a Exo. c.iij.b Math. xxii.c. Luke. x.c. Mat. xxii.d

* And when there came one of the Scribes, and had heard them disputyng together (and perceiued that he had answered them well) he asked him: which is the first of all the commaundementes? Jesus answered him. The first of al the cõmaundementes is: Heare O Israel. * The lord our god is Lorde onely. And thou shalt loue the Lorde thy God with al thy hert, & with al thy soule, & with al thy mind, and with al thy strength. This is the first commaundement. And the second is like vnto this: * Thou shalt loue thy neighbour as thy selfe. There is none other commaundement greater then these. And the Scribe said vnto him: well master, thou hast said the truth, for there is one God, and there is none but he. And to loue him with all the herte, & with all the minde, & with all the soule, and with all the strength, & to loue a mans neighboure as him selfe, is a greater thing then al burnt offerynges & sacrifices. And when Jesus saw that he answered discretly, he said vnto him: Thou art not farre frõ the kingdome of god. And no manne after that, durst aske him anye question. And Jesus answered and said, teachyng in the temple: howsaie the scribes that Christ is the sonne of Dauid? For Dauid him selfe inspired with the holy ghost saied: Deu. vi.a Math. xxii.d. Leui. xix.d Mat. xxii.b Rom. xiii.c Gal. v.c, Jac. ij.b Mat. v.g Psa. cx.a

The lord saide vnto my lord, sit on my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy foote stole. Dauid him selfe calleth him Lorde: and how is he then his sonne? And much people heard him gladly. And he said vnto them in his doctrine: beware of the scribes, * which loue to go in long clothing: and loue salutation in the market places, and the chiefe seates in the congregations, and the vppermoste rowmes at feastes: which deuoure widowes houses, and vnder a pretence, make long prayers. These shall receiue greater dampnation. Mat. xxiii.a Luke. xx.g

And Jesus sate ouer against the treasurye, & beheilde, * howe the people put money into the treasury. And manye that were riche, cast in muche. And there came a certaine poore widdow, & she threw in two mites, whiche make a farthing. And he called vnto him his disciples, and saied vnto them: Verely I saye vnto you: that this poore widow hath cast more in, then al they which haue cast into the treasury. For they all did cast in of their superfluitie: but she of her pouertie, did cast in all that she had, euen all her liuyng. Luke. xxi.a

The. xiii. Chapter.

AND as he went out of the temple, * one of his disciples said vnto him: Maister, see what stones, & what buildinges are here. And Jesus answered & said vnto him: Seest thou these great buildinges? There shal not be lefte one stone vpon another, that shal not be throwen downe. And as he sate on mount Oliuet, ouer against the temple, Peter, and James, and John, & Andrew, asked him secretely: tell vs when shall these thinges be: And what is the signe when al these thinges shalbe fulfilled? And Jesus answered them, & began to saye: * Take hede lest any mã deceiue you. For many shal come in my name, saiyng: I am Christ, and shal deceiue manye. When ye shal heare of warres, and tidynges of warres, be ye not troubled. For suche thinges must needes be. But thende is not yet. For there shal rise nacion against nacion, & kingdome against kingdome, And ther shalbe earthquakes in al quarters, & famishment shal there be, and troubles. Mat. xxiiii.a Luke. xxi.b

These are the beginnynge of sorowes. But take ye hede to your selues. * For they shall bring you vp to the counsails, & into the synagogs, & ye shalbe beaten, yea & shalbe brought before rulers, & kinges for my sake, for a testimonial vnto them. * And the Gospel must first be published among all nacions. But when they lead you, & present you, take ye no thought, neither imagen afore hand what ye shal saie: but whatsoeuer is geuen you in the same houre, that speake. For it is not ye that speake, but the holye ghost. The brother shal deliuer vp the brother to death, and the father the sonne: and the children shal rise against their fathers & mothers, & shal put thē to death. And ye shal be hated of all men for my names sake. But he that endureth vnto the ende, the same shalbe saue. * Moreouer, when ye see the abhominacion of desolacion (wherof is spoken by Daniel the Prophete) stand where it ought not, let him that readeth vnderstande. Then let them that be in Iurye, flye to the mountaines. And let him that is on the house toppe, not go downe into the house, neither enter therin, to fetche any thinge out of his house. And let him that is in the feld, not turne backe again, vnto the thinges which he left behind him, for to take his clothes with him. But wo shalbe then to them that are with childe, and to them that geue sucke in those daies. But praye ye that your flight be not in the winter. For there shalbe in those daies suche tribulacion, as was not from the beginninge of creatures (whiche God created) vnto this time, neither shalbe. And except that the lord would shorten those daies, no flesh should be saued. But for the elects sake, whom he hath chosen, he hath shortened those daies. * And then, if any man say to you, lo, here is Christ, he is there, beleue not. For false Christes, and false Prophetes shall ryse, & shall shewe miracles and wonders, to deceiue, if it were possible, euen the elect. But take ye heede: behold, I haue shewed you all thinges before. Moreouer, in those dayes, after that tribulacion, the sunne shall waxe darke, & the mone shall not geue her light, and the Starres of heauen shall fall: and the powers which are in heauen, shal moue. * And then shal they see the sonne of man sitting in the clowdes, with great power and glorye. And then shall he sende his angels, and shall gather together his elect from the foure windes, frō the ende of the earth, to the vttermost part of heauen.

* Learne a similitude of the figge tree. When his braunche is yet tender, and hath brought forthe leaues, ye knowe that somer is neare. So ye in like maner: when ye see these thinges come to passe: vnderstande, that he is nie euen at the doores. Verely I saye vnto you, that this generation shall not passe, till these thinges be done. Heauen and earth shal passe, but my woordes shall not passe. But of that daye and time knoweth no manne: no not the angelles which are in heauen: neither the sonne him selfe: saue the father onely.

* Take heede, watche and praye, for ye know not when the time is. * As a man which is gone vnto a straunge countrey, and hath lefte his house, and geuen his substaunce to his seruauntes, and to euery man his worcke, and commaunded the porter to watche. Watche ye therefore, for ye knowe not when the maister of the house will come, at euen, or at midnight, whether at the cocke crowinge, or in the dawninge, least, if he come sodainly, he finde you sleapinge. And that I saye vnto you, I saye vnto all, watche. The .xiiij. Cha.

After two daies was Easter, & the daies of swete breade. * And the high Priestes and the Scribes sought howe they myghte take him by crafte, and put him to deathe. But they said: not in the feaste daye, least a rye busines arise amonge the people. * And when he was at Bethania, in the house of Symon the Leper, euen as he sate at meate, there came a woman hauing an alabaster boxe of ointemente, called Narde, that was pure and costlye, and she brake the boxe, and poured it on his head. And there were some that were not content within them selues, & said: what neede this waste of ointment? For it might haue bene solde for more then three hundred pence, and haue bene geuen vnto the poore. And they grudged against her. And Jesus said: Let her alone: Why trouble ye her? She hath done a good worke on me. For ye haue poore with you alwayes: and when soeuer ye will, ye maye do them good: but me haue ye not alwayes. She hath done that she coulde: she came afore hande to annoynte my bodye to the burying. Verely I saye vnto you: where soeuer this Gospel shal be preached throughe oute the whole worlde: this also that she hath done, shall be rehearsed in remembraunce of her. * And Judas Iscariot, one of the twelue, went awaye vnto the high Priestes, to betray him vnto them. Who they hearde that, they were gladde, and promised that they would geue him money. And he sought howe he might conueniently betray him. * And the first daye of swete breade (when they offered the Passeouer) his disciples said vnto him: Where wilt thou that we go and prepare, that thou maiest eat the passe ouer? And he sendeth forth two of his disciples, and saieth vnto them: Go ye into the citye, and there shall mete you a man, bearing a pitcher of water, folowe him: And whether soeuer he goeth in, saye ye to the good man of the house, The maister saieth: Where is the geast chamber, where I shal eate Passeouer with my disciples? And he will shewe you a great Parloure, paued, and prepared, there make ready for vs. And his Disciples went forth, and came into the citye, and founde as he had said vnto them, and they made ready the Passeouer. * And when it was nowe euen tide, he came with the twelue. And as they sate at boorde, and did eate, Jesus said: Verely I saye vnto you: * One of you (that eateth with me) shall betraye me. And they beganne to be sorye, and to saye to him, one by one: Is it I? And another said: Is it I? He answered & said vnto them: It is one of the twelue, euen he that dippeth with me in the platter. The sonne of man truely goeth as it is written of him: but wo vnto that man, by whom who the sonne of man is betraied. Good were it for that man if he had neuer been borne. And as they did eate, Jesus toke bread, & when he had geuen thankes, he brake it, & gaue to the & said. Take, eat, this is my body. And he toke the cup, & when he had geuē thākes, he gaue it to the, & they all dranke of it, & he said vnto the: This is my bloud of the new testament which is shed for many. Verely, I say vnto you: I will drinke nomore of the fruite of the vine, until that daie, that I drinke it new in the kingdome of God. And when they had sayed grace, they went out to mount Oliuet.

And Jesus saieth vnto them: All ye shalbee offended because of me this night. For it is written: I will smite the shepeherd, and the shepe shalbee scattered. But after that I am risē again, I will go into Galile before you.

Zacha. xiii. c. Mat. xxvi. c. Luke. xxii. c. Joh. xiii. d.

Peter said vnto him. And though all menne be offended, yet will not I. And Jesus saith vnto him: Verely I saie vnto thee, that this daie, euen in this nighte, before the Cocke crowe twice, thou shalt deny me three tymes. But he spake more behemently: no, if I should die with thee, I will not denigh thee. Likewise also said they all. And they came into a place, whiche was named Gethsemani. And he said to his disciples: Sit ye here, while I go aside, and pray. And he taketh with him Peter and James and Jhon, and beganne to waxe abashed, & to be in an agonie, and saieth vnto them: My soulle is heauie, euen vnto the death, tary ye here and watche. And he went foorthe a litle, and fell downe flat on the grounde, and prayed, that if it were possible, the houre might passe from him. And he said Abba father, all thynges are possible vnto thee, take away this cuppe from me. Neuerthelesse, not that I will: but that thou wilt, be done. And he came and found the sleepyng, and saieth to Peter: Simon, sleepest thou? Couldest not thou watche one houre? watch ye, and praie, least ye entre into temptacion, the spirite truely is ready, but the flesshe is weake. And again he went aside, and prayed, and spake the same woordes. And he returned, and found them a sleepe again. For their eyes were heauie: neither wist they what to answere hym. And he came the third tyme, and said vnto them, sleepe henceforthe, and take youre ease, it is enough. The houre is come, beholde, the sonne of man is betraied into the handes of synners. Rise vp, let vs go. Lo, he that betraieth me, is at hande. And immediatly while he yet spake, cometh Judas (which was one of the twelue) and with him a great nūbre of people, with swordes and staues, from the hie priestes and Scribes and Elders. And he that betraied him, had geuen them a generall token, saiyng: whosoeuer I do kisse, that same is he, take him & lede him away warely. And assone as he was come, he goeth straight waie to him, & saieth vnto him: Master, master, and kissed him. And they laid their handes on him, & toke him. And one of them that stode by, drue out a sworde, and smote a seruaunt of the hie priest, & cut of his eare. And Jesus answered and said vnto them: ye be come out as vnto a thief with swordes and with staues, for to take me. I was daily with you in the temple, teachyng, and ye toke me not: But these thynges come to passe: that the scriptures should be fulfilled. And they all forsoke him, and ran awaie.

Mat. xxvi. d

And there folowed him a certain young man clothed in linnen vpō the bare, and the yong men caught him, & he left his linnen garment and fled from them naked. And they led Jesus awaie to the highest priest of all, & with him came all the hie priestes, and the elders and the Scribes. And Peter folowed him a greate waie of, euen till he was come into the palace of the hie priest, and he sat with the seruauntes, & warmed himself at the fire.

Mar. xiiii. d. Joh. xviii. d.

And the hie priestes and all the counsell sought for witnesse against Jesu, to putte him to death, and found none: for many bare false witnesse against him, but their witnesses agreed not together. And there arose certain and broughte false witnesse against him, saiyng: We heard him saie: I will destroie this temple that is made with handes, & within. iii. daies I will builde another, made without handes. But yet their witnesse agreed not together. And the hie priest stode vp emongest them, and asked Jesus, saiyng: answerest thou nothyng? How is it that these beare witnes against thee? But he helde his peace, and answered nothyng. Again the hie priest asked him, & said vnto him. Art thou Christ, the sonne of the blessed? And Jesus said: I am. And ye shall se the sonne of man sitting on the right hand of power, & comyng in the cloudes of heauen. Then the hie priest rent his clothes, & said: what nede wee any further of witnesse? ye haue hard blasphemy, what thinke ye? & they al codemned him to be worthy of death. And some beg̃ to spit at him, & to couer his face, & to beate him with fistes: & say vnto him: araede, & the seruauntes buffeted him on the face. And as Peter was beneath in the palace, there came one of the wenches of the hie priest: & when she saw Peter warming himself, she loketh on him, & saith: wast not thou also with Jesus of Nazareth? & he denied saiyng: I know him not, neither wote I what thou saiest. And he went out into the porche, & the cocke crue. And a damosel (when she saw him) beg̃ again to saie to the that stode by: this is one of the. And he denied it again. The xv. Chapter.

AND assone as the morning, the hye priestes helde a counsell with the elders and the Scribes, and the whole congregation, & bounde Jesus, and ledde him away, and delivered him to Pilate. And Pilate asked him, art thou the kyng of the Jewes? And he answered and said vnto him: Thou sayest it. And the hye priestes accused him of many things. And Pilate asked him again, saying: Answerest thou nothing? Beholde howe many thinges they laye vnto thy charge. Jesus yet answered nothing, so that Pilate marveiled. At that feast Pilate did deliver vnto them a prisoner: whom soever they would desire. And there was one that was named Barrabas, which laye bounde with them that made insurrection: he had committed murther. And the people called vnto him, & began to desire him that he would do accordyng as he had ever done vnto them. Pilate answered them, saying: Will ye that I let louse vnto you the kyng of the Jewes? For he knew, that the hie priestes had delivered him of envye. But the hie priestes moved the people that he should rather deliver Barrabas, vnto them. Pilate answered againe and said to them: What will ye then that I do vnto him whō ye call kyng of the Jewes. And they cryed againe, Crucifie him: Pilate said vnto them: What evel hath he done? And they cried the more fervently: Crucifie him. And so Pilate willyng to content the people, let loose Barrabas vnto them, & delivered vp Jesus (when he had scourged him) for to be crucified. Then the souldiers led him away into the comenhal, & called together the whole multitude, & they clothed him with purple, and they platted a crowne of thornes, & crowned him withal, and began to salute him: Haile king of the Jewes. And they smote him on the heade with a rede, & did spitte vpon him, & bowed their knees, & worshipped him. And when they had mocked him, they toke the purple of him, & put his owne clothes on him, & led him out to crucifie him. And they copelled one that passed by, called Simon of Syrene, (the father of Alexander and Rufus) which came out of the feld, to bear his crosse. And they brought him to a place named Golgotha (which is, in a man interprete it: the place of dead mens scull) & they gave him to drink wine myngled with Mirre, but he received it not. And when they had crucified him, they parted his garmentes, castyng lottes vpon them, what everye manne should take. And it was about the thirde houre, and they crucified him. And the title of his cause was written: The king of the Jewes. And they crucified with him two theves, the one on the right hande, and the other on his left. And the scripture was fulfilled, which saieth: he was counted among the wicked. And they that went by, railed on him: waggyng their heades, and saying: A wretche! thou that destroyest the tēple, & buildest it in thre daies, saue thy selfe, & come downe from the crosse. Likewise also mocked him the hie priestes among them selves with the Scribes, & said: he saued other men, him self he can not saue. Let Christ the kyng of Israel descend now from the crosse, that we maye se, and beleve. And they that were crucified with him checked him also. And when the sixt houre was come: darkenes arose ouer all the earth, vntil the ninth houre. And at the ninth hour Jesus cried with a loude voyce, saying: Eloi, Eloi, lamasabathani: which is (if one interprete it) my God my God, why hast thou forsaken me? And some of them that stode by, when they heard that, said: behold, he calleth for Helias. And one ranne, & filled a spounge full of vynegre, and put it on a rede, and gave him to drinke, saying: let him alone, let us see whether Helias wil come & take him downe. But Jesus cried with a loude voyce, & gave vp the ghost. And the vayle of the temple did rent in two peces, from the top to the bot tome. And when the Centurion (which stode before him) sawe, that he so cried, and gave vp the ghost, he said: Truely this man was the sonne of God. There were also women a good waye of, beholdyng him: among whom was Mary Magdalene, & Marye the mother of James the lesse, & of Joses, and Marye Salome, (which also when he was in Galile, had followed him, and ministred vnto him) and many other women, which came vp with him vnto Hierusalem. And nowe when the euen was come, (because it was the daye of preparyng, that goeth before the Sabboth) Joseph of the citye of Aramathia, a noble counceloure, which also loked for the kingdome of god, came and went in boldelye vnto Pilate, and begged of him the bodye of Jesu. And Pylate marveyled that he was already dead, and called vnto him the Centurion, and asked hym, whether he hadde bene any while deade. And when he knewe of the trueth of the Centurion, he gave the bodye to Joseph. And he bought a linnen clothe, and toke him downe, and wrapped him in the linnen clothe, and layed him in a Sepulchre, that was hewen out of the rocke, & rouled a Stone before the doore of the Sepulchre. And Mary Magdalene, and Marye Joses, beheld where he was layed. ¶

The

And when the Sabboth was past, Mary Magdalene, and Mary Iacob, & Salome, bought swete odoures, that thei might come, & anoynt him. And early in the morning the first day of the Sabboth thei came vnto the sepulchre, when the Sunne was risen. And thei said among them selues: who shal rolle away the stone for the doore of the sepulchre? And when thei loked, thei sawe how that the stone was rolled awaye, for it was a very great one. And thei went into the sepulchre, and sawe a younge man sytynge on the right syde, clothed in a longe white garment, & thei were afraied. And he saieth vnto thē. Be not afrayed, ye seke Iesus of Nazareth, which was crucified. He is risē, he is not here. Behold the place where they had put him. But go your waie, and tel hys disciples, and Peter, that he goeth before you into Galile, ther shal ye se him, as he said vnto you. And thei went out quickly, and fled from the sepulchre. For thei trembled, & were amased. Neither said thei any thing to any man, for thei were afearied. Now when Iesus was risen early the first daie after the Sabboth, he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, out of whome he had cast seuen deuels. And she went, and tolde them that were with him, & thei mourned and wept. And thei, whē thei herde that he was alyue, and had appeared vnto her, beleued it not. After that appeared he vnto two of them, in a straunge figure, as thei walked, and went into the countrie. And thei went, & told it to the remnaunt. And thei beleued not these also. At the laste afterwarde he appeared vnto the eleuen as thei sat at meate: and cast in their teeth their vnbeleefe, & hard hert: because they beleued not them which he had sene that he was risen againe frō the dead. And he said vnto them: Go ye into all the worlde, and preache the gospel to al creatures, he that beleueth and is baptysed, shalbe saued. But he that beleueth not, shalbe dampned. And these tokens shal folow them that beleue. In my name shal they cast out deuels, thei shal speake with new tōges, thei shal driue away serpentes. And yf thei drincke any deadly thing, it shall not hurte thē. Thei shal laye their hādes on the sicke, and thei shal recouer. So then, when the Lorde had spoken vnto them, he was receaued into heauen, and is on the right hāde of God. And thei went forth and preached euery where: the Lorde working with them, & confirmed the word with miracles folowynge.

The Gospel of S. Luke.

For as much as many haue taken in hande to set forth the declaration of those thinges which are most surely to be beleued amonge vs, euen as thei deliuered them vnto vs, which from the beginninge, sawe them selues with their eyes, and were ministers of the thinges that are declared: it determined also me (as one that hath searched out diligently all thinges from the beginninge) to write vnto the, good Theophilus: that thou mightest know the certeintie of those thinges, wherein thou hast ben instructed.

There was in the dayes of Herode the kynge of Iewrye, a certayne priest named Zacharias, of the course of Abia. And his wyfe was of the doughters of Aaron: and her name was Elizabeth: thei were bothe righteous before God, and walked in all the lawes and ordinaunces of the Lord that no man coulde fynde faute with them. And thei had no child, because that Elizabeth was baren, and they both were now wel stricken in age. And it came to passe, that whan Zacharye executed the hie priestes office, before God, as hys course came (according to the custome of the priestes office) his lot fel to burne incense. And he went into the temple of the Lorde, & the whole multitude of the people were without in prayer, while the incense was a burning. And there appeared vnto him an Angel of the Lord, standing on the right side of the aultare of incense. And when Zacharias sawe him, he was abashed, and feare came on him. But the angel said vnto him: feare not Zacharie, for thy prayer is hoard. And thy wife Elizabeth shal beare the a sonne, & thou shalte cal his name Iohn, and thou shalt haue ioye & gladnes, & many shal reioyce at his birthe. For he shalbe great in the sight of the Lord, and shal neither drincke wine, nor stronge drincke, and he shalbe filled with the holye ghoste, euen from his mothers wombe: and many of the children of Israel shall turne to their Lord God. And he shal go before him in the spirit, and power of Helias: to turne the hartes of the fathers to the children, and the vnbeleuers to the wysedome of the iuste men, to make ready a perfecte people for the Lorde. And Zacharias said vnto the angel: by what token shal I know this? For I am olde, & my wyfe wel stricken in yeares. And the angel answered, and said vnto him: I am Gabriel, that stād in the presence of God, & am sent to speake vnto the: & to shewe the these glad tidinges. And behold, it shal come to passe, that thou shalt be domme, & not be able to speake, vntil the daie that these thinges marueiled that he taried in the temple. And when he came out, he could not speake vnto them. And they perceaued that he had seene a vision in the temple. And he beckened vnto them, and remained speachlesse. ¶ And it forfound, that as soone as the daies of his office were oute, he departed into his owne house. And after those daies, his wife Elizabeth conceaued, and hid her selfe. 5. monethes saiynge: This wyse hath God dealte with me, in the daies wherin he hathe loked on me, to take from me my rebuke amõg men.

And in the sixt moneth the angel Gabriel was sent from God vnto a citie of Galile, named Nazareth, to a virgin spoused to a man, whose name was Joseph, of the house of Dauid, and the virgins name was Mary.
And the angel went in vnto her, & said: Haile full of grace, the Lorde is with the: blessed art thou among women. When he sawe him, she was abashed at his saiyng, and caste in her mind, what maner of salutacio that shold be. And the angel said vnto her: feare not Marie: for thou haste founde grace with God. Beholde, thou shalt conceaue in thy wombe, and beare a sonne, and shalt call his name Jesus. He shalbe great, and shalbe called the sonne of the hiest. And the Lord God shall geue vnto him the seat of his father Dauid, and he shall reaigne ouer the house of Jacob for euer, and of his kingdom there shalbe none ende. Then said Mary vnto the angel: How shall this be, seynge I know not a man? And the angel answered, and said vnto her: The holy ghost shall come vpon thee, and the power of the hiest shall ouershadowe the. Therefore also that holy thing whiche shalbe borne shalbe called the sonne of God.
And behold, thy cosyn Elizabeth, she hathe also conceaued a sonne in her age. And this is her sixt moneth, which was called barren: for with god shall nothing be vnpossible.
And Marie said: behold the handmayde of the Lord, be it vnto me according to thy word. ¶ And the angel departed frõ her. ¶ And Marie arose in those daies, and went into the mountaynes with hast into the citie of Jewrie, and entred into the house of zacharie, and saluted Elizabeth. And it fortuned, that whã Elizabeth harde the salutacio of Marie, the babe sprange in her wombe. And Elizabeth was filled with the holy ghoste, and cryed with a loude voice, and said: Blessed art thou amonge women, and blessed is the fruite of thy wombe. And whence happeneth this to me, that the mother of my Lord should come vnto me? For lo, as sone as the voyce of thy salutacio sounded in myne eares, the babe sprange in my wombe for ioye. And blessed art thou that hast beleued: for those thinges shalbe performed, which were told the from the Lord. And Marie said: ¶ My soule magnifieth the Lord. And my spirit hath reioyced in God my sauioure. For he hath loked on the lowe degree of his handmaide: for lo, nowe from hence forthe shal al generacions cal me blessed. Because he that is mighty, hath done to me great thinges, & holy is his name. And his mercy is on them that feare him, from generacion to generacio. He hath shewed strength with his arme, he hath scattered them that are proude in the imagination of their hert. He hath put downe the mighty frõ their seates, and exalted them of lowe degree. He hath filled the hõgry with good thinges: & sent away the rich empty. He hath holpen his seruaunt Israel, in remẽbraunce of his mercy. Euen as he promised to our fathers, Abraha, and to his sede for euer. And Marie abode with her about a thre monethes, & returned againe to her owne house.
¶ Elizabeth's time came that she shold be deliuered, & she brought forth a sonne. And her neighbours, and her cosins heard howe the Lord had shewed great mercy vpõ her, and they reioyced with her. And it fortuned that in the eight daie, they came to circumcyse the childe: & called his name zacharias, after the name of his father. And his mother answered, and said: not so, but he shalbe called Joha. And they said vnto her: There is none in thy kinred, that is named with this name. And they made signes to his father how he would haue him called: and he asked for writing tables, and wrote, saiynge: His name is Jhon. And they marueiled all. And his mouth was opened immediatlye, & his tonge also, and he spake, & praised God. And feare came on al them that dwelt nye vnto thẽ. And al these saiynges were noised abrode through out al the hyl countrey of Jewrie: & all they that hearde them, laied them vp in their hartes, saiyng: What maner of childe shall this be? And the hãde of the Lord was with him.
And his father zacharias was filled with the holy ghost, & prophecied, saiyng: Blessed be the Lorde God of Israel, for he hath visited and redemed his people: ¶ And hath raised vp an horne of saluacion vnto vs in the house of his seruaũt Dauid. Euen as he promised by the mouth of his holy prophetes, which were sence the world began. That we should be saued frõ our enemies, & frõ the hande of all that hate vs. That he would deale mercifully with our fathers, and remẽbre his holy couenaũt: And that he would performe the othe, which he sware to our father Abraham, for to geue vs. That we deliuered out of the handes of oure enemyes, might serue him without feare all the daies of our lyfe, in such holines, & righteousnes as are accept before him. And thou childe shalt be called the Prophet of the hyest: for thou shalt go before the face of the Lorde, to prepare his wayes: to geue knowlege of sal-uacion vnto his people for the remission of synnes, through the tender mercy of oure God, wherebi the day sprynge from an hye hath visited vs. * To geue light to them that sate in darcknesse, and in the shadow of death, to guide oure fete into the ways of peace. And the child grew, & waxed strong in spirit, & was in wilderness, til the day came, when he should shewe him selfe vnto the Israelites.

AND it chaunced in those dayes: that there went out a commaundement from Augustus the Emperour, that al the world should be taxed. And this taxynge was the first, & executed when Syrenius was lieftenaunt in Syria. And every man went into his owne ci-tie to be taxed. And Joseph also ascended from Galile, out of a citie called Nazareth, into Jewrie, vnto the citie of Dauid, which is called Bethleem, because he was of the house & linage of Dauid, to be taxed with Marie his spoused wife, which was with childe.

And it fortuned that while they were there, her time was come that she should be deliuered. And she brought forth her first begotte sonne, & wrapped him in swadling clothes, & laied him in a manger, because there was no roume for them in the ynne. And there were in the same region shepherdes watching, & keeping their flocke by night. And lo, the angel of the Lord stode harde by them, and the brightnes of the Lord shone rounde about them, & they were sore afraied. And the angel said vnto them: Be not afraied. For beholde, I bring you tidinges of great ioye, that shall come to al people: for vnto you is borne this daie in the citie of Dauid, a sauiour, which is Christ the Lorde. And take this for a signe: ye shall finde the childe wrapped in swadling clothes, & laid in a maunger. And straight waie there was with the angel, a multitude of heauenly soudiers, praisynge God, & saynge: Glorye to God on hie, & peace on the earth, & vnto men a good will. And it fortuned, as soone as the angels were gone awaie from them into heauen, the shepherdes said one to another: let vs go now & se vnto Bethleem, & see this thing that is happened, which the Lord hath shewed vnto vs. And they came with haste, and founde Marie & Joseph, & the babe laid in a manger. And when they had sene it, they published abrode the saying which was told them of that childe. And al they that heard it, wondred at those thinges which were told them of the shepherdes. But Marie kept all these sai-inges, & pondred them in her harte. And the shepherdes returned, praisynge & laudynge

Behold, thy father, and I haue sought the sorowing. And he said vnto them: how is it that ye sought me? Wist ye not, that I must go about my fathers busynes? And they vnderstode not that saying, which he spake vnto them. And he went down with them, and came to Nazareth, and was obedient vnto them. But his mother kept all these sayings together in her heart. And Iesus prospered in wysdome, and age, and in fauour with God, and men.

The. iii. Chapter.

In the. xv. yere of the raigne of Tiberi* the Emperour, Pontius Pilate beyng liefetenaunte of Iewrie, and* Herode beyng Tetrarch of Galile, and his brother Philip Tetrarch of Iturea, and of the region of the Trachonites, and Lisanias the Tetrarch of Abiline (when Anna, and Caiphas were the hye priestes) the word of the Lorde came vnto Iohn the sonne of Zacharias in the wyldernes. And he came into all the coastes about Iordan, preaching* the baptisme of repentaunce for the remission of synnes, as it is written in the boke of the wordes of Esaias the prophet, saying: * The voyce of a crier in wildernesse: prepare ye the waie of the Lorde, make his pathes straight. Every valley shalbe filled, and every mountaine and hil shalbe brought low. And thinges that be crooked, shalbe made streight: & the rough wayes shalbe made plaine. And all flesh shall se the saluacion of God. Then said he to the people, that were come forth to be baptised of him. * O ye generacion of vipers, who hathe taught you to flye from the wrath to come? Bringe forth therefore due frutes of repentaunce, and begin not to saye within your selues: we haue Abraham to our father. For I saye vnto you: God is able of these stones to rayse vp children vnto Abraham. Nowe also is the axe layde vnto the rote of the trees: * every tree therefore which he bringeth not forth good frute is hewen downe, and cast into the fyre. And the people asked him, saying: What shall we do then? He answereth, and saieth vnto them: He that hath two coates, let him part with him that hath none, and he that hath meate, let him do likewise. Then came the publicanes also to be baptised, and said vnto him: Master, what shall we do? He said vnto them: require no more, then that which is appointed vnto you. The soudyours likewyse demaunded of him, saying: & what shall we do? And he said vnto them: hurt no man neither trouble any man wrongfully: and be content with your wages. As the people were in a doute, and all men mused in their hartes of Iohn, whether he were not Christ, Iohn answered, and said vnto them all: * I baptise you with water, but one stronger then I, shall come after me, whose shoe latchet I am not worthie to vnlowse: he shall baptise you with the holy ghost, & with fire: * which hath his fanne in his hande, and wyl purge his floure, & gather the corne into his barne: but the chaffe wil he burne with fyre that neuer shalbe quenched. And many other thynges in his exhortation preached he vnto the people. Then Herode the Tetrarch (when he was rebuked of him for Herodias his brother Philippes wyfe, and for all the euyls which Herod did) added this aboue all, & laied Iohn in prison. And it fortuned that when all the people were baptised, & when Iesus was baptised, & did praie, the heauen was opened, and the holy ghost came downe in a bodely shape like a doue vpon him, and a voice came from heauen which said: * Thou art my beloued sonne, in the do I delite. IT came to passe that (when the people prassed vpon him, to heare the worde of God) he stode by the lake of Genezareth: & saw two shippes stande by the lake syde, but the fishermen were gone out of them, & were washing their nettes. And he entred into one of the shippes (whiche pertained to Simon) and praied him that he would thrust out a litel frō the lande. And he sat downe & taught the people out of the ship. When he had left speaking, he said vnto Simō: Launche oute into the depe, & let slip youre nettes to make a draught. And Simon answered, & said vnto him: Master, we haue laboured al night, and haue taken nothing. Neuerth: lesse, at thy cōmaundement, I wil lose forth the net. And when thei had this done, thei inclosed a great multitude of fyshes. But their net brake, & thei beckened to their felowes (whiche were in the other ship) that thei should come, and helpe them. And thei came, & filled bothe the shippes that thei souncke againe. When Simon Peter saw this, he fel downe at Iesus knees, saienge: Lorde, go from me, for I am a synful man. For he was astonied, and al that were with him, at the draught of fyshes, whi che thei had taken: and so was also James, & John the sonnes of Zebede, which were partyners with Simō. And Joanna the wife of Chuza Herodes Stewarde, & Susanne, & many other, which ministred vnto him of their substance. When many people were gathered together, & were come to him out of al cities, he spake by a similitude. A sower went out to sowe his seede: & as he sowed, some fel by the way side, & it was troden downe, and the foules of the ayre deuoured it vp. And some fel on a stone, & as sone as it was sprong vp, it withered away, because it lacked moisture. And some fel amōg thornes, & the thornes sprong vp with it, & choked it. And some fel on good grounde, & sprange vp, & bare frute, an hundred folde. And as he said these thinges he cryed: He that hath eares to heare, let him heare.

And his disciples asked him, saying: what maner of similitude is this? And he said: vnto you it is geuē to know the secretes of the kingdome of God: but to other by parables: that when they se, they should not se, & when they heare, they should not vnderstande. The parable is this. The sede is the worde of God. Those that are beside the waye, are they that heare, then commeth the deuel, and taketh awaye the worde out of their hertes, least they shold beleue, and be saued. They on the stones, are they whiche when they heare, receaue the word with ioye, & these haue no rotes: which for a while beleue, and in tyme of temptacion go awaie. And that which fell among thornes, are they whiche when they haue herde, go forth, & are choked with cares & riches, & voluptuous liuing, & bring forth no frute. That which fel in the good grounde, are they, which with a pure & good hert heare the worde, and kepe it, and bring forth frute thorow pacience. No man when he lighteth a candel, couereth it with a vessel, or putteth it vnder a table, but setteth it on a candelsticke, that they which enter in, may se the light. For nothing is in secrete, that shall not come abrode. Neither any thing hid, that shal not be knowen, & come to light. Take hede therfore, how ye heare. For whosoeuer hath, to him shalbe geuen: & whosoeuer hathe not, frō him shalbe taken euen that same which he supposeth that he hath. Then came to him his mother, and his brethren, and could not come at him for preace. And it was tolde him, and sayde: Thy mother and thy brethren stande without, and would se the. He answered, and said vnto them, my mother, and my brethren are these, which heare the word of God, and do it. And it chaunced on a certaine daye, that he went into a ship, & his disciples also, and he sayde vnto them: Let vs go ouer vnto the other syde of the lake. And they launched forthe. But as they sayled he fel a slepe. And there arose a storme of wynde in the lake, and they were filled

D cyled with water, and were in ieopardy. And thei came to him, & awoke him, saiyng: Master, Master, we are lost. Then he arose, & rebuked the winde, & the tempest of water, and thei ceased, & it was calme. And he said vnto them: where is your faith? Thei feared & wondred among them selues, saiyng: What (thinke ye) is this? for he cōmaundeth bothe the windes & water, & thei obey him. And thei sailed vnto the regiō of the Gadarenites, which is ouer against Galile. And when he went out to lande, there met him out of the citie a certaine mā, which had a deuel longe time, & ware no clothes, neither abode in any house: but in graues. Whē he saw Jesus, & had cried, he fel downe before him, & with a loude voice said: * What haue I to do with the Jesus, thou sonne of the God most hieste?
I beseech the, torment me not: for he cōmaunded the foule spirit to come out of the man.
For oftentimes he had caught him, & he was bounde with chaines, & kept with fetters: & he brake the bandes, & was caried of the fed into wildernes. And Jesus asked him saiyng: What is thy name? And he said: Legion, because many deuels were entred into him. And thei besought him that he would not cōmaūde them to go out into the depe. And ther was there, an herde of many swine, feding on an hil: & thei besought him, that he wold suffer them to enter into them. And he suffered them. Then went the deuels out of the man, & entred into the swine. And the heard ran head linge with violence into the lake, and were choked. When the herdmen sawe what had chaunced, thei fled, and tolde it in the citie, and in the villages. And thei came oute to se what was done, and came to Jesus, & founde the man (out of whom the deuels were departed) syttinge at the fete of Jesus, clothed, & in his right minde, and thei were afraied.
Thei also which saw it, tolde them by what meanes he (that was possessed of the deuell) was healed. And al the multitude of the Gaderenites, besought him, that he would depart frō them, for thei were taken with great feare. * And he gat him vp into the ship, & returned backe againe. Then the man (out of whom the deuels were departed) besoughte him that he might be with him. But Jesus sent him awaye, saiyng: Go home againe to thine owne house, & shewe what thinges soeuer God hath done for the. And he wēt his waie and preached thorowe out al the cyte, what thinges soeuer Jesus had done vnto him. And it chaunced that when Jesus was come againe, the people receaued him. For thei al waited for him. * And beholde, there came a man named Jairus (and he was a ruler of the synagoge) and he fel downe at Jesus fete, prayng him, that he would come into his house, for he had but one doughter one ly, vpon a twelue yere of age, & she laie a dy-enge. But as he wēt, the people thrōged him.
* And a woma hauing an issue of bloude. xii. yeres (which had spent al her substaūce vpō Phisicions, neither could be holpen of any) came behinde him, & touched the hem of his vaimēte. Immediatly her yssue of bloud stāuched. And Jesus said: Who is that touched me? Whē euery mā denied, Peter (& thei that were with him) said: Master, the people thrust the, & vexe the, & saiest thou who touched me? And Jesus said: Some body hathe touched me. For I perceaue that vertue is gone out of me. Whē the woma saw that she was not hid, she came trembling, & fel at his fete, & told him before al the people, for what cause she had touched him, and how she was healed immediatly. And he said vnto her: Doughter, be of good cōfort: thy faith hath saued the, go in peace. While he yet spake, there came one frō the rulers of the Sinagages house, which said to him: thy dough-ter is dead, disease not the Master. But whē Jesus harde that word, he answered the father of the damosel: * Feare not, beleue only, & she shalbe made whole. And whē he came to the house he suffred no mā to go in with him saue Peter, James & Jhō, & the father, & the mother of the maid. Euery body wept, & sorowed for her. And he said: Wepe not the damosel is not deade, * but sleepeth: And thei laughed him to scorne, knowing that she was dead. And he thrust them al out, & caught her by the hād, & cried saiyng: Maide, arise. And her spirit came againe, & she rose straighte way. And he cōmaūded to geue her meat. And the father, & the mother of her were astonied.
But he warned them that thei shoulde tel no man what was done. ¶ The ix. Chapter.

JEsus called the xii. together, & gaue them power, & auctoritie ouer al deuels, & that thei might heale diseases. And he sente thē to preach the kingdō of god, & to heale ther breade, * neither money, neither haue two coates: & what soeuer house ye enter into, there abide, and thence departe. And who so euer wil not receaue you, when ye go out of the citie, shake of the very dust from your fete, for a testimony against them. And they departed, and went thorow the townes, preaching the Gospel, & healing euery where. *

ned: and tolde him al that thei had done. ¶ And he toke them, and went aparte into a solitarye place, nye vnto the citie, that is called Bethsaida. Which when the people knewe, they folowed him. And he receaued them, & spake vnto them of the kingdome of God, & healed them that had nede to be healed. ¶ And whē the daie began to weare awaie, thē came the .xii. & said vnto him: Sende the people away, that thei may go into the townes, and next villages and lodge, and get meat, for we are here in a place of wildernes. But he said vnto thē: Geue ye them to eate. And thei said: We haue no mo but .v. loaues, and two fyshes, excepte we should go & bye meat for al this people. And thei were about .v.M. men. ¶ And he said to his disciples: Cause them to sit downe by eyghties in a companie. And thei did so, & made them al to sit downe. And he toke the .v. loaues, & the two fyshes, and loked vp to heauē: and blessed them, and brake, and gaue to the disciples, to set before the people. And thei al did eat, and were satisfyed. And there was taken vp of that remayned to them .xii. basketes full of broken meat. ¶ And it chaunced as he was alone prayinge his disciples were with him, and he asked them saiynge: ¶ Who saie the people that I am? Thei answered, & said: Iho Baptist. Some saie: Helias: and some saye: that one of the olde prophetes is risen. He said vnto them: But who say ye that I am? Simō Peter answered, and said: Thou art the Christ of God. ¶ And he warned, & commaunded them that thei should tel no man that thing, saiynge: The sonne of man must suffre many thinges, & be reproued of the elders, and of the hie priestes, & scribes, & be slaine, and ryse againe the thyrde daie. And he said to them all, yf any man wyll come after me, let him denie him selfe, & take vp his crosse daily, & folow me. For who soeuer wil saue his life, shal lose it. But who soeuer doth lose his lyfe for my sake, the same shal saue it. For what auaunteth it a man if he winne the whole world, & lose him selfe, or tunne in dammage of him selfe. For whoso is ashamed of me, & of my wordes, of him shall the sonne of man be ashamed, when he commeth in his maiestie, and in the maiestie of his father, and of the holy angels. I tel you of a trueth: There be some standynge here, which shal not taste of death, til thei se the kingdome of God. ¶ And it fortuned that about an .viii. daies after these saiynges, he toke Peter and Iohn, and James, and went vp into a mountaine to praye. ¶ And as he praied, the fashion of his countenaunce was chaunged, and his garment was whyte, and shone. ¶ And behold, there talked with him two men, which were Moses, and Helias, that appeared in the maiestie, and spake of his departinge which he should ende at Ierusalem. But Peter, and thei that were with him, were heuie with slepe. And when thei awoke, thei sawe his maiestie, and two men standing with him. ¶ And it chaunced as thei departed from him, Peter said vnto Iesus: Master, it is good being here for vs. Let vs make also thre tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Helias (and wyste not what he sayde,) whyle he thus spake, there came a cloude, and ouershadowed them, and they feared when they were come into the cloude. ¶ And there came a voice out of the cloude, saiynge: * This is my beare sonne, heare him. And as soone as the voyce was paste, Iesus was founde alone. ¶ And thei kept it close: and tolde no man in those daies, any of those thinges which thei had sene. * And it chaunced that on the nexte daye (as they came downe from the hyll) muche people met him. ¶ And behold, a man of the company cryed out, saiynge: Master, I beseche the beholde my sonne, for he is al that I haue, and se a spirit taketh him, and sodenly he crieth, and the knocketh and teareth him, that he foometh againe, and with muche payne departeth from him, when he hath rent him, and * I besought thy disciples to caste him out, & they coulde not. ¶ Iesus answered and sayde: O faithlesse and croked nacion, how longe shal I be with you, and suffre you? Bring thy sonne hyther. ¶ As he was yet a comming, the fende rent him, and tare him. ¶ And Iesus rebuked the vncleane spirit, & healed the child, and deliuered him to his father. * ¶ And they were al amased at the mightie power of God. ¶ But whyle they wondred euery one at al thinges which he did, he sayde vnto his disciples: Let these saiynges syncke downe into your eares. For it wil come to passe: that the * sonne of man shalbe deliuered into the handes of men. ¶ But they wiste not what that worde ment, and it was hid from them, that thei vnderstode it not. ¶ And thei feared to aske him of that saiynge. ¶ And there entred a thought amonge them which of them should be the greatest. ¶ When Iesus perceaued the thoughte of their heartes, * he toke a childe and set him harde by him, and said vnto them: Whosoeuer receaueth this childe in my name, receaueth me. ¶ And whosoeuer receaueth me, receaueth him that sent me. For he that is least amonge you al, the same shalbe greate. ¶ And Iohn answered, and said: Master, we sawe one casting out deuils in thy name, and we forbad him, because he folowed not with vs. ¶ And Iesus said vnto him: * forbid ye him not. For he that is not against vs, is with vs. ¶ And it fortuned when the tyme was come, that he should be receaued vp, he set his face to go to Ierusalem, and sent messengers before him. ¶ And thei went & entred into a citie of the Samaritanes, to make ready for him. ¶ And thei would not receaue him, because his face was as thoughte he would go to Ierusalem. ¶ When his disciples, James & John saw this, they said: Lord, wilt thou that we commande fire to come downe from heauen, & consume them, euen as Helias did? Iesus turned about, & rebuked them, saying: Ye wote not what maner spirit ye are of. For the sonne of man is not come to destroy mens liues, but to saue them. And they went to another towne. ¶ And it chaunced that as they were walking in the waie, a certaine man said vnto him: I will folowe the whether soeuer thou wilt go. Iesus said vnto him: Foxes haue holes, and birdes of the ayre haue nestes: but the sonne of man hath not where to laie his heade. And he said vnto another: folow me. And the same said: Lord, suffre me first to go, and burie my father. Iesus said vnto him. Let the deade burie their dead: but go thou and preache the kingdom of God. And another said: Lord, I will folow the: but let me first go bid them farewel, which are at home at my house. Iesus said vnto him. No man that putteth his handes to the plowe, and loketh backe, is apt to the kyngedome of God.

After these things the Lorde appointed other. lxx. (and two) and also, sent them, two and two before him into euery citie and place, whether he him self would come. Then saide he vnto them: The harueste is great, but the labourers are fewe. Praie ye therefore the lorde of the harueste, to sende forth labourers into his harueste. Go your waies: Behold, I sende you forth as lambes amog wolues. Beare no wallet, neither scrip, nor shoes, & salute no mã by the waie. Into whatsoeuer house ye enter, first saie: Peace be to this house. And if the sonne of peace be there, your peace shall reste vpon him: yf not, it shal turne to you againe. And in the same house tarie stil, eatinge and drinkinge such as they geue. For the labourer is worthye of his reward. Go not from house to house, and into whatsoeuer citye ye entre, and they receaue you, eate suche thinges as are set before you, and heale the sicke that are therein, and saye vnto them: the kingdome of God is come nye vpon you. But into whatsoeuer citie ye enter, and they receaue you not, go your waies out into the stretes of the same, and saye: Euen the very dust of youre citye (which cleaueth on vs) do we wipe of against you. Notwithstanding, be ye sure of this, that the kyngedome of God is come nye vpon you. I saye vnto you: that it shalbe easier in that daye for Sodome, then for that citie. Woo vnto the Chorazin: woo vnto the Bethsaida. For yf the miracles had bene done in Tyre and Sidon, which haue bene done in you, they had (a great whyle a go) repented of their synnes, sytting in hear, cloth, and ashes. Neuertheles, it shalbe easier for Tyre and Sidon, at the iudgement, then for you. And thou Capernaum (which art exalted to heauen) shalt be thrust downe to hell. He that heareth you, heareth me, & he that despiseth you, despiseth me, and he that despiseth me, despiseth him that sent me. And the lxx. turned againe with ioye, saying: Lorde, euen the verie deuels are subdued to vs through thy name. And he said vnto them: I saw Sathanas as it had bene lightening fallinge downe from heauen. Behold, I geue vnto you power, to treade on serpentes, & scorpions, and ouer all maner power of the enemy, and nothing shal hurt you. Neuertheles, in this reioyce not, that the spirites are subdued vnto you: but reioyce, that your names are written in heauen. That same houre reioyced Iesus in the holy ghost, & sayed: I thanke the, O father, Lorde of heauen and earth, that thou hast hid these thinges from the wise and prudent, and hast opened them vnto babes. Euen so father, for so pleased it the. All thinges are geuen me of my father. No man knoweth who the sonne is, but the father: & who the father is, but the sonne, and he to whom the sonne will shewe him. And he turned to his disciples, & said secretlye: Happie are the eyes, which se the thinges that ye se. For I tell you, that many Prophetes, & kinges haue desired to se those thinges, which ye se, and haue not seue them, and to heare those thinges which ye heare, and haue not heard them. And beholde, a certayne lawier rose vp, and tempted him, saynge: Master, what shal I do, to inherit eternall lyfe? He said vnto him: What is written in the lawe? How readest thou? And he answered and said: Loue the Lord thy God, with al thy hart, and with al thy soule, & with all thy strength, and with all thy mynde: and thy neighbour as thy self. And he said vnto him: Thou hast answered right. This do, & thou shalt liue. But he willing to iustifie him self, said vnto Iesus: And who is my neighbour? Iesus answered, and said: A certaine man descended from Ierusalem to Iericho, and fell among theues, which robbed him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leuing him halfe dead. And it chaunced, that there came downe a certaine preest that same way, and when he saw him, he passed by. And likewise a Leuite, when he went nye to the place, came, and loked on him, and passed by. But a certaine Samaritane, as he iourneyed, came vnto him: and when he saw him, he had compassion on him, and went to, and bounde vp his wounden, and powred in oyle and wyne, and set him on his owne beaste, and broughte him to a common inne, and made prouysion for him. And on the morowe when he departed, he toke out

There were present at the same season certaine men that shewed him of the Galileās, whose blood Pylate had mingled with their owne sacrifice. not leaue nintye and nyne in the wildernesse, and goeth after that whiche is lost, until he soone as he cometh home, he calleth together sonne had gathered all that he had together, he toke his iourney into a farre countrey, & Prou. xxix.c * there wasted his goodes with riotous lia greate dearthe in all that lande, and he began to lacke, and went, and came to a citizen of the same countrey, and he sent him to his farme, to kepe swyne. And he would fayne haue filled his belly, with the codes that the swyne did eate, and no man gaue it vnto him.

Then he came to him selfe and saied: howe many hyred seruauntes at my fathers haue breade inoughe? and I perysshe with honger.
I will arise and go to my father, and wil say vnto him: Father, I haue sinned agaynst heauen, and before the, and am no more worthye to be called thy sonne, make me as one of thy hyred seruauntes. And he arose and came to John xiii.c his father. * But when he was yet a greate Luca xxiv.a way of, his father saw him, and had compassion, and ranne, and fell on his necke, and kissed him. And the sonne saied vnto him: Father, I haue sinned againste heauen, & in thy sight, and am no more worthy to be called thy sonne. But the father saied to his seruauntes hyng forth the beste garmente, and put it on him, and put a ryng on his hande, and shoes on his fete. And hyng hether that fat calfe, and kyll it, and lette vs eate and be merye: for this my sonne was dead, and is alyue again, he was lost and is founde. And they began to be merye. The elder brother was in the feld: and when he came and drewe nie to the house he hearde minstrelsye and dauncyng, and called one of his seruauntes, & asked what those thynges ment. And he saied vnto him: thi brother ther is come, and thy father hathe killed the fat caulfe, because he hath receiued him safe and sounde. And he was angrye, and wolde not go in. Then came his father out, & entreated him. He answered and saied to his father: Lo: these many yeares haue I done the seruice, neither brake at any time thy commandement: and yet gauest thou me neuer a kydde to make merry with my frendes: but as soone as this thi sonne was come (which hath deuoured thy goodes with harlotes) thou hast for him killed the fat caulfe. And he said unto him: Sonne, thou art euer with me, and all that I haue is thine: it was meete that we should make merry & be glad, for this thy brother was dead, and is alyue againe: and was lost, and is founde.

A AND he saied also to his disciples: There was also a certain riche man which had a stewarde, & the same was accused unto him that he had wasted his goodes. And he called him, and saied unto him: Howe is it that I heare this of the? Geue accompte of thy stewardshyp. For thou maiest be no longer steward. The steward saied within him selfe: what shall I do? for my master taketh away from me the stewardshyp. I can not dygge, & to begge I am ashamed. I wote what to do, that when I am put oute of the stewardship, they may receiue me into their houses.

B So when he had called all his maisters debtors together, he saied unto the first: Howe muche owest thou unto my master? And he saied: an hundred tunnes of oyle. And he said unto him: Take thy bill, and sit downe quickly, and write fiftye. Then saied he to another: howe muche owest thou? And he saied: an hundred quarters of wheate. He saied unto him: Take thy bill, and write fourescore. And the Lorde commended the vniuste Stewarde, because he had done wisely. For the children of this worlde are in their nation, wiser then the children of light. And I say unto you: make you frendes of the vnrighteouse Mammon, that when ye shal haue nede, they may receiue you into euerlasting habitations.

C He that is faithfull in that whiche is least, is faithfull also in muche. And he that is vnrighteous in the least: is vnrighteous also in much. If then, ye haue not bene faithfull in the vnrighteous Mammon, who will beleue you in that whiche is true? And if ye haue not bene faithfull in another mans busines, who shal geue you that whiche is your owne?

Luke.vi.c. No seruaunt can serue two maisters: for either he shall hate the one and loue the other, or els he shal leane to the one, and despise the other. Ye can not serue God and Mammon.

D All these thinges hearde the Phariseis also, which were couetous: and they mocked him. And he said unto them: Ye are they whiche iustifye your selues before menne, but God knoweth your hartes. For that whiche is highly esteemed among men is abhominable in the sight of God. The lawe and the Prophetes reigned vntill John, and sence that time, the kyngdome of God is preached, and euery man striueth to go in. Easier is it for heauen and earth to perishe, then one title of the lawe to faile. Whosoeuer forsaketh his wife, and marieth another, committeth aduoutery. And he whiche marieth her that is forsaken from her husbande, committeth aduoutery.

E There was a certaine riche man, whiche was clothed in purple and fine white, & fared deliciously euery daye. And there was a certain begger named Lazarus, whiche laye at his gate full of sores, desyringe to be refreshed with the crummes, which fell from the riche mannes boorde. And no man gaue unto him. The dogges came also, & licked his sores. And it is fortuned, that the begger died, and was caried by the Angels into Abrahams bosome. The riche man also died, and was buried.

F And beyng in hell in tormentes, he lifte vp his eyes, and sawe Abraham a farre off, and Lazarus in his bosome, and he cryed and saied: father Abraham, haue mercy on me, and sende Lazarus, that he may dippe the tippe of his finger in water, and coole my tonge: for I am tormented in this flambe. But Abraham said: sonne * remember, that thou in thy life tyme receiuedst thy pleasure, and contrariwise Lazarus receiued paine. But nowe is he cõforted, and thou art punished. Moreouer al this: betwene vs and you there is a greate space set, so that they whiche wolde go frõ hence to you, can not: neither may come from thence to vs. Then he saied: I praye the therefore father, sende him to my fathers house. (For I haue fiue brethren) for to warne them, leaste they also come into this place of torment.

Dothe he thanke that seruaūt, because he did the thinges that were commaūded to him? I trow not. So likewise ye, when ye haue done all those thinges which he are commaunded you, saye: we are vnprofitable seruaunttes, We haue doone that which was our duty to do. ¶ And it chaūced as he went to Hierusalem, that he passed thoro we Samarie and Galile. ¶ And as he entred into a certain towne, there met him ten mē that were Lepers. Whiche stode a farre of, & put forthe there voyces, and said: Iesu master, haue mercy on vs. ¶ When he sawe them, he saied vnto them: * Go shewe your selues vnto the priestes. ¶ And it came to passe, that as they went, they were clensed. And one of them, whē he sawe that he was clensed, turned backe againe, and with a lowde voyce praysed God, and fell downe on his face at his fete, & gaue him thankes. And the same was a Samaritane. ¶ And Iesus answered and said, are there not ten clensed? But where are those nine? There is not founde that returned agayne, to geue God prayse, saue onely this straūger. ¶ And he saied vnto hym: arise, go thy way, thy faith hath made the whole. * When he was demaunded of the Pharisees when the kingdome of God shoulde come: he answered thē and said, ¶ The kingdom of God shal not come with waityng for, neither shall they saye: Lo here, or loe there. And he would not for a while. Yea, though he deferre them I tel you that he will auenge them, and that quickly. * ¶ Nevertheless, when the sonne of man cometh, shall he finde faieth on the earth?

But

But Jesus (when he had called them vnto him) saied: Suffer children to come vnto me, and forbid them not. For of suche is the kingdome of God. Verely I saye vnto you: whosoeuer receiueth not the kingdom of God as a childe, shall not enter therin. And a certayne ruler asked him, saying: Good maister: what ought I to do, to obtaine eternal life? Jesus saied vnto him: Why callest thou me good? None is good, saue God only. Thou knowest the commaundementes. Thou shalt not commit aduoutry. Thou shalt not kyll. Thou shalt not steale. Thou shalt not beare false witnes. Honour thy father and thy mother. And he saied: all these haue I kept from my youth vp. When Jesus hearde that, he saied vnto him: Yet thou lackest one thynge. Sell all that thou hast, and distribute vnto the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in heauen, and come, folowe me. When he hearde this, he was sorye, for he was very ryche.

When Jesus sawe that he was sory, he said: * with what difficultye shall they that haue money enter into the kingdome of God? It is easier for a Camel to go thorow a nedles eye, then for a riche manne to enter into the kyngdome of God. And they that hearde it, saied: And who can then be saued? And he saied: * The thinges whiche are vnpossible with men, are possible with God. Then Peter saied: * Loe, we haue forsaken al, and folowed thee. He saied vnto them: Verely I say vnto you: there is no manne that hath forsaken house, other father or mother, other brethren, or wife, or children (for the kingdom of gods sake) whiche shall not receiue muche more in this worlde, and in the worlde to come, lyfe euerlastyng. Jesus toke vnto him the twelue and saied vnto them: * Beholde, we go vp to Hierusalem, and all shalbe fulfilled that are written by the prophetes of the sonne of man. For he shalbe deliuered to the gentiles, and shalbe mocked, and spitefully entreated, and spitted on: and when they haue scourged him, they will put him to death. * And the third day he shal arise againe. And they vnderstode none of these thinges. And this saiyng was hidde from them, so that they perceiued not the things which were spoken. * And it came to passe, that as he was come nye vnto Hierycho, a certayne blinde man sate by the way side beggyng. And they which went before, rebuked him, that he shold hold his peace. But he cried so much the more: * thou sonne of Dauid haue mercy on me. And Jesus stode still, and commaunded him to be brought vnto him. And when he was come neare, he asked him, saiyng: What wilt thou that I do to thee? And he saied, Lorde: that I may receiue my sight. And Jesus saied vnto him: receyue thy sight, thy faieth hath saued thee. And immediatly he receiued his sight, and folowed him, praysyng God. AND he entred in, & went thorow Hierico. And beholde there was a man named Zacheus, which was a ruler among the Publicans, & was riche also. And he sought meanes to se Jesus what he should be: & could not for the preasse because he was litle of stature. And he came before, & clymed vp into a wilde figge tree, to se him, for he was to come that waie. And when Jesus came to the place, he loked vp & sawe him, & sayde vnto him: Zache, come downe attonce, for to daye I muste abyde at thy house. And he came downe hastely, and receiued him ioyefully. And when they sawe it, they al grudged, saiyng: He is gone in, to tarye with a man that is a sinner. And Zache stode forth, & said vnto the Lorde: beholde Lord, the halfe of my goodes I gene to the poore, and yf I haue done any manne wrong, I restore him foure folde. Jesus said vnto him: this daie is healthe happened vnto this house, because that he also is become the childe of Abraham. * For the sonne of man is come to seke, & to saue that which was lost. And as they hearde these thinges, he added therto a parable, because he was nye to Jerusalem, and because they thought, that the kingdome of God should shortly appeare. He said therfore: * A certain noble man went into a farre countrie, to receaue him a kingdome, and to come againe. And he called his ten seruauntes, & deliuered them ten pounde, saiyng vnto them: Occupie til I come. But his citezians hated him, and sent a message after him, saiyng: we wil not haue this man to raigne ouer vs. And it came to passe, that when he had receaued his kingdom, he returned, & commaunded these seruauntes to be called vnto him (to whom he had geuen the money) to wit how much euery man had done. Then came the first, saiyng: Lord, thy pounde hath gained ten pounde. And he said vnto him: * wel thou good seruaunt: because thou hast ben faithful in a very litel thing, haue thou authorite ouer ten cities. And another came saiyng: Lorde, thy pounde hathe made fyue pounde. And to the same he said be thou also ruler ouer fyue cities. And another came saiyng: Lorde, beholde here is thy pounde, which I haue kept in a napkin. For I feared the, because thou art a straite man: thou takest vp that thou laidest not downe, & reapest that thou diddest not sowe. ¶ And wherefore gauest not thou my monie into the bancke, and at my comming I might haue required mine owne with vauntage? ¶ And he saied vnto them that stode by: take from him that pounde, and geue it him that hath tenne pounde. And they saied vnto him: Lorde, he hath ten pounde. ¶ For I saye vnto you, that * vnto euerye one whiche hath, shalbe geuen, and he that haue abundaunce: and from him that hath not, shalbe taken awai, euē that whi che he hath. ¶ Moreouer, those myne enemies, (whiche would not that I shulde raigne ouer them) bring hither, and slea them before me. ¶ * And when he had thus spoken, he proceaded forthe, takynge his iourney, to go vp to Hierusalem. ¶ * And it fortuned when he was come nye to Bethphage, and Bethanye, besides the mounte, whiche is called Oliuete, he sente two of his Disciples, saiyng: goe ye into the towne which is ouer against you into the whiche (as sone as ye are come) ye shall finde an Asse colte tied, wheron yet neuer man sate. Lose him, and bring him hether. And if any man aske you, why do ye lose him, Thus shal ye saye vnto him: The Lord hath nede therof. They that were sent, went their waye, and found euen as he had saied to thē. And as they were a losyng the colte, the owners therof saied vnto them: why lose ye the colte? And they saied, for the Lorde hath nede of him. And they brought him to Iesus, and cast their rayment on the colte, and set Iesus theron. And as he wente, they spreade their clothes in the waye. And when he was nowe come nye to the going downe of the mount Oliuete, the whole multitude of the Disciples beganne to reioyce, and to praise God with a loude voyce, for all the wyracles that they had sene, saiyng: * Blessed be the king that cometh in the name of the Lord, peace in heauen, and glory in the hyest. ¶ And some of the Pharises of the companye, saied vnto him: Maister, rebuke thy disciples. ¶ He saied vnto them: I tel you, that if these hold their peace, * then shal the stones crye. ¶ And when he was come neare, he beheld the citie, and * wept on it, saiyng: If thou haddest knowen those thinges which belonge vnto thy peace, euen in this thy daye, thou wouldest take hede. ¶ But nowe are they hidde from thine eyes. ¶ For the dayes shall come vnto the, * that thy enemies also shall cast a banke about the, and cōpasse the rounde, and kepe the in on euery side, and make the euen with the grounde, and thy children whiche are in thee. And * they shall not leaue in the one stone vpon an other, because thou knowest not the time of thy visitation.
¶ * And he wente into the temple, and began to cast out them that solde therin, & them that bought, saiyng vnto them: ¶ It is written * my house is the house of prayer: but ye haue * made it a den of theues. ¶ And he taught dayly in the temple. * But the hye Priestes and the Scribes, and the chiefe of the people went about to destroy him: and could not finde what to do. For all the people stacke by him when they heard him.

¶ And it fortuned in one of those daies (as he taught the people in the temple, & preached the Gospell) the hye Priestes and the Scribes came together with the elders, and spake vnto him, saiyng: * Tell vs by what authoritie doest thou these thinges? Either who is he that gaue the this authoritie? Iesus answered, and saied vnto them: I also will aske you one thing, and answere me. The baptisme of Iohn: was it from heauen, or of men. And they thought within them selues, saiyng: If we saye from heauen, he will saie, why then beleued ye him not? But and if we saie: of me, all the people will stone vs. For they be perswaded, that Iohn was a Prophete. And they answered, that they coulde not tell whence it was. ¶ And Iesus saied vnto them: Neither tel I you, by what authoritie I do these thinges. ¶ Then began he to put foorthe to the people this parable. * A certaine man planted a vyneyarde, and let it forthe to husbandmen, and went him selfe into a straung countrey for a great season. And when the tyme was come, he sent a seruaunt to the husbandmen, that they would geue him of the fruit of the vyneyarde. And they beate him, and sente him away emptye. And againe, he sent yet another seruaunt. And him they did beate, and entreated him shamefully, and sente him awaye emptye. And agayn, he sent the thirde also, and him they wounded, and cast him out. Then saied the Lorde of the vyneyarde: what shall I do? * I will sende my deare sonne, paraduenture they will stande in awe of him, when they see him. But when the husbande men sawe him, they thought within them selues, saiyng: this is the heyre, * come, let vs kyll him, that the enheritaūce maie be oures. And they cast him out of the vyneyarde, and kylled him. ¶ What shall the Lorde of the vyneyarde therefore do vnto them? He shall come and destroye these husbande men, and shall let out his vyneyarde to other. When they heard this, they saied: God forbid. And he beheld them, and saied: What is this then that is written: * the stone that the builders refused, the same is become the heade of the corner? ¶ Whosoeuer bothe tumble vpon that stone, shalbe broken: but on whom soeuer it falleth, it will grynde him to ponder. ¶ And the hie priestes & the Scribes the same houre went about to lay handes on him, * & they feared the people. For they perceiued that he hadde spoken this similitude against them. And they watched him, and sent forthe spyes, whiche shoulde faineth them selues righteous teous men, * to take him in his wordes, and to deliuer hym vnto the power and authoritie of the debite. And they asked him, saying: Master, we knowe that thou saiest and teachest right, neither considerest thou the outward appearance of any mā, but teachest the waye of God truelye. Is it lawful for vs to geue tribute vnto Cesar, or not? He perceiued their craftines, & said vnto them: * Why tempt ye me? Shewe me a peny. Whose ymage and superscription hath it? They answered and said: Cesars. And he said vnto them: geue then vnto Cesar, the thinges whiche belong vnto Cesar, and to God the thinges that pertaine vnto God. And they coulde not reprone his saying before the people, and they marueyled at his answere, and helde their peace. Then * came to him certain of the Sadduces, * whiche deny that there is any resurrection. And they asked him, saying: Master, Moses wrote vnto vs, if any mans brother dye hauyng a wife, & he dye without children, that the his brother should take his wife, & raise vp seede vnto his brother. There were therefore seuen brethren, and the first toke a wife, and died without children. And the second toke her: and he dyed childlesse. And the thyrde toke her: and in lykewyse the seuenth, & left no children behynde them, and dyed. Last of all, the woman dyed also. Nowe in the resurrection, whose wyfe of them shall she be? For seuen had her to wyfe. Iesus answered and sayde vnto them: The children of this worlde marye wyues, & are maryed: but they whych shalbe counted worthy of that worlde and the resurrection from the dead, do not marye wyues, neither are maryed, nor yet can dye any more, for they are equall vnto the angels, and are * the sonnes of god, in as much as they are children of the resurrection. And that the dead shall ryse agayne: Moses also sheweth besydes the bushe: when he calleth * the Lorde, the God of Abraham and the God of Isaac, and the God of Iacob. For he is not a God of dead, but lyuyng. For all lyue vnto hym. Then certayne of the Pharises answered, and sayde: Master, thou hast well sayd. And after that durste they not aske hym any question at all. And he sayde vnto them: * howe saye they that Christe is Dauids sonne? And Dauid hym selfe sayeth in the boke of the Psalmes: * The Lorde sayde vnto my Lorde: sytte thou on my ryght hande tyll I make thyne enemyes thy foote stole. Dauid therefore calleth hym Lorde: howe is he then hys sonne? Then in the audience of all the people, he sayde vnto his disciples: * beware of the scribes, whiche wyll go in longe clothynge: and loue greetynges in the markets, and the best seates in the synagogues, and the chefe rowmes at feastes, which deuoure widdowes houses, fayning long prayers: the same shall receaue greater damnacyon.

And he beheelde, * he sawe the ryche men, whyche cast in their offerynges vnto the treasury. He sawe also a certayne poore wyddowe, whyche cast in thyther two mites. And he sayde: Of a truthe I saye vnto you, * that this poore wydowe hath put in more then they all. For they all haue of their superfluite added vnto the offerynges of God: but she of her penury hath cast in all the substaunce that she had. And vnto some that spake of the temple how it was garnyshed wyth goodly stones and Jewels, he sayde: * The dayes wyll come in the whiche (of these thynges whiche ye se) there shall not be lefte one stone vpon another, that shall not be throwen downe. And they asked hym, sayeng: Master, when shall these thynges be, & what synne wyll there be when suche thynges shal come to passe? And he sayd: * take hede, that ye be not deceaued. For * many shall come in my name, and saye that they are Christe: & the tyme draweth neare. Folowe ye not them therfore. But when ye heare of warres and seditions, be not afrayed. For these thynges must fyrst come to passe, but the ende foloweth not by and by. Then sayde he vnto them: * Nacyon shall ryse agaynst nacyon, and kyngdome agaynste kyngdome, and great earthquakes shalbe in all places, and honger, and pestilence, and fearfull thynges. And greate synnes shall there be from heauen. But before all these, * they shal laye handes on you, and persecute you, deliuerynge you vp to the synagoges and into prysons, and shal bryng you vnto kynges and rulers for my names sake: And this shall chaunce you for a testimoniall. Be at a cure poynt therfore in your hertes, not to studye before, what ye shal answere: for * I wyll gyue you a mouthe and wysedome, where agaynst, all your aduersaries * shall not be able to speake nor resyst. Moreouer ye shalbe * betrayed of your fathers and mothers, and brethren, & kynsfolke and frendes, & some of you shall they put to death. And hated shall ye be of all men for my names sake, & ther shal not one heare of your heade perishe. Possesse ye your soules by patience. * And when ye se Jerusalem beseged wyth an hoost, then be sure, that the desolacio of the same is nye. Then let them whyche are in Iewry, flye to the mountaynes. And let them whyche are in the myddest of it, departe out. And let not them that are in other countreis, enter therein. For these be the dayes of vengeaunce, that all thynges whiche are wrytten maye be fulfylled. But woo vnto them that be wyth chylde, and to them that gyue sucke in those dayes: for there shalbe greate trouble in the lande, and * wrathe ouer all this people

1. Thes. ii. d. And they shall fal thorowe the edge of the swearde, & shalbe led awaye captyue into all nacyõs. And Jerusalem shal be troden downe of the gentyls, vntyl the tyme of the gentyls be fulfylled. ✠ * And there shalbe sygnes in the Sonne, & in the Moone, & in the starres: and in the earthe the people shalbe at theyr wyttes ende, thorowe dyspayre. The sea and the water shal roare, and mennes hertes shall fayle them for feare, & for lokyng after those thynges which shall come on the earth. For the powers of heauen shall moue. * And then shal they se the sonne of man come in a cloud wyth power and greate glorye. When these thynges begynne to come to passe: then loke vp, & lyfte vp your heades for your redẽpcyõ draweth nye. * And he shewed them a similitude: beholde the fygge tree, & all the trees when they shote forth theyr buddes, ye se and know of youre owne selues that sommer is then nye at hand. So lykewyse also when ye se these thynges come to passe: be sure, that the kyngdome of God is nye. Verely I saye vnto you: this generacion shal not passe, tyll all be fulfylled. Heauen & earth shal passe, but my wordes shal not passe. ✠ ✠ * Take hede to your selues lest at any tyme your hertes be ouercome with surfettyng & dronkennes & cares of this lyfe, & so the day come vpõ you vnwares. For as a snare shal it come on all thẽ that dwell on the face of the whole earth. * Watch ye therfore cõtinually, & praye, that ye maye escape all these thynges that shall come, & that ye may stand before the sonne of man. ✠ In the daye tyme, he taught in the temple: & at nyght, he went oute, and abode in the mount that is called Oliuet. * And all the people came in the morayng to hym into the temple, for to heare hym.

The. xxii. Chapter.

THe * feaste of swete breade drue nye whyche is called Easter, and the hye Preestes, and Scribes * sought how they myght kyll hym, for they feared the people: * Then entred Sathan into Judas, whose syrname was Iscarioth (whyche was of the nombre of the twelue) and he went hys waye, and communed wyth the hye preestes and officers, how he myght betraye him vnto thẽ. And they were glad, & promysed to gyue hym mony. And he consented, & sought oportunite to betraye him vnto thẽ, when the people were awaye. * Then came the day of swete breade, wherin of necessite Passeouer muste be offered. And he sent Peter & John, saieng: go & prepare vs the Passeouer, that we may eate. They said vnto him, Where wilt thou, that we prepare? And he said vnto thẽ: Behold, whẽ ye enter into the cite, there shal a mã mete you, bearing a pitcher of water, him folow into the same house that he entreth in, & ye shal say vnto the good mã of the house: The master saieth vnto the: where is the guest chãber, where I shal eate Passeouer with my disciples? And he shal shewe you a great parlour paued. There make ready. And they went & foũde as he hadde said vnto thẽ, & they made ready the Passeouer. * And when the houre was come, he sate downe, & the xii. Apostles with him. And he said vnto them: I haue inwardly desired to eate this Passeouer with you, before that I suffre. For I saye vnto you: henceforth I wyl not eat of it any more, vntill it be fulfilled in the kingdome of God. And he toke the cup, & gaue thankes & said: Take this, & deuide it amõg you. For I say vnto you: I wil not drink of the frute of the vine, vntil the kingdome of God come. * And he toke bread, & whẽ he had giue thankes, he brake it, & gaue vnto thẽ saieng: This is my body which is geuẽ for you. This do, in the remẽbrãce of me. Lykewyse also when he had supped, he toke the cuppe, saiyng: This cup is the new testamẽt in my bloud, whiche is shed for you. Yet beholde, the hãd of him that betrayeth me, is with me on the table. And truly the sonne of mã goeth, as it is appointed. But woo vnto that man, by whõ he is betrayed. And they begã to enquyre amõg thẽ selues, which of thẽ it was that should do it. * And there was a strife among them, which of them should seme to be the greatest. And he said vnto them: The kynges of the nacions raygne ouer them: and they that haue authorite vpon them are called gracious Lordes. But ye shall not be so. * But he that is greatest among you, shalbe as the younger, and he that is chiefe, shalbe as he that dothe minister. For whether is greater he that sitteth at meate, or he that serueth? Is not he that sitteth at meate? But I am among you, as he that ministreth. Ye are they whiche haue bidden with me in my temptations. And I appoynte vnto you a kyngdome, as my father hath appoynted to me: that ye maye eate and drynke at my table in my kingdome, and * sit on seates iudgyng the twelue tribes of Israell. ✠ And the Lorde said: Simon, Simon, beholde Sathan hath desired to syfte you, as it were wheate: but I haue prayed for the, that thy fayeth faile not. And when thou arte conuerted, strength thy brethren. And he sayed vnto him: * Lorde, I am readye to go wyth the into prison, and to death. And he said: I tell the Peter, the cocke shall not crowe this daye, till thou haue thryse denied that thou knowest me. And he sayed vnto them: * when I sẽt you without wallet & scrip, & shoes, lacked ye any thing? And they said nay. Then he said vnto thẽ: but now, he that hath a wallet, let him take it vp, & likewise his scrip. And he that hath no sweord, let him sel his coat, & bye one. For I say vnto you, that yet this same whiche is writtē, must be perfourmed in me: euen among the wicked was he reputed. For those thinges whiche are written of me haue an ende. And they saied: Lorde, beholde, here are two sweardes. And he saied vnto theim: It is inoughe. * And he came out, & went (as he was wonte) to mount Oliue. And the disciples folowed him. And when he came to the place, he saied vnto them: praye, least ye fall into temptation. * And he gate him selfe from thē about a stones cast, & kneled downe, and prayed, saying: Father, if thou wilt, remoue this cuppe from me. Neuertheles, * not my will, but thyne be fulfilled. And there appeared an angel vnto him from heauen, comfortyng him. And he was in an agony, & prayed the longer. And his sweat was like dropes of blonde, trickelyng downe to the grounde.

And when he rose vp from prayer, and was come to his disciples, he founde them sleapyng for heauines, and saied vnto them: why sleape ye? Rise, and pray, least ye fall into temptation. * While he yet spake: beholde, there came a companye, and he that was called Judas one of the twelue, went before them, and prefsed nie vnto Jesus to kisse him. But Jesus said vnto him: Judas, betraiest thou the sonne of man with a kisse? When they which were about him saw what woulde folow, they said vnto him: Lorde, shall we smite with sweard? And one of them smote a seruaunte of the hye Priest, and stroke of his right eare. Jesus answered and saied: Suffer ye thus farre forth. And when he touched his eare, he healed him. Then Jesus saied vnto the high Priestes and rulers of the temple, and the elders whiche were come to him. Ye be come out, as vnto a thiefe with sweardes & staues. When I was daiely with you in the temple, ye stretched forth no handes against me. But this is euen your verye houre, and the power of darkenes. Then toke they him, and led him and brought him to the hie priestes house. But Peter folowed a farre of. And when they had kindled a fyre in the midde of the palaice, and were set downe together, * Peter also sat down among thē. But when one of the wenches beheld him, as he sate by the fire (and loked vpon him) she saied: this same felow was also with him. And he denied him, saiyng: woman I knowe him not. And after a litle while, another sawe him, and said: thou art also of thē. And Peter said: man I am not. And about the space of an houre after, another affirmed, saiyng: verely this felowe was with him also, for he is of Galile. And Peter saied: man I wote not what thou saiest. And immediatlye while he yet spake, the cocke crewe. And the Lorde turned backe, and loked vpon Peter. * And Peter remembred the worde of the lord, howe he had saied vnto him: before the cocke crowe, thou shalt denye me thrise. And Peter went out, and wept bitterly. And the men that toke Jesus, mocked him, and smote him: & whē they had blindfolded him, they stroke him on the eare, and asked him, saiyng: Arede, who is it that smote the? And many other thinges despitefully saied they against him. And as sone as it was daye, the elders of the people & the hye Priestes and the scribes came together, and ledde him into their counsaile, saiyng: art thou verye Christe, tell vs. And he saied vnto them: If I tell you, ye will not beleue. And if I aske you, ye wil not aunswere me, nor let me go. * Hereafter shall the sonne of man sit on the right hande of the power of God. Then saied they all: art thou then the sonne of god? He saied: ye saye that I am. And they saied: * what neade wee anye further witnesse? For we our selues haue hearde of hys owne mouthe.

The. xxiii. Chapter.

And the whole multitude of them arose, and led him vnto Pylate. And thei began to accuse him, saiyng: We founde this felow peruerting the people, and forbiddyng to paye tribute to Cesar: saiyng, that he is Christ, a king. And Pylate apposed him, saiyng: Art thou the king of the Jewes? He aunswered him and saied, thou saiest it. Then said Pylate to the hye priestes, and to the people: I finde no faulte in this man. And they were the more fearce, saiyng: He moueth the people, teachyng throughout all Jewrye, and began at Galile, euen to this place. When Pylate hearde mencion of Galile, he asked, whether the man were of Galile. And as sone as he knewe that he belonged vnto Herodes Jurisdiction, he sent him to Herode, which was also at Hierusalem at that time. And when Herode saw Jesus, he was exceading glad. For he was desirous to se him of a long season, because he had hearde manye thinges of him, and he trusted to haue seue some myracle done by him. When he questioned with him many wordes. But he aunswered him nothing. The hye Priestes and Scribes stode foorth and accused him straightly. And Herode with his men of warre, despised him, and when he hadde mocked him, he arayed him in white clothyng, and sent him againe to Pylate. * And the same daie Pylate and Herode were made frends together: For before they were at variaunce. And Pylate called together the hie Priestes and the people, & said vnto them: ye haue brought this man vnto me as one that peruerteth the people. And beholde I examin him before you, and finde no faulte in this man of those thinges whereof ye accuse him: No, nor yet Herode. For I sente you to him: and loe, nothing worthy of death is done to him. I will therefore chasten him and let him loose. * For of necessitie, he must haue let one lose vnto them at the feast.

And

And all the people cried at once, sayenge: Away with him, and delyuer to vs Barrabas: (whiche for a certaine insurrection made in the citie & for murther was caste in prison) Pilate spake agayne to them, willyng to let Jesus loose But they cried, saieng: Crucifie him Crucifie him. He saide vnto them the thyrde tyme: what euil hath he done? I fynde no cause of death in him: I wil therfore chastē him, & let hym go. * And they cried with loude voices, requiryng that he might be crucifyed. And the voyces of them & of the hye preestes prenailed. And Pilate gaue sentence, that it should be as they required * and he let loose vnto them him that (for insurrection & murther) was caste into prison, whome they had desyred, & he delyuered vnto them Jesus, to do with hym what they wolde. * And as they led him awaye, they caught one Symon of Syren, commynge out of the felde: and on him layd they the crosse, that he myght beare it after Jesus. And there folowed hym a great company of people, and women * whiche bewayled and lamented hym: But Jesus turned backe vnto them: & said: Ye doughters of Jerusalem, wepe not for me: but wepe for your selues, and for your childyen: For behold, the dayes wyll come, in the which they shal say: * happy are the barē & the wombes that neuer bare, & the pappes whyche neuer gaue sucke. Then shal they begynne to say to the mountaynes, fal on vs: & to the hylles, couer vs. For if they do this in a greene tree, what shalbe done in the drye? And there were two euyll doers led with hym to be slayne. * And after that they were come to the place (whiche is called Caluary) there they crucifyed hym, & the euyll doers, one on the right hande, and the other on the lefte. Then sayde Jesus: father forgeue them, for they wote not what they do. And they parted his rayment and caste lottes. And the people stode, & behelde. And the rulers mocked hym with them, saieng: he saued other men let him saue himselfe, yf he be very Christ, the chosen of God. The soudiers also mocked him, & came & offered him vineger, & saide, if thou be the king of the Jewes, saue thyselfe. * And a superscription was written ouer him, with letters of Greke, & Latin and Hebrewe: This is the kynge of the Jewes. And one of the euell doers whyche were hanged, rayled on him, sayeng: If thou be Christ: saue thy selfe & vs. But the other answered, and * rebuked hym sayenge: Fearest thou not God, seyng thou art in the same condēnacion? we are rightfully punished, for we receaue according to our dedes. But this man hath done nothyng amysse. And he said vnto Jesus: Lord remembre me, when thou comest into thy kyngdome. And Jesus said vnto him: Verely I say vnto thee, to day shalt thou be with me in Paradise:

He wēt vnto Pilate & begged the body of Jesus, and toke it downe & wrapped it in a lineū cloth, & laied it in a sepulchre that was hewē in stone, wherin neuer man before was layed. * And that day was preparing of the Sabboth, and the Sabboth drewe on. The. xxiiii. Chapter.

But vpō the first day of the Sabbothes, very early in the morning, they cam vnto the sepulchre, and brought the swete odours whyche they had prepared, & other women with them. And they founde the stone rouled awaye frō the sepulchre, & they went in, but founde not the body of the Lord Jesu. And it happened as they were amased there at: Behold, two men stode by thē in shynynge garmentes. * And as they were afrayde, & bowed downe their faces to the earth, they said vnto them: Why seke ye the lyuyng amonge the deade? He is not here: but he is ryssen. Remēbre how he spake vnto you, when he was yet in Galile, saying: that the sonne of man must be delyuered into the handes of sinfull men & be crucified, & the thyrde day rise agayne. And they remembred his wordes, & returned from the sepulchre, and tolde all these thinges vnto these eleuen, and to all the remnaunte. * It was Mary Magdalene, & Joāna, and Mary Jacobi, and other that were with them, which tolde these thinges vnto the apostels. And their wordes semed vnto them fayned thynges, neither beleued they them. Then arose Peter and ran vnto the sepulchre, and loked in and sawe the linnen clothes layed by themselues, and departed, wonderyng in hymselfe at that whyche had happened.

Gelde, & dwelte amōg vs: * & we sawe the glo all we receaued: euen grace for grace. For the lawe was geuen by Moses, but grace & truth came by Jesus Christ. * No man hath sene God at any tyme. The onely begotten sonne which is in the bosome of the father, he hath declared him. ✠ * And this is the recorde of Ihon: when the Iewes sent Pre stes & Leuites from Jerusalem, to aske him: what art thou? And he confessed & denied not, and confessed plainly: I am not Christ. And they asked him: what then? * art thou Helias? And he saieth: I am not. * Art thou that Pro phete? And he answered: no. Then said they vnto him: what art thou, that we may geue an answere vnto them that sent vs. What sayest thou of thy selfe? He said: * I am the voyce of a crier in the wildernes, make straight the waye of the Lorde, * as saide the prophete of the worlde. This is he of whome I said: After me commeth a man, which went before me, for he was before me, and I knewe hym not, but that he should be declared to Israel, therfore am I come baptising with water.

* And Ihon bare recorde saieng: I sawe the spirite descende from heauē, lyke vnto a done, and abode vpon him, & I knewe him not. But he that sent me to baptyse in water, the same said vnto me: vpon whō thou shalte se the spi rite descende, & tary still on him, the same is he, which baptiseth with the holy ghost.
And I sawe and bare recorde that he is the sonne of God. ✠ The nexte day after, Ihon stode agayne, & two of his disciples & he be holde Jesus, as he walked by, & sayth: Be hold the lambe of God. And the two disci ples heard him speake, and they folowed Je sus. And Jesus turned about & sawe them fo

They saie vnto hym: Rabby (which is to say (if one interprete it) Master) where dwellest thou? He sayth vnto them: come & se. They came & sawe where he dwelt: & abode with hym that daye. For it was about the tenthe houre. One of the two which hearde Ihon speake, and folowed hym, was Andrewe Si mon Peters brother. The same founde his brother Symon first, and sayeth vnto him: we haue founde Messias (which is by interpre tacō, annointed) & brought him to Jesus. And Jesus behelde him, & saide: thou art * Symō the sonne of Jonas, thou shalte be called Ce phas: which is by interpretacion a stone.
The day folowyng, Jesus wold go into Ga lile, & founde Philip, and sayth vnto him: fo low me. * Philip was of Bethsaida the citie of Andrew & Peter. Philip found Nathanael and saith vnto him: We haue founde hym, of whō * Moses in the lawe & the * Prophetes dyd wryte, Jesus the sonne of Joseph of Na zareth. And Nathanael saide vnto hym, * can there any good thyng come out of Nazareth?
Philip sayeth vnto him, come and se. Jesus sawe Nathanael commynge to him, and sayth of him. Beholde a vyght Israelite, in whome is no gyle. Nathanael sayth vnto him: whēce knewest thou me? Jesus answered and sayde vnto him. Before that Philip called the, whē thou wast vnder the fygge tree, I sawe the.
Nathanael answered and sayed vnto hym: Rabby, thou art euen the very sonne of God, thou arte the kynge of Israel. Jesus an swered, and sayde vnto hym: Because I sayd vnto the, I sawe the vnder the fygge tree, thou beleuest. Thou shalte se greater thyn ges then these. And he saieth vnto him: Ve relye, verelye, I saye vnto you: hereafter shall ye se heauen open, and the angels of God ascendynge and descendynge ouer the sonne of man.

The ii. Chapter.

AND the thyrde daye was there a mariage in Cana a cytie of Galile, and the mo ther of Jesus was there. And Jesus was cal led (and his disciples) vnto the mariage. And when the wyne failed, the mother of Jesus sayethe vnto him: they haue no wyne. Jesus sayeth vnto her: woman * what haue I to do with the, mine houre is not yet come. His mo ther saith vnto the ministers: whatsoeuer he sayeth vnto you, do it. And there were stan dynge there, syxe water pottes of stone after the maner of the purifyenge of the Iewes, containyng two or thre firkyns a peco. Je sus sayth vnto them: fyll the waterpottes with water. And they filled them vp to the brymme. And he sayeth vnto them: drawe out now, & beare vnto the gouerner of the feast.
And they bare it. When the ruler of the feast had tasted the water that was turned into wine, & knew not whēce it was (but the mi nisters which drue the water knew) he calleth the bridegrome, & saith vnto him. Euery man at the beginnyng doeth set forth good wyne, & when men be dronke, then that whych is woxse. But thou hatte kepte the good wyne vntil nowe. This begynnyng of miracles dyd Jesus in Cana of Galile, & shewed his glorye, & his disciples beleued on him. ¶ * After this he went downe to Capernaū, he & his mother, & his brethrē, & his disciples, & ther contynued many dayes. ¶ * And the Jewes Easter was euen at hande, & Jesus went vp to Jerusalem, & founde sittynge in the temple, those that solde oxen & shepe, and doues, & changers of money. And when he had made (as it were) a scourge of small coardes, he droue them all out of the temple, with the shepe and oxen, and powred out the chāgers money, and ouerthrue the tables, & said vnto them that solde doues: Haue these thynges hence, & make not my fathers house an house of marchandyse. And his disciples remēbred it, that is wrytten: * the zele of thyne house hathe euen eaten me. Then answered the Jewes, & sayd vnto him, what token shewest thou vnto vs seynge that thou doest these thynges? Jesus answered & sayd vnto them: Destroye this temple, & in thre dayes I will reare it vp. Thē said the Jewes. xlvi. yeares was this temple a buyldynge, and wylt thou reare it vp in thre daies? But he spake of the temple of his bodye. As soone therfore as he was ryssen from death agayne, his disciples remembred that he thus hadde sayd: And they beleued the scripture, and the wordes which Jesus had sayde. When he was in Jerusalē at Easter in the feaste daye: many beleued on his name, when they sawe his miracles whiche he dyd. But Jesus dyd not commyt hym selfe vnto them, because he knewe all men, and neded not, that any man should testifye of him. * For he knewe what was in man.

The. iii. Chapter.

There was a man of the Pharises named Nycodemus, a ruler of the Jewes.
* The same came to Jesus by nyght, and said vnto hym: Rabbi, we knowe that thou arte a teacher come from God: for no man coulde do such myracles as thou doest, except God were with hym. Jesus answered and sayde vnto hym: Verely, verely, I saye vnto the, except a man be borne from above, he cannot se the kyngdome of God. Nycodemus sayeth vnto hym: howe can a man be borne when he is olde? can he enter into his mothers wombe and be borne agayne? Jesus answered: * Verely, verely, I saye vnto the, except a man be borne of water & of the spirit, he can not enter into the kyngdome of God.
* That whyche is borne of the flesshe, is flesshe, and that which is borne of the spirite, is spirite. Maruayle not thou that I sayde to the, ye muste be borne from above. The wynde bloweth where it listeth, and thou heareste the sounde therof, * but canst not tell whence it commeth, and whyther it goeth.
So is euery one that is borne of the spirite.
Nicodemus answered and sayde vnto hym: howe can these thynges be? Jesus answered and sayde vnto hym: art thou a master in Israel, and knowest not these thynges? Ve-rely, verely, I saye vnto the: we speake that we do knowe, and testifye that we haue sene: and ye receaue not our wytnes. Yf I haue tolde you, earthlye thynges, and ye beleue not: howe shal ye beleue, yf I tell you of hea-uenly thynges? * And no man ascendeth vp to heauen, but he that came downe from heauen, euen the sonne of man whiche is heauen.
* And as Moses lyfte vp the serpent in the wyldernesse, euen so muste the sonne of man be lyfte vp, that whosoeuer beleueth in hym, perysshe not, but haue eternall lyfe. ¶ * For God so loued the worlde, that he gaue his only begotten sonne, that whosoeuer beleueth in hym, shoulde not perysh, but haue euerlastynge lyfe. * For God sent not his sonne into the worlde, to condempne the worlde: but that the worlde throughe hym myght be saued. He that beleueth on him, is not condē-ned. But he that beleueth not, is condempned already, because he hath not beleued in the name of the only begotten sonne of God. And this is the condempnation: * that lyght ys come into the worlde, and men loued darke-nesse more then lyght, because theyr dedes were euell. For * euery one that euell doeth, hateth the light: neither cōmeth to the light, lest hys dedes should be reproued. But he that doeth truthe, commeth to the lyght, that his dedes may be knowen, howe that they are wrought in God. ¶ After these thinges came Jesus & his disciples into the lande of Iewrie, & there he taryed wyth them, * and baptised.
And John also baptised in Enon beside Sa-lym, because there was much water there, & they came & were baptised. * For John was not yet cast into prison. ¶ And there arose a question betwene Johns disciples and the Jewes, aboute purifyeng. And they came vnto John, and sayde vnto hym. Rabbi, he that was with the beyonde Jordan (to whom thou bearedst witnes) beholde the same baptiseth, * and all men come to hym. Then answered and sayd: a man can receaue nothyng except it be geuen hym from heauen. Ye youre sel-ues are wytnesses * howe that I sayde: I am not Christe, but am sent before hym. He that hath the bryde is the brydegrome. But the frende of the brydegrome, whyche standeth and heareth hym, reioyseth greatlye because of the brydegromes voyce. This my ioye therfore is fulfylled. He muste encreace, but I must decreace. He that commeth from on hye, is above all. He that is of the earth, is earthye, and speaketh of the earth. He that commeth from heauen, is above all, and what he hath sene and hearde, that he testifye-

The.iiii. Chap.

AS soone as the Lorde knewe, how the (Pharises had harde, that Jesus made & baptised mo disciples then Jhon (though that Jesus him selfe baptised not, but his disciples) * he left Jewry, & departed agayne into Galile. For it was so, that he must nedes go thorow Samaria. Then came he to a cytie of Samaria (whiche is called Sychar.) Besides the possessiō * that Jacob gaue to his sonne Joseph. And there was Jacobs well. Jesus then being wery of his iourneye, sate thus on the wel. And it was about the syxte houre. Ther came a woman of Samaria to drawe water. Jesus saieth vnto her, geue me dryncke. For his disciples were gone awaye vnto the towne to bie meate. Then saieth the woman of Samaria vnto him: how is it, that thou beinge a Jewe, askest drincke of me, whiche am a Samaritane. * For the Jewes medle not with the Samaritanes. Jesus answered & said vnto her: Yf thou knewest the gifte of God, & who it is that saieth to the, Geue me drincke, thou woldest haue asked of him, and he wolde haue geuen* thee water of lyfe. The woman saieth vnto him: Syr, thou hast nothinge to drawe with, & the well is depe: frō whēce then hast thou that water of lyfe? Arte thou greater then our father Jacob, whiche gaue vs the well, & he him selfe dranck therof, & his children, & hys catell? Jesus answered & saide vnto her: whosoeuer drincketh of this water, shall thyrst agayne. But whosoeuer drincketh of the water that I shal geue him, shal neuer be more a thyrste: but the water that I shal geue him, shalbe in him a wel of water springinge vp into euerlastynge lyfe. The woman saieth vnto him: Syr, geue me of that water, that I thyrste not, neyther come hyther to drawe. Jesus saieth vnto her: Go, call thy husbande, and come hyther. The woman answered & saide vnto him: I haue no husbande. Jesus saied vnto her: Thou hast wel said, I haue no husbande. For thou hast had fyue husbandes, & he whom thou nowe hast, is not thy husbande. In that saydest thou truelye. (The woman saieth vnto him: * Syr, I perceaue that thou arte a Prophete. Our fathers worshipped in this mountayne, * and ye saye that in Jerusalē is the place, wher mē ought to worshippe. Jesus saith vnto her, woman beleue me, the houre commeth, when ye shall neither in this mountayne, nor yet at Jerusalem worshipp the father. Ye worshippe ye wote not what: we knowe what we worshipp. * For (saluation cōmeth of the Jewes. But the houre commeth, & nowe is, when the true worshyppers shal worshippe the father * in spirite, & in the truth. For such the father also requyreth to worshyppe him. * God is a spirite, & they that worshippe him, must worshyppe him in spirite and in the truthe. (The woman saith vnto him: I wote, that Messias shal come, which is called Christe. When he is come, he will tell vs all thinges. Jesus saith vnto her: * I that speake vnto the, am he. And immediatly cam his disciples, & marueyled that he talked with the womā. Yet no man saide what meanest thou, or why talkest thou with her? The woman then lefte her water pot, and wente her waye into the cytie, and saieth to the men: Come, se a man which tolde me all thinges that euer I dyd, Is not he Christe? Then they went out of the cytie, & came vnto him. In the meane whyle his disciples prayed him, saying: Master, eate. He saide vnto them: I haue meat to eate, that ye knowe not of. Therfore saide the disciples amonge them selues: hathe any man broughte him ought to eate? Jesus saieth vnto them: my meate is to do the will of him that sente me, & to fynyshe his worke. Say not ye: there are yet foure monethes, & then commeth harueste? Beholde, I saye vnto you: lyfte vp your eyes, & loke on the regiō: for thei are white al ready vnto harueste. * And he that reapeth, receaueth reward, & gathereth fruite vnto life eternall: that both he that soweth, & he that reapeth, myght reioyce together. And herein is the sayeng true, that one soweth, and another reapeth. I sente you to reape that, wher on ye bestowed no labour. Other men laboured, & ye are entred into theyr labours. Many of the Samaritās of that cītie beleued on him, for the saying of the woman, which testified that he tolde her all that euer she dyd. So, whē the Samaritās were come vnto him, they besought him, that he wolde tary with thē. And he abode there two dayes. And many mo beleued because of his owne wordes, and saide vnto the woman, Nowe we beleue, not because of thy saying * for we haue harde him our selues, & knowe that this is euē Christe, the Sauiour of the worlde. After two dayes he departed thence, & went awaye into Galile. * For Jesus him selfe testified, that a Prophet hath none honour in his owne countrye. Then, as soone as he was come into Galile, the Galileans receaued him, when they had sene all the thinges that he dyd at Jerusalē at the daye of the feast. For they went also vnto the feast day. So Jesus came agayne into Cana of Galile, * where he turned the water into wyne. And there was a certaine ruler, * whose sonne was sicke at Capernaum. As soone as he came herde that Jesus was come out of Jewry into Galile, he went vnto him, & besought him that he wold come downe, & heale his sonne. For he was euen at the point of death. Then said Jesus vnto him: except ye se tignes and wõdres, ye will not beleue. The ruler saieth vnto him: Sir, come downe or euer that my sonne die. Jesus saieth vnto him: Go thy way, thy sõne liueth. The man beleued the worde that Jesus had spoken vnto him. And he went his waye. And as he was goynge downe, the seruauntes met him, & tolde him, saynge: Thy sonne liueth. Then enquired he of them the houre when he began to amend. And they said vnto him: Yester daie, at the .vii. houre, the feuer left him. So the father knewe, that it was the same houre, in the which Jesus said vnto him: Thy sonne liueth. * And he beleued, & all his household. This is again the seconde miracle, that Jesus did, whan he was come out of Jewrie into Galile. The .v. Chapter.

After this was there a feaste daye of the Jewes, & Jesus went vp to Jerusalem. And there is at Jerusalem by the slaughter house, a poole (which is called in the Hebrue tõge, Bethseda) hauing .v. porches in which laie a great multitude of sicke folke, of blind, halte, and withered, waiting for the mouing of the water. For an angel went downe at a certain season in to the poole, & stired the water. Whosoeuer then first after the stering of the water) stepped in, was made whole, of whatsoeuer disease he had. And a certain mã was there, which had bene diseased .xxxviii. yeres. When Jesus sawe him lye, and knewe that he now lõg time had bene diseased, he saieth vnto him: Wilt thou be made whole? The sicke man answered him: Sir, I haue no mã, whẽ the water is troubled, to put me into the pole. But in the meanetime, while I am about to come, another stepped downe before me. Jesus saieth vnto him: * Aryse, take vp thy bed & walke. And immediatly the man was made whole, and toke vp his bed, & walked. And the same daie was the Sabboth. The Jewes ther fore said vnto him, that was made whole: It is the Sabboth daie, it is not lawful for the to cary thy bed. He answered them: he that made me whole, said vnto me: take vp thy bed, and walke. Then asked they him: What man is that, which said vnto the: take vp thy bed and walke. And he that was healed, wist not who it was. For Jesus had gotten him self away, because that there was preace of people in that place. After ward, Jesus founde him in the temple, and sayed vnto him. Beholde, thou art made whole, synne no more, lest a worse thing happe vnto the. The man departed and tolde the Jewes that it was Jesus whyche had made hem whole. And therfore the Jewes dyd persecute Jesus, and sought the meanes to slee him, because he had done these thynges on the Sabboth daye. And Jesus answered them: * My father worketh hytherto, and I worke. Therfore the Jewes sought the more to kyll him, not onlye because he had broken the Sabboth: but sayde also that * God was hys father, and made hym selfe equall wyth God. Then answered Jesus and sayde vnto them: Verely, verely, I say vnto you: * The sonne can do nothynge of hym selfe, but that he seeth the father do. For whatsoeuer he doeth, that doeth the sonne also. For the father loueth the sonne, and sheweth him al thinges that he him selfe doth. And he wil shewe him greater workes then these, because ye would marualle. For lykewyse as the father rayseth vp the dead, & quickeneth them, euen so the sonne quickeneth whõ he will. * The father iudgeth the father any man: but hath committed all iudgement vnto the sonne, because that all men should honoure the sonne, euen as they honoure the father. He that honoureth not the sonne, the same honoureth not the father, which hath sente him. Verely, verely, I saye vnto you: * He that heareth my word, and beleueth on hym that sent me, hath euerlastyng lyfe, and shall not * come into dampnation: but is escaped from death vnto life. Verely, verely, I say vnto you * the houre shall come, and nowe is, whẽ the dead shal heare the voice of the sonne of God. And they that heare shal lyue. * For as the father hath lyfe in hym selfe, so lykewyse hath he geuen to the sonne to haue lyfe in hym selfe: and hath geuen him power also to iudge, because he is the sonne of man. Marualle not at this. For the * houre shal come, in the which al that are in the graues shal heare his voyce, & shal come forth: they that haue done good, vnto the resurrection of life: and they that haue done euel, vnto the resurrection of dampnation. For I can of myne owne selfe do nothing. As I heare, I iudge, and my iudgement is iust, because I seke not myne owne wil, but the wil of the father which hath sent me. * If I should beare witnes of my selfe, my witnes were not true. Ther is another that beareth witnes of me, & I am sure, that the witnes which he beareth of me is true. * Ye sent vnto Jhon, & he bare witnes vnto the truth. But I receaue not the record of man. Neuertheles, these thinges I say, that ye might be safe. He was a burnyng, and a shyning light, & ye wold for a season haue reioyced in his light. * But I haue greater witnes, then the witnes of Jhon. * For the workes whyche the father hath geuen me to fynyshe, the same workes that I do, beare witnes of me, that the father hath sente me. And the father himselfe which hath

After these thynges * Iesus wente hys waye ouer the sea of Galile, which is the see of Tyberias: & a greate multitude folowed him, because they saw his miracle, whiche he dyd on them that were diseased. And Iesus went vp into a mountayne, & there he sat with his disciples. And Easter, a feast of the Iewes was nye. When Iesus then lyfte vp his eyes, and sawe a great company come vnto him, he saith vnto Philip: Whence shal we bye bread, that these may eate? This he said to proue hym, for he himselfe knewe, what he wolde do. Philyppe answered hym, * two hundred peny worthe of bread are not sufficient for them, that euery man maye take a lytle. One of his disciples (Andrew, Symō Peters brother) sayeth vnto him: There is a lad here, whiche hath fyue barly loaues and two fyshes: but what are they among so many? And Iesus saide: Make the people syt downe. There was much grasse in the place. So the men sat downe in nombre, aboute fyue thousande. And Iesus toke the bread. And whan he had geuē thankes, he gaue to the disciples, & the disciples to them that were set downe. And likewise of the fishes as moch as they wolde. When they had eaten ynough, he saieth vnto his disciples: gather vp the broken meat which remayneth, that nothing be loste. And they gathered it together, & fylled twelue baskettes with the broke meat of the fiue barley loaues, which broke meate remayned vnto them that had eaten. Then those men (when they had sene the miracle that Iesus dyd) saide: this is of a truth the same Prophet, that shuld come into the worlde. When Iesus therfore perceaued that they wolde come, and take hym vp to make hym a kynge, * he departed agayne into a mountayne hym selfe alone. And when euen was now come, his disciples went downe vnto the see, & gat vp into a shippe: and came ouer the sea vnto Capernaum. And it was now darcke, & Iesus was not come to them. And the sea arose with a great wynde that blewe. So whē they had rowen aboute .xxv. or .xxx. furlonges, they sawe Iesus walkynge on the sea, & drawynge nye vnto the shippe, & they were afrayed. But he sayth vnto them: It is I, be not afrayed. Then wolde they haue receaued hym into the shippe, & immediatly the shippe was at the lande, whether they went. The day folowynge, when the people (which bode on the other syde of the sea) sawe that there was none other shyp there, saue that one, wherinto his disciples were entred, and that Iesus went not with his disciples into the shippe, but that his disciples wer gone away alone. (Howbeit there came other shippes frō Tyberias nye vnto the place wher they did eate breade, after that the Lorde had geuen thankes) when the people therfore sawe that Iesus was not ther, neyther his disciples, they also toke shippynge, & came to Capernaū, seekynge for Iesus. And when they had founde him on the other syde of the sea, they said vnto him: Rabbi, when camest thou hyther? Iesus answered them, & said: verely, verely, I say vnto you: ye seke me, not because ye sawe the miracles, but because ye did eat of the loaues & wer fylled. Labour not for the meate whiche perysheth, but for that whiche endureth vnto euerlastyng life, which meate the sonne of man shall geue vnto you. For hym hath God the father sealed. Then sayde they vnto him: what shall we do, that we might worke the workes of God? Iesus answered & sayde vnto them: this is the worke of God: that ye beleue on him, whō he hath sente. They saide therfore vnto hym * what sygne beweest thou then, that we may se, & beleue the? What doest thou worke? Our fathers dyd eate Manna in the deserte as it is wrytten. He gaue them * bread frō heauen to eat. Then Iesus said vnto them, verely verely I say vnto you: Moses gaue you not that bread frō heuen * but my father geueth you the true bread frō heuē. For the bread of god is he which cōmeth downe frō heauen, & geueth life vnto the worlde. Then said they vnto him: Lord, euermore geue vs this bread. And Iesus sayde vnto them, I am the bread of lyfe. He that commeth on me shall not hunger: & he that beleueth on me, shall neuer thurst. But I say vnto you: that ye also haue sene me, & yet ye beleue not. All that the father geueth me shal come to me, & him that commeth to me, I cast not away. For I am come downe frō heauē: not to do that I wil, but that he wil, which hath sēt me. And this is the fathers wyll which hathe sente me, that of all which he hath geuen me, I shall loose nothyng: but rayse them vp agayne at the last day. And this is the will of him that

him: And I wil rayse him vp at the last daye.
It is wrytten in the prophetes: * And they shalbe al taught of God. Euery man therfore that hath hearde, & hath learned of the father, commeth vnto me. * Not that any man hath sene the father, saue he which is of God, the same hath sene the father. Verely, verely, I saye vnto you: he that putteth his trust in me, hath euerlastyng lyfe. I am that bread of lif. Your fathers did eat Manna in the wildernes, & are dead. This is that bread, which cōmeth downe from heauē, that a man may eate therof, & not dye. I am that lyuynge bread, which came downe frō heauē. If any man eat of this breade: he shall lyue for euer.
* And the bread that I wil geue, is my flesshe, which I wil geue for the life of the worlde.
The Iewes therfore stroue amōg thē selues, saying: Howe can this felowe geue vs that flesshe of his to eate? Thē Iesus said vnto thē, Verely, verely, I saye vnto you: except ye eate the flesshe of the sonne of man, & drinke his bloud: ye haue no lyfe in you. Who so eateth my flesshe & drynketh my bloud, hath eternall lyfe, & I wil rayse him vp at the last day.
For my flesshe is meate indede, & my bloud is drinke indede. He that eateth my flesshe & drinketh my bloud dwelleth in me, & I in him. As the lyuynge father hath sent me, & I lyue for the father: Euē so he that eateth me, shal lyue by the meanes of me. This is that bread, which came downe frō heauen: not as your fathers dyd eat Manna, & are dead. He that eateth of this bread, shall lyue euer.
These thinges saide he in the Synagoge, as he taught in Capernaū. Many therfore of his disciples (whē they had herde this) said, This is an harde sayeng: who can abyde the hearing of it? Iesus knewe in him selfe, that his disciples murmured at it: & he said vnto thē: Doth this offende you? What & if ye shal se the sonne of man ascende vp thither where he was before? It is the spirite that quickneth, the flesshe profiteth nothinge. The wordes that I speake vnto you, are spirite & life. But there are some of you that beleue not. For Iesus knewe frō the beginning, which they were, that beleued not, & who should betraye him. And he saide: therfore saide I vnto you: that * no man can come vnto me, except it were geuen vnto him of my father. From that tyme many of his disciples went backe, & forsoke him, & walked nomore with him. Then sayde Iesus to the twelue: wil ye also go awaye?
Then answēred Peter vnto him: Lord, to whō shall we go? Thou hast the wordes of eternal life, * & we beleue & are sure that thou art Christ the sonne of the lyuing God. Ie-sus answered them: Haue not I chosen you twelue, & * one of you is a deuel? He spake of Iudas Iscariothe the sonne of Simō. For he it was, that should betraye him, beinge one of the twelue.

The. vii. Chapter.

After these thinges, Iesus went about in Galile: for he wolde not go about in Iewry, because that the Iewes sought to kyll him. The Iewes * feast of tabernacles was at hande. His brethrē therfore said vnto him, get the hence, & go into Iewry, that thy disciples also maye se thy workes that thou doest. For there is no man that doeth any thing in secrete, & he him selfe seketh to be knowen openly. If thou do such thinges, shewe thy selfe to the worlde. For his brethren beleued not in him. Then Iesus sayde vnto them: My tyme is not yet come: but your tyme is al waye readye. The worlde can not hate you. * But me it hateth: because I testify of it, that the workes therof are euel: go ye vnto this feast, I wil not go vp yet vnto this feast, for my time is not yet ful come. Whē he had said these wordes vnto thē, he abode still in Galile. But as sone as his brethren were come, thē went he vp also vnto the feaste, not openly, but as it were preuely. Then sought the Iewes him at the feast, & said: * where is he? And much murmuring was there of him amōg the people. For some said: * he is good, other saide nay, but he deceiueth the people.
Howbeit * no man spake openly of him, for feare of the Iewes. Now when halfe of the feaste was done, Iesus went vp into the temple, & taught. And the Iewes maruayled, sayenge: Howe knoweth he the scriptures, seing that he neuer learned? Iesus answered them, & said: My doctrine is not mine: but his that sent me. If any man wil be obedient vnto his will, he shall knowe of the doctrine whether it be of God, or whether I speake of my selfe. He that speaketh of him selfe, seketh his owne prayse. But he that seketh his prayse that sent him, the same is true, & no vnrighteousnesse is in him. * Did not Moses geue you a lawe, & yet none of you kepeth the lawe? why go ye about to kyll me? The people answered & said: Thou hast the deuel: who goeth about to kyll the? Iesus answered, and saide vnto them: I haue done one worcke, and ye al maruayle. Moses therfore gaue vnto you the circumcision, not because it is of Moses, but * of the fathers. And yet ye on the Sabboth daye, circumcyse a man.

Ye a man on the Sabboth daie receaue circumcision, without breaking of the lawe of Moses: disdaine ye at me, because I haue made a man euery whit whole, on the Sabboth daie? * Iudge not after the vtter appearaunce, but iudge with a righteous iudgement. Then said some of them of Ierusalem, Is not this he, whome thei go about to kyll? But lo, he speaketh boldly, and thei saye nothing to him. Do the rulers know in deede, that this is very Christ? Howbeit * we know this man, where he is: but when Christ cometh, no man knoweth whence he is. Then cried Iesus in the temple (as he taught) and sayde: ye both know me, and whence I am, ye know. And I am not come of my selfe: but he that sent me is true, whom ye know not. But I know him, for I am of him, and he hath sent me. * Then thei sought to take him: but no man laied handes on him, because his houre was not yet come. * Many of the people beleued on him, & said: when Christ commeth, will he do any more miracles than these that this man hath done? The Pharises heard that the people murmured such thinges concerning him. And the Pharises, & hie priestes sent ministers to take him. Then said Iesus vnto them: Yet am I a litel while with you: and then go I vnto him that sent me. Ye shall seke me, and shall not fynde me: * & where I am, thither can ye not come. Then said the Iewes among them selues: Whether will he go, that we shall not fynde him? Will he go among the Gentiles, (which are scattered abroade) and teache the Gentiles? What maner of saying is this that he said: ye shal seke me, and shal not fynde me: & where I am, thither can ye not come? In the laste daie, the great daie of the feast, Iesus stode and cried, saying: * If any man thirste, let him come vnto me, and drinke. He that beleueth on me (as saieth the scripture) out of his belly shall flowe riuers of liuyng water. But this spake he of the spirit, which they that beleue on him, should receaue. * For the holy ghost was not yet there, because Iesus was not yet glorified. * Many of the people therefore (when thei heard this saying) sayde * of a trueth this is a Prophete: but other said: this is Christ. But some said: shall Christ come out of Galile? Saieth not the scripture, that Christ shal come of the sede of Dauid: and out of the towne of Bethlem, where Dauid was? So was the diuision among the people, because of him. And some of them would haue taken him, but no man laied handes on him. Then came the ministers to the hie priestes, and Pharises. And thei said vnto them: why haue ye not brought him? The ministers answered: neuer man spake as this man doeth. Then answered them the Pharises. Are ye also deceased? Doeth any of the rulers or of the pharises beleue on him? But this comen people which know not the law, are cursed. Nicodemus (he that came to Iesus by night, and was one of them) said vnto them: Doeth our law iudge any man, before it heare him, and know what he hath done? Thei answered, and said vnto him: Art thou also of Galile? Search, and loke. For out of Galile ariseth no Prophet. And euery man went vnto his owne house.

Iesus went * vnto mount Oliuet, & early in the morning he came againe into the temple, and al the people came vnto him, and he sat downe & taught them. And the Scribes and Pharises broughte vnto him a woman taken in aduoutry: and when thei had set her in the midest, thei saie vnto him: Master, this woman was taken in aduoutrie, euen as she dede was a doinge. * Moses in the lawe commanded vs, that such should be stoned. But what saiest thou? This thei said to tyre him that thei might accuse him. But Iesus stouped downe, and with his finger wrote on the grounde. So when thei continued asking him, he lift him selfe vp, and sayde vnto them: let him that is amonge you without sinne, caste the first stone at her. And agayne he stouped downe, and wrote on the grounde. And assone as thei heard this, thei went out one by one, beginning at the eldest. And Iesus was left alone, and the woman stading in the midest. When Iesus had lift vp him selfe, & saw no man, but the woman, he said vnto her: woman, wher are those thine accusers? hath no man condemned thee? She said: No man, Lord. And Iesus said. Neither do I condemne thee. Go and * synne no more. Then spake Iesus agayne vnto them, saying: * I am the light of the world. He that followeth me, doth not walke in darknes, but shall haue the light of life. The Pharises therfore said vnto him: thou bearest recorde of thy selfe, thy recorde is not true. Iesus answered, and said vnto them: though I beare recorde of my selfe, yet my recorde is true: for I knowe whence I came, and whither I go. But ye can not tel whence I come, and whither I go. Ye iudge after the flesh, I iudge no man. And yet I iudge, my iudgemente is true. For I am not alone: but I and the father that sent me. * It is also written in your lawe, that the testimonie of two men is true. I am one that beareth witnes of my selfe, & the father that sent me, beareth witnes of me. Then said thei vnto him: where is thy father? Iesus answered: ye neither know me nor yet my father. If ye had knowne me, ye should haue known my father also. These wordes spake Iesus in in the tẽple, as he taught in the temple, & no man laied handes on him* for his houre was not yet come. ¶ Then said Jesus again vnto them: I go my waie, and* ye shal seke me, and shal die in your sinnes. Whether I go, thither can ye not come. Then said the Jewes: will he kil him selfe, because he sayeth: whither I go, thither can ye not come? And he said vnto them: ye are from beneth, I am from aboue. Ye are of this worlde, I am not of this worlde. I said therfore vnto you, that ye shal dye in your sinnes. For* ye ye beleue not that I am he, ye shal die in your sinnes. Then said they vnto him: who art thou? And Jesus saieth vnto them: Euen the very same thing that I speake vnto you. I haue many thinges to saie, and to iudge of you. Yes, & he that sent me, is true. & And I speake in the world, those thinges, which I haue heard of him. Howbeit they vnderstode not that he spake of his father. Then said Jesus vnto them: when ye haue lyft vp an hie the sonne of man, then shal ye know, that I am he, & that I do nothing of my selfe, but* as my father hath taught me, euen so I speake these thinges: & he that sent me, is with me. The father hath not left me alone: for I do alwaies those thinges that please him. ¶ As he spake these wordes,* many beleued on him. Then said Jesus to those Jewes, which beleued on him: Ye ye cõtinue in my word, then are ye my verie disciples, & ye shal know the trueth, and the trueth shal make you free. They answered him: We be Abrahams seed, and were neuer bõde to any man, how saiest thou then: ye shal be made* free? Jesus answered them: Verely, verely, I saye vnto you, that* whosoeuer committeth synne, is the seruaunte of synne. And the seruaunt abideth not in the house for euer: But the sonne abideth euer. Yf the sõne therfore shall make you free, then are ye free in dede. I know that ye are Abrahams seed: but ye seke meanes to kil me, because my word hath no place in you. I speake that which I haue sene with my father: & ye do that, which ye haue sene with your father. They answered, & said vnto him: Abraham is our father. Jesus saieth vnto them: Yf ye were Abrahams children, ye wold do the dedes of Abraham. But now ye go about to kyl me, a man that hath tolde you the trueth, which I haue harde of God: this did not Abraham. Ye do the dedes of your father. Then sayde they to him: we were not borne of fornication. We haue one father euen God. Jesus sayde vnto them: yf God were your father, truly ye wold loue me. For I proceaded forth, & came from God. Neither came I of my selfe, but he sent me. Why do ye not know my speache? Euen because ye cannot abyde the hearynge of my worde. Ye are of your father the deuill, and the lustes of your father wil ye serue.* He was a murtherer from the beginning, and abode not in the trueth, because there is no trueth in him. When he speaketh a lye, he speaketh of his owne: for he is a lyar, and the father of the same thing. And because I tel you the truthe, therfore ye beleue me not. Which of you rebuketh me of synne? Yf I saye the trueth, why do ye not beleue me? He that is of God, heareth Gods wordes. Ye therfore, heare them not, because ye are not of God. Then answered the Jewes, and said vnto him: Saie we not wel, that thou art a Samaritane, and hast the deuell? Jesus answered: I haue not the deuel: but I honour my father, and ye haue dishonoured me. I seke not myne owne prayse, there is one that seketh, and iudgeth. Verely, verely, I saye vnto you: ye a man kepe my sayinge: he shall neuer se death. Then said the Jewes vnto him: Now know we that thou hast the deuel. Abraham is dead, and the prophetes, & ye saiest: ye a man kepe my saying, he shal neuer taste of death. Art thou greater then oure father Abraham, which is dead? and the prophetes are deade: Whome makest thou thy selfe? Jesus answered: Yf I honour my self, myne honoure is nothinge. It is my father, that honoureth me, whiche ye saye, is youre God, and yet ye haue not known him: but I know him. And yf I saye: I know him not, I shalbe a lyar like vnto you. But I know him, and kepe his saying. Youre father Abraham was glad to se my dai: and* he sawe it, and reioyced. Then said the Jewes vnto him: thou art not yet. l. yere olde, and hast thou sene Abraham? Jesus said vnto them: Verely, verely, I saye vnto you: ere Abraham was borne,* I am. Then toke they vp stones, to cast at him: But Jesus hid him selfe, & went out of the temple.

And as Jesus passed by, he sawe a man which was blinde frõ his birth. And his disciples asked him, saying: Maister, who did synne, this man, or his father, & mother, that he was borne blynde? Jesus answered: Neither hath this man synned, nor yet his father and mother: but that the workes of god should be shewed in him. I must worke the workes of him that sent me, whyle it is daie. The night cometh, when no mã can worke. As longe as I am in the worlde,* I am the lyght of the worlde. And* one as he had thus spoken, he spat on the grounde, & made claye of the spittle, & rubbed the claye on the eyen of the blynde, and said vnto him: Go, washe the in the pole of* Silos, which by interpretacion is as muche to saye, as sent. He went his waye therefore, and washed, and came again, seeyng. The neyghbours, and they that had sene him before, how that he was a begger, sayde: Is not this he that sat a beg-

He answered, and said: The man that is called Iesus, made clay, and annointed myne eyes, and said vnto me: Go to the poole Siloe, and wash. And when I went and washed, I receyued my sight. Then said they vnto him, where is he? He said: I can not tell. They Then againe the Pharises also asked him, how he had receiued his sight. He said vnto them, he put clay vpon myne eyes, and I washed, and do se. But the Iewes did not beleue of the man (howe that he had bene blynde, and receyued his sight) vntil they called the father and mother of him, that had receyued his sight. He answered them, I tolde you yet while, & ye did not here, wherfore would ye heare it againe? wil ye also be his disciples? Then rated they him, and said: Be thou his disciple. We are Moses disciples. We are sure, that God spake vnto Moses. As for this felowe, we knowe not from whence he is. The man answered, and sayde vnto them: this is a maruelous thing, that ye woote not from whence he is, and yet he hath opened mine eyes. For we be sure, that God heareth not synners. But yf any man be a worshypper of God, and obedient vnto his wil, him heareth he. Since the world began, was it not heard, that any man opened the eyes of one that was borne blinde. Yf this man were not of God, he could haue done no thing. They answered, & said vnto him: thou art altogether borne in synne, and dost thou teache vs? And they cast him out. Iesus G heard that they had excommunicate him: and when he had founde him, he said vnto him: doest thou beleue on the sonne of God? He answered, & said: who is it Lord, that I might beleue on him? And Iesus said vnto him. Thou hast sene him, * & he it is that talketh John. iiij. c with the. And he said: Lorde I beleue, and he worshipped him. And Iesus said vnto him: I am come vnto iudgement into this world: that they which se not, might se, & they which se, might be made blinde. And some of the Pharises, which were with him, heard these wordes, and said vnto him: are we blinde also? Iesus said vnto them: * If ye were blinde, John. ix. d. ye should haue no sinne. But now ye say: we se, therfore your sinne remaineth. The. x. Cha.

33 Iesus answered them, many good workes haue I shewed you from my father, for which of those workes do ye stone me? The Iewes answered him, saying, For the good worke the worde of God was spoken, (& the scripture can not be broken) 36 Say ye of him whom the father hath sanctified, and sent into the abode. 41 And many resorted vnto him, and said: Iohn did no miracle, but all thinges whyche Iohn spake of this man were true.

The. xi. Chapter.

1 A certaine man was sicke, named Lazarus of Bethania in the towne of Mary, and her sister Martha. 2 It was that Mary which anointed Iesus with ointment, and wiped his feete with her heare, whose brother Lazarus was sicke. 3 Therefore his sisters sent vnto him, saying, Lord, behold he whom thou louest, is sicke.

4 When Iesus herde that, he said: this infirmitie is not vnto death: but for the prayse of God, that the sonne of God might be praised by the reason of it. 5 Iesus loued Martha & her sister & Lazarus. 6 When he had heard ther fore that he was sicke, he abode two dayes still in the same place wher he was. 7 Then after that, said he to his disciples: let vs go into Iewry again. 8 His disciples said vnto him, Master, the Iewes lately sought to stone thee, & wilt thou go thither again? 9 Iesus answered: are ther not .xii. houres of the day? If a man walke in the day, he stombleth not, because he seeth the lyght of this worlde. 10 But if a man walke in the nyght he stombleth, because there is no lyght in him. 11 This said he, & after that he said vnto them, our frend Lazarus sleepeth, but I go to wake him out of slepe. 12 Then said his disciples: Lorde if he slepe, he shall do wel ynough. 13 Now he (Iesus) spake of his death, but they thought that he had spoken of the natural slepe. 14 Then said Ie-sus vnto them: playnely Lazarus is dead. 15 & I am glad for your sakes, that I was not ther, because ye may beleue. Neuertheles, let vs go vnto him. 16 Then said Thomas (whiche is called Didimus) vnto the disciples: let vs also go, that we may dye with him. 17 Then whē Ie-sus came, he found that he had lien in his graue four dayes alredy. 18 Bethany was nie to Ierusalē, about fiftene furlonges of, 19 & many of the Iewes came to Martha & Mary to cōforte them ouer their brother. 20 Martha assone as she herd that Iesus was comminge, went & met him, but Mary sat still in the house. 21 Then said Martha vnto Iesus: Lord, if thou had dest ben here, my brother had not dyed, neuer-theles, now I know that whatsoeuer thou askest of God, God wil geue it the. 22 Iesus sai eth vnto her, Thy brother shal ryse agayne.
23 Martha saith vnto him: I know that he shal ryse agayn in the resurrectiō at the last day.
24 Iesus saieth vnto her, I am the resurrection & the life: he that beleueth on me, ye though he were dead, yet shal he liue. 25 And who so euer liueth & beleueth on me, shal neuer dye: beleeuest thou this? 26 She said vnto him: yea Lorde.
I beleue that thou art Christe the sonne of God, whiche should come into the worlde.
27 And assone as he had so saide, she went her waye, & called Mary her sister secretly, say-enge: The Maister is come, and calleth for the. 28 Assone as she herde that, she arose quick ly, and came vnto him. 29 Iesus was not yet come in to the towne: but was in the place where Martha mette him. 30 The Iewes then whiche were with her in the house & confor-ted her, (when they sawe Mary that she rose vp hastely, and went out) folowed her, say-enge: She goeth vnto the graue to wepe ther.

Then when Marye was come where Jesus was, and sawe him, she cometh nye vnto his John.xi.c feete, and saith vnto him: Lorde,* yf thou had dest bene here, my brother had not bene dead.
When Jesus therefore sawe her wepe (and the Jewes also wepinge whiche came with her) he groned in the spirit, & was troubled in him selfe, and said, wher haue ye laied him?
Luke.xix.f They said vnto him, lorde come, and se. And
* Jesus went. Then sayd the Jewes: behold John.ix.b howe he loued him. And some of them sayde: G could not he which* opened the eyes of the blinde, haue made also, that this man shoulde not haue died? Jesus therefore againe, groned in him selfe, and came to the graue. It was a caue, and a stone laied on it. Jesus said: take ye away the stone. Martha the sister of him that was dead, sayde vnto him: Lord, by this time he stinketh. For he hath bene dead foure daies. Jesus said vnto her: Saide I not vnto the, that yf thou diddest beleue, thou sholdest se the glorie of God? Then they toke awaie the stone from the place where he that had bene dead, was laied. And Jesus lyfte vp his eyes, and said: Father, I thanke thee, John.xii.d that thou hast harde me. Howbeit, I knewe that thou hearest me alwaies, but * because of the people which stande by: I said it, that they may beleue, that thou hast sent me. And when he thus had spoken, he cryed with a John.v.c loude voice: Lazarus, come forthe. * And he F that was dead came forth, bounde hande, and fote, with graue clothes, and his face was bounde with a napkin. Jesus said vnto the, loose him, & let him go. Then many of the Je-John.xii.e. wes which came to Mary, (and had sene the thinges which Jesus did)* beleued on him.
But some of them went their waies to the pharises, and tolde them what Jesus had done.
Math. xxvi. a Marke.xiiii.a Luke.xxii a Actes. iiii. a. * Then gathered the hie Priestes, and the Pharises a counsel, and said: * What do we?
For this man doth many miracles. Yf we let him scape thus, al men will beleue on him, and the Romaines shal come, and take away both our rowme, and the people. And one of them named Caiphas (beynge the hye priest that John. xviii.b same yere) said vnto them: Ye perceiue nothing at al, nor consider, that * it is expedient for vs, that one man die for the people, & not that al the people perish. This spake he, not of him selfe, but beynge hie priest that same yere, he prophecied that Jesus should die for the people, and not for the people onely, but that he should gather together in one, the children of God, that were scattered abroade.
Math xxvi * Then from that daie forth, they toke coun-Mark. xiii. a sel together, for to put him to deathe. Jesus therefore walked no more openly amonge the Jewes: but went his waie thence vnto a cou-Math. xxvi.a. Mar. xiii. a. Luke.xxii.a trey nye to a wildernes, into a citie, which is called Ephraim, and there continued with his disciples.* And the Jewes Easter was nye at hande, & many went out of the countrye vp vnto Jerusalem before the Easter to purifie them selues. Then sought they for Jesus, and spake amog them selues, as they stode in the temple: What * thinke ye, tarying, he com-John.vii.b meth not to the feast daie? The hie priestes, John.ix.c. and Pharises* had geuen a commaundement, that if any man knew where he were, he shold shewe it, that they might take him.

Then Jesus (syxe daies before Easter) came to Bethany, where Lazarus had bene deade, whome he raised from deathe.
There they made him a supper, & Martha ser-ued, but Lazarus was one of them that sat at the table with him. Tha toke Mary a poūde of oyntment (called Nardus, perfect and precious) and anoynted Jesus fete, & wiped his Luke. vii.f feete with her heare, and the house was fylled with the odoure of the oyntment. * Then Math. xxvi. Marke.xiii. said one of his disciples (euen Judas Iscarioth Simons sonne, whiche afterwarde be-traied him) why was not this oyntmēt solde for three hundred pence, & geue to the poore?
This he said, not that he cared for the poore, John xiii. b but because he was a theefe, & * had the bag, and bare that which was geuen. Then said Jesus: let her alone, againste the daye of my burying hath she kept this. For the poore al waies shal ye haue with you, but me haue ye not alway. Suche people of the Jewes ther fore had knowledge that he was there. And they came not for Jesus sake onely, but that John.xi.b. they might se Lazarus also* whome he ray-M sed from death. But the hie priestes held a counsel, that they might put Lazarus to death also, because that for his sake many of the Jewes went away, and beleued on Jesus.
Math. xxi. a Marke xi.a On the next day much people that were come to the feast, when they harde that Jesus shold come to Jerusalem, toke braunches of palme trees, and went forth to mete him, and cryed: Psa. cxvii. Luke.xix.c Hosanna, * blessed is he that in the name of the Lord, cometh king of Israel. And Jesus got a yonge asse, & sat theron, as it is writ-Esai.xlii.b. zacha.ix.b ten:* feare not doughter of Sion, beholde, thy king cometh sitting on an asse colte.
John.xx.c These thinges vnderstode not his disciples C at the firste: but when Jesus was glorified, then remembred they that suche thinges were written of him, and that suche thinges they had done vnto him. The people that was with him (when he called Lazarus out of his graue, and raysed him from deathe) bare recorde. Therfore met him the people also, because they harde that he had done such a miracle. The pharises therfore said amonge them selues: perceiue ye, how we preuayle nothing? beholde, al the worlde goeth after him. There were certaine greekes amōge the that came to worship at the feast: the same came therefore to Philip (which was of

of Beth saida, a citie of Galilee he delyuered hym, saying: Sir, we would fayne se Jesus. Philip came, and tolde Andrewe. And again Andrewe, and Philip tolde Jesus. And Jesus answered them, saying, * the houre is come, that the sonne of man must be glorified.

Verely verely, I saye vnto you, ‡ except the wheate corne fall into the grounde, and dye, it bideth alone. But die, it bringeth forth much fruit. ‡ He that loueth his life, shal de stroye it: and he that hateth his life, in this world, shal kepe it vnto life eternal. If any man minister vnto me, let him folowe me, and * where I am, there shal also my minister be. If any man minister vnto me, him wil my father honour. Now is my soule troubled, and what shal I say: Father, deliuer me frō this houre: but therefore came I vnto this houre. Father, glorifie thy name. Then came there a voice from heauen, saying: I haue both glorified it, and wil glorifye it againe. The people therefore that stode by & herde it, said that it thundred. Other said, an aungel spake to him: Jesus answered, and said: this voyce came not because of me, ‡ but for your sakes. Now is the iudgement of this world: now shal the prince of this world be cast out. And I (yf I were lyft vp from the earth) wil drawe all men vnto me. This he said: signifyeng what death he should dye. The people answered him: We haue harde out of the law * that Christ bideth for euer: & howe sayest thou the sonne of man must be lift vp? who is that sonne of man? Then Jesus said vnto them: yet a litle while is the light with you. * Walke while you haue light, lest the darkenes come on you. He that walketh also in the darke, woteth not whither he goeth. While ye haue light, beleue on the light, that ye may be the children of the light. These thinges spake Jesus, and departed, & hid him selfe from them. But though he had done so many miracles before them, yet beleued not they on him, that the saying of Esaias the prophet myght be fulfylled, which he spake: * Lord, who shal beleue our saying? And to whome is the arme of the Lord declared? Therefore could they not beleue, because that Esayas saieth: againe * he hath blinded their eyes, & hardened their hart, that they should not see with their eyes, & least they should vnderstande with their hart, and should be conuerted, and I should heale them. Suche thinges said Esaias, when he sawe his glorye, & spake of him. Neuertheles, amōg the chiefe rulers also many beleued on him. But because of the Pharisees they did not confesse it, * least they should be excommunicate. ‡ For they loued the praise of men more then the praise of God. Jesus cryed, & said: He that beleueth on me, beleueth not on me, but on him that sent me. And he that seeth me, seeth him that sente me. * I am come a lyght into the worlde, that whosoeuer beleueth on me, should not bide in darkenes. And yf any man heare my wordes, and beleue not, I iudge him not. For ‡ I came not to iudge the world, but to saue the world. He that refuseth me, & receiueth not my wordes, hathe one that iudgeth him. The word that I haue spoken, the same shal iudge him in the laste daie. For I haue not spoken of my selfe: but the father which sent me: he gaue me a commaundement what I should saye, and what I should speake. And I know that his cōmaūdement is life euerlastyng. Whatsoeuer I speake therefore, euen as the father bad me, so I speake.

Before the feast of Easter, when Jesus knew that his houre was come, that he should depart out of this worlde vnto the father. When he loued his which were in the world, vnto the ende he loued them. And whē supper was ended, after that the dyuell had * put in the hart of Judas Iscariotb Simōs sonne, to betraie him. Jesus knowyng that * the father had geuen all thinges into his handes, and that he was come from God, and went to God: he rose from supper, & layde a syde his vpper garmentes: and when he had taken a towel, he girded him selfe. After that he poured water into a basyn, and began to washe the disciples fete, & to wipe them with the towel, wherwith he was girded. Then came he to Simon Peter. And Peter said vnto him: Lorde, doest thou washe my fete? Jesus answered, & said vnto him: What I do, thou woteste not now, but thou shalt know here after. Peter saieth vnto him: thou shalt neuer wash my fete. Jesus answered him: Ye I wash the not, thou hast no part with me. Simon Peter saieth vnto him: Lorde, not my fete onely, but also the handes, & the heade. Jesus saieth vnto him: he that is washed, nedeth not, saue to washe his fete, but is cleane euery whit. And ye are cleane, * but not al. For he knew who it was that should betraie him. Therefore said he: ye are not all cleane. So after he had washed their fete, & receiued his clothes, and was set downe, he said vnto them againe: wote ye what I haue done to you? Ye cal me Maister, & Lord, and ye saie wel, for so am I. If I then your Lord and Master, haue washed your fete, ye also ought to washe one anothers fete. For * I haue geuen you an ensample that ye should do, as I haue done to you. Verely, verely, I saye vnto you: ‡ the seruaunte is not greater then his master, neither the messanger greater than he that sent him. Ye vnderstande these thinges * happie are ye, yf ye do them. I speake not of you al, I knowe whome I haue chosen. But that the scripture maye be fulfylled: ‡ he that eateth bread with me, hath lyft Verely, verely, I saye vnto you: * He that receiueth who soeuer I sende, receiueth me. And he that receiueth me, receiueth him that sent me. When Iesus had thus said, he was troubled in spirite, and testified, and said: Verely, verely, I saye vnto you: that * one of you shall betraye me. Then the disciples loked one on another, doubting of whom he spake. There was one of Iesus disciples, which leaned on him) * euen he whō Iesus loued. To him beckned Simon Peter therfore, that he should aske, who it was of whom he spake. He then whā he leaned on Iesus breast, said vnto him: Lord, who is it? Iesus answered. He it is whome I geue a sop when I haue dypped it. And he wet the breade, & gaue it to Iudas Iscarioth Simōs sōne. And after the sop, Satan entred into him. Then said Iesus vnto him: that thou doest, do quickly. That wist no mā at the table, for what intent he spake vnto him. Some of the thought because * Iudas had the bag, that Iesus had said vnto him: by those thinges that we haue nede of, against the feast. Or that he should geue some thing to the poore. Assone thā as he had receiued the sop, he went immediatly oute, and it was night. Therefore when he was gone out, Iesus said: * Nowe is the sonne of man glorified. And God is glorified by him. If god be glorified by him, God shal also glorifie him by him selfe: and shal straight way glorifye him. Lytle chyldren, yet a litle while am I with you. * Ye shal seke me, and as I said vnto the Iewes, whither I go, thither can ye not come. Also to you saye I now: A newe commaundemente gyue I vnto you, that ye loue together, as I haue loued you, that euen so ye loue one another. By this shal all men know that ye are my disciples, yf ye haue loue one to another. Simon Peter said vnto him: Lorde, whyther goest thou? Iesus answered him: whyther I go, thou canst not folowe me now, but * thou shalt folow me, afterwardes. Peter said vnto him: Lorde, why can not I folowe the nowe? * I will ieoparde my lyfe for thy sake. Iesus answered him: wilt thou ieoparde thy lyfe for my sake? Verely, verely, I saye vnto thee: * the cocke shal not crowe, til thou haue denied me thryse. The. xiiii. Chap. * And he said vnto his disciples: Let not your hart be troubled. Ye beleue in God, beleue also in me. In my fathers house are many mansions: yf it were not so, I would haue tolde you. I go to prepare a place for you. And yf I go to prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receiue you, euē vnto my self: that * where I am, there may ye be also. And whither I go, ye know, and the waye ye know. Thomas saith vnto him: Lord, we know not whither thou goest. And how is it possible for vs to know the waye? Iesus saith vnto him: I am the waie, and the trueth, and the lyfe. * No man commeth vnto the father, but by me. If ye had knowen me, ye had knowne my father also. And nowe ye know him, & haue sene him. Philip saith vnto him: Lord, shewe vs thy father, & it sufficeth vs. Iesus saieth vnto him, haue I bene so longe time with you, & yet hast thou not knowē me Philip? he that hathe sene me, hathe sene my father. And how saiest thou then: shew vs thy father? Beleuest thou not that * I am in the father, & the father in me? The wordes that I speake vnto you, I speake not of my self: but the father that dwelleth in me, is he that doth the workes. Beleue me, that I am in the father, & * the father in me. Or els beleue me, for the workes sake. Verely, verely, I saye vnto you: he that beleueth on me, the workes that I do, the same shal he do also, & greater workes then these shal he do, because I go vnto my father. * And whatsoeuer ye aske in my name, that wil I do, that the father maye be glorified in the sonne. If ye shal aske any thing in my name, I wil do it. * If ye loue me, kepe my commaundementes, & I wil praye the father, & he shal geue you another cōforter, that he may abide with you for euer: euē the spirit of trueth, whom the world can not receiue, because the world seeth him not, neither knoweth him. But ye know him. For he dwelleth with you, & shalbe in you. * I wil not leaue you cōfortles, but wil come to you. Yet a litle while, and the worlde seeth me no more: but ye se me. For I liue, & ye shal liue. That daie shal ye know that I am in my father, & you in me, and I in you. * He that hath my commaundementes, & kepeth them: the same is he that loueth me. And he that loueth me, shalbe loued of my father, and I will loue him, and wil shew myne owne self to him. * Iudas saith vnto him: (not Iudas Iscarioth) Lord, what is done that thou wilte shewe thy self vnto vs, and not vnto the worlde. Iesus answered, & said vnto them: yf a man loue me, he wil kepe my saiynges, and my father will loue him, and we will come vnto him, & dwel with him. * He that loueth me not, kepeth not my saiynges. And the worde which ye heare, is not myne, but the fathers which sent me.

These thinges haue I spoken vnto you, beynge yet present with you. But the comforte, which is the holy ghost * whō my father wyl sende in my name, he shal teache you all thynges, and bring all thinges to your remembraunce, what soeuer I haue said vnto you. Peace I leaue with you, my peace I gyue vnto you. Not as the world giueth, giue I vnto you. Let not your hartes be greued, neyther feare. Ye haue harde how I said vnto you: I go, and come again vnto you. Yf ye loued me, ye would verely reioyce, because I said I go vnto the father, for the father is greater then I. * And now haue I shewed you before it come, that when it is come to passe, ye might beleue. Here after will I not talke many wordes vnto you. For the prince of this worlde commeth, and * hath nought in me. But that the worlde may know that I loue the father. And as the father gaue me commaundement, euen so do I. Arise, let vs go hence.

The. xv. Chapter.

I Am * the true vyne, and my father is the husbandman. Euery braunche that beareth not fruite in me, he will take away. And euery braunche that beareth fruite, will he pourge, that it maye bring forth more fruite. * Nowe are ye clene thorow the wordes which I haue spoken vnto you. Byde in me, and I in you. As the braunche can not beare fruite of it selfe, except it bide in the vyne: no more can ye, except ye abyde in me. I am the vyne, ye are the braunches. He that abydeth in me, & I in him, the same bringeth forthe much fruite. For without me can ye do nothing. * If a man byde not in me, he is caste forthe as a braunche, and is withered: and men gather them: and cast them into the fyre, & they burne. * If ye bide in me, & my wordes abyde in you, aske what ye wil, and it shalbe done for you. * Herein is my father glorified: that ye beare much fruite, and become my disciples. As the father hath loued me, euen so haue I also loued you. Continue ye in my loue. * If ye kepe my cõmaundementes, ye shal abide in my loue, euen as I haue kept my fathers commaundementes, and byde in his loue. These thinges haue I spoken vnto you, that my ioye might remayne in you, and that your ioye myghte be full. * This is my commaundemente, that ye loue together, as I haue loued you. Greater loue hath no man, then this: that a man bestowe his life for his frendes. Ye are my frendes, if ye do whatsoeuer I cõmaunde you. Hence forth cal I you not seruãtes: for the seruaunt knoweth not what his lord doeth. But you haue I called frendes: for all thynges that I haue hearde of my father, haue I opened to you. Ye haue not chosen me, but I haue chosen you, and ordeined you to go, and bring forth fruite, and that your fruite should remaine, that whatsoeuer ye aske of the father in my name, he may geue it you. * This commaunde I you, that ye loue together. * If the worlde hate you, ye know that it hated me before it hated you. If ye were of the worlde, the worlde would loue his owne. Nowbeit, because ye are not of the worlde, but I haue chosen you out of the worlde: therefore * the worlde hateth you. Remember the word that I said vnto you: the seruaunte is not greater then the Lord. * If they haue persecuted me, they wil also persecute you. If they haue kept my saying: they wyll kepe yours also. * But all these thinges wyll they do vnto you for my names sake, because they haue not knowē him that sent me. If I had not come, and spoken vnto them, they should haue had no synne: but now haue they nothing to cloke their synne withal. * He that hateth me, hateth my father also: If I had not done among them the workes which none other man dyd, they shoulde haue had no synne. But nowe haue they bothe seene, and hated: not onely me, but also my father. But this happeneth that the saynge myght be fulfylled that is written in their lawe: * they hated me without a cause. * But when the comforter is come * whome I wyll sende vnto you from the father (euen the spirite of trueth, which proceedeth of the father) he shal testifye of me. * And ye shal beare wytnes also, because ye haue bene with me from the beginning.

THese thinges haue I said vnto you, because ye should not be offended. * They shall excommunicate you yea, the tyme shall come, that whosoeuer killeth you, wil thinke that he doth God seruice. * And suche thinges will they do vnto you, because they haue not knowen the father, neither yet me. But these thinges haue I told you, that when the time is come, ye maye remember them that I told you. These thinges said I not vnto you at the beginning, because I was present with you. * But now I go my way to him that sent me, and none of you asketh me whyther I go. But because I haue said such thinges vnto you, your hartes are ful of sorow. Neuertheles, I tel you the trueth, it is expedient for you, that I go away. For if I go not away, that comforter wil not come vnto you. But if I departe, * I wyll sende him vnto you. And when he is come, he wil rebuke the worlde of synne, and of righteousnes, and of iudgemēt. Of synne, because they beleued not on me. Of righteousnes, because I go to my father, and ye shal se me nomore. Of iudgemente, because * the prince of this worlde is iudged alredy.

Verely, verely, I say vnto you:* whatsoeuer ye shal aske the father in my name, he wil geue it you. Hitherto haue ye asked nothing in my name. Aske, and ye shal receiue: that your ioye may be full.

These thinges haue I spoken vnto you by prouerbes. The time wil come, when I shall no more speake vnto you* by prouerbes: but I shal shew you plainly from my father. At that daie shal ye aske in my name. And I saye not vnto you that I wil speake vnto my father for you. For the father himselfe loueth you, because ye haue loued me, and haue beleued, that I came out from God. I went out from the father, and came into the world. Againe, I leaue the worlde, and* go to the father. His disciples said vnto him: Lo nowe talkest thou plainly, & speakest no prouerbe. Now are we sure, that* thou knowest al things, and needest not that any man shoulde aske the any question. Therefore beleue we, that thou camest from god. Iesus answered them: Now ye do beleue.* Beholde the houre draweth nye, and is alreadye come, that ye shalbe scattered euery man to his owne, & shal leaue me alone. And yet am I not alone. For* the father is with me. These wordes haue I spoken vnto you, that in me ye might haue peace. For in the world shal ye haue tribulation: but be of good chere, I haue ouercome the worlde.

These wordes spake Iesus, and lifte vp his eyes to heauen, and said: father,* the houre is come: glorifie thy sonne, that thy son also may glorifie thee: as thou hast geuen him power ouer al flesh, that he should geue eternall life to as many as thou hast geuen him. This is life eternal, that thei might knowe thee, the onely true God, & Iesus Christ, whō thou hast sente. I haue glorified thee on the earth.* I haue finished the worke, which thou gauest me to do. And now glorifie thou me o father with thine owne selfe, with the glory, which I had with thee, yer the worlde was. I haue declared thy name vnto the men, which thou gauest me out of the worlde. Thine thei were, and thou gauest them me, & thei haue kepte thy worde. Nowe thei haue knowen that al the thinges whatsoeuer thou hast geuen me, are of thee. For I haue geuen vnto thē the wordes which thou gauest me, and thei haue receiued them, & haue knowen suerly, that I came out from thee: and they haue beleued, that thou diddest sende me. I praye for them, I praie not for* the world, but for them* which thou hast geuen me, for thei are thine. And al myne are thine, & thine, are mine, and I am glorified in them. And now am I not in the worlde, and thei are in the worlde, and I come to thee.

Holye father, kepe thorowe thyne owne name them, whiche thou hast geuen me, that thei also maye be one, as we are. Whyle I was with them in the world, I kept them in thy name.* Those that thou gauest me, haue I kepte, and none of them is lost, but that lost childe,* that the scripture myghte be fulfilled. Now come I to thee, & these wordes speake I in the world, that they myghte haue my ioy ful in them. I haue geuen them thy word, and* the world hath hated them, because thei are not of the worlde, euen as I also am not of the worlde. I desire not that thou shouldest take them out of the world: but* that thou kepe them from euil. They are not of the world, as I also am not of the world. Sanctifie them thorow thy truth. Thy word is the truth. As thou diddest sende me into the world, euen so haue I also sent them into the world: and for their sakes sanctifye I my selfe, that thei also might be sanctified thorowe the truth. Neuertheless, I praye not for them alone, but for them also, which shal beleue on me thorow their preachinge: that thei al may be* one, as thou father art in me, & I in thee, & that thei also may be one in vs: that the world may beleue, that thou hast sent me. And the glory which thou gauest me, I haue geuen them, that they may be one, as we also are one. I in them, & thou in me, that thei may be made perfect in one, and that the world may know, that thou hast sent me, & hast loued them as thou hast loued me. Father, I wil that they which thou hast geuen me* be with me where I am, that thei may se my glorye, which thou hast geuen me. For thou louedest me before the making of the world. O righteous father, the world also hath not known thee: but I haue known thee: & these haue known, that thou hast sent me. And I haue declared vnto them thy name, & wil declare it, that the loue wherewith thou hast loued me, may be in them and I in them.

the broke of Cedrō, where was a garden, in to the which he entred, and his disciples. Judas also which betraied him, knew the place: for Jesus ofte times resorted thither with his disciples. Judas, then after he had receiued a bonde of men & ministers of the hye priestes, & Pharises, came thither with lanternes, & tyrebrādes, & weapōs. And Jesus knowing al thinges that shold come on him, went forth, & said vnto them: whō seke ye? They answered him: Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus saieth vnto them, I am he. Judas also which betraied him, stode with them. As soone then as he had said vnto them, I am he, thei went backeward, & fel to the ground. Then asked he them again: whome seke ye? Thei said: Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus answered: I haue told you, that I am he. Yf ye seke me therefore, let these go their way. That the saying might be fulfylled which he spake: * of them which thou gauest me, haue I not lost one.

Then Simon Peter hauing a sweard, drue it, and smote the hie priestes seruaunt, & cut of his right eare. The seruauntes name was Malchus. Therefore saieth Jesus vnto Peter: * Put vp thy sweard into the sheath: shall I not drinke of the cup, which my father hath geuen me? Thē the company, & the captaine & ministers of the Jewes toke Jesus, & bound him, & led him away to Anna first: for he was father in law vnto Caiphas, which was the hie priest that same yere. Caiphas was he which gaue counsel to the Jewes * that it was expedient, that one man shold die for the people. * And Simon Peter folowed Jesus, & so did another disciple: that disciple was knowen vnto the hie priest, & wente in with Jesus into the palace of the hie priest. But Peter stode at the dore without. Then wente out that other disciple (which was knowen vnto the hie priest,) & spake to the dāsel that kept the dore, & brought in Peter. Thā said the damsel that kept the dore, vnto Peter. Art not thou also one of this mans disciples? He said: I am not. The seruauntes & ministers stode there, which had made a fire of coales: for it was cold, & thei warmed them selues. Peter also stode among them, & warmed him. * The hie priest thā asked Jesus of his disciples, & of his doctrine. Jesus answered him. I spake openly in the worlde. I euer taught in the Synagoge, and in the temple whither al the Jewes resort, & in secrete haue I said nothing. Why askest thou me? Aske them which harde me, what I haue said vnto the. Behold, thei can tel what I said. When he had thus spoken, one of the ministers which stode by, smote Jesus on the face, saiyng * answerest thou the hie priest so? Jesus answered him: Yf I haue euel spoke, beare witnes of the euel. But if I haue wel spoken, why smitest thou me? And Annas sent him bounde vnto Caiphas the hie priest. Simon Peter stode, & warmed him self. Thā said they vnto him: art not thou also one of his disciples? He denied it, & said: I am not. One of the seruauntes of the hie priest (his cosyn whose eare Peter smote of) said vnto him, did not I se the in the garden with him? * Peter therefore denied againe: and immediatly the cocke crew. * Then led thei Jesus from Caiphas vnto the hal of iudgemēt. It was in the morning, & thei thē selues went not into the iudgement hal, lest thei would be defiled, but that thei might eate Passouer. Pilate then went out vnto them, & said: what accusacio bring ye against this man? Thei answered, & said vnto him: Yf he were not an euel doer, we wold not haue deliuered him vnto thee. Then said Pilate vnto them: take ye him, & iudge him after your owne law. The Jewes therefore said vnto him. It is not lawful for vs to put any man to death. That the wordes of Jesus might be fulfilled * which he spake, sygnifieng, what death he should die. * Then Pilate entred into the iudgement hal againe, & called Jesus: and said vnto him: arte thou the king of the Jewes? Jesus answered: Sayst thou that of thy self, or did other tel it the of me? Pilate answered: Am I a Jewe? Thine owne naciō, & hie priestes haue deliuered the vnto me. What hast thou done? Jesus answered my kingdō is not of this worlde. Yf my kingdō were of this worlde, thā wold my ministers suerly fight, that I should not be deliuered to the Jewes, but nowe is * my kingdō not frō hence. Pilate therefore said vnto him: Art thou a king then? Jesus answered: thou sayest that I am a king: for this cause was I borne, & for this cause came I into the worlde, that I shold beare witnes vnto the truth. And al that are of the truth heare my voice. Pilate said vnto him, what thing is truth? And whā he had said this, he went out again vnto the Jewes, and saieth vnto them. * I finde in him no cause at al. Ye haue a custome, that I shold deliuer you one loose at Easter, wil ye that I loose vnto you the king of the Jewes? Then cried thei al again, saiyng: * Not him, but Barrabas: the same Barrabas was a man theues.

Then Pilate toke Jesus therefore, & scourged him. * And the souldiers wounded a crowne of thornes, & put it on his head. And thei did on him a purple garment, & came vnto him, & said: haile king of the Jewes, and thei smote him on the face. Pilate went forth again, & said vnto thē, behold, I bring him forth to you, that ye may know, that I finde no cause in him. Thē came Jesus forth wearing a crowne of thorne, & a robe of purple. And he saith vnto them: behold the man! Whē the hie priestes therefore, & ministers saw him, they cried, saiyng, crucifie him, crucifie him, Pilate

Pilate saieth vnto them. Take ye him, & crucifie him, for I finde no cause in him. The Iewes answered him: We haue a lawe, & by our law he ought to die, because he made him self the son of God. Whē Pilate harde that saying, he was the more afraied, & went again into the iudgement hal, & saieth vnto Iesus, whence art thou? But Iesus gaue him none answere. Then said Pilate vnto him: Speakest thou not vnto me? Knowest thou not, that I haue power to crucifie the, & haue power to lose the? Iesus answered: Thou couldest haue no power at al against me, * excepte it were geuē the frō aboue. Therefore, he that deliuered me vnto the, hath the more sin. * And frō thence forth sought Pilate meanes to lose him, but the Iewes cried saying: If thou let him go, thou art not Cesars frēd. For * who soeuer maketh him self a king, is against Cesar. Whā Pilate harde that saying, he brought Iesus forth, & sat downe to geue sentence in the place that is called the pauement, but in the Hebrue tōg, Gabbatha. It was the preparing day of the Ester, about the .vi. houre. And he saieth vnto the Iewes: beholde your king. * Thei cried, away with him, away with him, crucifie him. Pilate saieth vnto thē: Shal I crucifie your king? The hie priestes answered: we haue no king, but Cesar. * Then deliuered he him vnto them, to be crucified.

And thei toke Iesus, & led him awaie. And he bare his crosse. * And went forth into a place, which is called the place of dead mens sculles. Which in Hebrue, Golgatha, where they crucified him, & two other with him, on either side one, & Iesus in the midest. And Pilate wrote a title, & put it on the crosse. The writing was: Iesus of Nazareth kynge of the Iewes. This title read many of the Iewes. For the place wher Iesus was crucified, was nie to the citie. And it was written in Hebrue, & Greeke, & Latin. Then sated the hie priestes of the Iewes to Pilate: wryte not king of the Iewes, but that he said: I am king of the Iewes. Pilate answered: what I haue written, that haue I written. Then the souldiours, * when thei had crucified Iesus, toke his garmentes, & made foure partes, to euery souldier a part, & also his cote. The coate was without seme, wrought vpō thorow out. Thei said therefore among them selues: Let vs not deuide it, but cast lottes for it, who shal haue it. That the scripture might be fulfilled, saying: * Thei haue departed my raiment among them, & for my cote thei cast lottes. And the souldiers did suche thinges in deede. There stode by the crosse of Iesus his mother, & his mothers sister, Mary the wife of Cleophas, & Mary Magdalene. When Iesus therefore saw his mother, & the disciple stāding * whō he loued, he saieth vnto his mother: woman, beholde thy sone. Then said he to the disciple: beholde thy mother. And frō that houre the disciple toke her for his own. After these thinges, Iesus knowing that al thinges were now performed, that * the scripture might be fulfilled, he saieth: I thirst. So there stode a vessel ful of vineger. * Therfore thei filled a spōge with vineger, & wōnd it about with isope, & put it to his mouth. Assone as Iesus had receaued of the vineger, he said: * It is finished, and bowed his head, & gaue vp the goost. The Iewes therfore, because it was the preparing of the Sabboth, that the bodies should not remaine vpō the crosse, on the Sabboth daie (for that Sabboth daie was an hie daie) besought Pilate, that their legges might be broken, & that thei might be taken down. Thē came the souldiers, & brake the legges of the first, & of the other which was crucified with him.

But when thei came to Iesus, & sawe that he was dead alredy, thei brake not his legges: but one of the souldiers with a speare thrust him into the side, & forthwith came there out bloude, & water. And he that sawe it bare recorde, & his recorde is true. And he knoweth that he saith true, that ye might beleue also. For these thinges were done, that the scripture should be fulfylled. * Ye shal not breake a bone of him. And againe another scripture saith: thei shal loke on him whō thei pearced. * After this, Ioseph of Aramathia (which was a disciple of Iesus: but secretly, for feare of the Iewes) besought Pilate that he might take down the body of Iesus. And Pilate gaue him licence, he came therfore, and toke the body of Iesus. And there came also Nicodem * (which at the beginning came to Iesus by night) & brought of myrre, & aloes mingled together, about an. C. pound waight. Then toke thei the body of Iesus, & wounde it in linnen clothes with the odours, as the maner of the Iewes is to burie. And in the place where he was crucified, there was a garden, & in the garde a new sepulchre, wherin was neuer man laide. There laid thei Iesus therfore, because of the preparing of the Sabboth of the Iewes, for the sepulchre was nye at hande.

The. xx. Chapter.

The first daie of Sabboths, came Marie Magdalen early (whē it was yet darke) vnto the sepulchre, & saw the stone taken awaie frō the graue. Then she ranne, & came to Simō Peter, & to the other disciple * whō Iesus loued, & saieth vnto them: They haue taken away the Lorde out of the graue, & we can not tel wher thei haue laid him. Peter therfore went forth, and that other disciple, & came vnto the sepulchre. Thei ran both together, & the other disciple did outrūne Peter, & came first to the sepulchre. And whē he had louped down, he saw the linnen clothes lying, yet went he not in. * Then came Simon Peter ere folowing him, & went into the sepulchre, & saw the linnē clothes lie, & the napkē that was about his head, not lying with the linnē clothes, but wrapped together in a place by it self. Then went in also that other disciple, which came first to the sepulchre, & he saw, & believed. For as yet they knew not the scripture, that he should rise again from death. Then the disciples went away againe vnto their own home. Mary stode without at the sepulchre weping. So as she wept, she bowed her self into the sepulchre, and seeth two angels clothed in white, sitting the one at the head, & the other at the fete, where they had laid the body of Jesus. They saye vnto her: Woman, why wepest thou? She saieth vnto them: For they have taken away my Lord, & I wote not where they have laid him. When she had thus said, she turned her self backe, & saw Jesus standing, & knew not that it was Jesus. Jesus saieth vnto her: Woman, why we-pest thou? Whō seekest thou? She supposing that he had bene a gardener, saith vnto him: Sir, if thou have borne him hence, tell me where thou hast laid him, & I will fet him.

Jesus saith vnto her: Mary. She turned her self, & said vnto him: Rabboni, which is to say: maister. Jesus saith vnto her: Touch me not, for I am not yet ascended to my father.
But go to my brethren, & saie vnto them: I ascēde vnto my father, & your father: & to my God, & your God. Marie Magdalene came and tolde the disciples, that she had sene the Lord, & that he had spoken such thinges vnto her. The same daie at night which was the first day of the Sabothes, whē the doores were shut (where the disciples were assembled together for feare of the Jewes) came Jesus, & stode in the midde, and saieth vnto them: peace be vnto you. And when he had so said, he shewed vnto thē his hāds, & his syde.
Then were the disciples glad, whē they saw the Lord. Then said Jesus to them agayne: peace be vnto you. As my father sent me, eue so send I you also. And whē he had said those wordes, he breathed on thē, & saith vnto thē: Receaue ye the holy ghost. Whosoeuers sinnes ye remit, they are remitted vnto them. And whosoeuers sinnes ye retaine, they are retained. But Thomas one of the xii. (which is called Didymus) was not with them, whē Jesus came. The other disciples therefore said vnto him: we have sene the Lord. But he said vnto them: Except I se in his hāds the print of the nailes, & put my tynger into the print of the nailes, and thrust my hād into his syde, I will not believe. And after viii. daies againe, his disciples were within, & Thomas with them. Then came Jesus when the doores were shut, & stode in the midde, & said: Peace be vnto you. And after that said he to Thomas: Bring thy finger hither, & se my hāds, & reache hither thy hande, & thrust it into my syde, & be not faithlesse, but believing. Thomas answered, & said vnto him: my Lord, and my God. Jesus saieth vnto him: Thomas, because thou hast sene me, thou hast believed: blessed are they that have not sene, & yet have believed. And many other signes truely did Jesus in the presence of his disciples, which are not written in this boke. These are written that ye might believe, that Jesus is Christ the son of God, & that (in believing) ye might have life through his name. The. xxi. Chap.
Afterwarde did Jesus shewe him self againe at the sea of Tiberias. And on this wyse shewed he him self. There were together Simon Peter, and Thomas (which is called Didimus), and Nathanael of Cana in Ga-lile, and the sonnes of Zebedei, & two other of his disciples. Simon Peter saith vnto them: I will go a fishing: They saie vnto him: we also will go with the: They went their waye, & entred into a ship immediatly, & that night caught they nothing. But when the morning was now come, Jesus stode on the shore: nevertheles the disciples knew not that it was Jesus. Jesus saieth vnto them: children, have ye any meate? They answered him no. And he saieth vnto them: cast out the net on the right syde of the ship, & ye shal finde. They cast out therefore, and anone they were not able to drawe it, for the multitude of fishes.
Then said the disciple whom Jesus loued, vnto Peter: It is the Lorde. When Simon Peter harde that it was the Lord, he gyrde his cote vnto him (for he was naked) & sprāg into the sea. The other disciples came by ship, for they were not farre frō lāde, but as it were two hundred cubites, & they drew the net with fishes. As sone then as they were come to lande, they saw hote coles, and fyshe layde theron, & breade. Jesus saieth vnto them: bring of the fish which ye have now caught.
Simon Peter went vp, & drew the net to the lande ful of great fishes, an. C. and. liii. And for all there were so many, yet was not the net broken. Jesus saith vnto them: come, & dine.
And none of the disciples durste aske him: what art thou? For they knew that it was the Lord. Jesus thē came, & toke bread, and gaue them, & fishe lykewise. This is now the. iii. time that Jesus appered to his disciples, after that he was risen againe frō death. So whē they had dined, Jesus saieth to Simō Peter: Simō Joanna, louest thou me more then these? He said vnto him: yea, Lord, thou kno-west that I love the. He saieth vnto him, fede my lambes. He saieth to him againe, the seconde time: Simon Joanna, louest thou me? he saieth vnto him: Yea Lord, thou kno-Verely, verely, I saye vnto the: when thou wast yonge, thou girdedst thy selfe, and walkedst whither thou wouldest, but when thou art olde, * thou shalt stretche forth thy handes, and another shal girde the, and leade the whither thou wouldest not. Peter turned about, and saw the disciple, * whom Iesus loued, folowing (which also leaned on his breast at supper, and said: Lorde, which is he that betraieth the?) When Peter therefore saw him, he saieth to Iesus: Lorde, what shall he here do? Iesus saith vnto him: If I wil haue him so tariefil I come, what is that to the, folow thou me. Then went this saying abrode among the brethren, that that disciple should not die. Yet Iesus said not to him, he shall not die, but if I wil that he tarie til I come, what is that to the? The same disciple is he, which testifieth of these thinges, & wrote these thinges. And we knowe that his testimonie is true. * There are also manye other thinges, which Iesus did, the which ye thei should be written euery one, I suppose, the world coulde not containe the bokes that should be written.

Here endeth the Gospel of S. Iohn.

The Actes of the Apostles.

The firste Chapter.

IN the former treatyse (deare Theophilus) we haue spoken of all that Iesus began to do, and teach, vntil the daie in which he was taken vp, after that he thorow the holy ghost had geuen commaundementes vnto the Apostles, whom he had chosen, to whome also he * shewed him selfe alyue, after his passion, (and that by manye tokens) appearing vnto them, fourtie daies, and speaking of the kingdome of God, and gathered them together, & commaunded them, that thei should not depart from Ierusalem: but to waite for the promes of the father, * whereof (saieth he) ye haue harde of me. For* Iohn truely baptised with water, but ye shalbe baptised with the holye ghost, after these fewe daies. When thei therefore were come together, thei asked of him, saying: Lord, wilt thou at this time, restore againe the kyngedome to Israel? And he said vnto them: * It is not for you to knowe the times, or the seasons, which the father hath put in his owne power: but* ye shal receyue power, after that the holy ghost is come vpo you. And* ye shalbe witnesses vnto me, not onely in Ierusalem, but also in all Iewrie, & in Samari, and euen vnto the worldes ende. And when he had spoken these thinges, while thei beheld, * he was taken vp on hye, and a cloude receiued him vpout of their sight. And while thei loked stedfastlye vp towarde heauen, as he went, behold, two men stode by them in white apparel, whiche also saied: ye men of Galile, why stande ye gasing vp into heauen? This same Iesus, which is taken vp from you into heauen, * shal so come, euen as ye haue seene him go into heauen. Then returned thei vnto Ierusalem, from the mounte (that is called Oliuet) which is from Ierusalem a Sabboth daies iourney. And when thei were come in, thei went vp into a parler, where abode bothe * Peter, and Iames, and Iohn, and Andrewe, Philip, and Thomas, Bartholmewe, and Matthew, Iames the son of Alpheus, and Simon zelotes, and Iudas the brother of Iames. These all continued with one accorde in prayer, and supplicacion with the women, and Marie the mother of Iesu, and with his brethren. And in those daies Peter stode vp in the middes of the disciples, and said (the nombre of the names that were together, were aboute an hundred and twentie. (Ye men, and brethren, this scripture muste nedes haue bene fulfylled, which the holy ghost, thorow the mouthe of Dauid, spake before of Iudas, * which was guide to them that toke Iesus. For he was nombred with vs, and had obtayned felowshippe in this ministracion. And the same hath nowe possessed a plat of grounde with the rewarde of iniquitie: and when he was * hanged, he burste asunder in the myddes, & all his bowels gushed oute. And it is knowen vnto all the inhabiters of Ierusalem, in so muche that the same felde is called in their mother tonge, Acheldama, that is to saie, the bloudie felde. For it is written in the booke of Psalmes: * His habitacion be voide, and no man be dwellynge therin, * and his Bishoprike, let another take: Wherefore of these men, whiche haue companied with vs (al the tyme that the Lorde Iesus had al his conuersacion among vs, beginning at the baptisme of Iohn, vnto that same daie that he was taken vp from vs) must one be ordeined, to be a witnes with vs of his resurrection. And* thei apoynted two, Ioseph, whiche is called Barsabas (whose surname was Iustus) and Mathias. And when thei prayed, thei said: thou Lorde which * knowest the hertes of al men shewe whether of these two thou hast chosen: that he maye take the rowme of this ministracio and Apostleship, from whiche Iudas by transgression fell, that he might go to his owne place. And they gaue forth their lottes, and the lotte fel on Mathias, and he was counted with the

The.ii. Chapter.

VAND * whē the tyme of the fyfty daies were come to an ende, thei were al with one accorde to gether in one place. And sodenly there came a sounde from heauen, as it had bene the cōming of a mightie winde, and it fylled all the house where thei sate, and there appeared vnto them clouen tonges, lyke as thei had bene of fire, & it sate vpon eche one of them, * and thei were al fylled with the holy ghost, and began to speake with other tonges, euen as the same spirit gaue them vtteraunce.

Here were dwelling at Jerusalem, Jewes, deuoute men, out of euery nacion of thē that are vnder heauen. When this was noysed about, the multitude came together, and were astonnied, because that euery mā harde them speake with his owne language. Thei wondred al, and marueiled, saiyng amōg them selues: behold, are not al these whiche speake, of Galile? And how heare we euery mā his owne tonge, wherin we were borne? Parthians, and Medes, and Elamites, and the inhabiters of Mesopotamia, and of Jewrie, & of Capadocia, of Pontus, and Asia, Phrigia, and Pamphilia, of Egipt, and of the parties of Libia, which is beside Syren, & straungers of Rome, Jewes, and * Proselytes, Grekes, and Arabians: we haue harde them speake in our owne tonges the great workes of God. Thei were al amased, & wondred, saiyng one to another: what meaneth this? Other mocked, saiyng: these men are full of newe wine. But Peter stepped forth with the eleuen, and lift vp his voice, and said vnto them: Ye men of Jewrie, and all ye that dwel at Jerusalem, be this knowē vnto you, and with your eares heare my wordes. For these are not dronken, as ye suppose, seing it is but the thirde houre of the daye. But this is that which was spoken by the Prophete Joel: And it shalbe in the laste daies, sayeth God, of my spirit, I wil powre out vpon all flesshe. * And your sonnes, & your doughters shal prophecie, and youre yonge men shall se visions, & your old men shal dreme dreames. And on my seruaunte, & on my hādemaidens I wil poure out of my spirit in those daies, and thei shal prophecie. And * I will shewe wonders in heauen aboue, and tokens in the earth beneth, bloude and fyre, & the vapoure of smoke. The sōne shalbe turned into darkenes, & the mone into bloud before that great and notable daye of the Lorde come. And it shal come to passe, that * whosoeuer shall call on the name of the Lord, shalbe saued. * Ye men of Israel, heare these wordes: Jesus of Nazareth, a man approued of God amonge you with miracles, wonders, & signes, which God did by him in the middes of you (as ye your selues knowe) him haue ye taken by the handes of vnrighteous persones, & after he was deliuered by the determinate counsel, and foreknowlege of God, and haue crucified, and slaine him: whome God hath raysed vp, and loosed the sorowes of death, because it was vnpossible that he should be holde of it. For Dauid speaketh of him. * I saw God alwaies before me, for he is on my right hande, that I should not be moued. Therfore did my hart reioyce, and my tonge was glade. Moreouer also my flesshe shal rest in hope, because thou wilt not leaue my soule in hel, neither wilt thou suffer thyne holy to se corruptiō. Thou hast shewed me the waies of lyfe, thou shalte make me full of ioye with thy countenaunce. Ye men and brethren, let me freely speake vnto you of the patriarke Dauid: * For he is both dead and buried, & his sepulchre remaineth with vs vnto this daie. Therfore seing he was a Prophet, and knew that God had sworne with an othe to him, that Christ (as concerning the flesshe) shulde come of the frutes of his loynes, and should syt on his seate, he knowing this before, spake of the resurrection of Christ: that his soule shold not be left in hel: neither his flesshe should se corruption. This Jesus hath God raised vp, * whereof we al are witnesses. Sence now that he by the right hād of God is exalted, and hath receyued of the father, the promise of the holy ghost, he hath shed forth this gift, which ye nowe se, and heare. For Dauid is not ascended into heauē, but he saieth: * The Lord said to my Lorde: sit thou on my right hande, vntil I make thy foes thy foote stoole. So therfore, let al the house of Israel know for a certtie, that god hath made that same Jesus (whome ye haue crucified) Lorde and Christ. Whā thei harde this, thei were pricked in their hartes, and said vnto Peter, & vnto the other Apostles: Ye men, and brethren, * what shal we do? Peter said vnto them: repent of your sinnes, and be baptised euery one of you in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of synnes, & ye shal receaue the gift of the holy ghoste. For the promyse was made vnto you, and to your children, and to al that are farre of, euē as many as the Lord our God shall cal. And with many other wordes dyd he witnes, and exhorted them, saiyng: Saue your selues frō this vntowarde generacion. Then thei that gladly receaued his preaching were baptised: and the same daie there were added vnto thē about thre thousande soules. And thei continued in the Apostles doctrine, & felowship, & in breaking of breade, and in prayers. And feare came ouer euery soule. And many wonders, & signes were shewed by the Apostles. (At Jerusalē. And great feare came vpō al mē. Then al that beleued, kept them selues together, & had al thinges common, & sold their possessions and goodes, and parted them to al men, as euery man had nede. And thei continued daily with one accorde in the temple, & brake breade from house to house, and did eat their meate together with gladnes, & singlenes of hart, praising God, & had fauour with al the people. And the Lord added to the congregacion dayly, such as should be saued.

1 PEter and John weute vp together into the temple, at the nynth houre of prayer. And a certaine man that was halte from his mothers wombe, was brought, whō thei laid daily at the gate of the temple (which is called bewtiful) to aske almes of them that entred into the temple. When he sawe Peter, & John, that thei wold go into the tēple, he desired to receaue an almes. And Peter fastened his eyes on him with John, & said: Loke on vs. And he gaue heede vnto them, trusting to receaue some thing of them. Then sayed Peter: Siluer & gold haue I none, such as I haue, geue I the. In the name of Iesu Christ of Nazareth* rise vp, & walke. And he toke him by the right hāde, & lift him vp. And immediatly his fete, and ancklebones receiued strength. And he spraunge, stode, & walked, and entred with them into the temple, walking, & leaping, and praising God. And al the people saw him walke, & praise God. And thei knew him, that it was he, which sat & begged at the bewtiful gate of the tēple. And thei wōdred, & were sore astonied at that, which had happened vnto him. And as the halt which he was healed, helde Peter & John, al the people ran amased vnto them in* the porche that is called Salomōs. When Peter saw that, he answered vnto the people: Ye men of Israel, why marualle ye at this, or why loke ye so on vs, as though by out owne power or strēgth we had made this mā go? The God of Abraham, & of Isaac, & of Jacob, the God of oure fathers hath glorified his sone Jesus, whō ye delinered,* & denied in the presence of Pilate, whan he had iudged him to be loosed.

But ye denied the holy and iuste, & desired a murtherer to be geuen you, and killed* the Lord of life, whō god hath raised frō death: of the which we are witnesses. And his name (thorow the faith of his name) hath made this mā sounde, whō ye se, and know. And the faithe which is by him, hath geue to him this helth in the presence of you al. And now brethren, I wote that thorow ignorance ye did it, as did also your rulers. But God which before had shewed, by the mouth of all his Prophetes, how that Christ shuld suffer, hath thus wise fulfilled. Repēt ye therfore, & conuert, that your sinnes may be done away. * When the time of refreshing cōmeth which we shal haue of the presence of the Lord, and when God shal sende him, which before was preached vnto you, that is to wete Jesus Christ, which must receiue heauen, until the time that al thinges, whiche God hathe spoken by the mouth of al his holy Prophetes, sence the world began, bere record against me. Moses truly said vnto the fathers:* a Prophet shal the Lord your God raise vp vnto you, euen of your brethrē, like vnto me: him shal ye heare, in all thinges whatsoeuer he shall saye vnto you. For the time wil come, that euery soule which wil not heare that same prophet, shal be destroied from among the people. All the prophetes also, from Samuel, & thence forth (as many as haue spoken) haue in lyke wyse tolde of these daies. Ye are the chyldren of the prophetes, and of the couenaunt, which God made vnto our fathers, saying to Abraham:* Euen in thy sede shal all the kinredes of the earth be blessed. AS thei spake vnto the people, the priestes & the rulers of the tēple, & the Sadduces came vnto thē, takyng it greuously that they taughte the people, & preached in Jesus the resurrection frō death. And they laid handes on them, & put them in holde, vntil the next daye, for it was nowe euentyde. Howbeit many of them which hearde the worde, beleued, & the nōbre of the men was about fyue thousande. And it chaunced on the morowe, that their rulers & elders, & Scribes, & Annas the chiefe Priest, & Caiphas, & Jhon, and Alexander, & as many as were of the kynred of the hie priestes, gathered together at Jerusalem. And when thei had set them before them, thei asked* by what power, or in what name haue ye done this? Then Peter ful of the holy ghoste, said vnto them: ye rulers of the people, and elders of Israel, ye wethe haue be examined of the good dede that we haue done to the sycke man, by what meanes he is made whole: be it knowen vnto you al, and to all the people of Israel, that by the name of* Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom ye crucified, whome God rayed againe from deathe, euen by him doth this man stande here presente before you whole. * This is the stone whyche was cast a lyde of you builders, whiche is become the chiefe of the cornen. ding with them, thei colde not seye against it, but commaunded them to go aside oute of the counsell, and counceled among them selues, sayinge: * What shal we do to these men? For a manifest signe is done by them, and it is openly knowen to al them that dwel in Jerusalem and we can not denie it? But that it be noysed no farther among the people, let us threaten, and charge them, that they speake hence forthe to no man in this name. And thei called them, * and commaunded them that in no wyse thei should speake, nor teache in the name of Jesus. But Peter and John answered, and said vnto them: whether it be right in the sight of God, to herke vnto you more then to God, iudge ye. For we can not but speake that, which we haue seene, & herde. So threatened thei them, and let them go, and founde nothing how to punish them, because of the people. For al men praised God, because of *that which was done: for the man was aboue .xl. yere olde, on who this miracle of healing was shewed. And as one as thei were let go, thei came to their felowes, and shewed al that the hie priestes, & elders had said. And when thei harde that, thei lyfte vp their voices to god with one accorde, & said: Lord thou art God, which hast made heauen & earth, the sea, & al that in the is, whiche in the holy ghost by the mouth of thy seruaunt David our father hast said: * Why dyd the heathen rage, and the people imagen bayne thinges? The kinges of the earth rode vp, & the rulers came together, against the Lord, and against his annoynted. For of a trueth, against thy holy childe Jesus, (whome thou hast anoynted) bothe Herode, and Pontius Pilate, with the Gentiles, and the people of Israel, gathered them selues together (in this citie) for to do what soeuer thy hande, & thy counsel determined before to be done. And nowe Lord, behold their threatninges, and graunt vnto thy seruauntes, that with al confidence they may speake thy word. So that thou stretch forth thyne hande, that healing, & signes, & wonders be done by the name of thy holy childe Jesus. And as one as thei had prayed, * the place moued, where thei were assembled together, * and thei were al fylled with the holy ghost, and thei spake the word of God boldely. And the multitude of them that beleued, * were of one hart, & of one soule: neither said any of them, that ought of the thinges which he possessed was his owne: but thei had al thinges common. And with great power gaue the Apostles witnes of the resurrection of the Lorde Jesu. And great grace was with them al. Neither was there any among the, that lacked. For as many as were possessioners of landes, or houses, solde them, and broughte the price of the thinges that were solde, and layde it downe at the Apostles fete. And distribucion was made vnto euery man, according as he had nede. And * Joses, whiche was also called of the Apostles, Barnabas (that is to saie: the son of consolacion) being a Leuite, and of the countrie of Cipres, when he had lande, solde it, and layde the price downe at the Apostles fete.

A Certaine man, named Ananias, with Saphira his wife, solde a possession, & kept away part of the price, (his wife also being of counsel) and broughte a certaine parte, and laied it at the Apostles fete. But Peter said: Ananias, how is it, that Sathan hath fylled thine hart, that thou shouldest lie vnto the holy ghost, & kepe awai part of the price of the land? Pertained it not vnto the onely, and after it was solde, was it not in thine owne power? Why hast thou conceaued this thing in thine hart? Thou hast not lied vnto men, but vnto God. When Ananias harde these wordes, he fel downe, and gaue vp the ghost. And greate feare came on al them that harde these thinges. And the yonge men rose vp, and put him apart, and caried him oute, and buried him. And it fortuned, that (as it were aboute the space of three houres after) his wife came in, ignorannce of that which was done. And Peter said vnto her: Tel me, solde ye not the lande for so much? And she said: yea, for so much. Then Peter said vnto her: why haue ye agreed together, to tempt the spirit of the Lorde? Beholde, the fete, of them which haue buried thy husbande, are at the dore, and shal carie the out. Then fell she downe straight waie at his fete, and yelded vp the ghost. And the yonge men came in, & founde her dead, and caried her out, and buried her by her husbande. And great feare came on al the congregacion, and on as manie as harde it. By the handes of the Apostles * were manie signes, and wonders shewed amonge the people. And thei were altogether with one accorde in * Salomons porche. And of other durste no man ioyne him selfe to them, nenertheles, the people magnified them. The nombre of them that beleued in the Lorde, bothe of men and women, grewe more and more: in so muche that they broughte the sicke into the stretes, and laide them on beddes, and couches, that at the least waye the shadowe of Peter, when he came by, might ouershadowe some of them, & that thei might all be deliuered from their infyrmities. There came also a multitude out of the cities rounde about vnto Jerusalem, bringing sicke folkes, and them whiche were vexed with vncleane spirites. And they were healed euery one. * Then the chiefe Priestes rose vp, and all they that were with him (which is the secte of the Sadducees) & were full of indignacion, and layed handes handes on the Apostles, & put them in the cõmune prison. But the angel of the Lord by night opened the prisõ doores, & brought thẽ forth, & said: go, & stand & speake in the temple to the people all the wordes of this life. Whẽ they herde that, they entred into the temple early in the morninge, and taught. But the chefe priest came, & they that were with him, & called a councel together, & all the elders of the children of Israel, & sent men to the prison, to fet them. When the ministers came, & fonde them not in the prison, they returned & tolde, sayeng: the prison truly founde we shut with all diligence, & the keper standyng without before the doores. But when we had opened, we founde no man within. When the chefe priest & the ruler of the temple, & the hie prestes herde these thynges, they doubted of the whereunto this wolde growe. Then came one & shewed them: beholde, the men that ye put in prison, stande in the temple, & teache the people. Then went the ruler of the temple, with ministers, & brought thẽ without violence. For they feared the people, lest they shulde have bene stoned. And when they had brought thẽ, they set them before the councel. And the chefe priest asked thẽ, sayeng: * we dyd not we straytly commande you, that ye should not teache in this name? And beholde, ye have filled Jerusalem with your doctrine, & intende to bring * this mans bloude upon us. Peter and the other Apostles answered, & said: * We ought more to obey God then men. The God of our fathers rayled up Jesus, whõ ye slewe, and hanged on tree. Him hath God lifte up with his right hande, to be a ruler & a sauyoure, for to geue repentaũce to Israel, & forgeuenesse of synnes. And we are recordes of these thinges, which we say, & so is also the holy ghost, whom God hath geuen to them that obey him. When they herde that, they clave asunder, & sought meanes to slea them. Then stode ther up one in the councell, a Pharyse, named * Gamaliell, a doctour of lawe had in reputation among al the people, & cõmaunded the Apostles to go aside a lytle space, & said vnto them: Yemen of Israel, take heede to your selues, what ye entend to do as touchyng these men. For before these dayes rose up one Theudas, boastyng him selfe, to whõ resorted a nõbre of men, about a foure hũdred, whiche was slayne: & thei al which beleved him, were scattered abroade, & brought to nought. After this man, was there one Judas of * Galile in the dayes of the tribute, and drewe awaye much people after him. He also perished & al euen as many as harkened to him, were scattered abroade. And nowe I saye vnto you: refrayne your selues from these men, & let them alone. For if this councell, or this worke be of men, it will come to nought. But and if it be of God, ye can not destroye it, lest happlye ye be founde to fyght against God. And to him agreed the other: and when they had called the Apostles, they beate them, * and commaunded that they shulde not speake in the name of Jesu, and let them go. And they departed from the councell, * reioysyng, that they were counted worthye, to suffre rebuke for his name. And dayelye in the temple and in euery house they ceased not, to teach & preach Jesus Christ. The. vi. Chapter.

Whē Moses sawe it, he wondred at the syghte. And as he drewe neare to beholde, the voyce of the Lorde came vnto hym. * I am the God of thy fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. Moses trembled, & durst not beholde. Then sayde the Lorde to him. * Put of thy shoes from thy fete, for the place wher thou standeste, is holye grounde. I haue perfectly sene the affliccion of my people, which is in Egypte, and I haue herde their grouynge, & am come downe to deliuer them. And nowe come, & I will sende the into Egypte. This Moses whome they refused (sayeng * who made the a ruler & a iudge? the same dyd God sende to be a ruler & a deliuerer by the handes of the angell, whiche appeared to him in the bushe. (And the same brought thē out, shewynge wonders & tygnes in Egipte, & in the red sea, and in the wyldernes fourtye yeares. This is that Moses, which said vnto the chyldren of Israel: * A prophet shal the Lorde youre God rayse vp vnto you of your brethre, lyke vnto me, him shal ye heare. This is he that was in the congregacion in the wilderness with the angel (which spake to him in the mount Sinay) and with our fathers. This man receaued the worde of lyfe to geue vnto vs, to whom our fathers wolde not obey, but cast it frō them, & in their hartes turned backe agayne into Egypte, saieng vnto Aaron: * make vs gods to go before vs. For as for this Moses that brought vs out of the lande of Egypte, we wote not what is become of him. And they made a calfe in those dayes, and offred sacrifyce vnto the ymage, and reioyced ouer the workes of their owne handes. Then God turned him selfe, & gaue them vp, that they should worshippe the hoste of the skye, as it is written in the bokes of the prophetes, * O ye of the house of Israell, gaue ye to me sacrifices and meate offringes, by the space of fourtye yeares in the wyldernes? hyppe them. And I wyll translate you beyonde Babylon. Oure fathers had the tabernacle of wytnesse in the wylderneſſe, as he had appoynted them, speakinge vnto Moſes: that he ſhould make it accordinge to the fashyon that he had ſene. Which tabernacle also oure fathers that came after, brought in with Joſue into the poſſeſſion of the Gentyles, whome God draue out before the face of our fathers, vnto the tyme of Dauid: which founde fauoure before God, and wolde fayne haue found a tabernacle for the God of Jacob. But Salomon buylt hym an houſe. Howbeit he that is hyeſt of all, dwelleth not in temples made wyth handes, as ſayeth the prophete: Heauen is my ſeate, and earth is my foote ſtole. What houſe wyll ye buylde for me ſayeth the Lorde? or whiche is the place of my reſt: hath not my hande made all theſe thynges? Ye ſtyffenecked and of vncircumcyſed hertes and eares, ye alwayes reſiſted the holy ghoſt: as your fathers dyd, ſo do ye. Whiche of the prophetes haue not your fathers perſecuted? And they haue layne the which ſhewed before of the commyng of that iuſt, whome ye haue nowe betrayed, and murthred. And ye also haue receaued the lawe by the miniſtration of angels, and haue not kept it. When they herde theſe thynges, they were cut asunder, & they gnaſhed on him with their tethe. But he beynge full of the holy ghoſt, loked vp ſtedfaſtlye wyth his eyes into heauen, and ſawe the gloxye of God, and Jeſus ſtandyng on the ryght hande of God, and ſayde: Beholde, I ſe the heauens open, and the ſonne of man ſtandynge on the ryght hande of God. Then they gaue a houte with a loude voyce, and ſtopped their eares, and ranne vpon hym all at once, and caſte hym oute of the cytie, and ſtoned hym. And the wytnes layed downe their clothes at a yonge mans fete, whoſe name was Saull. And they ſtoned Steuen, callynge on, and ſayenge: Lorde Jeſu, receaue my ſpyryte. And he kneled downe, and cryed wyth a loude voyce: Lorde, lay not this ſynne to their charge. And when he hadde thus ſpoken, he fell aſleepe.

Saul conſented vnto his death. And at that tyme there was a greate perſecucion agaynſt the congregacion, whiche was at Jeruſalem, and they were all ſcattered abrode thorowe oute the regions of Jewrye and Samaria, excepte the apoſtles. But deuoute men dreſſed Steuen, and made greate lamentacion ouer him. As for Saul he made hauocke of the congregacyon, and entred into euery houſe, and drewe oute both men and women, and thruſt them into priſon. Therfore they that were ſcattered abrode, wente euery where preachynge the worde of God.

Then came Philip into a cytie of Samaria, and preached Chriſte vnto them. And the people gaue hede vnto thoſe thynges, whiche Philip ſpake wyth one accorde, hearyng and ſeyng the miracles whiche he dyd. For vncleane ſpyrites cryenge wyth loude voyce, came oute of manye that were poſſeſſed of them. And many taken with palſyes, and many that halted, were healed. And there was greate ioye in that cytie. But there was a certayne man, called Simon, whiche before tyme in the ſame cytie vſed wytchcraft, and bewytched the people of Samaria, ſayenge that he was a man that coulde do greate thynges. Whome they regarded, from the leaſte to the greateſt, ſayenge: this man is the power of God, whyche is called greate. And hym they ſet muche by, becauſe that of longe tyme, he hadde bewytched them wyth ſorceries. But aſſone as they gaue credence to Philippes preachynge of the kyngdome of God, and of the name of Jeſus Chriſte: they were baptyſed bothe men and women. Then Symon hymſelfe beleued alſo. And when he was baptyſed, he continued wyth Philip, wondred, beholdynge the miracles and ſygnes, whyche were ſhewed. When the Apoſtles whyche were at Jeruſalem harde ſaye, that Samaria hadde receaued the worde of God, they ſente vnto them, Peter and Jhon. Whyche when they were come downe prayed for them, that they myghte receaue the holye ghoſte: For as yet he was come on none of them, but they were baptyſed only in the name of Chriſt Jeſu. Then layed they their handes on them, and they receaued the holye ghoſte. When Symon ſawe that thorowe layenge on of the Apoſtles handes, the holy ghoſt was geuen, he offered them money, ſayenge: geue me alſo this power, that on whomſoeuer I put the handes, he maye receaue that holye ghoſte. But Peter ſayd vnto him: thy money perysshe with the, becauſe thou haſte thought that the gyfte of God may be obteyned with money. Thou haſte neyther parte nor ſelowſhyp in this buſyneſs. For thy herte is not ryght in the ſyghte of God. Repente therfore of this thy wyckednes, and praye God, that the thought of thine herte may be forgeuen the. For I perceyue that thou art full of bitter gall, and wrapped in iniquite. Then anſwered Simon & ſaid: praye ye to the lorde for me that none of theſe thynges which ye haue ſpoken, fal on me. And ther they had teſtified and preached the worde of God returned towarde Jeruſalē, & preached the Goſpell in many cities of the Samaritans. The angel of the lord ſpake vnto Philip, ſayeng: aryſe and go towarde the ſouthe vnto the waye that goeth downe frō Jeruſalē vnto the cytie of Gaza, which is in the deſerte. And he aroſe, & went on. a man of Ethiopia a chamberlayne, a of great auctoritie with Candace quene of the Ethiopias, a had the rule of al her treasure: came to Jerusalē for to worship. And as he returned home agayne, sytteynge in his charet, he red Esaye the prophete. Then the spyryte sayde vnto Philip: go neare and ioyne thy selfe to yonder charret. And Philip ran to him, and herde him rede the prophete Esay, and said: Vnderstandest thou what thou readest? And he said: How can I, excepte I had a guyde? And he desyred Philip, that he wold come vp, and syt with hym. The tenour of the scripture which he red, was this: He was led as a shepe to be slayne: and lyke a lambe domme before his shearer, so opened he not his mouth: Because of his humblenes he was not esteemed. But who shall declare his generacion? for his lyfe is taken from the earth. The chamberlayne answered Philip, a sayd: I praye the of whō speaketh the prophet this? of him selfe, or of some other man? Philip opened his mouth, and began at the same scripture, and preached vnto hym Jesus. And as they went on their waye, they came vnto a certen water, and the chamberlayne sayd: See, here is water: what doth let me to be baptised? Philip sayde vnto hym: If thou belevest with al thyne harte thou maiest. And he answered and sayd: I beleue that Jesus Christ is the sonne of God. And he commaunded the charret to stande styll. And they wente downe both into the water: both Philip a also the chamberlayne, a he baptised him. And assone as they were come out of the water, the spyryte of the Lord caught awaye, Philip: the chamberlayne sawe him nomore. And he went on his waye reioycynge: but Philip was founde at Azotus. And he walked thorowe out the countrey, preachinge in al the cyties, tyl he came to Cesarea.

The. ix. Chap.

AND Saul yet breathyng out threatninges and slaughter agaynste the disciples of the Lorde, went vnto the hye preste, and desired of him letters, to carye to Damasco, to the synagoges that if he founde any of this waye (whether they were men or women) he myght brynge them bounde vnto Jerusalem. And whē he iourneyed, it fortuned that as he was come nie to Damasco, sodenly there shyned rounde about hym a lyght from heauen, and he fell to the earthe, and herde a voyce, sayinge to hym: Saul Saul, why persecutest thou me? And he sayde: what arte thou Lorde? And the Lorde said: I am Jesus, whō thou persecutest. It is hard for the to kicke agaynste the prycke. And he bothe trembling, and astonyed said: Lorde, what wylt thou haue me to do? And the Lorde sayd vnto him: aryse, and go into the cytie, a it shalbe told the what thou must do. The men which iourneyed with hym, stode amased, heareynge a voyce, but seyng no man. And Saul arose fro the earth, a whē he opened his eyes, he sawe no man. But they led him by the handes, and brought him into Damasco. And he was thre dayes wythout sight, a neyther dyd eate nor drynke. And there was a certaine disciple at Damasco, named Ananias, and to hym sayde the Lord in a vision: Ananias? And he sayde: Beholde, I am here Lorde: and the Lord saide vnto him: Arise, a go into the streate (whiche is called Strayght) a seke in the house of Judas after one called Saul of Tharsus. For behoulde, he prayeth, and hath sene, a in a vision a man named Ananias commyng vnto him, and puttynge his handes on hym, that he myght receaue his syght. Then Ananias answered: Lorde, I haue herde by many, of thys man how much euel he hath done to thy saintes at Jerusalem: and here he hath auctorite of the hye prestes, to binde all that call on thy name. The Lord sayd vnto him: go thy waye, for he is a chosen vessell vnto me, to beare my name before the Gentyls, and kynges, a the children of Israell. For I will shewe hym howe greate thinges he must suffre for my names sake. And Ananias went his waye, a entered into the house, and put his handes on him, and sayd: Brother Saul, the Lorde that appeared vnto the in the waye as thou camest, hath sent me, that thou myghtest receaue thy syght, and be fylled with the holy ghost. And immedyatly there fel from his eyes as it had ben scales, and he receaued syght: and arose, and was baptised, and receaued meate, a was comforted. Then was Saul certayne dayes with the disciples which here were at Damasco. And straught waye he preached Christ in the Synagoges, howe that he was the sonne of God, but all that herde him, were amased, and sayde: Is not this he, that spoyled them which called on this name in Jerusalem, and came hyther for that entent, that he myght bryng them bounde vnto the hye prestes? But Saul encreased the more in strength, and confounded the Iewes which dwelt at Damasco, affyrmyng that this was very Christ. And after a good while, the Iewes toke counsell together, to kil him. But their layinge awaite was knowen of Saul. And they watched the gates day and nyght to kil him. Then the disciples toke him by nyght, a put him thorowe the wal, a let him downe in a basket. And whē Saul was come to Jerusalem, he assayed to ioyne hym selfe to the disciples: but they were all afrayde of him, and beleued not that he was a disciple. But Barnabas toke hym, and brought him to the Apostles, a declared to them howe he had sene the Lord in the way, and that he had spoken to him, a howe he had done boldely at Damasco in the name of Jesu. And he had his conuersacion with the at Jerusalem, speakyng boldly in the name of the

Lorde Jesu. And he spake and disputed against the Grekes, but they wente about to slea him. Whiche when the brethren knewe, *they brought him to Cesarea, and sent him forthe to Tharsus. Then had the congregacions rest thorowe all Jewrye, and Galile, & Samaria, and were edified and walked in the feare of the Lorde, and multiplied by the cõforte of the holy ghoste. And it chaunced as Peter walked thorowe out all quarters: he came also to the Saintes, whiche dwelt at Lydda. And there he founde a certen man named Eneas, which had kepte his bed eyght yeares, and was sicke of the palsye. And Peter saide vnto him: Eneas, the Lorde Jesu Christ make the whole, aryse, and make thy bed. And he arose immedially. And all that dwelt at Lidda and Sarion saw him, & turned to the Lorde. There was at Joppa a certeine woman, a disciple named Tabitha (which by interpretacion is called Dorcas) the same was full of good workes & almes dedes, which she dyd. And it chaũced in those daies that she was sicke, & dyed. Whom when they hadde washed, they layed her in a chamber. But for asmuch as Lidda was nye to Joppa, and the disciples had hearde that Peter was there, they sent vnto him, desyringe him, that he wolde not be greued to come vnto them. Peter arose, and came with them. And when he was come, they brought him into the chãber. And all the wydowes stode rounde about him weepynge, and shewyng the coates & garmentes which Dorcas made, while she was with them. And Peter put them all forth, and kneled downe, & prayed: and turned him to the body, and saide: Tabitha aryse, & she opened her eyes, & when she saw Peter, she sat vp. And he gaue her the hande, and lifte her vp. And when he had called the saintes and wydowes, he shewed her aliue. And it was knowe thorowout al Joppa, and many beleued in the Lorde. And it fortuned, that he tarved many dayes in Joppa with one Simon, a tanner.

There was a certeine mã in Cesarea called Cornelius, a captaine of the soudiers of Itali, a mynde mã, and one that feared god with al his household, which gaue much almes to the people, & prayed God alway. The same sawe by a vision euidently (about the nynth houre of the daye) an angell of god commynge into him, & saying vnto him. Cornelius: Whẽ he loked on him, he was afrayde, & saide: what is it lorde? He said vnto him: Thy prayers & *thy almesdedes are come vp into remẽbraũce before god. And now send men to Joppa, and cal for one Simon, whose cyrname is Peter. He lodgeth with one Simon a tanner, whose house is by the sea syde. He shal tel the, what thou oughtest to do. And whan the angel which spake vnto him was departed, he called two of his houshold seruaũtes, and a deuout soudiour, of them that waited on him, & told them all the matter, and sent them to Joppa. Whe the morowe as they went on their journey, and drewe nye vnto the cytie, Peter went vp *vpon the toppe of the house to pray, about the sixte houre. And when he wexed an hungred, he wolde haue eaten. But whyle they made ready, he fel into a traunce, & sawe heauen opened, and a certain vessel come downe vnto him, as it had bene a great sheete, knyt at at the foure corners, and was let downe to the earthe, wherein were *al maner of fourefeted beastes of the earth and vermin, and wylde fowles of the ayer. And there came a voyce to him, aryse Peter, kyll and eate. But Peter sayde: not so Lorde, for I haue neuer eaten any thynge that is cõmon or vncleane. And the voyce spake vnto him agayne the seconde tyme: *what God hath clensed, that call not thou commen. This was done thryse, and the vessel was receyued vp agayne into heauen.

Whyle Peter also mused in himselfe what this visiõ (which he had seen) meant, beholde, the men which were sent from Cornelius had made inquisaunce for Symons house, & stode before the dooze and called oute one, & asked whether Simon which was cyrnamed Peter were lodged there. While Peter thought on the vision, the spirite sayde vnto him, beholde, men seke the: aryse therfore, & get the downe, and go with them, and doubte not, for I haue sent thẽ. Peter went downe to the men which were sente vnto him from Cornelius, and saide: Beholde, I am he whome ye seke, what is the cause wherfore ye are come? They said, Cornelius the captayne, a iuste man, and one that feareth God, and of good reporte among all the people of the Iewes was warned by an holy angel to send for the into his house, and to heare wordes of the. Then called he them in* and lodged them. And on the morowe, Peter wente awaye with them, and *certeyne brethren from Joppa accompanied him. And the thyrde day entred they into Cesarea. e as the maysshe house I prayed in my house, and behalde, a man stode before me in bryght clothynge, and sayde Cornelius, thy prayer is harde, and thyne almes deades are had in remembraunce in the syght of God. Sende men therfore to Joppa, and call for Simon whose surname is Peter. He is lodged in the house of one Symon a tanner, by the sea syde which shall come and speake vnto the. Then sent I for the immediatly, and thou hast well done, that thou arte come. Nowe therefore are we all here present before God, to heare all thynges that are commanded vnto the of God. Then Peter opened his mouth, and sayde, Of a truth I perceyue that there is no respect of persones with God but in all people, he that feareth him, and worketh ryghteousnesse, is accepted with him. Ye knowe the preachynge that God sent vnto the children of Israel: preaching peace by Jesu Christ, which is Lord ouer all thynges. Whiche preachynge was publyshed throwout all Jewry (and began in Galile after the baptyme whyche Jhon preached) how* God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the holy ghost, and with power. Which Jesus went about doyng good, and healyng all that were oppressed of the deuel, for God was with him. And we are witnesses of all thynges which he dyd in the lande of the Jewes, and at Jerusalem: whom they slewe and hanged on tree. Him God raysed vp the thyrde day, & shewed him openly, not to al the people, but vnto vs witnesses (chosen before of god for that same intente) whyche dyd eate & drynke with hym, after he arose* from death. And* he commaunded vs to preach vnto the people, & to testifie that it is he, whiche was ordeyned of God to be the iudge of quicke & dead. To him geue* al the prophetes witnes, that thorowe hys name wholoeuer beleueth in hym, shall receyue remission of synnes. Whyle Peter yet spake these wordes, the holy ghost fel on all them which heard the preaching. And they of the circumcision which beleued, were astonyed, as many as came with Peter, because that on the Gentiles also was shed out the gifte of the holy ghoste. For they heard them speake with tonges, & magnifye God. Then answered Peter can any man forbyd water that these should not be baptised, which haue receiued the holy ghost as well as we? And he commaunded them to be baptised in the name of the Lord. Then prayed they him to tarye a fewe dayes.

The. xi. Chapter.

And the Apostles and brethren that were in Jewry, herd that the heathen had also receyued the worde of God. And whē Peter was come vp to Jerusalē, they that were of the circumcision contended against hym, sayeng:* Thou wentest into mē vncircumcised, & dydst eate with them. But Peter rehersed the matter from the begynnyng, & expounded it by order vnto them, sayeng* I was in the citie of Joppa, prayeng, & in a traunce, I sawe a vision and a certaine vessel descende as it had ben a greate sheete, let downe from heauen by the foure corners, & it came to me. Into the which when I had fastened mine eyes, I consydred, & sawe* fourefooted beastes of the earth and vermin of wormes, and foules of the ayer. And I herd a voice saieng vnto me, arise Peter, slaye, and eate. But I saide, not so Lorde, for nothyng commō or vncleane hath at tyme entred into mi mouth. But the voice answered me agayne from heauen, what not thou those thinges commen which God hathe cleansed. And this was done thre tymes. And all were taken vp againe into heauen. And behelde, immediatly there were thre men already come vnto the house where I was, sent from Cesarea vnto me. And the spirite saide vnto me, that I should go with them without doutyng. Moreouer, * these thre brethren accōpanyed me, & we entred into the mās house. And he shewed vs, howe he had sene an angell in his house, which stode & said to him: send men to Joppa, and cal for Simon, whose surname is Peter: he shall tel the wordes, whereby both thou and al thine house shalbe saued. And as I began to preache, the holy ghoste fell on them, * as he dyd on vs at the beginnynge. Then came it to my remembraunce, how that the Lord sayde: * Jhon baptysed with water, but ye shalbe baptised with the holy ghoste. For as much then as God gaue them like gyftes as he dyd vnto vs, whē we beleued on the Lord Jesus Christ: what was I that I could haue withstande God? When they hearde this, they held their peace, and glorified God, sayenge: then hath God also to the Gentiles graunted repentaunce vnto lyfe. They also whyche were scattered abrode thorow the affliction that arose about Steuen, walked thorow out vnto Phenices and Cypers, and Antioche, preachynge the worde to no man, but vnto the Jewes onely. Some of them were men of Cypers and Syren, whiche when they were come to Antioche, spake vnto the Grekes, & preached the Lorde Jesus. And the hande of the Lorde was with them, and a greate nombre beleued and turned vnto the Lorde. Tydynges of these thynges came vnto the eares of the congregacyon, whyche was in Jerusalem. And they sente forth Barnabas, that he should go vnto Antioche. Which whē he came, and had sene the grace of God, was glad, and* exhorted them all, that with purpose of hert they wolde cōtinually cleaue vnto the Lorde. For he was a good man, and full of the holye ghoste and of fayth: and much people was added vnto the Lord. Then departed Barnabas to Tharsus, for to seke Saul.

And when Herode wolde haue brought him out vnto the people, the same nyght slepte Peter betwene two soudyers, bounde with two chaines, and the kepers before the doze kepte the prysen. And beholde, the angell of the Lord was there present, and a lyght shyned in the habitacio. And he smote Peter on the syde, and stered hym vp, saynge: aryse vp quyckely. And hys chaynes fell of from his handes. And the angell sayde vnto him: gyrde thy selfe, and bynde on thy scandales. And so he dyd. And he sayeth vnto him: caste thy garmente about the, and folowe me. And he came oute and folowed hym, and wyst not that it was truth whyche was done by the aungell, but thought he hadde sene a vision. When they were past the fyrst and the seconde watch, they came vnto the yron gate, that leadeth vnto the cytie, * which opened to them by the owne accorde. And they wente oute, and passed thorow one strete, and forthwyth the aungell departed from hym. And when Peter was come to hym selfe, he sayd: nowe I knowe of a suertye, that the Lorde hath sente hys angell, and hath deliuered me oute of the hande of Herode, and from all the waytinge for of the people of the Jewes.

And as he consydered the thynge, he came to the house of Marye, the mother of one Jhon, whose surname was Marke, where many were gathered together * in prayer. As Peter knocked at the entree doze, a damsell came forthe to herken, named Rhoda. And whan she knewe Peters voyce, she opened not the entry for gladnes, but ranne in and tolde howe Peter stode before the entry. And they saide vnto her: thou arte madde. But she affirmed that it was euen so. Then sayde they: it is hys aungell. But Peter continued knockynge: and when they had opened the doze, and sawe him, they were astonyed. * And when he had beckened vnto them with the hande, that they myght holde their peace, he tolde them by what meanes the Lorde had brought him out of the prysen, and he sayde: go shewe these thynges vnto James, and to the brethren. And he departed, and went into another place. Anone as it was daye, there was no lytell ado among the soudiers, what was become of Peter. When Herode hadde sought for him, and founde hym not, he examined the kepers, and commaunded them to be caried awaye. And he descended from Jewrye to Cesarea, and there abode. Herode was displeased with them of Tyre and Sydon. But they came all with one accorde to hym, and made intercession vnto Blastus the kynges chamberlayn, and desyred peace, because their countrey was nourysshed by the kynges prouysyon. And vpon a daye appoynted, Herode arayed hym in royall apparell, & set him in his seate, and made an oracyon vnto them. And the people gaue a shoute, sayenge, it is the voyce of a God, and not of a man. And immedyatly the angell of the Lord smote him, because he gaue not God the honour, and he was eate of wormes and gaue vp the ghost. But the worde of God grewe and multiplied. And Barnabas and Saul returned to Jerusalem, when they hadde fulfylled their office, and tooke with them * Jhon, whose surname was Marke. The. xiii. Chapter.

There were in the congregacion that is at Antioche certayne prophetes, and teachers: as Barnabas & Simon that was called Niger, & Lucius of Cyrene, & Manahe, which Herode the Tetrarches noryce felow, & Saul. As they ministred to the Lord and fasted, the holy ghost sayde: separate me Barnabas and Saul, for the worke wherunto I haue called them. And when they had fasted and prayed, & * layd their handes on them, they let them go. And they after they were sente forthe of the holy ghost, departed vnto Seleucia, & frome thence they sayled to Cyprus. And whe they were at Salamine, they shewed the worde of God in the synagoges of the Jewes. And they had Jhon to their minister. And when they hadde gone thorowe the yle vnto Paphe, they founde a certain sorcerer, a false prophet, a Jewe, whose name was Barjesu, which was with the ruler of the countrey, one Sergius Paulus a prudent man. The same rulers called vnto him Barnabas and Paul, & bed them to heare the worde of God. But Elimas the sorcerer (for so is his name by interpretacion) withstode them, and sought to turne the ruler away from the fayth. Then Paul (which also is called Paul) beyng full of the holy ghost, set his eyes on him, & said: O full of all subtelty and all craftynesse, thou chylde of the deuel, thou enemy of all rygh teousnesse: wylt thou not cease to peruerte the straight wayes of the Lorde? And nowe beholde, the hande of the Lorde is vpon the, & thou shalt be blynde, and not se the sonne for a season. And ymmediatlye there fell on hym a mysty and a darknesse, and he went about, sekynge that some body would leade him by the hande. Then the ruler whē he sawe what had happened, beleued, and wondred at the doctrine of the Lorde. When Paul departed frō Paphos, they that were with him, came to Perga in Pamphylia: and Iohn departed from them, & returned to Ierusalē. But they wandred thorow the countrey, and came to Perga to Antioche in Pisidia, and went into the synagoge on the Sabboth daye, & sat downe. And after the lecture of the lawe and the prophetes, the rulers of the synagoge sent vnto them, sayeng: ye men and brethren, if ye haue any sermon to exhorte the people, saye on. Then Paule rose vp, & beckened with the hande for silence, and said: Men of Israell, & ye that feare God, geue audience. The god of this people chose our fathers, & exalted the people, when they dwelt as straungers in the land of Egypt, & with an hie arme brought he them out of it, and about the tyme of fourty yeares, suffred he their maners in the wilderned. And he destroyed seuen nacions in the lande of Canaan, & deuided their lande to them by lot. And afterward, he gaue vnto the iudges about the space of foure hundred and fyftye yeares, vnto the tyme of Samuell the prophet. And afterwarde, they desyred a king, & God gaue vnto them Saule, the sonne of Cis, a man of the tribe of Ben Iamin, by the space of fourty yeares. And whē he was put downe, he set vp Dauid to be their kynge, of whome he reported, sayenge: I haue founde Dauid the sonne of Iesse, a man after myne owne herte, which shall fulfyll all my will. Of this mannes seede hathe God accordynge as he had promysed brought vnto Israel a sauioure Iesus, when Iohn had fyrst preached before his commynge the baptyme of repentaunce to Israel. And when Iohn had fulfylled his course, he sayde: Whom thynke ye that I am, the same am I not. But beholde there commeth one after me, whote shoes of his feete I am not worthy to loose. Men and brethren, children of the generacion of Abraham, and whosoeuer amonge you feareth God, vnto you is this worde of saluacion sente. For they that inhabited at Ierusalem and their rulers, because they knewe him not, nor yet the voyces of the prophetes which are redde euery Sabboth daye, they haue fulfylled them, in condemnynge him: And when they founde no cause of deathe in him, yet required they Pilate to kyll him. And when they had fulfylled all that were written of him, they toke him downe frō the tree, and put him in a sepulchre. But God rayzed him agayne from deathe, the thyrde daye: and he was seue many dayes of them which came vp with him from Galile to Ierusalem, which are his witnesses vnto the people. And we declare vnto you, howe that the promesse which was made vnto the fathers, God hath fulfylled vnto their children (euen vnto vs) in that he rayzed vp Iesus agayne, euen as it is written in the second psalme: Thou art my sonne, this daye haue I begotten the. As concernynge that he rayzed him vp from deathe, now nomore to returne to corruption, he sayde on this wyse: I wyll geue vnto you the holye promises made to Dauid, which I sure faithfully to you. Wherefore he sayeth also in another place: Thou shalt not suffre thyne holye to se corruption. For Dauid (after he had in his tyme fulfylled the will of God) fell on slepe, & was layde vnto his fathers, and sawe corruption. But he whom God rayzed agayne, sawe no corruption. Be it knowen vnto you therefore (ye men and brethren) that thorow this man is preached vnto you the forgeuenes of sinnes, and that by him, all that beleue, are iustified frō all thynges, frō which ye could not be iustified by the lawe of Moses. Beware therefore, lest that fal on you, which is spoken of in the prophetes: Behelde, ye despysers, and wonder, and perysshe: for I do a worke in your dayes, which ye shall not beleue, though a man declare it you. When the Iewes were gone out of the congregacion, the Gentyls besought that they wolde preache the worde the next Sabboth, when the congregacion was broken vp, many of the Iewes and deuout proselytes followed Paule and Barnabas, which spake vnto them, & exhorted them to continue in the grace of God. And the next Sabboth daye came almost the whole cyte together, to heare the worde of God. But when the Iewes sawe the people, they were ful of indignacion, and spake agayne those thynges, which were spoken of Paule, spekynge against it, and raylynge on it. Then Paule and Barnabas waxed bolde, and said: It was mete that the worde of God shulde first haue ben preached to you. But seynge ye put it from you, and iudge your selues vnworthy of euerlastynge lyfe, lo, we turne to the Gentyls. For so hath the Lord commanded vs: I haue made the a lyght of the Gentyls, that that thou be the saluacion vnto the ende of the worlde. When the Gentyls herde thys, they were glad and glorified the worde of the Lorde, and beleued: euen as many as were ordeyned vnto eternall lyfe. And the worde of the Lorde was publyshed thorowe out all the region. But the Iewes moued the deuoute and honest women, and the chefe men of the cytie: and raysed persecucyon agaynste Paul and Barnabas, and expelled the out of theyr coastes. But they woke of the duste of theyr fete agaynste them, and cam vnto Iconium. And the disciples were fylled with ioye and with the holye ghost.

The. xiiii. Chapter.

And it fortuned in Iconiu, that they went both together into the synagoge of the Iewes, and so spake, that a greate multitude both of the Iewes & also of the Greekes, beleued. But the vnbeleuyng Iewes, stered vp, & vnquieted the myndes of the gētils against the brethren. Longe time abode they there, & quyt them selues boldely wyth the helpe of the Lorde, whiche gaue testimonye vnto the worde of hys grace, & graunted tygnes and wonders to be done by theyr handes. But the multitude of the cytie was deuided: & parte helde with the Iewes, & parte with the Apostles. When there was an assaute made both of the gentyls and also of the Iewes wyth theyr rulers to do them violence, and to stone them, they were ware of it, and fled vnto Listra & Derba, cyties of Lycaonia, & vnto the region that lyeth rounde about, & there preached the Gospell. And all the multitude was moued at theyr doctrine, but Paul & Barnabas taried stil at Listra. And there sat a certen man at Listra weake in his fete, beyng a crepell from his mothers wombe, and neuer had walked. The same hearde Paul preache, whyche beholdyng hym, & perceauyng that he had fayth to be whole, sayde with a loude voyce, stande vpryght on thy fete: And he sterte vp & walked. And whē the people sawe what Paul had done, they lifte vp theyr voyces, sayeyng in the speache of Lycaonia: The Goddes are come downe to vs in the likenes of men. And they called Barnabas Jupiter, & Paule Mercurius, because he was the preacher. Then Jupiters preest, which dwelt before theyr cytie, broughte oxen & garlandes vnto the porche, & wolde haue done sacrifice wyth the people. Whyche when the Apostles, Barnabas & Paule herde of, they rente theyr clothes, and ranne in among the people, crieng and sayeng, Syrs why do ye this? We are mortall men lyke vnto you, and preache vnto you, that ye shall turne from these vanityes vnto the lyuynge God, whyche made heauen and earth and the sea, and all thinges that are therin: the whiche in times past suffred all nacyons to walke in theyr owne wayes. Neuertheles, he left not him selfe without wytnes, in that he dyd good and sente them frome heauen, in geuynge vs rayne and fruteful seasons, fillyng our hertes with foode and gladnes. And with these sayenges, scarce restrayned they the people, that they had not done sacrifice vnto them. Thyther came certayne Iewes frome Antioche and Iconium: whiche (whan they had had obtained the peoples consent) & had stoned Paul) drewe hym out of the citie, supposyng he had bene dead. Howbeit as the disciples stode rounde about him, he arose vp, & came into the citie. And the next day he departed with Barnabas to Derba. And whan they had preached to that citie & had taught many, they returned agayne to Lystra, and to Iconium and Antioche, and strengthed the disciples soules agayne, and exhorted them to cōtinue in the fayth, affirmyng that we muste thorowe much tribulacyon entre into the kyngdome of God. And whan they had ordeyned them elders by election in euery congregacion, and had prayed and fasted, they commended them to the Lorde on whom they beleued. And whan they had gone thorowe oute Pisidia, they came to Pamphilia, and whan they had preached the worde in Perga, they descended into the citie Attalia, and thence departed by shyppe to Antioche, from whence they were cōmitted vnto the grace of God to the worcke whiche they fulfylled. When they were come, and had gathered the congregacion together, they rehersed al that God hadde done by them, and howe he hadde opened the doze of fayth vnto the Gentils. And there they abode longe time with the disciples.

The. xv. Chapter.

And certayn men which came downe from Jewrye, taught the brethren * except ye be circumcysed after the maner of Moses, ye can not be saued. So when there was rysen dissencyon and disputynge, not a lyttel vnto Paule and Barnabas agaynste them, they determined that Paul and * Barnabas, and certayne other of them would go vp to Jerusalem vnto the Apostles and elders aboute this questiō. And after they wer brought on theyr waye by the congregacyon, they passed oute Phenices and Samaria, declarynge the conuersion of the Gentils, & they brought great ioye vnto all the brethren. And when they were come to Jerusalē, they wer receaued of the cōgregacion, & of the Apostles & elders. And they declared all thynges that God had done by them. Then rose vp certaine of the secte of the Pharises, which had bene, sayeng, that it was nedefull to circumcise them, and to commaunde them to kepe the lawe of Moses. And the Apostles and elders came together, to reason of this matter. And when there was moch disputynge, Peter rose vp, and said vnto them: Ye men and brethren, ye knowe how that a good while a go, God dyd chose amonge vs, that the Gentyles by my mouth should heare the worde of the Gospel, and beleue. And God whiche * knoweth the hertes, bare them witnesse, and gaue vnto them the holy ghost, euen as he dyd vnto vs, and put no difference betwene vs and them, seyng that with faith he* purified theyr hertes. Nowe therfore, why tempte ye God, to put on the disciples necke the yoke* which neyther oure fathers nor we were able to beare? But we beleue, that thorow the grace of the Lord Iesu Christ, we shalbe saued, as they do. Then all the multitude was peased and gaue audience to Barnabas and Paule, whiche tolde what signes and wonders God had shewed amonge the Gentyles by them. And when they helde theyr peace, James, answered, sayenge: Men and brethren, herken vnto me, Simon tolde, howe God at the begynning dyd visyte the gentyls, to receaue of them a people in his name. And to this agree the wordes of the prophetes, as it is wrytten: * After this I wyl returne, & wyll buylde agayne the tabernacle of Dauid, whyche is fallen downe, and that whych is fallen in decaye of it, will I buylde agayne, and I wyll set it vp, that the residue of men myghte seke after the Lorde, and also the Gentyles, vpon whom my name is named, saith the Lord, whi che doth all these thynges. Knowen vnto God are al his workes from the begynnyng of the worlde. Wherfore my sentence is, that we trouble not them: whyche frome amonge the Gētyls, are turned to God: but that we wryte vnto them, that they abstayne them selues * from fylthynes of ymages, and from fornication, and from straungled, and * from blonde. For Moses of olde tyme hath in euery cite them that preache him, in the synagoges, whi he is red euery Sabboth daye. Then pleased it the Apostles and elders with the whole congregacion, to sende chosen men of theyr owne compayne to Antioche with Paul and Barnabas. They sente * Judas (whose syname was Barsabas) and Sylas, which were chefe men amog the brethren, and gaue them letters in their handes after this maner. The Apostles, and elders, and brethren, send gretynges vnto the brethren whyche are of the Gentyles in Antioche, Syria and Cilicia. For as moche as we haue herde, that certaine which departed from vs, haue troubled you with wordes, and combred your mindes, sayeng: Ye must be circumcised, and kepe the lawe, to whom we gaue no suche commaundement: It semed therfore to vs a good thinge, whē we were come together with one accord, to sende chosen men vnto you, with our beloued Barnabas and Paule, men that haue ioparded theyr lyues for the name of oure Lorde Iesu Christ. We haue sent therfore Judas and Sylas, which shall also tell you the same thinges by mouth. For it semed good to the holy ghoste and to vs, to charge you with no more, then these necessary thynges, that is to say, that ye abstayne from thynges offered to ymages, and from blonde, and from straungled, and from fornication. From whiche if ye kepe your selues, ye shal do wel. So fare ye wel. When they therfore were departed, they came to Antioche and gathered the multitude together, and delinered the epystle. Which why̆ they had red, they reioyced of the consolation. And Judas and Sylas beynge prophetes, exhorted the brethrē with much preachyng, and strengthed them. And after they hadde taried there a space, they were let go in peace of the brethren vnto the Apostles. Notwythstādynge it pleased Sylas to abyde there styl, but Judas departed alone to Ierusalem. Paul and Barnabas continued in Antioche, teachyng and preachyng the worde of the Lord with other many. But after a certayne space, Paule sayde vnto Barnabas: let vs go agayne, & visite our brethren in every cytie where we haue shewed the worde of the Lorde, and se howe they do. And Barnabas gaue counsel to take with them Jhon, whose syname was Marcke. But Paule wolde not take hym vnto theyr compayne* whyche departed from them at Pamphilia, and went not with them to the worcke. And the contrcion was so sharp betwene them, that they departed asunder one from the other, & so Barnabas toke Marcke, & sayled vnto Cypers. And Paul chose Sylas, and departed, beyng committed of the brethren vnto the grace of God. And he went thorowe Syria & Cilicia, stablysynge the congregacions: (commaundyng to kepe the preceptes of the Apostles & elders.)

The. xvi. Chapter.

Then came he to Derba and to Lystra. And beholde, a certain disciple was ther named Timotheus, a womans sonne, whyche was a Jewesse, & beleued: but his father was a Greke. Of whom reported wel the brethrē that were at Lystra and Iconium. Him wolde Paul that he should go forth with hym, and toke & circumcised him, because of the Jewes whyche were in those quarters: for they knewe all, that his father was a Greke. As they went thorowe the cities, they delyuered them the decrees for to kepe, that were* ordeyned of the Apostles and elders, whiche were at Jerusalem. And so were the congregacions stablysshed in the fayth, and encreased in nombre dayly. When they had gone thorowe coute Phrygia, and the region of Galacia, and * were forbydden of the holy ghost to preach the worde in Asia, they came to Mysya, and coughte to go into Bethinia. But the spirite suffred them not: but when they hadde gone tho-

Acts. xvii. c. thorow Mycia, they came downe to* Troada. And a vision appeared to Paule in the nyght. There stode a man of Macedonia and prayed him: sayeng: come into Macedonia, and helpe vs. After he had sene the vision, immediatly we prepared to go into Macedonia, beynge certified that the Lorde hadde called vs, for to preache the Gospell vnto them. When we lowsed forth then frō Troada, we came with a straite course to Samothracia, and the next day to Neapolim, and from thence to Philippos, whiche is the cheefe cytie in the parties of Macedonia, and a free cytie. We were in that citie abydyng certaine dayes. And on the Sabboth dayes we wente oute of the cytie beside a ryuer, where men were woont to praye. And we sate downe, and spake vnto the women whyche resorted thyther. And a certayn woman (named Lydia) a seller of purple, of the cytie of Thyatira, whych worshypped God, gaue vs audience. Whose hert the Lord opened, that she attended vnto the thynges, whiche Paule spake. When she was baptysed, and her householde, she besought vs, saieng: If ye thincke that I beleue on the Lord, come into my house, and abyde there. And she *constrayned vs. And it fortuned as we went to prayer, a certayne damsell possessed with a spyryte that prophesyed, met vs, whyche brought her master, and maistres moche vauntage with prophesyenge. The same folowed Paule and vs, and cryed, sayenge: these men are the seruauntes of the moste hye God, whi che shewe vnto vs the waye of saluacion. And thys dyd she many dayes. But Paul not content, turned about, & said to the spirite: I cōmaunde the in the name of Iesu Christ, that thou come oute of her. And he came oute the same houre. And when her master & maistres sawe that* the hope of theyr gaynes was gone, they caught Paule & Sylas, & drewe them into the market place vnto the rulers, and broughte them to the officers, sayeng. These men trouble our cytie, seynge they are Iewes, & preach ordinaunces, which are not lawfull for vs to receaue, neyther to obserue, seynge we are Romaynes. And the people Cor. xi. e. came agaynst them, & the officers rent theyr clothes, & cōmaunded them to* be beaten with rodes. And when they had beaten them sore, they cast them into prison, commaundyng the iayler of the prison to kepe them diligently: Which when he had receaued such cōmaundement, thrust them into the inner prison, and made theyr fete fast in the stockes. But mydnyght Paul & Sylas prayed, & lauded God. And the prisoners heard them. And sodenly there was a greate earthquake, so that the foundacio of the prison was shaken, & immediatly al the doores opened & euery mans bandes were losed. Whē the keper of the prison waked out of his slepe, & saw the prisō doores open, he drewe out his swerde, & wolde haue kylled hym selfe, supposyng that the prisoners hadde bene fled. But Paul cryed with a loud voice, sayeng: do thy selfe no harme, for we are al here. Then he called for a lyght, & sprang in, and came trembling vnto Paul, & fell downe at the fete of Paul, & Sylas, and brought thē out, & said: Syrs what must I do to be saued? And they sayd: *beleue on the Lord Jesus, & thou shalt be saued, & thy household. And they preached vnto him the worde of the Lorde, & to all that were in his house. And he toke thē the same houre of the nyght, & washed theyr woundes, and was baptysed & al they of his household straight way. And when he had brought thē into his house, he set meate before them, and * ioyed that he with all hys household, beleued on God. And when it was day, the officers sent the ministers, sayenge: let those men go. The keper of the prison tolde thys sayeng to Paule, the officers haue sent worde to loose you. Now therfore, get you hence, and go in peace. Thē said Paul vnto them: they haue beaten vs openlye vncondemned, for all that we are Romaines, & haue cast vs into prison: and now wold they send vs away priuely? Nay verely, but let thē come them selues, & fet vs out. When the ministers tolde these wordes vnto the officers, they feared, when they herde that they were Romaines. And came and besought thē: & brought them out, & desired them to depart out of the cytie. And they wente out of the prisō, & entred into the house of Lidia, & whē they had sene the brethren, they comforted thē, & departed. The. xvii. Chap.

Now they made theyr iourney thorowe Amphipolis, and Appollonia, they came to Thessalonica, where was a Synagoge of the Iewes. And Paule (as hys maner was) wente in vnto them, and thre Sabboth dayes declared out of the scriptures vnto thē, openyng and allegynge, that* Christe must nedes haue suffred, and ryse agayne from death, and that thys Jesus was Christe, whome (sayde he) I preach to you. And* some of them beleued, and came and companied with Paul and Sylas, and of the deuoute Grekes, a greate multitude: And of the cheefe women not a fewe. But the Iewes whiche beleued not, had indignacion, and toke vnto them euell men, whiche were vagabondes, and gathered a companye, and set all the cytie on a roare, and made assaute vnto the house of Jason, and sought to bringe them oute to the people. And when they founde thē not, they drewe Jason, & certayne brethren vnto the heades of the cytie, cryenge: these that trouble the worlde, are come hyther also, whom Jason hath receaued priuely. * And these al do contrarye to the decrees of Cesar, affirmyng another kyng, one Jesus. And they troubled the people, and the & Iewes of the cytye, when they hearde these thinges. And when they were sufficiently answered of Jason, & of the other, they let him go. And the brethren immediatlye sent awaye Paule & Sylas by nyght vnto Berrea. Which when they were come thyther, they entred into the Synagoge of the Iewes. These were the noblest of nyth emonge them of Thessalonica, which receaued the word with all diligence of mynd, and searched * the scriptures daylye, whether these thinges were euen so. And many of them beleued: also of worshypful women whiche were Grekes, & of men not a fewe. When the Iewes of Thessalonica had knowlege, that the word of God was preached of Paul at Berrea: they came & moued the people ther. And then immediatly the brethren sent away Paul to go as it were to the sea, but * Sylas & Timotheus abode there still. And they that guided Paul, brought him vnto Athens, & receaued a cõmaundement vnto Sylas and Timotheus, for to come to him with spede, & came their way. While Paul wayted for them at Athens, his spirite was moued in him, when he sawe the cytie geuen to worshyppyng of ymages. Then disputed he in the synagoge with the Iewes, & with the deuout persones: & in the market dayly with them that came vnto him by chaunce. Certayne Philosophers of the Epycures and of the Stoyckes, disputed with him. And some ther were which sayd: what will this babler say? Other said: he semeth to be a tydinges bringer of newe deuels: because he preached vnto them Jesus, & the resurrection. And they toke him, & brought him into Marce Crete, sayenge: may we not knowe what this newe doctrine is wherof thou speakest, is? For thou bryngest strange tydynges to our eares. We wolde knowe therfore, what these thynges meane. For al the Athenians and straungers which where there, gaue them selues to nothynge els, but either to tell, or to heare some newe thynge. Paule stode in the myddes of Marce Crete, & sayde: ye men of Athens, I perceaue that in al thinges ye are to superstitious. For as I passed by, & beheilde the maner howe ye worshyppe your gods, I founde an aulter wherin was wrytten: vnto the vnknowen God. Whome ye then ignorantlye worshyp, him shewe I vnto you: * God that made the world & al that are in it (seyng that he is Lord of heauen & earth) * dwelleth not in temples made with handes, neither is worshypped with mens handes, as though he neded of any thinge, seynge he himselfe* geueth lyfe & breathe to al men euery where, & hath made of one blonde all nacions of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hathe assigned before, howe longe tyme, & also the endes of their inhabitacion, that they should seke God, if they myghte fele and fynde him, thoughe he be not farre from euerye one of vs. For in him we lyue, moue, and haue oure beynge, as a certayne of your owne Poetes sayde: For we are also his generacion. For as muche then as we are the generacion of God, we ought not to thynke that the Godhead is lyke vnto golde, syluer, or stone, grauen by crafte and ymaginacion of man. * And the tyme of this ignorance, God regarded not. * But nowe byddeth all men euery where repente, because he hathe appoynted a daye, in the which he will iudge the worlde with ryghteousnesse, by that man by whome he hathe appoynted, and hathe offered faythe to all men, after that he had rayled him from death. When they hearde of the resurrecteyon frome death, some mocked, and other sayde: we will heare the agayne of this matter. So Paule departed from amonge them. Howebeyt certayne men claue vnto him, and beleued: amonge the whyche was Dyonysius a senatoure, and a woman named Damaris, and other with them.

The. xviii. Chapter.

After this, Paule departed from Athens, and came to Corinthũ, & founde a certayn Iewe named * Aquila, borne in Ponthus, lately come from Italie, with his wyfe Priscilla (because that the Emperour Claudius had commanded all the Iewes to depart from Rome) and he drewe vnto them, because he was of the same crafte, he abode with them, and wrought: their crafte was to make tentes. And he preached in the synagoge euerye Sabboth daye (settynge forth in the meane while the name of the Lord Jesus) & exhorted the Iewes and the gentyls. When * Sylas and Timotheus were come frome Macedonia, Paule was constrayned by the spirit, to testifye to the Iewes that Jesus was very Christ. And when they sayde contrarye, & blasphemed * he shoke his rayment, and sayde vnto them: youre blonde be vpon youre owne heades: frome heure forth will I go blameles vnto the gentils. And he departed thece, and entred into a certayne manes house, named Justus, a worshypper of God, whose house ioyned harde to the synagoge. Howebeit, one Chrispus the chefe ruler of the synagoge * beleued on the Lord with al his hous holde: & many of the Corinthians, when they gaue audience beleued, and were baptysed.

Then spake the Lorde to Paul in the nyght * by a vysyon: be not afrayde, but speake, and holde not thy peace: for I am with the, and no man shall inuade the, that shall hurte the. For I haue muche people in this cytye. And he continued there a yeare and syx monethes, and taught them the worde of God. The same was informed in the waye of the Lorde, and spake feruentlye in the spirite, and taught diligently the thinges of the Lord, and knew but the baptime of Jhon only. And the same began to speake boldelye in the Synagoge. Whome when Priscylla and Aquilla had heard, they toke him vnto them, & expounded vnto him the waye of God more perfectly. And when he was disposed to go into Achaia, the brethren wrote, exhortynge the disciples to receaue him. Which when he was come, helped them much which had beleued thorowe grace. For he ouercame the Jewes mightely, and that openly, shewynge by the scriptures, that Jesus was Christ.

of the ymage which came fro heauen. Seinge then that no man saith here against, ye ought to be content, and to do nothing rashly, for ye haue brought hyther these men: whyche are neither robbers of churches, nor yet blasphe-mers of your goddesse. Wherfore, if Demetrius &

The.xx. Chapter.

AFter that the rage was ceased, Paul called the disciples vnto hym, and toke hys leaue of them, and departed for to go into Macedonia. And when he hadde gone ouer those partyes, and hadde geuen them a longe exhortacyon, he came into Grece and there abode. iii. monethes. And when the Jewes laide wayte for hym as he was about to sayle into Syria, he purposed to returne thorowe Macedonia. Ther accompanied him into Asia, Sopater of Berrea, & of Thessalonia, Aristarcus and Secundus, and Gaius of Derba, and Timotheus: and oute of Asia Tichicus and Trophymus. These goynge before, tarried for vs at Troas. And we sailed awaye from Philippos after the dayes of Swete breade, and came vnto them to Troas in fyue dayes, where we abode seuen daies. And vpon one of the Sabbeth dayes, when the disciples came together for to breake breade, Paule preached vnto them (ready to departe on the morowe) and continued the preachynge vnto midnyght. And there were many lyghtes in the chamber, where we were gathered together, & there sate in a wyndowe, a certayne yonge man (named Eutichus) beyng fallen into a depe slepe. And as Paule was preachyng, he was the more ouercome with slepe, and fell downe from the thyrde lofte, & was taken vp deade.
But when Paule went downe, he fell on hym, [f] and embraced him, and saide: make no thynge ado, for his lyfe is in hym. So when he was come vp again, & had broken the breade and eaten, and talked a longe whyle (euen till the morninge) at the laste he departed. And they brought the yonge man alyue, & were not a lytle cõforted. And we went afore to shippe, & loosed vnto Assos, there to receaue Paule.
For so had he appointed, & wold him selfe go a fote. When were come together at Assos, we toke hym in, and came to Mitilenes. And we sayled thence, and came the nexte day, ouer a-gaynst Chios. And the nexte day we arriued at Samos, & tarryed at Trogyllion. The nexte daye we came to Miletum: for Paul had determined to sayle ouer by Ephesus, because he wolde not spende the time in Asia. For he hasted (if it were possible for hym) to kepe at Jerusalē the daye of Pentecoste. And from Miletum he sent messaungers to Ephesus, to called the elders of congregacyon. Whyche when they were come to hym, he sayde vnto thē: Ye knowe from the first day that I came into Asia: after what maner I haue bene with you at all seasons, seruynge the Lord with all humblenes of mynde, & with many teares and temptacions, whiche happened vnto me by the layenges awaite of the Jewes, because I me. But none of these thynges moue me* neyther is my lyfe deare vnto my selfe, that I myght fulfyll my course with ioye, & the ministration of the worde which I haue receyued of the Lorde Jesu, to testifie the Gospel of the grace of God. And now behold, I am sure, that hereafter ye all (among whome I haue gone preachyng the kyngdome of God) shal se my face no more. Wherefore, I take you to recorde this day, that I am pure from the bloude of all men. For I haue spared no labour, but haue shewed you al the counsell of God. Take hede therfore vnto your selues, & to all the flocke, among whom the holy ghost hath made you ouerseers, to rule the congregacion of God which he hathe purchased with his bloud. For I am sure of this, that after my departyng, shall grenous wolues entre in among you, not sparyng the flocke. Therfore a wake, and remember, that by the space of .iii. yeres I ceased not to warne euery one of you nyght and daye with teares. And nowe brethren, I cõmende you to God, and to the worde of his grace, which is able to builde farther, and to giue you an heritaunce amonge al them whyche are sanctifyed. I haue desyred no mans syluer, golde, or beautie. Yea, ye youre selues knowe, that these handes haue ministred vnto my necessyties, and to them that were with me. I haue shewed you all thynges, howe that so labouryng ye ought to receaue the weake, & to remember the wordes of the Lorde Jesu, howe that he sayde: it is more blessed to geue, then to receaue. And whē he had thus spoken, he kneled downe & prayed with them all. And they all wepte ioye, & fell on Paules necke, and kyssed hym, sorowyng moste of all for the wordes which he spake, that they shoulde se his face no more. And they conueyed him vnto the shyppe.

The. xxi. Chapter.

And when it chaunced that we had launched forth, and were departed from them, we came with a straight course vnto Coos, and the daye folowyng vnto the Rhodes, and from thence vnto Patara. And whē we hadde gotten a shyppe that wold sayle vnto Phenices, we wente aborde into it, and set forthe. But when Cyprus beganne to appere vnto vs, we lefte it on the lyfte hande, and sayled vnto Syria, and came vnto Tyre. For there the shippe vnladed the burthen. And when we hadde founde brethren, we tarryed there .vii. dayes. And they tolde Paul thorow the spirite that he shoulde not go vp to Jerusalem. And when the dayes were ended, we departed and wente our way, and they all brought vs on oure waye, with wyues and chyldren, tyll we were come out of the cyte. And we kneled downe on the haye* and prayed. And whē we hadde taken oure leaue one of another, we toke shyppe, and they returned home agayne. When we hadde full ended the course from Tyre, we went downe to Ptolemaida, and saluted the brethren, and abode with them one day. The nexte daye, we that were of Paules companye departed, and came vnto Cesarea. And we entred into the house of* Philip the Euāgelist which was one of the seuē, and abode with him. The same man hadde foure doughters virgins, which did* prophecye. And as we tarryed there a good many of dayes, there came a certaine prophet from Jewrie, named Agabus. When he was come vnto vs, he toke Pauls gyrdel, and bounde his fete and handes, and sayd: Thus saith the holy ghost, so shal the Jewes at Jerusalem bynde the man that oweth thys gyrdel, and shall deliuer him into the handes of the Gentyls. When we herde this, both we and other whiche were of the same place, besought hym, that he wolde not go vp to Jerusalem. Then Paul answered, and sayde: what do ye weepynge and vexynge myne herte? I am redye, not to be bounde onlye, but also to dye at Jerusalem, for the name of the Lorde Jesu. When we could not turne his mynd, we ceased, sayinge: the will of the Lord be fulfylled. After those dayes we toke vp oure burthens, and wente vp to Jerusalem. There went with vs also certaine of the disciples of Cesarea, and brought with them one Mnason of Cyprus, an olde disciple, with whome we should lodge. And when we were come to Jerusalem, the brethren receaued vs gladly. And on the morowe Paul wente in with vs vnto James. And all the elders came together. And when he had saluted thē, he tolde by order al thinges that God hadde wrought amonge the Gentils by his ministracyon. And when they hearde it, they glorifyed the Lorde, and sayde vnto hym: thou seest brother, howe manye thousande Jewes there are which beleue, & they are al cruell folowers ouer the lawe. And they are informed of the, that thou teachest all the Jewes, which are among the gentyls, to forsake Moses: and sayest, that they ought not to circumcyse their chyldren, neither to lyue after the customes. What is it therfore? The multitude must nedes come together. For they shall heare that thou arte come. Do therfore this, that we saye to the. We haue .iiii. men, which haue avowe on them. Them takes purify the selfe with them, & do coste on them, that they maye shaue their heades: & al shal knowe, that those thinges which they haue heard of the, are nothing: but that thou thy selfe also walkest & kepest the lawe. But as touching the gentils which beleue, we haue written & concluded, that they obserue no suche thyng, saue only that they kepe them selues from thinges offered to ydolles, & from bloud & from strangled. & from fornication. Then the next day Paule toke the men, & * purified himselfe with them, & entred into the temple, declaringe that he wolde fulfill the dayes of the purification, vntill that an offring should be offred for euery one of them. And when the .vij. dayes were nowe almost ended, the Jewes whiche were of Asia (when they sawe him in the temple) moued al the people, & laid handes on him, crieng: Me of Israel, helpe. This is the man, that teacheth al men euery where against the people & the lawe & this place. He hath also brought Grekes into the temple, & hath polluted this holy place. For they had seen with him one in the cytie * Trophimus an Ephesian: whom thei supposed that Paul had brought into the temple. And al the cytie was moued, & the people cwamed together. And they toke Paule & drewe him oute of the temple, & forthwyth the dores were shut. As they went about to kyll him, tydynges came vnto the hye captayne of the soudyers, that all Jerusalem was moued. Which immediatly toke soudiers & vndercaptaynes, & ranne downe to them. When they sawe the hye captayne and the soudyers: they lefte smytynge of Paul. Then the captayne came nere and toke him, and commaunded him to be bounde with two chaynes, & demaunded what he was, & what he had done. And some cried one thinge, some another amonge the people. And when he coulde not knowe the certaintye for the rage, he commaunded him to be caried into the castel. And when he came vnto a stayre, it fortuned that he was borne of the soudyers for the violence of the people. For the multitude of the people folowed after, crienge: awaye with him. And when Paul began to be caried into the castel, he saide vnto the hye Captayne: may I speake vnto the? Which saide: Canst thou speake Greke? Art not thou that Egiptian, which before these daies madest an vproure: & ledest out into the wilderner .iiij. thousand men that were murtherers? But Paul said: I am a man which am a Jewe of * Tharsus a cytie in Cycil, a citezin of no vyle cytie. I beseche the suffre me to speake vnto the people. And when he had geuen him leeuue, Paul stode on the stayre, & beckened with the hand vnto the people: and when there was made a greate sylence, he spake vnto them in the Hebrue tonge, saieng.

The .xxii. Chapter.

Men, brethren, & fathers, heare ye myne answere which I make now vnto you. When they herde, that he spake in the Hebrue tonge vnto the, they kept the more stellence: And he saieth: I am verelye a man which am a Jewe borne in * Tharsus a cytie in Cycile: nowetheles, yet brought vp in this cytie, at the fete of Gamaliel, & informed diligently in the lawe of the fathers, & was zelous mynded to Godward, as ye al are this same day, & * I persecuted this way vnto the death, binding & delyuering into prison both men & wome, as the chefe priest doth beare me witnes, & al the estate of the elders: of whō also I receaued letters vnto the brethre, & went to Damasco to bryng the, (which were there bounde) vnto Jerusalē for to be punyshed. And it fortuned (that as I made my iournei & was come nye vnto Damasco about noone) sodenly there shone frō heauen a great lyght rounde aboute me. & I fel vnto the earth, & heard a voyce saynge vnto me: * Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? And I answered: what arte thou lorde. And he said vnto me: I am Jesus of Nazareth, whō thou persecutest. And they that were with me, saw verely a light, & were afraide: but they herd not the voice of him that spake with me. And I said: what shal I do Lorde? And the Lord saide vnto me: Aryse, & go into Damasco, & there it shalbe told the of al thinges, whiche are appoynted for the to do. And when I sawe nothyng for the brightnes of that lyght, I was ledde by the hande of them that were with me, and came into Damasco. And one Ananias a perfect mā, and (as pertayning to the lawe) hauyng a good reporte of al the Jewes which there dwelt, came vnto me and stode, and sayde vnto me: Brother Saul, receaue thy sight. And the same houre I receaued my syght, & saw him. And he said: the God of oure fathers hathe ordeyned the before, that thou shuldest knowe his wyl, and se the iuynge that is ryghteuil, and shouldest heare the voyce of his mouth, for thou shalte be his witnes vnto al men of those thinges, whiche thou hast sene and hearde. And nowe, why tarryest thou? Aryse, and be baptised, and wasshe awaye thy synnes * in callynge on the name of the Lorde. And it fortuned that when I was come agayne to Jerusalem, & prayed in the temple, I was in a traūce, & sawe him, saieng vnto me: Make hast, & get the quickly out of Jerusalē: for they wil not receaue thy witnes, that thou beares of me. And I said: Lorde, they knowe that I pursued & bet in euery Synagoge them that beleued on the. * And why the bloud of thy witnesse Steuen was shed, I also stode by, & consented vnto his death, & kept the rayment of them that slewe him. And he said vnto me, departe, for I will send the farre hence vnto the Gētiles. They gaue him audience vnto this worde, and then lyft vp their voices & cried away with such a felone frō the earthe: for it is no reason that he should lyue. And as they cryed, & cast of their clothes, & threw dust into the ayre, the captain cōmaded him to be brought in to the castel, & bad that he shuld be scourged, & to be examined, that he myght know, wherefore they cried so on hym. When the Centurion heard that, he went and told the vpper captaine, saying: What intendest thou to do? For this man is a citizen of Rome. Then the vpper captaine came, and said vnto him: tell me, art thou a Romaine? He said: Yea. And the captayne answered, with a greate summe obtained I this fredome. And Paule said: I was free borne. Then straight waie departed from him, they which should haue examined him. And the hie captaine also was afraied, after he knewe that he was a Romaine, & because he had bounde him. Paule beholde the counsel, & saidmen and brethren, * I haue liued in all good conscience before God vntil this daie. And the hie priest Ananias cōmanded them that stode by, to smite him on the mouthe. Then said Paul vnto him: God shal smite thee thou painted wal. * Sittest thou, and iudgest me after the lawe, and commandest me to be smitten contrarie to the lawe? And they that stode by said, * reuilest thou Goddes hie priest. Then said Paule: I wiste not brethren, that he was the hie priest. For it is written: * thou shalt not curse the ruler of thy people. Whē Paul perceiued that the one part were Saducees, and the other Pharises, he cried oute in the counsel: Men, and brethren, * I am a Pharisei, the sonne of a pharisei: * Of the hope, and resurrection from death, I am iudged. And when he had so said: there arose a debate betweene the Pharises, and the Saducees, and the multitude was deuided. * For the Saduces saye, that there is no resurrection, nether angel, nor spirit: But the Pharises graunte bothe. And there arose a great crye: and when the Scribes which were of the Pharises parte arose, they stroue, saying: we fynde none euel in this man. Thoughe a spirite, or an angel hath appeared to him, let vs not striue against God. And whē there arose a great debate, the captaine (fearyng, lest Paule should haue bene plucked a sonder of them) cōmaunded the soudiers to go downe, and to take him from among them, & to bring him into the castel. * The night following, God stode by him, & said: be of good cheare Paule: for as thou hast testified of me in Ierusalem, * so must thou beare witnesse also at Rome. And when it was daie, certaine of the Iewes gathered them selues together, and made a bowe, saying: that they would neither eate, nor drinke, til they had kylled Paul: they were more then. xl. men, which had made this conspiracion. And they came to the hie priestes, and elders, and said: we haue bounde our selues with a bowe, that we wil eat nothing, vntil we haue slayne Paul. Now then ye geue ye knowledge to the vpper captaine, and to the counsell, that he bring him forth vnto vs to morow, as though we would know something more perfectly of him. But we for euer be come neare late ready to kyll him. When Paules syster sonne heard of their laying awaite, he went, and entred into the castel, and told Paule. And Paule called one of the vnder captaines vnto him, & said: bring this yonge man vnto the hie captaine, for he hath a certaine thing to shewe him. And he toke him, and brought him to the hie captaine, and said: Paule the prisoner called me vnto him, and praied me to bring this yonge man vnto the, which hath a certaine matter to shewe the. The hie captaine toke him by the hande, & went with him out of the waye, and asked him: what is it that thou hast to tel me? And he said: The Iewes are determined to desyre the, that thou wouldest bring forth Paule to morow into the counsell, as though they would enquire somwhat of him more perfectly. But folow not thou their mindes: for there lie in waite for him of them, more then. xl. men which haue bounde them selues with a bowe, that they will nether eate nor drinke, til they haue kylled him. And now are they ready, and loke that thou wouldest promes. The vpper captaine then let the yonge man depart, and charged him, saying: se thou tel it out to no mā, that thou hast shewed these thinges to me. And he called vnto him two vnder captaines, saying: make ready two. C. soudiers to go to Cesarea, and horsemen. lxx. feare and. C. and speare mē two. C. at the iij. houre of the night. And deliuer them beastes, that they may set Paule on, & bring him safe vnto Felix the hie debite. For he dyd feare least happely the Iewes should take him awaye, and kyl him, and be him selfe should be afterwarde blamed, as though he would take money. And he wrote a letter after this maner. Claudius Lisias vnto the most mighty rular Felix, sendeth gretinges. * This man Actes. xx. c was taken of the Iewes, and should haue bene kylled of them. Then came I with soudiers, and rescued him, and perceaued that he was a Romaine. And when I would haue knowē the cause, wherefore they accused him, * I Actes. xxii. brought him forth into their counsel: There perceaued I that he was accused of questiōs of their lawe. * But was not gylty of any Actes. xxv. c thing worthie of death, or of bondes. And when it was shewed me how that the Iewes laied waite for him, I sent him straight waie

to the,and gaue commaundement to his accusers,that the thinges which they haue against him,they should tel before the:fare wel.Then the counsiery(as it was cõmaunded them)toke Paule,and brought him by night to Antipatras.On the morow they left the horsemẽ to go with him,and returned vnto the castel. Which when they came to Cesarea,(and deliuered the Epistle to the debyte) presented Paule also before him.When the debite had red the letter,he asked of what countrye he was.And when he vnderstode that he was of Cilicia,* I will heare the(ye said) when thine accusars are come also:and he cõmaũded him to be kept in Herodes iudgemẽt hal.

AFter.v.daies Ananias the hie priest descended with the elders,& with a certaine oratour,named Tartullus,which enformed the debite against Paule. And when Paule was called forth Tartullus began to accuse him,saying: Seynge that we liue in greate quietnes,by the meanes of thee,and that many good thinges are done vnto this nacion,through thy prouidence,that alowe we euer,and in al places,most noble Felix,with al thankes. Notwithstanding,that I be not tedious vnto the,I praie the,that thou wouldest heare vs of thy courtesye,a fewe wordes. For we haue founde this man a pestilẽt felowe,and a mouer of debate vnto al the Jewes in the whole world,and a mayntener of sedicion of the secte of Nazarites,whiche hath also enforced to pollute the temple. Whom we toke,and would haue iudged accordyng to our law:but the hie captaine Lysias came vpon vs,and with great violence tore him away out of our handes,cõmaunding his accusars to come vnto the. Of whõ thou maiest(yf thou wilt enquyre)knowe the certaintie of all these thinges,whereof we accuse him. The Jewes lykewise affirmed: saying,that these thinges were euen so.

¶ When Paule(after that the debite hym selfe had beckened vnto him,that he shold speake) answered:With a more quiet mynde do I answere for my selfe,for as muche as I vnderstande that thou hast bene of many yeres a iudge vnto this people,because that thou maiest know that there are yet but.xii.daies sence I went vp to Jerusalem for to worship,* and they neyther founde me in the temple disputing with any man,either raising vp the people,neither in the Synagogues,nor in the citie. Neither can they proue the thinges wherof they accuse me.But this I confesse vnto the,that after the waye(which they cal heresye)so worship I the God of my fathers,beleuynge all thinges,which are written in the lawe,and the Prophetes, and haue hope towardes God,that* there same resurrection of the deade(which they them selues loke for also)shalbe,bothe of iust,and vniuste.And therfore * endre I so to haue alwaye a cleare conscience towarde God,and towarde men.Now after many yeares,I came * and brought almes to my people,and offringes and vowes,in the which they founde me purified in the temple,nether with multitude,nor yet with vnquietnes,[and they toke me,and cried,saying:away with oure enemy:] Howbeit,there were certaine Jewes out of Asia,which ought to be here presente before the,and accuse me,yf they had ought against me:or els let these same here saye,yf they haue founde any euel doynge in me,while I stande here in the counsel:except it be for this one voyce that I cryed standing among them * of the resurrecion from death,am I iudged of you this daie. [When Felix harde these thinges,he deferred them,for he knewe very wel of that waye,and said:when Lisias the captayne is come downe,I wil know the vttermost of your matter.And* he commaunded an vnder captaine to kepe Paule,and to let him haue rest:and that he shulde forbyd none of his acquaintaunce to minister vnto him,or to come vnto him.And after a certaine dayes,when Felix came with his wyfe Drusilla(whiche was a Jewesse)he called forth Paule,& harde him of his faith,which is towarde Christe. [And as he preached of righteousnes,temperaunce,and iudgemente to come,Felix trembled,and answered:Go thy waye for this time:when I haue a cõuenient season,I wil sende for the. He hoped also,that money shulde haue bene geuen him of Paule,that he might loose him: wherfore he called him the oftener,and cõmened with him. But after two yere,Festus Portius came into Felix rowme.And Felix* willing to shewe the Jewes a pleasure,lefte Paule in prison bounde.

NOw Festus had receaued the office,after.iii.daies,he ascended from Cesarea, vnto Jerusalem. Then enformed him the hie priestes,and the chefe of the Jewes, of Paule.And they besought him,and desired fauoure against him,that he would sende for him to Jerusalem:and they laied awaite for him in the waye,to kil him.Festus answered, that Paule shulde be kept at Cesarea,but that he him selfe would shortly departe thyther.Let them therfore(said he)which amõg you are able,come downe with vs,and accuse him,yf there be any faute in the man.Whã he had tarryed there amonge them more then.x. dayes,he went downe vnto Cesarea,and the next daie sat downe in the iudgemẽt seat, and commaunded Paule to be brought. Which when he was come,the Jewes which were come from Jerusalem,stode aboute him,and layde many and grenous complaintes tes againste Paule, whiche they coulde not prone, as longe as he answered for hym Act.xxiv.c selfe* that he had nether against the lawe of and.xxviii.b the Jewes, nether againste the temple, nor C yet against Cesar offended anye thing at all.

Actes.xxiii.f Festus* willynge to do the Jewes a pleasure, answered Paule, and saied: wylte thou go vp to Jerusalem, and there be judged of these thinges before me? Then said Paul: I stande at Cesars iudgement seate, where I ought to be iudged. To the Jewes have I no harme done, as thou verye well kno-west: Ye I have hurte them, or committed anye thing worthye of death, I refuse not to dye.
Yet none of these thinges are, whereof they accuse me, no man maye delyuer me to them.
I appeale vnto Cesar. Then spake Festus with deliberacion, and answered: Thou hast appealed vnto Cesar: vnto Cesar shalt thou go. And after a certaine dates, kynge Agrippa, and Bernice came vnto Cesarea to salute Festus. And when they hadde bene there a good season, Festus rehearsed Paules cause Actes.xxiiii.c vnto the kynge, saynge:* there is a certaine man lefte in prison of Felix, aboute whome Actes.xxiii.a when I came to Jerusalem, * the hie priestes, and elders of the Jewes enformed me, and desyred to have iudgement against him.
To whome I answered: it is not the maner of the Romaines, for fauoure to delyuer anye man, that he shoulde perysshe, before that he whiche is accused, have the accusers before him, and have lycence to answere for hym selfe, concerning the cryme layde againste C hym. Therfore when they were come hy-ther with out anye delaye, on the morowe I sat to gene iudgemente, and commaunded the man to be broughte forthe. Against whome, Actes.xxiii.c. when the accusers stode vp, *they broughte none accusacion of suche thinges as I supposed: but had certayne questions agaynste him of their owne superstition, and of one F Jesus whiche was deade, whome Paule affirmed to be alyue. And because I doubted of suche maner of questions, I asked him, whether he wolde go to Jerusalem, and there be iudged of these matters. But when Paule had appealed to be kepte vnto the knowledge of Cesar, I commaunded hym to be kepte, tyll I myghte sende hym to Cesar. Agrippa sayde vnto Festus: I would also heare the manne my selfe. To morowe, (saied he) thou shalte heare hym: And on the morowe G when Agrippa was come, and Bernice, with great pompe, and were entred into the coun-cell house, with the captaynes, and chefe men of the cyte, at Festus commaundemente was Paule broughte forthe. And Festus sayed: Kynge Agrippa, and all ye men whiche are here present with vs, ye see this man, aboute whome all the multytude of the Jewes have intreated me, bothe at Jerusalem, and also here, crienge: that he ought not to lyue anye lenger. Yet founde I nothing worthye of death, that he had committed. Nevertheles le-synge that he hath appealed to Cesar, I have determyned to sende hym. Of whome I have no certayne thynge to wryte vnto my Lorde. Wherefore, I have brought him vnto you, and specially vnto the (O kynge Agrippa) that after examinacion had, I myghte have somewhat to wryte. For me thinketh it vnreasonable, for to sende a prisoner, and not to shewe the causes whiche are laide against hym.

The.xxvi. Chapter.

AGrippa saied vnto Paule: thou art per- A mytted to speake for thy selfe. Then Paule stretched forthe the hande, and answered for hym selfe: I thinke my selfe hap-pye, kynge Agrippa, because I shall answere this daye before the, of all the thinges wherof I am accused of the Jewes: namely, because thou arte expert in all customes, and questions whiche are among the Jewes.
Wherefore, I beseche thee, to heare me pati-entlye. My liuing that I have ledde of a Lorde. And he saide: I am Iesus whome thou persecutest, but ryse, and stande vpō thy fete. For I haue appeared vnto the for this purpose to make the a minister, & a witnes bothe of those thinges, whiche thou hast sene, and of those thinges in the which I wil appeare vnto thee, deliuering the from the people, and from the Gentiles, vnto whome now I sende the, to open their eyes, that thei may be turned from darknes to light, and from the power of Satan vnto God, that thei maye receiue forgeuenes of synnes, and inheritaunce amonge them, which are sanctified by faythe that is towarde me. Wherefore (O kynge Agrippa) I was not disobedient vnto the heauenly vision: but shewed first vnto them of Damasco, and at Ierusalem, and throwout all the coastes of Iewrie, and then to the Gētiles, that they should repent, & turne to god, and do suche workes as become them that repente. For this cause the Iewes caughte me in the temple, and went about to kyll me. Seyng therfore, that I haue obtained helpe of God: I cōtinue vnto this daie, witnessing both to smal, and to great, saying none other thinges, than those which the Prophetes, & Moses did say, should come: that Christ should suffer, and that he shoulde be the firste that should ryse from death, and should shew light vnto the people, and to the Gentiles. And he thus spake for him selfe, Festus said with a loude voice: Paule, thou art beside thy selfe, much learning doth make the mad. And Paul said: I am not mad (moost deare Festus) but speake forth the wordes of trueth, and soberues. For the king knoweth of these thinges, before whome also I speake freely: neyther thinke I that any of these thinges are hidde from him. For this thing was not done in a corner. King Agrippa, beleuest thou the prophetes? I wote wel that thou beleuest.

Agrippa said vnto Paule: Somewhat thou bringest me in my minde, for to become Christē. And Paul said: I would to God, that not onely thou: but also al that heare me to daye were, not somewhat onely, but all together, suche as I am, except these bondes. And whē he had thus spoken, the king rose vp, and the debite, and Bernice, & thei that sat with them. And when thei were gone apart, thei talked betwene them selues, saying. This man doeth nothing worthy of death, or of bōdes. Then said Agrippa vnto Festus: This man might haue bene let loose, yf he hadde not appealed vnto Cesar.

The xxvii. Chapter.

WHen it was concluded, that we shoulde sayle into Italye, they deliuered bothe Paule, and certaine other prisoners, vnto one named Julius, an vnder captaine of Cesars soudiers. And we entred into a ship of Adramitium, and loosed from lande, appoynted to sayle by the coastes of Asia, one Aristarcus out of Macedonia, of the countrie of Thessalonia tarieng still with vs. And the nexte daie we came to Sidon. And Julius courteously entreated Paule, and gaue hym libertie, to go vnto his frendes, & to refreshe him selfe. And when we had launched from thence, we sailed harde by Cipers, because the windes were contrarie. And when we had sailed ouer the sea of Cilicia, and Pamphilia, we came to Myra, which is in Licia.

And there the vnder captaine founde a ship of Alexandria ready, that sailed into Italye, & he put vs therin. And when we had sayled slowlie many daies, and scarce were come ouer against Gnidon (because the wynde with stode vs), we sailed harde by the coaste of Candy, ouer against Salmo, and with muche waike sayled beyonde it, & came vnto a place which is called the fayre hauen. Nie whervnto was the citie of Lasea. When muche tyme was spent, and when sayling was nowe ieopardous, because also that thei had ouerlonge sailed, Paul put them in remembraūce, & said vnto them: Sirs I perceaue, that this viage wil be with hurtand damage, not of the lading muche, and ship onely, but also of youre liues. Neuertheles, the vnder captaine beleued the gouerner, and the maister of the ship more then those thinges which were spoken of Paule. And because the hauen was not commodious to winter in, many toke counsel to depart thēce, yf by any meanes they might attaine to Phenices, & there to winter, which is an hauen of Candy, and lieth towarde the south west, and northwest winde. When the south winde blewe, they supposing to obtaine their purpose, loosed vnto Asson, & sailed past al Candye. But not longe after, there arose against their purpose a flawe of wynde cōte of the north east. And when the shyppe was caught, & coulde not resist the winde, we let her go, and drawe with the wether. But we were caried into an yle, whiche is named Clauda, and had muche worke to come by a bote, which thei toke vp, and vsed helpe, and made fast the ship, fearing, lest thei should fal into the Sirtes. And so thei let downe a beckel, and were caried. The next daie (when we were tossed with an exceading tempest) they lightened the ship, and the thirde daie we cast out with our owne handes, the takling of the ship. When at the last, neither the Sunne nor starres in many daies appeared, and no smal tempest laye vpon vs, al hope that we should escape, was then taken away. But after long abstinence, Paule stode forth in the myddes of them, and said: Sirs, ye shold haue harkened to me, and not to haue loosed fro Candie, neither to haue brought vnto vs this hurme, and losse. And nowe I exhorte you to be of good chere. For there shalbe no losse of any mans

mans lyfe among you, saue of the ship onely. For there stode by me this night the angel of God, whose I am, and whō I serue, saying: Acts. xxv. e Feare not Paul, * thou must be brought before Cesar. And lo, God hathe geuen the all them that sayle with the. Wherefore syrs be of good chere: for I beleue God, that it shalbe euen as it was tolde me. Howbeit we must be cast into * a certayne ylande. But when the Acte. xxviii. a. fourteneth night was come (as we wer sayling in Adria, about midnight) the shipmē demed, that there appeared some countrey vnto them: and sounded, and founde it. xx. fadoms. And when they had gone a litle further, they sounded againe, and founde. xv. fadoms.
Then fearing lest they should haue fallen on some rocke, they cast foure ancres out of the sterne, and wyshed for the daye. As the shypmen were about to flee out of the ship (when they had let downe the bote into the sea, vnder a coulour, as thoughe they would haue cast anckers out of the foreship) Paule saied vnto the vnder captaine, and to the soudiers: except these abyde in the ship, ye cannot be safe. Thā the soudiers cut of the rope of the bote, and let it fal awaye. And when the daye began to appeare, Paule besought them all to take meate, saying, this is the xiiii. daye, that ye haue taried, and continued fasting, receauing nothing at all. Wherefore, I praye you to take meate: for this is no doute is for your health: for * there shal not an heare fall from the head of any of you. And whē he had thus spoken, he toke bread, * and gaue thanke to God in presence of them all, & when he had broken it, he began to eate. Thē were they al of good cheare, and they also tooke meate. We were al together in the ship, two hundred, thre score and fyftene soules. And when they had eaten ynough, they lightened the ship, and caste out the wheat into the sea.
When it was daye, they knew not the lande, but thei spied a certaine hauen with a banke, into the which they were mynded (yf it were possible) to thrust in the ship: And when they had taken vp the anckers, they cōmitted them selues vnto the sea, and loosed the rudder bondes, and hoysed vp the mayne sayle to the wynde, and drewe to lande. And when they chaunced on a place, whiche had the sea on bothe sydes, thei thrust in the ship. And the fore part stucke fast, and moued not, but the hinder part brake with the violence of the wawes. The soudiers counsell was to kyll the prisoners, lest anye of them, when he had swomme out, should runne awaye. But the vnder captaine, wylling to saue Paule, kept them fro their purpose, and commaunded that they whiche coulde swimme, should cast them selues fyrste into the sea, and scape to lande. And the other he commaunded to go, some on bordes, and some on broke peces of the ship. And so it came to passe, that thei escaped all safe to lande.

AND when they were escaped, then they knew that * the yle was called Milete. Acte. xxvii.
And the straungers shewed vs no litel kindnes: for they kyndled a fyre, and receyued vs euery one, because of the present rayne, and because of the colde. And when Paule had gathered a boudel of stickes, and layed them on the fyre, there came a viper out of the heate, and caught him by the hande. When the straungers saw the beaste hange on his hande, they saied amonge them selues: no doute this man is a murtherer: Whō though he haue escaped the sea, yet vengeaunce suffreth not to lyue. And he shooke of the viper into the fyre, and * felt no harme. Howbeit they waited when he would haue swolne, or fallen downe deade sodenlye. But after they had loked a great while, and saw no harme come to him, they chaūged their myndes, and saide * that he was a God. In the same quarters were landes of the chefe man of the yle, (whose name was Publius) whiche receyued vs, and lodged vs thre daies courteously. Matth. xvi. b Luke. x. e Act. xiiii. b
And it fortuned that the father of Publius, laye sicke of a feuer, and of a bloudy fyre. To whome Paule entred in, and prayed, & laid his handes on him, & healed him. So when this was done, other also which had diseases in the yle, came and were healed: whiche also did vs great honoure. And when we departed they laded vs with suche thinges as were necessarie. After thre monethes we departed in a ship of Alexandrie, whiche had wintered in the yle, whose badge was Castor, and Pollux. And when we came to Siracusa, we taried there thre daies. And from thence we fet a compasse, and came to Regium. And after one daie, the south winde blew, & we came the next daye to Putiolus: where we founde brethren, and were desyred to tary with them seuē daies, & so came we to Rome. And from thence, when the brethren harde of vs, they came to mete vs at Apiphorum, and at the thre tauernes. When Paul saw them, he thanked God, and wexed bolde. And when we came to Rome, the vnder captaine delyuered the prisoners to the chefe captayne of the hoast: but Paule was suffred to dwell by him selfe, with a souldiour that kept him.
And after thre daies, Paule called the chefe of the Iewes together. And when they were come, he said vnto them: Men, and brethren, though * I haue committed nothing against the people, or lawes of the elders. * Yet was I delyuered prisoner from Ierusalem, into the handes of the Romaines. Whiche when thei had examined me, would haue let me go, because there was no cause of death in me. But when the Iewes spake contrary, I was Actes xxiii. and. xv. b Actes xxiii.

constrained to appeale vnto Cesar: not that I had ought to accuse my people of. For this cause then haue I called for you, euen to se you, and to speake with you: * because that for the hope of Israel, I am bounde with this chaine. And they said vnto him: we neyther receaued letters out of Jewrie pertayning vnto the, neither any of the brethre that came, shewed or speake any harme of the. But we wil heare of the what thou thinkest. For as concerning this sect, we know that * euery where it is spoken against. And when they had appointed him a daye, there came many to him into his lodging. To whome he expounded, and testified the kingdom of God, and preached vnto them of Jesus: bothe out of the lawe of Moses, and out of the Prophetes, euen from morning to nyghte. And * some beleued the thinges which were spoken, and some beleued not. And when thei agreed not among them selues, thei departed, after that Paule had spoken one worde: wel spake the holy ghost by Esaye the prophete vnto our fathers, saying: * Go vnto this people, and saye. With your eares shall ye heare, and shal not vnderstande: & with youre eyes shal ye see, and not perceaue. For the hart of this people is waxed grosse, & with their eares haue thei had no lucke to heare, & their eyes haue they closed, lest they should see with their eyes, and heare with their eares, and vnderstande with their harte, and should be conuerted, and I should heale them. Be it knowen therfore vnto you, that this saluacion of God is sent to the Gentiles, and thei shall heare it. And when he had sayed these wordes, the Iewes departed from him, and had great disputacions amog them selues. And Paule dwelt two yeres full in his lodging, and receiued al that came in vnto him, preaching the kingdome of God, & teaching those thinges which concerne the Lord Jesus with all confidence, no man forbiddynge hym.

¶ Here endeth the Actes of the Apostles.

PAule the seruaunt of Jesus Christe, called to the office of an Apostle, * put a part for the Gospel of God, * which he had promised afore by his Prophetes in the holy scriptures of hys sonne, which was borne vnto him * of the sede of Dauid after the flesshe: and hathe bene declared to be the sonne of God, with power, after the spirit, that sanctifieth, sence the tyme that Jesus Christ our Lorde rose againe from death * by whom we haue receiued grace, and Apostleship, that obedience might be geuen vnto the faythe in his name among al heathen, of whose nombre you be, the elect of Jesu Christ. * To al you that be at Rome, beloued of God, and sainctes, by election. Grace be with you, and peace from God our father, and from the Lorde Jesus Christ. First verely I thanke my God thorow Jesus Christ for you al, that your faith is spoken of in al the worlde. For God is my witnes (whome I serue * with my spirite in the Gospel of his sonne) that without ceasynge, I make mencion of you, prayenge alwayes * in my prayers, that by some meane, at the laste (one tyme or other) a prosperous iourney (by the wil of God) myghte fortune me, to come vnto you. For I longe to se you, that I might bestowe among you some spiritual gyfte, to strength you with all, that is, that I might haue consolacio together with you, through the common faythe, whyche bothe ye, and I haue. * I would that ye shold knowe (brethre) how that I haue often times purposed to come vnto you, * but hang bene let hitherto, to haue some fruite also among you, as among other of the Gentiles. I am detter, bothe to the Grekes, and to the vngrekes, to the learned, and to the vnlearned. So that (as muche as in me is) I am redye to preache the Gospell to you that are at Rome also. * For I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ, because it * is the power of God vnto saluacion to euery one that beleueth, to the Jewe first, and also to the Gentyle. For herin is the rygh teousnes of God opened from faithe to faith. As it is written: * the iuste shall lyue by faithe. For the wrathe of God appeareth from heauen a gainst al vngodlynes, and vnrighteousnes of men, which withholde the trueth in vnrighteousnes: seynge * that it which maye be knowen of God, is manifest among them, because God had shewed it vnto them. * For his inuisible thinges (that is to saye, his eternal power, and godhed,) are sene, sence the worlde was made, beynge vnderstande * by the workes, from the creacion of the worlde: so that they are without excuse, because that when they knew God, they glorified him not as God, neither were thankefull, but waxed ful of vanities in their imaginacions. * And their folysshe hart was blynded. (When they coūted them selues wyse, they became fooles,) * and turned the glorie of the immortal God, vnto an ymage, made not onely after the similitude of a mortal man but also of byrdes, & foure foted * beastes, and of creapynge beastes. Wherfore, God gaue them vp to vnclenes, thorow the lustes of their owne hartes, to defyle their owne bodies among them selues: whiche changed his trueth for a lye, & worshipped, and serued the thinges that be made, more then him that made them, which is to be praysed for euer, Amen. Wherfore, God

Wherfore art thou inexcusable, O man whosoeuer thou be that* iudgest.
For in that same wherein thou iudgest another, *thou condemnest thy selfe. For thou that iudgest, doest euē the selfe same thinges.
But we are sure, that the sudgemēt of god, is according to the trueth, against them which commit suche thinges. Thinkest thou this, O thou man that iudgest them, which do such thinges, and doest euē the very same thy selfe, that thou shalt escape the sudgement of God?
Eyther despisest thou the riches of his good nes, and patience, and longe sufferaunce, not knowing,* that the kyndnes of God leadeth the to repentaunce. But thou after thy stubbernes, and hart that cannot repent, heapest vnto thy selfe wrath against the day of vengeaunce, when shalbe opened the righteous iudgement of God,* which wil reward every man according to his deedes: that is to saye, prayse, honour, and immortalite, to the which continue in good doyng, and seke immortalite. But vnto them which are rebelles, & that do not obey the trueth, but folow vnryghte-ousnes, shal come indignacion, and wrathe, tribulacion and anguish, vpon the soule of e-uery man that doeth euel: of the Jewe fyrste, and also of the Gentyle. To every man that doeth good, shall come prayse, and honoure, and peace to the Jewe fyrste, and also to the Gentil. For* there is no respect of persons, with God. For whosoeuer hath synned with out lawe, shal also perysshe without lawe.
And as many as haue synned in the law, shal be iudged by the lawe. For in the syghte of God they* are not righteous which heare the lawe: but the doers of the lawe shall be iustifyed. For when the Gentyles whyche haue not the lawe, do of nature the thinges contayned in the lawe: then they hauing not the lawe, are a lawe vnto them selues, which shewe the dede of the lawe written in their hartes: whyle their conscience beareth wyt-nes vnto them, and also their thoughtes, accusynge one another, or excusynge, at the daye* when the Lord shal iudge the secretes of men, by Jesus Christe, according to my Gospel. Behold,* thou art called a Jew, and restest in the lawe, and makest thy boaste of God, and knowest his will, and alowest the thinges that be excellent, and art informed by the lawe: and beleuest that thou thy selfe arte a guyde of the blynde, a lyght of them which are in darckenes, an informer of them whiche lacke discrecion, a teacher of the vnlearned, which hast the ensample of know ledge, and of the trueth by the lawe. Thou therfore whiche teachest another, teachest not thy selfe.* Thou preachest, a man shold not steale: yet thou stealest. Thou that sayest, a man should not commyt aduoutrie, thou breakest wedlocke. Thou abhorrest ymages, and yet robbest God of his honoure. Thou that makest thy boast of the lawe, thorowe breakynge the lawe dishonourest God. For the name of God is euel spoken of amōg the Gentyles, thorowe you* as it is written.
For circumcision verely auayleth, yf thou kepe the law. But yf thou be a breaker of the lawe, thy circumcision is turned to vncyr-cumcision. Therfore, yf the vncircumcised kepe the ryghte thinges contayned in the lawe, shall not hys vncircumcision be counted for circumcision? And shal not vncircūcision, which is by nature (yf it kepe the law) iudge thee, whiche beyng vnder the letter, and circumcision, doest transgresse the law?
He is not a Jewe, whiche is a Jewe outwarde. Neither is it circumcision whiche is outewarde in the fleshe. But* he is a Jewe whiche is hyde within, and* the cyr-cumcision of the harte is the true circumcision, whyche consysteth in the spirite, and not in the letter, whose prayse is not of men, but of God.

teousnes of God more excellente: what shall we saye? Is God unrighteous, whiche taketh vengeaunce? I speake after the maner of men. God forbid. For how then shall God iudge the worlde. For yf the trueth of God appeare more excellent thorow my lye, vnto his prayse, why am I hence forth iudged as a synner: and not rather (as men speake evel of vs, and as some affirme that we saye) let vs do evel, that good maye come therof.

C Whose dampnacion is iust. What then? Are we better then they? No, in no wyse. For we have alredie proved, how that both Iewes, and Gentiles are al vnder synne as it is written. * There is none righteous, no not one: there is none that vnderstondeth, there is none that seketh after God: they are all gone out of the waye, they are al vnprofitable, there is none that dothe good, no not one. * Their throte is an open sepulchre, with their tonges they have disceaued: the poyson of aspes is vnder their lyppes. * Whose mouth is full of cursynge, and bitternes. † Their fete are swyft to shed blonde. * Destruction, & wretchednes are in their wayes, and the waye of peace have they not knowen. * There is no feare of God before their eyes. Now we knowe that whatsoever thinges the lawe sayeth, it saieth it to them whithe are vnder the lawe. That al mouthes may be stopped, and that al the worlde may be subdued to God, because that* by the deedes of the lawe there shall no flesshe be iustified in hys syght. For by the lawe commeth knowlege of synne. But now is the righteousnes of God declared without the lawe, for as muche as it is alowed by the testimonie of the lawe, and of the Prophetes, The righteousnes of God, commeth by the faith of Iesus Christ, vnto all, and vpon all them that beleve on him. There is no difference: for al have synned, and are destitute of the glorie of God: but* are iustified freely by his grace, thoughe the redemption that is in Christ Iesu, whome God hath ordeined for the to be the obtainer of mercy thorow faythe, by the meanes of his blonde, to declare his righteousnes, in that he forgeveth the synnes that are passed, whiche God did suffre, to shew at this time his righteousnesse, that he might be counted iust, and the iustifier of him which beleveth on Iesus. Where is then thy reioysing? It is excluded. By what lawe? of workes? Naye: but by the lawe of faithe. Therefore we holde, that a man is iustified by faithe, without the deedes of the lawe. Is he the God of the Iewes onely? Is he not also of the Gentiles? Yea, even of the Gentiles also. For it is God onely which iustifyeth the circumcisio that is of faith, and vncircumcision thorow faith. Do we then destroy the lawe thorow faith? God forbid: But we rather magnifye the lawe.

The .iiii. Chapter.

WHat shal we saye then, that * Abraham our father (as pertaining to the flesh) dyd fynde? For Abraha was iustified by deedes, then hath he wherin to reioyce: but not with God. For what saieth the scripture? * Abraham beleved God, and it was counted vnto him for righteousnes. To him that worketh, is the reward not reckned of fauour, but of dutie. To him that worketh not, but beleveth on him that iustifieth the vngodlye, is hys faith counted for righteousnes, † according to the purpose of the grace of God. Euen as Dauid declareth the blessednes of the man, vnto whom God imputeth righteousnes without deedes. * Blessed are they whose vnrighteousnes are forgeven, and whose synnes are couered. Blessed is that man, to whō the Lorde wil not impute synne. Came this blessednes then vpon the vncircumcision, or vpon the circumcision also? For we say, that faith was reckned to Abraha for righteousnes. How was it then reckned, when he was in the circumcision? or when he was in the vncircumcision? * Not in the time of circumcision: but when he was yet vncircumcysed. And he receiued the* signe of circumcision, as a seale of the righteousnes of faith, which he had yet beynge vncircumcised, that he should be the father of al them that beleve, thoughe they be not circumcised, that righteousnesse might be imputed to them also: † and that he might be father of circumcision, not vnto the onely which came of the circumcised, but vnto them also that walke in the steppes of the faith that was in our father Abraha, before the time of circumcisio. For the promes (that he should be the heyre of the worlde) happened not to Abraham, or to his sede thorowe the lawe: but thorow the righteousnes of faith. * For yf they which are of the law, be heyres, then is faith but vayne, & the promes of none effect. Because the law worketh wrathe. For where no lawe is, there is no transgression. Therefore by faithe is the inheritaunce geuen, that it might come of fauour: that the promes might be sure to all the sede. Not to them onely which are of the lawe: but to them also which are of the faith of Abraham, * which is the father of vs all. (As it is written: * I have made the a father of many nacions) euen before God, whome he beleved, which restoreth the deade vnto lyfe: and calleth those thinges whiche be not as though they were. Which Abraham, contrary to hope beleved in hope, that he might be the * father of many nacions, according to that whiche was spoken: * euen so shal thy seed be, as the starres of heaven, and the sande of the sea. † And he stayed not in the faythe, nor yet considered his owne bodye, whiche was now deade, euen when he was almost an C.

were olde: neither yet that Sara was pafte childe bearing. He staggered not at the promes of God thorowe vnbelefe: but became stronge in faith, and gaue god the prayse, beynge full certified, that he which had promifed the same, was able also to make it good. And therfore was it reckened to him for righteousnes. Rom.iv.a *Nevertheles it is not written for him onely, that it was reckened to him for righteousnes, but also for vs, to whome it shalbe counted for righteousnes, so that we beleue on him, that raised vp Jesus our Lord from the dead: which was delyuered for oure sinnes, and was raysed againe for our iustification.

Because therfore that we are iustified by faith, we are at *peace with god, thorow our Lorde Jesus Christe: by whome also it chaunced vnto vs to be brought in thorowe faith, vnto this grace, wherin we stande, and *reioyce in hope of the glorie of the children of God. Not that onely: but also we reioyce in the tribulacions: knowing that *tribulacion bringeth pacience, pacience bringeth experience, experience bringeth hope. And hope maketh not ashamed: because the loue of God is shead abrode in our hartes, by the holy ghost, which is geuen vnto vs. John.xvi.g. Hebre.iii.a. Jacob.i.a. Rom.v.b. Rom.vii.b

For *when we were yet weake, according to the time, Christ died for vs, which were vngodly: Yet scarce wil any man die for a righteous man. Paraduenture for a good man durste a man die. *But *God setteth oute hys loue towarde vs, seynge that while we were yet synners, according to the time, Christe died for vs. Muche more then nowe (we that are iustified by his bloude) shalbe saued frō wrath thorow him. For ye when we were enemies, we were reconcyled to God, by the death of his sonne: muche more seyng we are reconciled, we shalbe preserued by his lyfe. Ephe.ii.a Collo.i.c. and.ij.b. John.iij.c 1.Ihon.iiii.b

Not onely this, but we also ioye in God, by the meanes of our Lord Jesus Christe, by whome we haue now obtained the attonemēt. Wherfore, as by one man, synne entred into the worlde, and *death by the meanes of synne. Even so death also went ouer all men, in so much as al we haue sinned. For euen vnto the law was synne in the worlde: but synne is not imputed, when ther is no law: neuertheles, death raigned frō Adā to Moses, euē ouer thē also that had not synned with like trāsgression as did Adam: which beareth the similytude of him that was to come. But the gifte is not like as the sinne. For yf thorow the sinne of one, many be dead: much more plenteous vpō many, was the grace of God, & gyft by grace: *which was of one man Jesus Christ. And the gift is not ouer one synne: as death came thorow one synne of one that synned. For damnacio came of one synne vnto condēnacio: but the gift came to iustify frō many sinnes. For yf by the syn of one, death raigned by the meanes of one: much more then (which receaue aboundāce of grace, & of the gift of righteousnes) shal raigne in lyfe by the meanes of one (that is to saye) Jesus Christ. Likewise then as by the syn of one, there sprange vp euel on al men to condemnacion: euen so by the righteousnes of one, springeth good vpō al men, to the righteousnes of life. For as by one mannes disobedience, many became sinners: so by the obedience of one, shal many be made righteous. But *the law in the meane time entred in, that synne should encrease. Neuerthelater wher aboundāce of sin was, there was more plenteousnes of grace. That as syn had raigned vnto death, euen so myghte grace raigne thorowe righteousnes, vnto eternal life, by the helpe of Jesu Christ. Gen. v.c Rom.vi.d Rom.v.d Rom.vi.d Gala.iij.c

What shal we say then? Shal we cōtynue in sin, that there may be aboundāce of grace? God forbid. How shal we that are dead, as touching sin, liue any lenger therin? Know ye not that *al we which are baptized vnto Jesu Christ, are baptised to die with him? We are buried then with him by baptime for to die: that lykewise as Christ was rayfed vp frō death, by the glory of the father, euen so *we also should walke in a newe lyfe. Gala. iii. b Collo. ii. b. Ephe.iij.a

For ye be graffed in death like vnto him, euē so shal we be partakers of the resurrection: knowing this, that our old man is crucified with him also, that the body of sin might vtterly be destroyed, that henceforth we should not be seruātes vnto synne. For he that is dead, is iustified frō sin. Wherfore *ye be dead with Christ, we beleue, that we shal also liue with him: knowing, that Christ beynge raised frō death, *dieth no more. Death hath no more power ouer him. For as touching that he died, he died cōcerning syn once. And as touching that he liueth, he liueth vnto God. Likewyse considre ye also, that ye are deade as touching synne, but are aliue vnto God thorow Jesus Christ our Lord. Let not synne raigne therfore in your mortal bodie, that ye should therunto obey by the lustes of it. Neither gene ye your membres as instrumentes of vnrighteousnes vnto synne: but gene ouer your selues vnto God, as they that of dead, are aliue. And gene ouer youre membres as instrumentes of righteousnes vnto God. For sinne shal not haue power ouer you. Because ye are not vnder the law, but vnder grace. What then? Shal we sin, because we are not vnder the law: but vnder grace? god forbid. *Know ye not, how that *to whō soeuer ye cōmit your selues as seruātes to obey, his seruauntes ye are, to whō ye obey: whether it be of synne vnto death, or of obedience vnto righteousnes? God be thanked. 2.Timo.ii.b Apoca.i.b. John.viii.c i.Peter.ii.b

that though ye were the seruaūtes of sin, ye haue yet obeyed with harte vnto the rule of the doctrine, that ye be brought vnto. Ye are then made free frō synne, & are become the seruaūtes of righteousnes. I speake grossly, because of the infyrmitie of your flesh. As ye haue geuen your members, seruauntes to vncleanes, & to iniquitie, (from one iniquitie to another) euē so now gene ouer your mēbers, seruaūtes vnto righteousnes, that ye may be sanctified. For when ye were the seruaūtes of synne, ye were voide of righteousnes.

What frute had ye then in those thinges, wherof ye are now ashamed? For the ende of those thinges is death. But now are ye deliuered from syn, and made the seruauntes of God, and haue your frute to be sanctified, & the ende euerlasting life. For* the reward of synne is death, but eternal life, is the gyfte of God, thorow Iesus Christ our Lorde.

KNowe ye not brethren, (I speake to them that know the law) how that the law hath power ouer a man, as longe as it endureth? * For the woman which is in subiection to a man, is bounde by the law to the mā, as lōg as he liueth. But yf the man be deade: she is loced from the law of the man. So then* yf while the man liueth, she couple her selfe with another man, she shalbe counted a wedlocke breaker. But yf the man be dead, she is free frō the law of the husbād, so that she is no wedlocke breaker, though she couple her selfe with another man. Euen so ye also (my brethren) are dead concerning the lawe, by the body of Christ: that ye shoulde be coupled to another (I meane to him that is risen againe from deathe) that we shoulde bring forthe frute vnto God. For when we were in the flesh, the lustes of syn which were stered vp by the lawe, raigned in our mēbers, to bring forth frute vnto deathe. But now are we deliuered from the lawe, and dead vnto it, wherunto we were in bōdage, that we should serue in a new conuersacion of the spirit, and not in the olde conuersacion of the letter. What shal we saye then? is the law synne? God forbyd, neuertheles, * I knew not synne, but by the lawe. For I had not knowen what lustes had meant, except the law had said* thou shalt not lust. But synne take an occasion by the meanes of the commaundement, and wrought in me al maner of concupiscence. For verely without the law, synne was dead. I once lyued without law: But when the commaundement came, synne reuiued, and I was deade. And the very same commaundemente, which* was ordeyned vnto lyfe, was founde to be vnto mine occasion of death. For synne take occasion by the meanes of the commaundemente, and so deceaued me, and by the same slewe me. Wherfore* the law is holy, and the commaundement holy, and iust, and good. Was that then which was good, made death vnto me? God forbid. Naye it was synne: that synne might appeare (by it which was good) to worke death in me: that synne by the commaundement might be out of measure sinful.

For we know that the law is spiritual: but I am carnal* solde vnder synne, because I allow not that which I do. For what I wolde, that do I not: but what I hate, that do I. Yf I do now that which I wold not, I consent vnto the lawe that it is good. So then now, it is not I that do it, but synne that dwelleth in me. For I know, that in me (that is to saie: in my* flesshe) dwelleth no good thing. For to wil is present with me: but I fynde no meanes to performe that which is good. For the good that I wolde, do I not: but the euel which I would not, that do I. Yf I do that I wolde not, then is it not I that do it, but synne that dwelleth in me. I fynde then by the law, that when I wolde do good, euel is present with me. For I delite in the law of god, after the inwarde man: But I se another law in my members, rebelling against the lawe of my mynde, and subduynge me vnto the lawe of synne, which is in my members. O wretched man that I am: who shal deliuer me frō this* body subdued vnto deathe? I thanke god thorow Iesus Christ our Lorde. So then with the mynde, I serue the law of God, but with the flesshe, the law of synne.

The. viii. Chapter.

THere is then no damnation to them which are in Christ Iesu, which walke not after the flesshe, but after the spirite. For the lawe of the spirite of lyfe, thorowe Iesus Christ, hath made me* free from the law of sin, and death. For what the lawe coulde not do (inasmuch as it was weake because of the flesh) that performed God, and* sent his sonne in the similitude of sinful flesh, and by synne, damned synne in the flesh, that the righteousnes of the lawe, might be fulfylled in vs, which walke not after the flesshe, but after the spirit. For they that are carnal, are carnally mynded. But they that are spirituall, are ghostlye mynded. To be carnally mynded, is death. But to be spiritually mynded, is lyfe, and peace. Because that the fleshly minde is enemy against God, for it is not obedient to the law of God, neither can be. So then they that are in the flesshe, can not please God. But ye are not in the flesshe, but in the spirit, if so be that the spirit of God dwel in you. Yf any man haue not the spirit of Christ, that same is none of his. Yf Christ be in you, the body is dead because of synne: but the spirit is lyfe for righteousnes sake. Wherfore, yf the spirit of him that raysed vp Iesus from death, dwel in you: euen he that raised vp Christ frō death, shal quicken youre mortal bodies, because of his spirit that dwelleth in you. Therfore lykebrethren, we are debters, not to the flesshe, to lyue after the flesh. For yf ye lyue after the flesshe, ye shal dye: But yf ye put thorow the spirit the deades of the body, ye shal lyue: For as many as are led by the spirite of god, thei are the sonnes of god. For ye haue not receaued the spirit of bondage, to feare any more, but ye haue receaued the spirite of adopcion, whereby we crie, Abba, father.

The same spirit certifieth our spirite, that we are the sonnes of God. Ye we be sonnes, then are we also heyres. I meane of god, and heires annexed with Christ: if so be that we suffer with him, that we may be also glorified together with him.

For I suppose that the afflictions of this lyfe, are not worthie of the glorie, which shalbe shewed vpon vs. For the feruent desyre of the creature abideth looking, when the sonnes of God shal appeare, because the creature is subdued to vanitie, against the will therof, but for him will which hath subdued the same in hope. For the same creature shalbe deliuered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the sonnes of God. For we knowe that euery creature groneth with vs also, and trauayleth in payne euen vnto this time.

Not onely it, but we also which haue the firstfruites of the spirite, mourne in ourselues also, and wayte for the adopcion (of the children of God) euen the deliuerance of oure body. For we are saued by hope. But hope that is seene, is no hope. For how can a man hope for that which he seeth? But and ye we hope for that we se not, then do we with patience abide for it. Likewise, the spirite also helpeth our infirmities. For we knowe not what to desire, as we ought: but the spirit maketh intercession for vs, with groninges, whiche can not be expressed. And he that searcheth the hartes knoweth, what is the meaning of the spirite, for he maketh intercession for the saintes, according to the pleasure of God.

We knowe, that all thinges worke for the best vnto them that loue God, which also are called of purpose. For those which he knew before, he also ordeyned before, that they should be lyke fashioned vnto the shape of his sonne, that he might be the first begotte sonne among many brethren.

Moreouer, whom he appointed before, them also he called. And whom he hath called, them also he iustified: and whome he iustified, them he also glorified. What shall we then saye to these thinges? If God be on our syde, who can be against vs, which spared not his owne sonne, but gaue him for vs all: how can it be that with him, he should not geue vs all thinges also?

Who shall laye any thing to the charge of gods chosen? it is God that iustifieth: who is he that condemneth? it is Christ which died: yea, rather which is risen again, which is also on the right hande of God, & maketh intercession for vs. Who shal separate vs frō the loue of God? shal tribulacion? or anguish? or persecucion? either hunger? either nakednes? either perel? either sweard? As it is written: For thy sake are we killed Psa. xliii. a al daye long, we are counted as sheps appointed to be slaine. Neuertheles, in all these thinges we ouercome thorow him that loued vs. For I am sure, that neither death, neither lyfe, neither angels, nor rule, neither power, neither thinges present, neither thinges to come, neither height, neither lowth, nether any other creature shalbe able to departe vs from the loue of God, which is in Christ Iesu our Lord.

I saye the truthe in Christ, and lie not (my conscience also bearing me witnes by the holy ghost) that I haue great heuines, and continual sorow in my hart. For I haue wished my selfe to be cursed from Christ, for my brethren (my kynsemen, as pertaininge to the flesshe) which are the Israelites. To whome pertaineth the adopcion, for the children and the glory, and the couenaunces, & the law that was geuen, and the seruice of God, and the promises: whose also are the fathers, and thei of whom (as concerning the flesh) Christ came, which is God, in all thinges to be praysed for euer. Amen. I speake not these thinges, as though the wordes of God had taken none effecte. For they are not all Israelites, which are of Israel: neyther are thei al children straight waye, that are the sede of Abraham. But in Isaac shall thy sede be called: that is to saye, thei which are the children of the flesh, are not the children of God. But thei which be the children of promes are counted the sede. For this is a word of promes, about this time will I come, and Sara shal haue a sonne. Not onely this, but also Rebecca was with childe by one, euen by our father Isaac. For yet the children were borne, when thei had neyther done good, neither bad (that the purpose of god by election might stande) it was said vnto her, not by the reason of workes, but by the caller, the elder shal serue the yonger, as it is written: Jacob haue I loued, but Esau haue I hated. What shal we say then? is there any vnrighteousnes with god? God forbid. For he saith to Moses: I wil shew mercy to whom euer I shew mercy, & wil haue compassion on whom euer I haue compassion. So lieth it not then in a mannes will, or running, but in the mercy of God. For the scripture saieth vnto Pharao: Euen for this same purpose haue I stered the vp, to shew my power on the, & that my name might be declared thorow out all the lorde: who hath he mercy on whō he wil, and whom he wil, he maketh harde harted. Thou wilt saye then vnto me: why the blameth he yet? For who hath bene able to resist his wil? But O man, what art thou which disputest with God? Shal the worke say to the workeman: why hast thou made me on this fashion? Hath not the potter power ouer the clay, euē of the same lompe to make one vessel vnto honour, & another vnto dishonour?

Euen so, god willing to shew his wrath, and to make his power knowen: suffred with lōg patience, the vessels of wrathe, ordeined to damnacion, & to declare the riches of his glory on the vessels of mercy, which he had prepared vnto glory, whō also he called, not of the Iewes onely, but also of the gentiles. As he saith also to Osee: * I wil cal them my people which were not my people: & her beloued, which was not beloued (& her to haue obtained mercye, that had not obtained mercye.) And it shal come to passe, that in the place wher it was said vnto them: ye are not my people, there shal thei be called the children of the liuing God. But Esay crieth cōcerning Israel, * thoughe the nōbre of the children of Israel be as the sande of the sea, yet the remanāt shalbe saued. For he finisheth the word perely, & maketh it short in righteousnes. For a short word wil God make on earth. And as Esay said before: * Except the the Lord of Saboth had left vs sede, we had bene made as Sodoma, & had bene likened to Gomorra. What shal we say then? We saye, that the gentiles which folowed not righteousnes, haue ouertaken righteousnes: euē the righteousnes which cōmeth of faith: contrariwise, Israel, which folowed the law of righteousnes, could not attaine to the lawe of righteousnes. Wherefore? euen because they sought it not by faith: but as it were by the workes of the law. For thei haue stōbled at the stōbling stone. As it is writte: * Behold, I put in Sion a stōbling stone, & a rocke that men shalbe offended at. And whosoeuer beleueth on him, shal not be confounded.

The. x. Chapter.

Brethren, my hartes desyre, and prayer to god for Israel is, that thei might be saued. For I beare them record, that thei haue a feruent minde to godwarde, but not according to knowledge. For thei being ignorant of gods righteousnes, & goyng about to stablish their owne righteousnes, haue not bene obedient vnto the righteousnes of god. For * Christ is the fulfilling of the lawe, to iustifie al that beleue. For * Moses writeth of the righteousnes which commeth of the law, how that the man which doeth the thinges of the law, shal liue therby. But the righteousnes which cometh of faith, speaketh on this wyse: Saye not thus in thyne hart, who shal ascende into heauē? (that is euen to fetch Christ downe from aboue.) Either who shal descende into the depe? (that is euen to fetch vp Christ again from death.) But what saith he? * The word is nie the, euen in thy mouth, and in thine hart. This same is the worde of faith, which we preache. For yf thou knowledge with thy mouth, that Jesus is the lord, and beleue in thyne hart, that God raised him vp from death, thou shalt be safe. For to beleue with the hart, iustifieth: and to knowledge with the mouth maketh a man safe. For the scripture saieth: * whosoeuer beleueth on him, shal not be confounded. There is no difference betweene the Iewe, and the Gentil. For one is Lord of al, which is rich vnto al that cal vpō him. For * whosoeuer doth cal on the name of the Lord, shalbe safe. How then shal thei cal on him, on whom thei haue not beleued? how shal they beleue on him, of whome thei haue not heorde? how shal they heare without a preacher? And howe shall thei preache excepte thei be sente? As it is written: howe beautifull are the fete of them which bring tidinges of peace, and bring tidinges of good thinges! But thei haue not al obeyed to the gospel. For Esay saith: * lord, who hath beleued our saiynges? So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing cometh by the worde of God. But I aske: haue they not heard? No doubt * their sounde went out into al landes, and their wordes into the endes of the world. But I demaūde, whether Israel did know or not? First Moses saieth: * I wil prouoke you to enuy, by them that are no people: by a folish nacion, I wyll anger you. Esay after that is bolde, and saieth: * I am founde of them, that sought me not: I am manifest vnto them that asked not after me. But against Israel he saieth: * al daye longe haue I stretched forthe my handes vnto a people that beleueth not, but speaketh against me.

The. xi. Chapter.

I Saie then, hath God cast away his people? God forbid. For euen I also am an Israelite, of the seed of Abraham, of the tribe of Benjamin. God hath not cast awaye his people which he knew before. (Wote ye not, what the scripture saith of Helias, how he maketh intercession to God against Israel, saiyng: * Lord, thei haue killed thy Prophetes, & digged downe thine altres, & I am left alone, & thei seke my lyfe. But what saith the answere of God vnto him? * I haue reserued vnto my selfe euen thousande men, which haue not bowed the knee to the ymage of Baal. Euen so also at this time is there a remnāt left, according to the electiō of grace. Yf it be of grace, then is it not now of workes. For then grace is nomore grace. But yf it be of workes, then is it now no grace. For then the wer deserving no more deserving. What then? Israel hath not obtayned that whiche he seketh: but the election hath obtayned it. The remnaūt are blinded, accordyng as it is written. * God hath geuen them the spirit of vnquietnes: eyes that they should not see, and eares that they shulde not heare, vnto this daye. And Dauid saieth: Let their table be made a snare to take them with al, and an occasion to fal, and a rewarde vnto them. Let their eyes be blynded that they see not: & bowe thou downe their backe alwaie. I say then: haue they therfore stombled, that they should vtterly fal away together? God forbid: but through their fal is saluacion happened vnto the Gentiles, for to prouoke them withal. Wherefore ye the fal of them be the riches of the worlde, and the minishyng of them, the riches of the Gentiles: how much more their perfectnes? I speake to you Gentiles, in as much as I am the Apostle of the Gentiles, I wil magnifye myne office, yf by any meane I maye prouoke them whiche are my flesshe, and might saue some of them. For yf the casting away of them, be the reconcilyage of the worlde: what shal the receiuyng of them be, but lyfe agayne from death? For yf one pece be holy, the whole heape is holy. And yf the roote be holy, the braunches shalbe holy also. Though be some of the braunches be broken of, and thou beyng a wylde olyue tree, wast graft in amonge them, & made partaker of the rote, & fatnes of the olyue tree, boast not thy selfe against the braunches. For yf thou boast thy selfe, thou bearest not the rote, but the rote, thee. Thou wilt say then: the braunches are broken of, that I might be graft in. Thou saiest well: because of vnbelefe they were broken of, and thou stodest stedfaste in faythe. Be not hie mynded, but feare: for seyng that God spared not the naturall braunches, take hede, lest it come to passe that he spare not thee also. Behold ther fore the kyndnes, and rigorousnes of God: on them which fel, rigorousnes: but toward thee, kyndnes: yf thou cōtinue in his kyndnes. Or els thou shalt be hewen of, and they again* yf they byde not stil in vnbelefe, shal be graffed in agayne. For God is of power to graffe them in agayne. For yf thou wast cut out of a natural wylde olyue tree, & was graffed contrary to nature in a true olyue tree, how much more shal the naturall braunches be graffed in their owne olyue tree agayne. I would not that this secrete should be hyd from you my brethren (lest ye shoulde be wyse in your owne conceites) that partly blyndnes is happened in Israel, vntyll the fulnes of the gentiles be come in: and so all Israel shalbe saued. As it is written. * There shal come out of Sion, he that doeth deliuer, and shal turne away vngodlynes fro Iacob. And this is my couenaunt vnto them, when I shal take away their synnes. As concernyng the Gospel, they are enemyes, for your sakes: but as touchyng the election, they are loued for their fathers sakes. For vnrely the gyftes, and callyng of God are such, that it can not repent him of them: for lyke, as ye in tyme passed haue not beleued God, yet haue now obtayned mercy through their vnbelefe: euen so now haue they not beleued the mercy whiche is happened vnto you: that they also may obtayne mercy. For God hath wrapped all nacions in vnbelefe, that he might haue mercy on al. O the depnes of the riches both of the wysedome and knowledge of God: howe vnsearcheable are his iudgementes, and his waies past fyndyng out! For * who hathe knowen the mynde of the Lorde? Or who hath bene his counceller? eyther who hathe geuen vnto him first, and he shalbe recōpensed againe? For of him, & through him, and for him are all thinges: To him be glorye for euer. Amen.

The xii. Chapter.

I Beseche you therefore brethren, by the mercifulnes of God, that ye make youre bodies a quicke sacrifice, holy, & acceptable vnto God: which is your reasonable seruing of God, and fassion not your selues lyke vnto this worlde, but be ye chaunged in youre shape, by the renewyng of your mynde, that ye maye proue what thing that good, and acceptable, and perfect wil of God is. For I saye (through the grace that vnto me geuen is) to euery man among you, that * no man thinke hie in his owne conceit more then it becommeth him to esteme of him selfe: but so iudge of him selfe, that he be gentle, and sober, accordyng as God hath dealt to every man the measure of faith. For as we are many members in one bodye, and all members haue not one office: so we being many, are one body in Christ, and euery man among our selues, one anothers members. * * Seyng that we haue diuerse gyftes accordyng to the grace that is geuen vnto vs: yf any man haue the gift of * prophecie, let him haue it, that it be agreeyng vnto the faith. * Let him that hath an office, waite on his office. Let him that teacheth take hede to his doctrine. Let him that exhorteth, geue attendaunce to his exhortacio. Yf any mā geue, let him do it with singlenes. Let him that ruleth, do it with diligence. Yf any man shew mercy, let him do it with cheerfulnes. Let loue be without dissimulation. Hate that which is euel, & cleaue vnto that which is good. Be kynde one to another with brotherly loue. * In geuyng honoure, go one before another. * Be not slouthful in the busynes which ye haue in hande. Be feruent in the spirit. ent in tribulacion. Continue in prayer: Distribute vnto the necessitie of the saincte: * We ready to harbour. * Bleesse them which persecute you: bleesse (I saye) & curse not. Be mery with them that are mery. Wepe also with them that wepe. Be of like affeccion one towarde another. Be not hie minded: but make your selues equal to them of the lower sort. * Be not wyse in your owne opinions. Recompence to no man euel for euel. Prouyde afore honest thinges, (not onelye before God, but also in the sight of all men.) If it be possible, (as much as is in you) lyue peaceably with all men. Dearly beloued auenge not your selues, but rather geue place vnto wrath. For it is written: * vengeaunce is myne, I will rewarde, saieth the Lorde.

Therfore, yf thyne enemie hunger, feede him, yf he thirst, geue him drincke. For in so doynge, thou shalte heape coles of fyre on his heade. Be not ouercome of euel, but ouercome euel with goodnes.

The xiii. Chapter.

Let euery soule submit him selfe vnto the aucthorite of the hier powers. * For there is no power but of God, the powers that be are ordeyned of God: Whosoeuer therfore resisteth power, resisteth the ordinaunce of God. But they that resist, shal receiue to them selues damnation. For rulers are not terrefull to them that do good, but to them that do euel. Wilt thou be without feare of the power? Do wel then: and so shalt thou be praysed of the same. For he is the minister of God for thy welth. But and ye thou do that which is euel, then feare: for he beareth not the sweard for nought: for he is the minister of God to take vengeaunce on hym that doeth euel. Wherfore, ye must nedes obey, not onely for feare of vengeaunce: but also for cause of conscience. And euen for this cause paye ye tribute. For they are Goddes ministers, seruing for the same purpose.

Geue to euery man therfore his duety: * tribute to whome tribute belongeth: custome, to whome custome is due: feare to whome feare belongeth: honour, to whome honour pertaineth. Owe nothing to any man: but this, that you loue one another. For he that loueth another hath fulfylled the lawe. For these commaundementes: * Thou shalt not commit aduoutrie: thou shalte not kyll: thou shalte not steale: thou shalt not beare false witnes: thou shalt not lust, and so forth (yf there be any other commaundement) it is all comprehended in this saiyng, namely: * Loue thy neighbour as thy selfe. Loue hurteth not his neighboure. Therfore is loue the fulfylling of the lawe.

And this also we knowe the season (how that it is tyme) that we shulde nowe awake out of slepe. For now is our saluacion nerer then when we beleued. The nyght is passed, the day is come nie. Let vs therfore cast away the deades of darknes, & let vs put on the armour of light. Let vs walke honestly, as it were in the day light: * not in eatynge & dronking, neither in chaberyng, & wantonnes, neither in strife, & enuieng, but put ye on the Lord Iesus Christ. And make not prouision for the flesh, to fulfyl the lustes of it.

Him that is weake in the faith, receiue not to disputinge, & troubling his conscience. One beleueth that he may eat all thinges: Another which is weake, eateth herbes. Let not him that eateth, despyse him that eateth not. And let not him which eateth not, iudge him that eateth. For God hath receiued hym. * What art thou that iudgest another mans seruant, whether he stande or fal, that pertaineth vnto his own master? yea, he shalbe holden vp, for God is able to make him stand. One man putteth difference betwene one day and day. Another man counteth all dayes a lyke. Let euery man be certefyed in his owne mynde. He that obserueth the daye, doth it vnto the Lord. And he that doth not obserue the day, doth it not vnto the Lord also. He that eateth, doth it to the Lord, for he geueth God thankes. And he that eateth not, eateth not to the Lord withal, & geueth God thankes. For none of vs liueth for hym self, & none dieth for him selfe. For yf we liue, we liue vnto the Lord. And yf we die, we die vnto the Lord. Whether we liue therfore, or die, we are the Lordes. For Christ therfore died, & rose againe, and reuyued, that he might be Lord of dead, & quicke. But why iudgest thou thy brother? Or eftsones, why dooest thou despise thy brother? We shalbe all brought before the iudgement seat of Christ. For it is writte: as truly as I lyue, saieth the Lord: * all knees shal bowe to me, & all tonges shal geue praise to God. So shal euery one of vs gene accomptes of him selfe to God. Let vs not therfore iudge one another any more. But iudge this rather, that no man put a stombling blocke, or an occacion to fal in his brothers way. For I know, & am sure perseyued by the Lord Iesus, that there is nothing commune of it selfe: but vnto hym that iudgeth it to be commune: to him is it commune. If thy brother be greued with thy meat, now walkest thou not charitably. Destroy not him with thy meat, for who Christ died. Cause not your treasure to be euel spoken of. For the kingdom of God is not meate & dynke: but rightewesnes, and peace, and ioye in the holy ghoste. For he that in these thinges serueth Christ, pleaseth God, & is commended of men. Let vs therfore folowe those thinges which make for peace, and thinges wherwith one maye edyfie another. Destroy not the worke of god for a litle meates sake.

Gitum.i.d.

All thinges are pure: but it is euell for that man, which eateth with hurt of conscience.
It is good neyther to eat flesshe, neither to drinke wine, neither any thynge wherby thy brother stombleth, either falleth, or is made weake. Hast thou faith? haue it with thy self before God. Happy is he, that condemneth not himself in the thing, which he alloweth. For he that maketh conscience, is damned, yf he eat: because he eateth not of faith. For what soeuer is not of faith, the same is synne.

For your obedience is gone abroade vnto al men. I am glad ther fore no doubt, of you. But yet I wolde haue you wyse vnto that which is good, and to be innocent as concerninge euell. The God of peace shal treade Sathan vnder youre fete shortly. The grace of our Lord Jesu Christ be with you. Timotheus my worke felowe, & Lucius, and Jason, and Sosipater my kinsmen salute you. I Tercius salute you, which wrote this Epistle in the Lorde. * Gaius myne hoast, & the hoast of al the cõgregacion saluteth you. Erastus the treasurer of the citie saluteth you. And Quartus a brother saluteth you. The grace of oure Lorde Jesu Christ be with you al. Amen. +

To him that is of power to stablishe you, according to my Gospel, and preaching of Jesus Christ, in vttering of the mistery which was kept secret sence the world began, but nowe is opened by the scriptures of the prophetes, as the commaundement of the euerlastinge God, to turne vp obedience to the faith published among al nacions. To the same God, whiche alone is wyse, be honoure and prayse thorow Jesus Christ, for euer. Amẽ.

This Epistle was sent to the Romaynes from Corinthum by Phebe, the that was the minister vnto the congregacion at Cenchrea.

The fyrste Epistle of S. Paule the Apostle to the Corinthians.

The first Chapter.

Paule called an apostle of Jesus Christ, thorow the wil of God, and brother Sosthenes. Vnto the congregacion of God whiche is at Corinthum. To them that are sanctified by Christ Jesu, called saintes, with al that call on the name of oure Lorde Jesus Christ in euery place, bothe of theirs, & of oures. * Grace be vnto you, and peace from God our father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. I thanke my God alwaies on youre behalfe, for the grace of God, which is geuen you by Jesus Christ, that in all thinges ye are made ryche by him, in al vtterance, and in al knowledge, by the which thinges the testimony of Jesus Christ was confyrmed in you, so that ye are behynde in no gyfte, waiting for the appearynge of our Lord Jesus Christ, which shal also strength you vnto the ende, that ye maye be blamelesse in the daye of the commynge of our Lord Jesus Christ. * God is faythful, by whome ye are called to the felowshyp of his sonne Jesus Christ our Lorde. I beseche you brethren by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye al speake one thing, & that there be no dissencion amonge you: but that ye maye be a whole bodyes of one mynde, and of one meaning. For it is shewed vnto me (my brethren) of you, by them whiche are of the houte of Cloe, that there is stryfe amonge you. I speake of the same, that euery one of you sayeth, I holde of Paule; I holde of * Apollo; I holde of Cephas; & I holde of Christ. Is Christ deuided? Was Paul crucified for you? either were ye baptised in the name of Paule? I thanke God, that I baptised none of you, but Crispus, & Gaius: lest any would saye, that I had baptised in myne owne name. I baptysed also the house of Stephana. Furthermore know I not whether I baptised any man of you, for no. For Christe sent me not to baptyse, but to preach the gospel, not with wysedome of wordes, lest the crosse of Christ shuld haue bene made of none effect. For the preaching of the crosse is to them that perysh, foolishnes: but vnto vs whiche are saued it is the power of God. For it is writte: * I wil destroye the wisedome of the wyse, & wil caste away the vnderstãding of the prudent. Where is the wyse? Where is the scribe? Where is the disputer of this world. Hath not God made the wysedome of this world folyshnes? For after that the world thorow wysedome knew not God, in the wisedõ of God, it pleased God thorow foolishnes of preaching, to saue them that beleue. For * the Jewes require a signe, & the Greekes seke after wysedome: but we preache Christ crucified, vnto the Jewes offence of callinge, & vnto the Greekes foolishnes: but vnto them which are called both Jewes & Greekes, we preache Christ the power of God, & the wisedõ of God. For the foolyshnes of God is wiser than men, & the weaknes of god is stroger than men. Se brethren to your calling, how that not many wyse men after the flesshe, not many mightie, not many of hye degree, are called. But God hath chosen the foolyshe thinges of the world, to confounde the wyse: and God hath chosen the weake thinges of the world, to confound the thinges which are which of God is made vnto vs wysdome, and ryghteousnes, & sanctifyeng, and redemption.

That accordyng as it is wrytten: he whiche reioyseth, sholde reioyse in the Lorde.

The.ii. Chapter.

¶ And I brethren (when I came to you) came not in gloryousnes of wordes, or of wysedome, shewynge vnto you the testymonye of God. Neither dewed I my selfe that I knewe any thynge amonge you, saue Jesus Christe, euen the same that was crucifyed.
And I was amonge you in weakenes, and in feare, and in muche tremblynge. And my wor-des and my preachynge was not with entycynge wordes of mans wysedome: but in the sheuynge of the spirite and of power, that your fayth sholde not stande in the wysedome of men, but in the power of God. We speake of wysedome amonge them that are perfecte: not the wysedome of this worlde, neyther of the rulers of this worlde (whyche go to nought) but we speake of the wysedome of God, whiche is in secrete, and lyeth hyd, wh-iche God ordeyned before the worlde vnto our glory, whiche wysdome* none of the rulers of this worlde knewe (for had they had knowledge, they wolde not haue crucified the Lorde of glory. But (as it is wrytten:) * The eye hath not sene, and the eare hath not harde, neither haue entred into the herte of man, the thynges which God hath prepared for them that loue hym. But God hathe opened them vnto vs by his spirite. For * the spirite sear-cheth all thinges, yea the bottome of Godes secretes. For what man knoweth the thyn-ges of a man: saue the spirite of man, whiche is within him? Euen so the thynges of God knoweth no man, but the spirite of God. And we haue not receaued the spirit of the worlde: but the spirite which commeth of God, for to knowe the thynges that are geuen to vs of God: whyche thynges also we speake (not with wordes, that mannes wysedome teacheth, but with wordes which the holy ghost doth teach) makyng spirituall comparyson of spirituall thynges. The naturall man perceaueth not thynges that belonge to the spi-rite of God. For they are but folysshnes vnto him. Neyther can he perceaue them, because they are spiritually examyned. But he that is spirituall, discusseth all thynges: yet he him selfe is iudged of no man. * For who hathe knowen the mynde of the Lorde, euther who shall instruct hym? But we vnderstande the mynde of Christe.

The.iii. Chapter.

¶ And I coulde not speake (vnto you brethren) as vnto spirituall: but as vnto car-nall, euen as vnto babes in Christ. * I gaue you mylke to drynke, and not meate. For ye then were not stronge, neither are yea yet.
For ye are yet carnall. As longe therefore as there is amonge you enuyenge, and stryfe, and sectes: are ye not carnal, and walke after the maner of men? For whyle one saieth (I holde of Paul, and another) I am of * Apollo, are ye not carnal? What is Paule? What thynge is Apollo? onely ministres are they, by whome ye beleued, euen as the Lorde gaue euery man grace. I haue planted, Apollo watred: but God gaue the encreace. So then, neyther is he that planteth any thynge, neyther he that watreth, but God that geueth the encreace.
Ye that planteth, and he that watreth, are one. Euery man yet shal receaue his rewarde, accordyng to his labour. For we are Gods labourers, ye are Gods husbandrye, * ye are Goddes buyldynge: accordynge to the grace of God geuē vnto me, as a wyse buylder haue I layde the foundacion. And another buylde theron. But let euery man take hede, howe he buildeth vpon. For other foundacion can no man laye, then it that is layde * whyche is Jesus Christe. Ye any man buylde on this foundacyon, golde, syluer, precyous stones, tymber, haye, or stoble: euery mannes worke shall appeare. For the day shall declare: whiche shalbe shewed in fyre. And the fyre shall trye euery mannes worke what it is, ye any mannes worke that he hathe buylde vppon, bide, he shall receaue a rewarde. Ye any mans worke burne, he shal suffre losse, but he shalbe safe hym selfe: neuertheles yet, as ye were thorowe fyre. * Knowe ye not that ye are the temple of God, & howe that the spi-rite of God dwelleth in you? Ye any man de-sayle the temple of God, him shal God destroye.
For the temple of God, is holy, whiche temple ye are. Let no man deceaue hym selfe. Ye any mā seme wyse to him selfe among you, let him become a foole in this worlde, that he may be wyse. For the wysedome of this worlde is folysshnes with God: For it is wrytten * he cō pasheth the wyse in their craftynes: And agayn, * God knoweth the thoughtes of the wyse, that they be vayne. Therefore let no mā reioyce in men. For all thynges are youres, whether it be Paul, either Apollo, either Cephas, whether it be the worlde, either lyfe, either death, whether they be present thynges, or thynges to come: all are youres: and ye are Christes, and Christe is Godes.

The.iiii. Chapter.

¶ Let a man thus wyse esteme vs, euen as the mynisters of Christe, and stewardes of the * secretes of God. Furthermore it is requyred of the stewardes, that a man be founde faythfull. With me is it but a verye small

shall thynge that I should be iudged of you, either of mans iudgement. No I iudge not myne owne selfe. For I knowe nought by my selfe: yet am I not therby iustified. For it is the Lorde that iudgeth me. Therfore iudge nothinge before the tyme vntyll the Lord come, which will lighten thinges that are hyd in darcknes, & open the counsels of the hertes. And the shal every man have prayse of God.

These thynges (brethren) I have for an ensample reserred in mine owne person, and in Apollos, for your sakes, that ye myght learne by vs, that no man count of himselfe beyonde that, which is above wrytten: that one swel not against an other for any mans sake. For who preferreth the? What hast thou, that thou hast not receaued? If thou have receaued it, why reioycest thou, as though thou hadest not receaued it? Nowe ye are full: nowe ye are made riche: ye raigned as kinges without vs, & I wolde to God ye dyd raygne that we might raygne with you. For me thinketh, that God hath set forthe vs (whyche are the last Apostles) as the lowest of al, as it were men appointed to death. For we are a gasyng stock vnto the worlde, and to the angels, and to men. We are fooles for Christes sake, but ye are wyse thorowe Christ. We are weake, but ye are stronge. Ye are honorable, but we are despised. Euen vnto this tyme we hunger and thyrste, and are naked, and are buffeted with fistes, and have no certayne dwellynge place, and labour, working with our owne handes. We are reuyled, and yet we blesse. We are persecuted, and suffer it. We are euel spoken of, and we praye. We are made as it were the filthynes of the worlde, the offscowrynge of all thynges, euen vnto this daye. I wryte not these thinges, to shame you: but as my beloued sonnes I warne you. For though ye have ten thousād instructoures in Christe yet have ye not many fathers. In Christ Iesu I have begotten you thorowe the Gospel. Wherfore, I desyre you to folowe me, as I folowe Christ. For this cause have I sente vnto you Timotheus, whiche is my deare sonne, & faithful in the Lord, which shall put you in remembraūce of my wayes, that I have in Christ, euen as I teach every where in al congregacions. Some swell, as though I wolde come nomore at you. But I wyl come to you shortely, * if God wil: and will knowe, not the wordes of them whyche swell, but the power: for the kyngedome of God is not in wordes, but in power. What wyll ye? Shall I come vnto you with a rodde, or els in loue, and in the spirite of softenesse.

The v. Chapter.

It is comen sayeng, that there is fornication amonge you, and such fornicacion, as is not named amonge the gentyles, * that one should have his fathers wyfe. And ye swel, & have not rather sorowed, that he whyche hath done this dede, myght be put from amonge you. For I verely, as absente in body, but present in spirite, have determined already (as though I were present) concernyng him that hath done this deede: in the name of our Lorde Iesu Christ when ye are gathered together, and my spirite with you, with the power of the Lorde Iesus Christe, * to take him vnto Sathan for the destruccion of the flesshe, that the spirite may be saued in the daye of the Lorde Iesus. Your reioycynge is not good: knowe ye not that a lytle leuen corrupteth the whole lompe of dowe? Pourge therfore the olde leuen that ye maye be newe dowe, as ye are swete breade. For Christ our passeouer is offered vp for vs. Therfore, let vs kepe holy day, not with olde leuen, neyther with the leuen of malycyousnesse and wyckednesse: but with the swete breade of purenes and trouthe. I wrote vnto you in a pystle that ye shulde not companye with fornicatoures. And I meante not at al of the fornicatoures of this worlde either of the couetous, or extorcioners, either of the ydolatresses: then must ye nedes have gone out of the worlde. But nowe I wryte vnto you, * that ye companye not together, if any that is called a brother, be a fornicatoure or couetous, or a worshypper of ymages, either a rayler, either a dronkarde, or an extorcioner: with him that is such, se that ye eat not. For what have I to do, to iudge them that are without? Do ye not iudge them that are within? The that are without, God iudgeth. * Put a waye the euell from amonge you.

The vi. Chapter.

Dare one of you have busynes with another, go to lawe vnder the wycked, & not rather vnder the saynctes: * Do ye not knowe, that the saynctes shal iudge the worlde? Ye the worlde shalbe iudged by you: are ye not good enough to iudge smal tryfles? knowe ye not howe that we shall iudge the Angels? Howe muche more maye we iudge thynges that pertaine to the life? If ye have iudgementes of worldly matters, take the which are despised in the cōgregacio, & make the iudges. This I saye to your shame. Is there vtterly not one wise man amōg you? What not one at al, that cā iudge betwene brother & brother, but one brother goeth to lawe with another: & that vnder the vnbeleuers? Now therfore, there is vtterly a faut among you, because ye go to law one with another. Why rather suffre ye not wronge? why rather suffre ye not your selues to have harme? nay ye your selues do wronge, & robbe, & that the brethē. Do ye not knowe, howe that the vnrighteous shal not enherete the kingdome of God? Be not deceaued. For * neyther fornicatoures, neyther worshippers of ymages, neither aduowterers, neyther neither weaklynges / neither abusers of them selues with mankynde / neither theues / neither coueteous / nether drunkardes / neither cursed speakers / neither pillers / shal inherite the kyngdome of God. And suche were some of you, but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are iustified by the name of the Lorde Iesus, & by the spirite of our God. C All thinges may be all thinges, but * all thinges are not profitable. I maye do all thynges, but I wyll be brought vnder no mans power. Meates are ordeyned for the belly, and the belly for meates: but God shall destroye both it and them. Let not thy bodye be applyed vnto fornycacyon, but vnto the Lorde, and the Lorde vnto the body. God hath raysed vp the Lorde, and shall rayse vs vp by hys power. D * Either knowe ye not, that your bodies are the members of Christ? shal I nowe take the members of Christ, and make them the members of an harlot? God forbyd. Do ye not knowe, that he which coupleth him selfe with an harlot, is become one bodye? * For two (sayth he) shalbe one flesh. But he that is ioyned vnto the Lorde, is one spirite. | Flie fornication. Euery synne that a man doth, is without the bodye. But he that is a fornicator, synneth against hys owne bodye. Either knowe ye not, howe that your bodies are the temple of the holy ghost, which dwelleth in you, whom ye haue of God, & howe that ye are not your owne? For ye are dearly bought. Therfore glorifie God in your bodyes, & in your spirites, whiche are Goddes.

AS concernynge the thynges wherof ye wrote to me: It is good for a man, not to touche a woman. Neuertheles, to auoyde whoredome, let euery man haue his wyfe: and let euery woman haue her husbande. Let the husbande geue vnto the wyfe due beneuolence. Lykewyse also the wyfe vnto the husbande. The wife hath not power of her owne bodye: but the husbande. And lykewyse the husbande hath not power of his owne bodie: but the wyfe. * Withdraw not youre selues one from another, excepte it be with consent for a tyme, for to geue youre selues to fastyng and prayer. And afterwarde come together agayn, lest Satan tempte you, for your continencie. This I saye of fauoure, and not of commaundement. For I wolde that all men were as I my selfe am: but euery man hathe his proper gifte of God, one after this manner, another after that. I say vnto them that be vnmaried, and wyddowes: it is good for them, if they abyde euen as I do. But and * if they can not abstayne, let them marye. For it is better to mary, then to burne. Vnto the maried commaunde, not I, but the Lorde: * Let not the wyfe be departed from the husbande. If she departe, let her remaine vn-married, or be reconcyled vnto her husbande agayne. And let not the husbande put away his wyfe from hym. C To the remnaunt speake I, not the Lorde: If any brother haue a wyfe that beleueth not, & she be content to dwell with him, let him not put her away. And the woman whiche hath to her husbande an infidele, and consente to dwell with her, let her not put him away. For the vnbeleuyng husbande is sanctified by the wyfe, and the vnbeleuynge wyfe is sanctified by the husband. Or els were your children vncleane: but now are they holye. But and if the vnbeleuynge departe, let hym departe. A brother or a sister is not in subiection to suche. But God hath called vs in peace. For howe knoweste thou (o woman) whether thou shalte saue thy husbande or no? Either howe knoweste thou (o man) whether thou shalte saue thy wyfe or no? but euen as God hathe distributed to euery man. As the Lorde hath called euery man, so let him walke: & so ordeine I in all congregacions. If any man be called being circumcised, let him not adde vncircumcysion. If any man be called vncircumcised, let him not be circumcysed. Circumcysion is nothynge, and vncircumcision is nothing: but the keping of the commaundementes of God. Let euery man abyde in the same callynge, wherein he was called. * Art thou called a seruaunt? care not for it. Neuertheles if thou mayest be free, vse it rather. For he that is called in the Lorde, beynge a seruaunt, is the Lordes freeman. Lykewyse he that is called beynge free, is Christes seruaunt. Ye are dearly bought, be not ye the seruauntes of men. Brethren, let euery man wherein he is called, therein abyde with God. As concernynge virgins, I haue no commaundement of the Lorde: yet geue I councell, as one that hath obtayned mercy of the Lord, to be faithfull. I suppose therfore that it is good for the present necessitie. For it is good for a man so to be. Arte thou bounde vnto a wyfe? seke not to be loosed. Arte thou loosed from a wyfe? seke not a wyfe. But & if thou mary a wife, thou hast not sinned. Lykewyse, if a virgine marye, she hath not synned. Neuertheles, such shal haue trouble in the flesh: but I fauour you. This say I brethren, * the time is short. It remaineth, that they which haue wiues, be as though they had none, & they that wepe, be as though they wept not, & they that reioice, be as though they reioyced not: & they that bie, be as though they possessed not: & they that vse this worlde, be as though they vsed it not. For * the fashion of this world goeth away. * I wolde haue you without care. He that is vnmaried, careth for the thinges which belong to the Lord, howe he maye please the Lorde. But he that hath maryed a wyfe, careth for the thynges that are of the world, howe he may please his wyfe.

wyfe. Ther is difference betwene a virgin & a wyfe. The single woman careth for the thinges that are of the Lorde, that she may be holy both in body & also in spirite: But she that is maried, careth for the thynges that pertaine to the worlde, how she may please her husbande. This speake I for your profite, not to tangle you in a snare: but that ye maye followe it, whiche is honest & comelye, & that ye may cleave vnto the Lord without separacion. If any man thynke that it is vncomely for his virgine, if she passe the tyme of maryage. And if so nede requyre, let him do what pleaseth him, he sinneth not: let thē be coupled in marriage. Neuertheles, he that purposeth in his herte, hauynge no nede: but hath power ouer his owne will: & hath so decreed in his herte, that he wil kepe his virgin, doth well. So then he that ioyneth his virgine in mariage doeth well. But he that ioyneth not his virgin in maryage, dothe better. * The wyfe is bounde to the mariage, as longe as her husband liueth. Yf her husband dye, she is at libertie to marye with whome she wyll, only in the Lord. But she is happyer, if she so abyde, after iudgement. And I thinke verely that I haue the spirite of God.

The viii. Chapter.

Nowe as touchynge thynges * offred vnto ymages, we are sure, that we all haue knowledge. Knowledge maketh a man swell: but loue edifieth. If any man thinke that he knoweth any thyng, he knoweth nothyng yet as he ought to know. But if any man loue God, the same is knowen of him. As concernynge the eatyng of those thinges that are offred vnto ydoles, we are sure, that * the ymage is nothynge in the worlde, and that there is none other God, but one. And though there be, that are called Goddes, whether in heauen other in erthe (as there be Goddes many, and Lordes many) yet vnto vs is there but one God, whiche is the father, of whom are all thynges, & we for hym: and one Lorde Iesus Christe, by whom are all thynges, and we by hym. But euery man hath not knowledge. * Some hauyng conscience because of the ymage, vntill this houre, eate as a thyng offered vnto ymages: and so their conscience beyng weake, is defyled. But meate maketh vs not acceptable vnto God. Neyther if we eate, are we the better. Neyther if we eat not, are we the worse. But take hede, lest by any meanes thys libertye of yours be an occacyon of fallynge, to them that are weake. For if some man se the, whyche hast knowledge, lye and eate of meate offred vnto ymages, shall not the conscience of him whiche is weake, be boldened to eate those thynges, whiche are offered to ymages? And so shall owe thy knowlege, shal the weake brother perysshe, for whom Christ dyed? Now when ye synne so against the brethren,

The ix. Chapter.

Am I not an Apostle? am I not free? * haue I not seene Iesus Christ our Lorde? Are ye not my worke in the Lorde? Yf I be not an Apostle vnto other, yet am I vnto you. For the seale of myne Apostleshyppe are ye in the Lorde. Mine answere to them that aske me, is this. Haue we not power to eate and to drynke? Haue we not power to leade about a woman, a syster, as well as other Apostles, & as the brethren of the Lorde, and Cephas? Other onely I and Barnabas haue not power this to do? Who goeth a warfare any tyme at his owne cost? who planteth a vyneyarde, and eateth not of the frute therof? Or who feedeth a flocke and eateth not of the milke of the flocke? Saye I these thinges after the maner of men? Sayth not the lawe the same also? For it is wrytten in the lawe of Moses. * Thou shalt not muscel the mouth of the oxe that treadeth out the corne. Doth God take thought for oxen? Sayeth he it not altogether for our sakes? For our sakes no doute this is wrytten: that he which eareth, should eare in hope, and that he which threshyth in hope, should be partaker of his hope. * Yf we sowe vnto you spirituall thynges, is it a greate thynge if we reape youre bodely thinges? If other be partakers of this power ouer you, wherfore are not we rather? Neuertheles * we haue not vsed this power: but suffer all thinges, lest we shuld hynder the Gospell of Christe. Do ye not knowe, howe that they which ministre about holy thynges, line of the sacrifice? They which waite of the temple, are partakers of the temple. Euen so also dyde the Lorde ordayne: * that they which preache the Gospel, should lyue of the Gospell. * But I haue vsed none of these thynges: Neuertheles, I wrote not these thynges that it shuld be so done vnto me. For it were better for me to dye, the that any man shuld take this my reioysynge frome me. For if I preache the Gospell, I haue nothyng to reioyce of. For necessitye is put vnto me. But wo vnto me, yf I preache not the Gospel. If I do it with a good wyll, I haue a rewarde. But yf I do it agaynste my wyll, an office is committed vnto me. What is my rewarde then? Verelye, that when I preache the Gospell, I make the Gospell of Christe free, that I myscse not myne auctorite in the Gospell. For thoughe I be free from all men, yet haue I made my selfe seruaunt vnto all men, that I myght wynne the more. * Vnto the Iewes, I became as a Iewe, to wynne the Iewes. bene vnder the lawe? when I was not vnder the lawe, to wynne them that were vnder the lawe. To them that were without the lawe, became I as though I had bene without lawe, when I (was not without lawe, as pertayninge to God, but vnder the lawe of Christe) to wynne them that were without lawe. To the weake became I as weake, to winne the weake. In al thinges* I fashioned my selfe to all men, to saue at the leaste wayes some. And this I do for the gospels sake, that I myghte haue my parte thereof. Perceaue ye not, howe that they whyche runne in a course, runne all, but one receaueth the rewarde? So runne, that ye maye obtayne. Euerye man that prouyeth maisteries, abstayneth from all thynges. And they do it to obtayne a crowne that shall perysshe: but we, to obtayne an* euerlastynge crowne. I therfore so runne, not as at an vncertayne thinge. So fyght I, not as one that beateth the ayer: but I tame my bodye, and bringe it into subiection, lest by any meanes it come to passe, that when I haue preached to other, I my selfe woulde be a cast awaye.

The.x. Chapter.

BRethren, I wolde not that ye shoulde be ignorannt, howe that our fathers wer al vnder the cloude, and all passed thorowe the sea, and were all baptysed vnder Moses* in the cloude and* in the sea: and* dyd all eate of one spiritual meate, and* dyd al drinke of one maner of spirituall drynke. And they drancke of that spirituall rocke that folowed them, * whiche rocke was Christ. But in many of them had God no delyte: For* they were ouerthrowen in the wylderneis. These are ensamples to vs* that we should not lust after euyll thynges, as they lusted. And that ye shoulde not be worshyppers of ymages, as were some of them, accordyng as it is wrytten.* The people sate downe to eate & drynk, and rose vp to playe. Neither let vs be defyled with fornication, as some of them wer defyled with fornicacion, and fell in one daye * xxiii. thousande. Neyther let vs tempte Christ, as some of them tempted, and wer destroyed of* serpentes. Neyther murmure ye, as some of them murmured, and wer destroyed of the destroyer. All these thinges happened vnto them for ensamples, but they are wrytten to put vs in remembraunce, whome the endes of the worlde are come vpon. Wherfore, let him that thynketh, he standeth, take hede, lest he fal. There hath none other temptacion taken you, but suche as foloweth the nature of man. But* God is faythful* whiche shall not suffre you to be tempted above your strength: but shall in the myddes of the temptacion make a waye that ye maye be able to beare it. Wherfore my deare beloued, flye from worshyppyng of ymages. I speake as vnto them whyche haue discrecyon, iudge ye what I saye. Is not the cuppe of blessynge whyche we bleisse, partakynge of the blonde of Christ? Is not the bread which we breake, partakynge of the body of Christe? because that we (thoughe we be manye) yet are one bread and one body, in as moche as we all are partakers of one breade & of one cuppe. Behold Israel after the flesshe. Are not they whi the eate of the sacrifice, partakers of the temple? What saye I then?* that the ymage is any thinge? or that it whiche is offered to ymages, is any thinge? Nay: but this I saye: that the thinges which the gētils offer, they offer to deuils, and not to God. I wolde not that ye shoulde haue felowshyp with the deuels. Ye can not drynke of the cuppe of the Lord, and of the cuppe of deuels. Ye can not be the partakers of the Lordes table, and of the table of deuels. Eyther do we prouoke the Lord? Are we stronger then he? I may to all thinges, but* al thinges are not expedient. I may do all thinges, but al thinges edifie not. Let no man seke that which is his owne: but let euery man seke that which belongeth to another. What soeuer is solde in the flesshe market, that eate, & aske no question for conscience sake. For* the earth is the Lordes, & all that therin is. If any of the which beleue not, byd you to a feast, & ye be disposed to go, whatsoeuer is sette before you, eate, askyng no question for cōscience sake. But & ye any man saye vnto you: this is offered vnto ymages, eate not of it, for his sake that shewed it, & for conscience sake. The earth is the Lordes & all that therein is. Conscience I saye, not thyne, * but of the other. For why is my libertie iudged of another mans conscience? For* if I take my parte with thankes, why am I euill spoken of, for that thynge whereof I geue thankes? * Whether therfore ye eate or drynke, or what soeuer ye do, do al to the praise of God. Se that ye geue none occasion of euyll, neyther to the Jewes, nor yet to the Gentils, neyther to the congregacion of God: euen as* I please al men in all thynges, not seekynge myne owne profyte, but the profite of many, that they myght be saued.

The xi. Chapter.

BE ye the followers of me, as I am the follower of Christe. I commende you brethren, that ye remember me in all thynges, and kepe the ordinaunces, euen as I deliuered them to you. But I wolde haue you to knowe that Christe is the head of euerye man. And the man is the* womens head. And God is Christes head. Euery man prayenge or prophesyeng hauynge any thynge on hys heede, shameth hys head. Euerye woman that prayeth or prophesyeth bare headed, dishonesteth her head. For that is euen all one, as if she were shaue. If the woman be not couered, uered, let her also be shaven. * If it be shame for a woman to be shaven or shaven, let her couer her heade. A man ought not to couer his head, for as much as he is the ymage & glory of God. But the woman is the glory of the man. For* the man is not of the woman: but the woman of the man. Neither was the man created for the womans sake: but the woman for the mans sake. For this cause ought the woman to haue power on her heade, for the aungels sakes: Neuertheles, neither is the man without the woman, neyther the woman without the man in the Lord. For as the woman is of the mā, euē so is the mā: by the womā: but al of God. Iudge in your selues, whether it be comelye, that a woman praye vnto God bare headed. Doth not nature it selfe teache you, that it is a shame for a man, if he haue long heare, & a prayse to a woman: if she haue long heare? For her heare is geuē to couer her withall. If any man luste to stryue, we haue no such custome, neyther the congregacions of God. This I warne you of, & commende not, that ye come not together after a better maner, but after a worse. For first of all when ye come together in the congregacion, I here that there is dissencion amonge you: & I partely beleue it. For there must be sectes amonge you, that they which are perfect among you, might be knowen. When ye come together therfore in to one place, the Lordes supper can not be eaten. For euery mā beginneth afore to eate his owne supper. And one his hungrye, & another is dronken. Haue ye not houses to eate and to drinke in? Despise ye the cōgregacion of God, & shame thē that haue not? What shal I say vnto you? shal I prayse you? In this praise I you not. That which I deliuered vnto you, I receiued of the Lorde. For the Lorde Iesus the same nyght, in whiche he was betrayed, toke bread: and whan he hadde geuen thankes, he brake it, and sayd:* Take ye, and eate: this is my body, which is broken for you. This do ye in the remembraunce of me. After the same maner also he toke the cup, when supper was done, sayinge This cuppe is the newe testamēt in my bloud. This do, as oft as ye drinke it in remembraunce of me. For as often as ye shall eate this bread & drinke this cuppe:* ye shall shewe the Lordes death * tyll he come. Wherfore, whosoeuer, shal eate of this bread, or drincke of the cup of the lord vnworthely, shalbe gylty of the body and bloud of the Lorde.* But let a man examen hymselfe, & so let him eate of the bread & drinck of the cup. For he that eateth or drinketh vnworthely, eateth & drinketh him owne dāuciō, because he maketh no difference of the Lordes body. For this cause many are weake and sycke among you, and many slepe. For if we hadde iudged our selues, we should not haue bene iudged. But when we are iudged of the Lord, we are chastened, that we should not be damned with the* worlde. Wherfore my brethren when ye come together to eate, tarye one for another. If any man hunger, lette him eate at home, that ye come not together vnto condēnacyon. & Other thynges wyll I set in order when I come.

The. xi. Chapter.

CConcernyng spirituall thinges (brethren) I wolde not haue you ignorannte. * Ye knowe that ye were Gentils, and wente your wayes vnto domme ymages, euen as ye were led. Wherfore I declare vnto you, that* no man speakinge by the spirite of God, defieth Iesus. Also no man can saye, that Iesus is the Lord, but by the holy ghost.* There are diuersities of gyftes, yet but one spirite. And there are differences of administracions, and yet but one Lorde. And there are dyuers maners of operacions, & yet but one God, which worketh al in al. The gyfte of the spirite is geuen to euery man to edifie with all. For to one is geuen thorowe the spyrite, the vtterance of wysedome. To another is geuen the vtterance of knowledge by the same spirite. To another is gyuē faith by the same spirite. To another the gyftes of healinge, by the same spirite. To another power to do myracles. To another to prophesie. To another* iudgement to discerne spirites. To another diuers tonges. To another, the interpretacion of tonges. But these all worketh euen the selfe same spirite, deuidyng to euery man a seuerall gyfte, euen as he wyll. For as the body is one, and hathe manye membres, and al the membres of one body, though they be manye, yet are but one bodye, euen so is Christ. For by one spirite are we al baptised to make one bodye, whether we be Iewes or Gentiles, whether we be bonde or free, and haue* al dronche of one spirit. For the body is not one member, but many. If the fote saye: I am not the hande, I am not of the bodye: is he therfore not of the bodye. And if the eare saye, I am not the eye, I am not of the bodye: is he therfore not of the body? If al the bodye were an eye, where were then the eare? If al were hearyng: where were the smelling? But nowe hath God set the membres euery one seuerally in the bodye as it hath pleased him. If they were all one member, where were the body? Now are there many membres, yet but one bodye. And the eye can not saye vnto the hande: I haue no nede of the, And agayne, the heade can not saye to the fete: I haue no nede of you. Yea, rather a greate deale those membres of the body which seme to be more feble, are necessarye. And vpō those membres of the bodye whiche we thinke lest honestly, put we more honestly on. And our vnhandsome parties haue more beauty on. For our honest mem-membres nede it not. But God hath so dispo sed the body, & hath geuen the more honoure to that part which lacked, lest there should be any trise in the bodye: but that the membres should indifferently care one for another. And if one member suffer, all suffer with hym. If one member be had in honour, al membres be glad also. Ye are the body of Christ, & mem bres one of another. And God hath also or deyned in the congregacion, fyrst* Apostles, secondarily prophetes, thyrdlye teachers, then the that do miracles: after that, the gif tes of healyng, helpers, gouerners, dyuersy tie of tonges. Are al Apostles? Are al Pro phetes? Are al teachers? Are al doers of mi racles? Haue al the giftes of healyng? Do al speake with tonges? Do al interpret? Co uet after the best giftes. And yet shewe I vn to you a more excellēt waie. The. xiii. Chap Though I speake wyth the tonges of men and of Angels, and haue no loue: I am euen as sounding brasse, or as a tynklyng cymball. And* though I coulde prophesye, & vnderstande al secretes, & al knowledge: ye if I haue al faith, so that I coulde moue mou taynes out of their places, and yet haue no loue, I am nothing. And though I bestowe al my goods to fede the poore, & though I geue my bodye euen that I burned, and yet haue no loue, it profiteth me nothynge. Loue suffreth long, & is courteous. Loue enuieth not. Loue doth not frowardly, swelleth not, dealeth not dishonestly* seketh not her owne, is not pro uoked to anger, thinketh not euil, reioiseth not in iniquite, but reioiseth in the truth, suffereth all thinges, beleueth all thinges, hopeth all thynges, endureth all thinges. Though that prophesienges fayle, either tonges cease, or knowledge vanysshe awaye, yet loue failleth neuer away: for our knowledge is vnperfect, & oure prophesyinge is vnperfecte. But whē that which is perfect, is come, then that whi che is vnperfect, shal be done a way. When I was a child, I spake as a child, I vnderstode as a childe, I ymagined as a childe. But as sone as I was a man, I put away chyldyshe nes. Nowe we se in a glasse, euen in a darke speakynge: but then shall we se face to face.

Nowe I knowe vnperfectly: but then shal I knowe euen as I am knowen. Nowe abydeth fayth, hope, and loue, euen these three: but the cheefe of these is loue. The. xiiii. Chap Labour for loue, and couet spirituall gif tes: but most chefly that ye may prophe sye. For he that speaketh with the tonge, spea keth not vnto men, but vnto God. For no man heareth hym. Howbeit in the spirite he spe keth misteries. But he that prophesieth, spea keth vnto men for their edifiynge, for their exhortacion, and for their consolate. He that speaketh with the tonge, profiteth him selfe:

*he that prophesyeth, edifyeth the congre gacion. *I wolde that ye all spake with ton ges: but rather that ye prophesied. For greater is he that prophesieth, then he that spea keth with tonges, except he expounde it: that the congregacion may haue edifiyng. Nowe brethren, if I come vnto you speakinge with tonges: what shall I profyt you, excepte I speake to you, either by reuelacyon, or by knowledge, or by prophesyenge, or by do ctrine? Moreouer, when thynges without life geue sounde (whether it be a pype, or an harpe) excepte they make a distinction in the soundes, howe shal it be knowen what is py ped or harped? For if the trompe geue an vn certayne voyce, who shall prepare hym selfe to the warre? Euen so lykewyse, when ye speake with tōges, excepte ye speake wordes that haue signification, howe shall it be vn derstande what is spoken? For ye shall but speake in the ayer. Many kyndes of voyces are in the worlde, and none of them are with out signification. If I knowe not what the voyce meaneth, I shalbe vnto him that spea keth, an alient: & he that speaketh, shalbe an alient vnto me. Euē so ye, (for as much as ye couet spirituall giftes) seke, that ye may excel, vnto the edifieng of the congregacio. Where fore, let him that speaketh with tonge, pray, that he may interprete also. For if I praye with tonge, my spirit prayeth, but my vnder standynge doth no good. What is it then? I wil pray with the spirit, & wil pray with the vnderstandynge. I wyll synge with the spi rite, & will synge with the vnderstandynge, For els, whē thou blessest with the spirite, how shall he that occupieth the rowme of the vnlearned, say: Amē, at thy geuing of thākes, seing he vnderstādeth not, what thou sayest?
Thou verely geuest thankes well, but the o ther is not edified. I thanke my God that I speake with tonges more then ye al: Yet had I leuer in the congregacion to speake fyue wordes wyth my vnderstandynge to the in formation of other, rather then ten thou sande wordes with the tonge. Brethren, be not ye chyldren in wytte. Howbeit, as con cernynge malycyousnes, be chyldren: but in wytte, be perfect. In the lawe it is wrytten, *wyth sondry tonges, and wyth sondry lyp pes wyll I speake vnto thys people, and yet for all that, wyll they not heare me, sayeth the Lord. Wherfore tonges are for a signe, not to them that beleue: but to them that be leue not. Contrary wyse, prophesyenge serue eth not for them that beleue not: but for the whiche beleue. Wherfore, when all the con gregacion is come together, and all speake with tonges, there come in they that are vn learned, or they whiche beleue not: wyll they not saye, that ye are oute of youre wytte?
But & if al prophesy, & there come in one that beleueth not, or one vnlearned, kod of all men, & is iudged of euery man, & so are the secretes of his herte opened, & so falleth he downe on his face, and worshippeth God, & sayth: that God is in you of a truethe.

How is it then brethren? As oft as ye come together, euery one of you hath a songe, hath a doctrine, hath a reuelacion, an interpretacion. Let al thinges be done vnto edifeyng. If any man speake with tonge, let it be by two, or at the most by three, & that by course, & let another interpret it. But if there be no interpreter, lette him kepe silence in the congregacion, & let him speake to himself & to God. Let the prophetes speake two, or three, & * let the other iudge. If any reuelacion be made to another that sitteth by, lette the firste holde hys peace. For ye maye all prophesie one by one, that al may lerne, & that al may haue cõforte. And the spirites of the Prophetes are in the power of the Prophetes. For God is not cause of strife: * but of peace, as I teach in al congregacions of the saintes. * Let youre women kepe silence in the congregacions. For it is not permitted vnto thẽ to speake: but to be vnder obedience, as saith the lawe. If they will lerne any thyng, let them aske their husbandes at home. For it is a shame for women to speake in the congregacion. Sprange the word of God frõ you? either came it vnto you onely? If any man thinke him self to be a prophet, ether spiritual, let him knowe, what thinges I wryte vnto you. For they are the cõmaundementes of the Lorde. But and if any man be ignorant, let him be ignorãt. Wherfore brethren, come to prophesy, & forbid not to speake wyth tonges. Let all thynges be done honestly, and in order among you.

Brethren, as pertayninge to the Gospel which I preached vnto you, which ye haue also accepted, & in the which ye cõtinue, by the which also ye are saued: I do you to wyt, after what maner I preached vnto you, if ye kepe it, except ye haue beleued in vayne. For first of all I delyuered vnto you, that which I receaued: howe that * Christ dyed for our sinnes, agreyng to the scriptures: & that he was buryed, and that he arose agayne the thyrde day, accordyng to the scriptures: and that he was sene * of Cephas, then of the twelue. After that was he sene of more then fyue hundred brethren at once: of whyche manye remaine vnto this daye, and many are fallen a slepe. After that appeared he to James, then to all the Apostles. And last of all, he was sene of me, as of one that was borne out of due tyme. For I am the least of the Apostles, which am not worthy to be called an Apostle, because * I persecuted the congregacion of God: But by the grace of God, I am that I am. And hys grace whyche is in me, was not in vayne: But I laboured more abundauntelye then they all, yet not I, but the grace of God whyche is wyth me, therfore whether it were I, or they, so we preach, and so haue ye beleued. If Christe be preached howe that he rose from the dead: howe say some among you that there is no resurrecion of the dead? Ye ethere be no rysing again of the dead, then is Christ not risen agayne. Ye Christ be not risen agayn, thẽ is our preachynge in vayne, and youre fayth is also in vayne. Ye and we are founde false witnesses of God. For we haue testified of God, howe that he raysed vp Christe: whome he raysed not vp, if it be so that the dead rise not again. For if the dead ryse not again, then is Christ not risen agayn. If it be so that Christ rose not agayne, then is youre fayth in vayne, and ye are yet in your synnes. Therfore they whyche are fallen a slepe in Christ, are perysshed. If in this lyfe onely we beleue on Christe, then are we of all men moost miserable. But nowe is Christ risen from the deade, and become * the fyrste frutes of them that slepte. For by a man came death, and by a man came the resurrection of the dead. For as by Adam all dye: euen so by Christe, shall all be made alyue, but euerye man in hys owne order. The fyrste is Christe, then they that are Christes at his commynge. Then commeth the ende, when he hath deliuered vp the kingdome to God the father, when he hath put downe all rule and all auctoritie and power. For he must raygne * tyll he haue put all his enemies vnder his fete. The last enemye, that shalbe destroyed, is death: * For he hathe put al thinges vnder his fete. But when he saith, all thinges are put vnder him, it is manyfeste that he is excepted, whiche dyd put all thynges vnder him. When al thinges are subdued vnto him, then shall the sonne also hym selfe be subiecte vnto him, that put al thinges vnder him, that God may be al in al. Els what do they, whyche are baptysed ouer the dead, if the dead ryse not at al? Why are they then baptised ouer them? Yea, and why stande we alwaye then in ieopardye? By oure reioycynge whyche I haue in Christe Iesu oure Lord, I dye dayly. That I haue fought with beastes at Ephesus after the maner of men, what aduauntageth it me, if the dead ryse not agayne? * Let vs eate and drynke, for to morowe we shall dye. Be not ye deceaued: euell wordes corrupte good maners. Awake truelye out of slepe, and synne not: For some haue not the knowledge of God: I speake this to your shame. But some man will saye: howe arise the dead, with what body shal they come? Thou foole, * that which thou sowest, is not quickened, except it dye. And what sowest thou? Thou sowest not that bodye that shalbe: but bare corne, as of wheat, or of some other, but God geueth it a bodye at his pleasure, to euery seede his owne body. All fleshe is not one maner of flesh: but there is one maner of flesh of men, another maner of flesh of beastes, another of fyshes, and another of byrdes. There are also celestial bodies, & there are bodies terrestrial. But the glory of the celestial is one, and the glory of the terrestriall is another. There is one maner glory of the sonne, & another glory of the moone, & another glory of the starres. For one starre differeth from another in glory. So is the resurrection of the dead. It is sowen in corruption, it ryseth againe in incorruption. It is sowen in dishonour, it ryseth agayn in honour. It is sowen in weakenes, it ryseth agayne in power. It is sowen a natural body, it ryseth agayne, a spirituall body. There is a naturall body, & there is a spirituall body: as it is also writtē: the first man *Adam was made a liuing soule, & the last Adā was made a quickenyng spirit. Howbeit that is not firste whiche is spirituall, but that whiche is naturall, & then that whiche is spirituall. The first man is of the earth, earthy: the seconde man is the Lorde frō heauen, heauenly. As is the earthy, suche are they that are earthy. And as is the heauenly, suche are they that are heauenly. And as we haue borne the ymage of the earthy, so shall we beare the ymage of the heauenly. This say I brethren, that flesh and blood can not inherit the kyngdome of God. Neither doth corrupcion inherete incorruptiō. Behold, I shew you a mysteery. We shall not all slepe: but we shall all be chaunged, and that in a moment, in the twynklyng of an eye by the last trompe. For the trompe shall blowe, and the dead shall ryse incorruptible, and we shalbe chaunged. For this corruptible muste put on incorruption, and this mortall must put on immortalitie. When this corruptible hath put on incorruption, and this mortall hath put on immortalitie: then shalbe brought to passe the saying that is writtē: *Death is swalowed vp in victory: *Death where is thy stynge? Hell where is thy victory? The stynge of death is sinne: and the strēgth of synne is the lawe: But thankes be vnto God whiche hath geuen vs *victory, thorow our Lorde Jesu Christ. Therfore my deare brethren, be ye stedfast & vnmouable, alwayes riche in the worke of the Lorde, for as muche as ye knowe, howe that your labour is not in vayne in the Lord.

Concernyng the *gatherynge for the saintes, as I haue ordeyned in the cōgregacions of Galacia, euen so do ye. Vpon some Sabboth day let euery one of you put aside at home, and laye vp whatsoeuer is mete, that there be no gatheringes when I come. When I am come, whomsoeuer ye shall alowe by your letters, them will I sende, to bryng your liberalitie vnto Jerusalem. And if it be mete that I go also, they shall go with me. I will come vnto you whan I go ouer to Macedonia. For I wil go thorowe out *Macedonia. With you peraduenture I will abyde a while: or els tary all wynter, that ye may bryng me on my waye, whethersoeuer I go. I will not se you now in my passage: but I trust to abide a whyle with you, if God shall suffer me. I will tary at Ephesus, vntill the fyftieth day. For a great doze and a frutefull is opened vnto me *and there are many aduersaries. If Timotheus come, se that he be without feare with you. For he worketh the worke of the Lord as I do: let no man therfore despise hym: but conueye hym forth in peace, that he may come vnto me. For I loke for hym with the brethren. As speake of brother Apollo I certifie you that I greatly desired hym, to come vnto you with the brethren, but hys mynde was not at all to come at this tyme: Howbeit he will come, when he shall haue cōuenient tyme. Watche ye, stande fast in the fayth, quyte you lyke men, be strong: Let all your busynes be done with loue. Brethren, ye knowe the house of *Stephana and of Fortunatus, and Achaicus how that they are the first frutes of Achaia, and that they haue apoynted thē selues to minister vnto the saintes: I beseche you: that ye be obedient vnto suche, and to all that helpe and labour. I am glad of the commyng of Stephana and Fortunatus and Achaicus: For that whiche was lackyng vnto me on your part, they haue supplyed. For they haue comforted my spirite & yours: Loke therfore that ye knowe them that are suche. The congregacions of Asia salute you. Aquila and Priscilla, salute you muche in the Lorde, and so doeth the cōgregacion that is in their house with whome also I am lodged. All the brethren grete you: *Greete ye one another with an holy kysse. The salutacion of me Paule with myne owne hande. If any man loue not the Lord Jesus Christe, the same be Anathema, Maranatha. The grace of the Lorde Jesus Christ be with you. My loue be with you all in Christ Jesu. Amen.

of all comfort, whiche comforteth vs in all our tribulacion, in so muche that we are able to comfort them whiche are in anye maner of trouble, with the same comforte, wherewith we our selues are comforted of God. For as the * afflictions of Christe are plenteous in vs, euen so is our consolacion plenteous by Christe. Whether we be troubled for your consolacion and health: Or whether we be comforted, it is for your comforte and salvacion, whiche salvacion shewed her power, in that ye suffer the same afflictions whiche we also suffre, Or whether we be comforted for your consolacion and salvacion, our hope also is stedfast for you, in as much as we know howe that as ye are partakers of the afflictions so shall ye be partakers also of the consolacion. Brethren, I would not haue you ignorant of our trouble, whiche happened vnto vs in * Asia. For we were greued out of measure, passyng strength, so greatly that we despaired euen of lyfe. Also we receaued an answere of death in oure selues, * that we should not put our trust in our selues, but in God whiche raiseth the dead to lyfe againe, and whiche delyuered vs from so greate a death, and doth deliuer. On whome we truste that yet hereafter he will deliuer, by the helpe of your prayer for vs, that by the meanes of many persones, thankes may be geuen of many * on our behalfe, for the gift geué vnto vs. For our reioysing is this, euen the testimony of our conscience, that in symplenes of hert and godly pureues, and not in fleshly wisdome but by the grace of God, we haue had our conuersacion in the worlde, and moste of all to you wardes. We wryte none other thynges vnto you, then that ye read and also knowe. Yee, and I truste ye shall fynde vs vnto the ende, euen as ye haue founde vs partly, for we are your reioysing euen * as ye are ours in the day of the Lorde Jesus. * And in this confydence was I mynded first to haue come vnto you, that I might haue had one pleasure more with you, and to passe by you into Macedonia, and to haue come againe out of Macedonia vnto you, and to be lead forth of you toward Jewry. Whan I thus wyse was mynded, did I vse lightenes? Or thinke I carnally those thynges which I thynke? that with me should be * yee, yee, and naye naye. God is faithfull: For our preaching to you, was not yee and nay. For the Sonne Jesu Christe which was preached amonge you by vs, euen by me and Siluanus & Timotheus, was not yee & nay, but by him it was yee: For all the promyses of God, in him are yee, & are in him Amē, vnto the laude of God thorowe vs. For it is God, which stablisheth vs with you in Christ and anointed vs, is God, which hath also sealed vs and * hath geuē the ernest of the spirite in our hertes. Yea I call God for a recorde vnto my soule, that for to sauoure you with al, I came not any more vnto Corinthe. * Not that we be lordes ouer your faith, but are helpers of your ioy. For by faith ye stand.

The seconde Chapiter.

But I determined this in my selfe, that I would not come againe to you in heynes: For if I make you sory, who is it that should make me glad, but the same which is made sory by me? And I wrote this same vnto you, lest if I came vnto you, I should take heynes vpon heynes of them, of whome I ought to reioyce. This confidence haue I towarde you all, that my ioye is the ioye of you all. For out of great affliction and anguyshe of herte, I wrote vnto you with many teares, not that ye should be made sory, but that ye myght perceaue the loue whiche I haue, moste specially vnto you. If any man hathe caused sorowe, he hath not made me sory, but partly, lest I should greue you all. * It is sufficient vnto the same man, that he was reproued of many. So that nowe contrary wyse, ye ought rather to forgeue hym, and comforte hym, lest that same persone should be swalowed vp with ouer muche heynes. Wherefore, I exhorte you, that loue may haue strength ouer hym. For this cause verely did I wryte that I myght knowe the prose of you whether ye would be obedient in all thynges. To whome ye forgeue any thyng: I forgeue also. For if I forgaue any thyng, to whome I forgaue it, for youre sakes forgaue I it, in the syghte of Christe, lest Satan should prevente vs. For his thoughtes are not vnknowen vnto vs. * When I was come to Troada for Christes Gospels sake and a dore was opened vnto me of the Lord, I had no reste in the spirite, because I founde not Titus my brother, but toke my leaue of them, and went awaye into Macedonia. Thankes be vnto God, whiche alwayes gyueth vs the victory in Christe, and openeth the sauer of his knowledge by vs in euery place. For we are vnto God the swete sauoure of Christe, among them that are saued, and among them whiche perysshe. * To the one parte are we the sauoure of death, vnto death. And vnto the other parte, are we the sauoure of life vnto lyfe. And who is mete vnto these thynges? For we are not as the moste parte are, whiche chop and chaūge with the worde of God, but euen out of pureues, & by the power of God, in the syght of God, so speake we in Christ.

The .iij. chapter.

We begyn to prayse oure selues againe. Made we as some other, of Epistles of recommendacion vnto you or lettres of recommendacion from you? Ye are oure Epistle wrytten in our hertes, whiche is vnderstande and red of all men, for as muche as ye declare that ye are the Epistle of Christe, ministred ministred by vs and written, not with yuke, but with the spirite of the liuing God * not in tables of stone, but in *fleshly tables of the herte. Suche truste haue we thorowe Christ to God warde, not that we are sufficient of oure selues to thynke any thynge, as of oure selues: but if we be able vnto any thynge the same commeth of God, whiche hath made vs able to * minister the newe Testament, not of the letter, but of the spirite. For the letter kylleth, but the spirite geueth lyfe.

If the ministracion of deathe thorowe the letters fygured in stones was glorious, so that the chyldren of Israell coulde not beholde the face of Moses, for the glory of his countenaunce (whiche glory is done awaye) why shall not the ministracion of the spirite be muche more glorious? For if the ministryng of condempnacion be glorious: muche more doeth the ministracion of ryghtuousnes excede in glory. For no doubt that whiche was there glorified, is not onely glorified in respecte of this exceadyng glory. For if that whiche is destroyed was glorious, muche more that whiche remayneth, is glorious. Seynge then that we haue suche truste, we vse great boldnes and dooe not as Moses, which *put a vayle ouer his face, that the chyldren of Israell should not se for what purpose that serued whiche is put awaye. But their myndes were blynded. For vntyll this daye remayneth the same couerynge taken awaye in the lecture of the olde Testament, which vayle shal be put away in Christ. But euen vnto this daye when Moses is red, *the vayle hangeth before their hertes. Nerthelesse * when they tourne to the Lorde, the vayle shall be awaye. *The Lorde no doubt is a spirite. And where the spirite of the Lorde is, there is lybertie. But we al beholde in a mirroure the glory of the Lorde with his face open and are chaunged vnto the same similitude, from glory to glory, euen as of the spirite of the Lorde.

The. iii. Chapter.

Therfore, seyng that we haue suche an office, euen as God hath had mercy on vs, we dooe not out of kynde: but haue caste from vs the cloked of vnhonestye, and walke not in craftines, neyther handle we the worde of God deceytfully, but open the trueth and reporte oure selues to euery mannes conscience in the syghte of God. If oure Gospell be yet hyd, it is hyd among them that are lost, in whome * the God of this worlde *hath blynded the myndes of the vnbelefe, whiche beleue not, lest the lyghte of the Gospell of the glorye of Christe (whiche is the ymage of God) should shyne vnto them. For we preache not our selues, but Christ Iesus to be the Lorde, and our selues youre seruauntes, for Iesus sake. For it is God that * commaunded the lyghte to shyne out of darkenes, whiche hath *shyned in our hertes, for to geue the lyght of the knowledge of the glory of God, in the face of Iesus Christe. But we haue this treasure in * earthen vessels, that the excellency of the power might be Godes and not ours. We are troubled on euery syde yet are we not without ayde. We are in powerty, but not vtterly without comfort. We suffer persecution, but are not forsaken therein. We are caste downe, nevertheles we perysshe not. We alwayes *beare about in the bodye, the dyeng of the Lorde Iesus, that the lyfe of Iesu myght also appeare in our bodye. For we whiche lyue, are alwayes delyuered vnto death, for Iesus sake, that the lyfe also of Iesu myght appeare in oure mortall flesshe. So then death worketh in vs, but lyfe in you. But seyng that we haue the same spirite of fayth (accordyng as it is written, * I beleued and therfore haue I spoken) We also beleue, and therfore speake. For we know, that he which raysed vp the Lorde Iesus, shall rayse vp vs also by the meanes of Iesus, and shall set vs with you. For all thynges dooe I for youre sakes * that the plenteous grace by thankesgeuing of many, maye redounde to the prayse of God. Wherefore, we are not wery. But though our outwarde man perysshe, yet the inwarde man is renewed daye by day. * For our tribulacion whiche is momentany and lyghe, prepareth an exceadyng & an eternal waight of glory vnto vs, whyle we loke not on the thinges whiche are sene, but on the thynges whiche are not sene. For the thynges which are sene, are temporall, but thynges whiche are not sene, are eternall.

The. v. Chapiter.

For we knowe that yf oure * earthy mancion of this dwellyng were destroyed, we haue a buyldyng of God, an habitacion not made with handes, but eternall in heauen. * For therfore, syghe we, desyryng to bee clothed with oure mancion whiche is from heauen: so yet, if that we bee founde clothed, and not naked. For we that are in this * tabernacle, syghe and are greued, because we woulde not be vnclothed, but woulde be *clothed vpon, that mortalitie might be swalowed vp of lyfe. He that hath ordeyned vs for this thyng is God: * whiche hath geuen vnto vs the ernest of the spirite. Therfore we are alwaye of good cheare, and know that as long as we are at home in the bodye, we are absent frō God. For we walke in faith not after outwarde appearaunce: Nerthelesse we are of good comforte, and had leuer to bee absent from the bodye, and to bee present with God. Wherefore, whether we be at home, or from home, we endeuoure our selues,

I. i. to please

to pleate hym. * For we muste all appeare before the iudgement seate of Christ, that every man may receyue the workes of his body according to that he hath done, whether it bee good or bad. ¶ Seyng then that we knowe, howe the Lorde is to be feared, we fare faire with men. For we are knowen well ynough vnto God. I truste also that we are knowen in your consciences. For we prayse not our selues agayne vnto you, but geue you an occasion to reioyce of vs, that ye may haue somwhat against them which reioyce in the face, and not in the harte. For if we be to feruent, to God are we to feruent: Or if we kepe measure, for your cause kepe we measure. For the loue of Christe constraineth vs, because we thus iudge, that if one died for all, the were all dead, and * he dyed for all, that they which liue, should not henceforth liue vnto them selues, but vnto hym whiche dyed for them, and rose agayne. ¶ Wherefore, henceforth knowe we no man after the flesh. In so much though we haue knowē Christ after the flesshe, nowe yet henceforth knowe we hym so no more. Therefore if any mā be in Christ, he is a new creature. Olde thynges are passed away, beholde all thynges are become * newe. Neuertheles all thynges are of God, whiche hath * reconciled vs vnto hym selfe by Iesus Christ, and hath geuen to vs the office to preache the attonement. For * God was in Christ, and made agreement betweue the worlde and hym selfe, and imputed not their synnes vnto them, and hath cōmitted to vs the preachyng of the attonement. ¶ Nowe then are we messengers in the rowme of Christ, euen as though God dyd beseche you thorowe vs. So pray we you in Christes stede, that ye be reconcyled vnto God: for * he made hym to be synne for vs, whiche knewe no synne, that we by his meanes should be that ryghtuousnes, whiche before God is alowed.

¶ The. vi. Chapiter.

WE also as helpers exhorte you that ye receaue no grace of God in vayne. For he sayth: * I haue hearde the in a tyme accepted, and in the daye of saluacion, haue I succoured the. Behold now is that accepted time beholde nowe is that daye of saluacion. Let vs geue no occasion of euil, that in our office be founde no faute: but in all thynges let vs behaue our selues * as the ministers of God. In muche pacience, in afflictions, in necessities, in anguishes, in stripes, in prysonementes, in stryfes, in laboures, in watchinges, in fastinges, in pureness, in knowledge, in log sufferyng, in kyndnes, in the holy ghoste, in loue vnfayned, in the worde of truthe, in the power of God, by the armour of righteousnes, of the ryght hande and on the left, by honour and dishonour, by euill reporte and good reporte, as deceyuers, and yet trewe, vnknowen and yet knowen, as dyeng, and behold, we liue: as chastened, and not killed, as sorowyng, & yet alway mery, as poore, and yet make many riche, as hauyng nothyng, and yet possessing all thynges. O ye Corinthians, our mouthe is open vnto you. Our harte is made large, ye are in no strayte in vs, but are in a strayte in your owne bowelles. I prompte vnto you like reward, as vnto chyldrē. Set your selues at large, and * beare not ye the yoke with the vnbeleuers. For what felowshyp hath ryghteousnes with vnryghteousnes? Or what cōpany hath lyght with darkenes? * Or what concorde hath Christ with Beliall? Eyther what parte hath he that beleueth with an infidell? Or howe agreeth the temple of God with Images? for * ye are the temple of the lyuyng God (as sayde God) * I will dwel amōg them, and walke among them, and wil be their God: and they shalbe my people. Wherfore * come out from among them, & separate your selues from them (saieth the Lorde) and touch no vncleane thynge: so will I receyue you, and will be a father vnto you, & ye shal be my sonnes and daughters, sayeth the Lorde almyghty.

The. vii. Chap.

SEyng that we haue suche promyses (dearely beloued) let vs clēse our selues from all fylthynes of the flesh and spirite, & growe vp to full holines with the feare of God. Understande vs, we haue hurt no man: we haue corrupt no man, we haue defrauded no man. I speake not this to condempne you, for I haue shewed you before, that ye are in our heartes, to dye and lyue with you. I am very bold ouer you, I reioyce greatly in you. I am fylled with comfort, and am exceadyng ioyouse in all our tribulacion. For when we were come into Macedonia * our flesshe had no rest, but we were troubled on euery syde. Without was fyghtyng, inward was feare. Neuertheles * God that comforteth the abiecte, comforted vs by the commyng of Titus. And not by his commyng onely, but also by the consolacion whiche he receyued of you, when he tolde vs your desyre, your weepyng, your feruent mynde for me, so that I reioyced the more. For though I made you sory with a letter, I repente not, though I did repent. For I perceyue that the same Epistle made you sory, though it were but for a season. But I now reioyce, not that ye were sory, but that ye so sorowed that ye repented. For ye sorowed godly, so that in nothyng ye were hurte by vs. For godly sorowe causeth repentāce vnto saluacion, not to be repented of: contrarywyse, * worldly sorowe causeth death. For beholde, what diligence this godly sorowe that ye toke, hath wrought in you: yea, it caused you to clense your selues. It caused indignacion, it caused feare, it caused desire, it caused punyshement. For in all thynges ye haue shewed

shewed youre selues, that ye were cleare in that matter. Wherfore, though I wrote vnto you, I dyd it not for his cause that had done the hurte, neyther for his cause that was hurte: but that your good mynde for vs might appeare among you in the syght of God.

D Therfore, we are comforted, because ye are comforted: yee, and exceadingly the more ioyed we, for the ioye that Titus hadde, because his spirite was refreshed of you all. I am therfore not nowe ashamed, though I boasted my selfe to him of you. For as all thinges whiche we speake vnto you, are true, euen so our boasting that I made vnto Titus, is found true. And his inwarde affection is more aboundaunt towarde you, when he remembreth the obedience of you all, how with feare and trebling ye receaued hym. I reioyce that I may be holde ouer you in all thinges.

S I certifye you brethren, of the grace of God, whiche was geuen in the congregacions of Macedonia, howe that the aboundaunce of their trouyng in, that they are tryed with muche tribulacion. And though they were exceading poore, yet haue they geuen exceading richely, and that in singlenesse. For to their powers, I beare them recorde, yee, and beyond their powers, they were willyng of their owne accorde, and prayed vs with great instaunce, that we would receaue their benefite, and suffre them to be partakers with other* in ministring to the saintes. And this they dyd, not as we loked for, but gaue their owne selues first to the Lorde, and after vnto vs by the will of God, so that we could not but desyre Titus, to accomplyshe the same benevolence among you also, euen as he hadde begonne. Nowe therfore, as ye are riche in al parties, in fayth, in word, in knowledge, in all feruentnes, and in loue, whiche ye haue to vs, euen so, se that ye be plenteous in this benevolence also. This saye I, not commaunding, but because of feruentnes. I proue also the vnfaynednes of your loue towarde other menne. For ye know the liberalitie of our Lord Jesus Christe, that though he was* ryche, yet for your sakes he became poore, that ye thorowe his poouertie, myght be made ryche. And I geue counsell hereto. For this is expedient for you, whiche begon not to do only, but also to wyl, a yeare ago. Now therfore, perfourme the dyng whiche ye began to do, that as there was in you a readynes to will, euen so ye maye perfourme the deed* of that whiche ye haue. For* if there be first a willing mynde, it is accepted according to that a man hath, and not according to that he hath not. For it is not my mynde that other be eased, and ye brought into combraunce, but that there bee equalnes nowe at this tyme, and that your aboundaunce may therone their lacke, and that their aboundaunce may supply your lacke, that there may be equalite, agreyng to that whiche is written: * He that hadde muche, hadde not the more aboundaunce, and he that had a litle, had neuer the lesse. Thankes be vnto God, whiche put the same good mynde for you in the herte of Titus, whiche accepted the request: yee, rather he was so wel willyng, that of his owne accorde, he came vnto you. We haue sent with him the brother, whose laude is in the Gospel throughout all the congregacions, and not that only, but is also chosen of the congregacions, to be a felowe with vs in our iourney, concernyng this benevolence that is ministred by vs vnto the prayse of the same Lord, and to stere vp your prompte mynde. For this we eschewe, that any man should rebuke vs in this plenteous distribucion, * that is ministred by vs, to the glory of the Lorde, and make profession for honest thynges: not only in the syght of the Lord, but also in the sight of men. We haue sente with them a brother of ours, whome we haue oftymes proued diligent in many thinges, but nowe muche more diligent. The great confidence which I haue in you, hath caused me this to doo, partly for Titus sake, whiche is my felowe and helper, as concerning you, partly because of other whiche are oure brethren, and the messengers of the congregacios, and the glory of Christ. Wherfore, shewe ye vnto them the proffe of your loue, and of our * boastyng of you in the syght of the congregacions.

1. Thes. i.

D Of the* ministring to the saintes, it is but superfluous for me to write vnto you, for I knowe the redynes of your mynde, whereof I boaste my selfe vnto them of Macedonia, that Achaia was prepared a yeare ago, and your ensample hath prouoked many. Neuertheles, yet haue I sent these brethren, lest our boastyng whiche I make of you, should be in vayne, in this behalfe, that ye (as I haue said) may prepare your selues, lest peraduenture if they of Macedonia come with me & find you vnprepared, we (I will not saye) should be ashamed in this matter of boasting. Wherfore I thought it necessary to exhort the brethren, to come before hand vnto you, and to prepare youre good blessyng prompted afore, that it myght be ready, so that it be a blessyng, & not a defrauding. For this yet I saye: he which soweth litle, shall reape litle, & he that soweth (in geuing) largely and freely, shal reape plenteously. And let euery man do according as he hath purposed in his hert, not grudgingly, or of necessite. * For God loueth a cheerful geuer. God is able to make you rich in al grace, that ye in all thynges hauing sufficient vnto the vttermost, may be ryche vnto all maner of good worke, as it is written: * He hath thyrste vnto, and hath geuen to the poore, his righteousnes remaineth for euer. He that mynistreth sede vnto the sower, mynistre bread also for your sede: and multiply your sede, and encreace the frutes of youre righteousnesse, that on all partes ye may be made ryche into all syngleness, whiche causeth thorowe vs, that thankes are geuen vnto God. For the office of this mynistracion, not onely supplieth the nede of the saintes, but also is abounduant therin, that for this laudable mynistryng, thankes myght be geuen to God of many, whiche prayse God for the obedience of youre confessyng to the Gospell of Christe, and for your syngle helpe in distributyng to them, and to al men, and in their prayers for you, which long after you for the aboundaunt grace of God in you. Thankes be vnto God, for his vnspeakeable gifte.

The x. Chapter.

I Paul my selfe, beseche you by the meknesse and softenes of Christe, which whē I am present among you, am of no reputacion, but am bolde toward you beyng absent. I beseche you, that I nede not to be bolde, whē I am present, with that same boldenesse, where with I am supposed to haue ben bolde, against some, which repute vs, as though we walked carnally. For though we walke in the flesshe, yet we doo not warre fleshely. * For the weapons of oure warrefare, are not carnall thynges, but thynges myghtye in God, to cast downe strong holdes, wherewith we ouerthrowe counsels, and euery hye thynge, that exalteth it selfe against the knowledge of God, and bryng into captiuite all ymagynacion, to the obedience of Christe, and are ready to take vengeaunce on all disobedience, when your obedience is fulfilled. Loke ye on thynges after the vtter appearaunce?

If any man trust in hym selfe, that he is Christes, let hym consyder this agayne of hym selfe, that as he is Christes, euen so are we Christes. For though I boaste my selfe somwhat more of oure authorite (whiche the Lorde hath geuen vs * to edifye, and not to destroye you,) it shall not be to my shame: lest I should seme as though I went about to make you afrayde with letters. For the Epistles, (sayth he) are sore and strong, but his bodely presence is weake, and his speache rude. Let hym that is suche, thynke on this wyse, that as we are in wordes by letters, when we are absent, suche are we in dedes, when we are present. For we can not fynde in oure hartes, to make oure selues of the nombre of them, or to compare oure selues to them, which praise them selues. Neuertheles, whyle they measure them selues, with them selues, and compare them selues, with them selues, they vnderstande nought. But we will not reioyce aboue measure, but according to the measure of the rule, which God hath diuided vnto vs, a measure to reache euen vnto you. For we stretche not out our selues beyonde measure, as though we reached not vnto you. For vnto you also haue we come with the Gospel of Christe, we boast not our selues out of measure of other mens labours. Yee, we hope it will come to passe, that when your faithe is encreased amōg you, we shalbe magnified according to our measure, more largely, that I shall preache the Gospell in those regions, whiche are beyonde you, and not to boaste of those thynges, which by another mans measure, are prepared already. But let hym that reioyceth, reioyce in the Lorde. For he that praiseth hym selfe, is not alowed, but he whom the Lorde praiseth.

The xi. Chap.

WOlde to God, ye could haue suffred me a litle in my foolyshnes: yee, ye doo also forbeare me. For I am ielous ouer you, with godly ielousye. For I haue coupled you to one man, that ye shoulde make youre selues a chaste bryde vnto Christe. But I feare lest it come to passe, that as the serpent * begyled Eue, thorowe his subtelty, euen so youre wittes should be corrupt from the syngleness that ye had towarde Christe. For if he that commeth, preache another Jesus then hym, whome we preached: or if ye receaue another spirite, then that which ye haue receaued, other another Gospel, then that ye haue receaued, ye myght ryght well haue bene content. For I suppose that I was not behynde the chefe Apostles. But though I be rude in speakyng, yet I am not so in knowledge. Howbeit among you, we haue bene well knowen, to the vttermost what we are in all thynges. Did I therin sinne, because I submitted my selfe, that ye myght be exalted: and because I preached to you the Gospell of God free? I robbed other congregacions, and toke wages of them to do you seruice. And when I was present with you, and had nede * I was chargeable to no man: for that which was lackyng vnto me, the brethren, which came from Macedonia, supplyed, and in all thynges, I kepe my selfe so, that I should not be chargeable to any man, and so will I kepe my selfe. If the truthe of Christe be in me, this reioycing shal not be taken from me in the regiōs of Achaia. Wherfore? Because I loue you not? God knoweth. Neuertheles, what I do, that will I do, to cut away occasion from them which desire occasion, that they might be found lyke vnto vs, in that wherin they reioyce. For suche false Apostles are deceitful workers, and fashion themselues like vnto the Apostles of Christe. And no maruayle: for Satan hym selfe is changed into the fashion of an angel of lyght. Therfore it is no great thyng, though his mynisters fashion them selues, as though they were the mynisters of ryghteousnes, whose vnde (wilbe accordyng to theyr dedes). I saye agayne, leaste any man thynke that I am foolishe, or elce euen nowe take ye me as a foole, that I also may boaste my selfe a litle. That I speake, I speake it not after the Lorde, but as it were folishly, in this matter of boastyng. Seyng that many reioyce after the flesh, I wil reioyce also. For ye suffre fooles gladly, seyng ye your selues are wyse. For ye suffre, if a man bryng you into bondage, if a man deuoure, if a man take, if a man exalt hym selfe, if a man smyte you on the face. I speake as concernyng rebuke, as though we had ben weake in this behalfe. Howebeit, wherin soeuer any manne dare be bolde, I speake foolyshly, I dare bee bolde also. * They are Hebrues, euen so am I. They are Israelites, euen so am I. They are the sede of Abraham, euē so am I. They are the ministers of Christ (I speake as a foole,) I am more. In labours more abundaunt: In stripes aboue measure. In prysons more plenteously: In deathe ofte. * Of the Iewes fyue tymes receaued I, euery tyme. xl. stripes saue one. Thrise was I beaten with rodes, * I was once stoned, * I suffred thrise shypwracke. Nyght and daye haue I bene in the depe sea. In iorneying often, in perels of waters, in perels of robbers, in ieopardies of mine owne nation, in ieopardies among the Heathen, * in perels in the cities, in perels in wyldernes, in perels in the sea, in perels among false brethren, in labour and trauaile, in watchynges often, in hongre and thirst, in fastinges often, in colde and nakednes, beside the thynges which outwardly happē vnto me. I am combred dayly, & do care for all congregacions. * Who is weake, and I am not weake? Who is offended, & I burne not? If I must nedes boast, I will boast of the thynges that concerne myne infirmities.

The xii. Chapiter.

IT is God and father of oure Lorde Iesus Christe, whiche is blessed for euer more, knoweth that I lye not. * In the cytie of Damascus, the governer of the people vnder king Aretas layde watche in the cytie of the Damascens, and would haue caught me, and * at a wyndowe was I let downe in a basket thorow the wall, & so escaped I his handes. Doutles, it is not expedient for me to boast. I will come to visions and reuelacions of the Lorde. I knowe a man in Christ, aboue fourteene yeres ago (whether he were in the bodye, I can not tell, or whether he were out of the bodye, I can not tell, God knoweth) how that he was taken vp into the third heauen. And I knowe the same man (whether he the bodye or out of the bodye, I can not tell, God knoweth) howe that he was taken vp into paradyse, & hearde secrete wordes, which no man can vtter. Of this man will I boaste, but of my selfe will I not boaste, except it be of myne infirmities. For though I would boaste, I shall not be a foole: for I would saye the truthe. Neuertheles, I spare you, lest any man should thinke of me, aboue that whiche he seeth me to be, or that he heareth of me. And * lest I should be exalted out of measure thorow the excellency of the reuelacions, there was geuen vnto me a prycke in the flesshe, euen the messengers of Sathan to buffet me, because I should not be exalted out of measure. For this thyng besought I the Lorde thryse, that it might departe from me. And he sayd vnto me, my grace is sufficient for thee. For my strength is made perfect thorowe weakenes. Very gladly therfore will I reioyce of my weakenes, that the strength of Christe may dwell in me. Therfore, haue I delectacion in infirmyties, in rebukes, in necessities, in persecucions, in anguishes for Christes sake. For when I am weake, then am I strong. I am become a foole in a boastyng my selfe. Ye haue compelled me, for I ought to haue bene commended of you. * For in nothyng was I inferior vnto the chefe Apostles, though I be nothyng, yet the tokens of an Apostle, were wrought among you with all pacience, & sygnes and wōders, and mighty dedes. For what is it, wherein ye were inferiors vnto other cōgregacions, except it be herein, that I was not chargeable vnto you. Forgeue me this wronge, beholde nowe the thyrde tyme, I am ready to come vnto you, and yet will I not be chargeable vnto you. For * I seke not yours, but you. For the children ought not to laye vp for the fathers & mothers, but the fathers & mothers for the children. I wil very gladly be bestowed, & wilbe bestowed for your soules, though the more I loue you, the lesse I am loued agayne. But be it, that I was not chargeable vnto you: neuertheles, when I was crafty, I take you with gyle. Did I pill you by any of them whom I sent vnto you? I desired Titus, & with him I sent a brother. Did Titus defraude you of any thyng, walked we not in one spirite? walked we not in like steppes? Again, thinke you that we excuse oure selues vnto you? We speake in Christ in the sight of God but we do all thinges (dearly beloued) for your edefying. For I feare, lest it come to passe, that if I come, I shall not fynde you such as I would, & that I shalbe found vnto you, such as ye would not: I feare lest there be among you * debates, enuyengs, wrath, straifes, backbitinges, whysperinges, swellinges, & seditions, & that when I come again, God bring me lowe among you, & I be constrained to bewayle many of them which haue synned already, and haue not repented of the * vnclenes, and fornicacio, and wantonnes, which they haue committed.

The xiii. Chapiter.

THis is the thirde tyme I come vnto you. In the mouth of two or three witnesses shall euery where be stablished. I tolde you before, and tell you before, and as I said when I was present with you the seconde tyme, so write I now beyng absente, to them which in tyme past haue synned, & to all other, that if I come agayne, I will not spare, seyng that ye seke experience of Christe, * whiche speaketh in me, whiche among you is not weake, but is myghty in you. For though he was crucified in weakenes, yet liueth he thorow the power of God. And we (no doubte) are weake in him, but we shall liue with him, by the myght of God among you. Examen your selues, whether ye are in the faythe or not. Proue youre owne selues. Knowe ye not your own selues, howe that Iesus Christ is in you? except ye be castawayes. I truste ye shall knowe that we are not castawayes. I desyre before God, that ye do none euill, not that we shulde seme commendable, but that ye should do that which is honest: and let vs be counted as castawayes. We can do nothing against the truthe, but for the truthe. We are glad when we are weake, & ye strong. This also we wysshe for, euen your perfectnes. Therfore write I these thynges, beyng absent, lest whē I am present, I should vse sharpenesse, according to the power, which* the Lorde hath geuen me to edifie, and not to destroy. Finally brethren, fare ye wel, be perfect, be of good cōforte, be of one minde, lyue in peace, and the God of loue and peace, shalbe with you. * Greete one another in an holy kysse. All the sayntes salute you. The grace of our Lorde Iesus Christe, and the loue of God, and the felowshyppe of the holy ghoste be with you all. Amen.

The Epistle of saynt Paule the Apostle to the Galathians.

Paule an Apostle, not of men, neyther by man: but by Iesus Christe, and by God the father, whiche raysed hym vp from death, and all the brethren whiche are with me. Vnto the congregacions of Galacia. * Grace be with you, & peace from God the father, and frō our Lorde Iesus Christe, whiche gaue hym selfe for our synnes, to deliuer vs from this presente euill worlde, according to the will of God our father, to whome be prayse for euer and euer. Amen. I marueile, that ye are so soone turned (from Christe, whiche called you by grace) vnto another Gospel, which is nothing els, but that there be some which trouble you and* intende to peruert the gospel of Christ. Neuertheles, though we our selues, or an Angell from heauen, preache any other Gospel vnto you, then that which we haue preached vnto you, let him be accursed. As we said before, so say I now agayne, if any man preache any other Gospell vnto you, then that ye haue receaued, let him be accursed. Do I now perswade men, or God? Other doe I seke to please men? * For if I had hetherto studied to please me, I were not the seruaut of Christe. ¶ I certefie you brethren, that the Gospell which was preached of me, was not after the maner of men. For I neither receaued it, nor learned it of man, but by the reuelacion of Iesus Christe. For ye haue heard of my conuersacion in tyme paste, in the Iewes waye, howe that beyond measure, * I persecuted the congregacion of God, and spoyled it, & profayted in the Iewes waye, aboue many of my companions, in myne owne nacion, * beyng a very feruente maintainer of the traditions of the elders. But when it pleased God, whiche seperated me from my mothers wombe, * and called me hereunto by his grace, for to declare his sonne by me, that I should preache hym among the Heathen: immediatly I communed not of the matter, with* flesshe & bloud, neyther retorned to Ierusalem to them which were Apostles before me: but went my wayes into Arabia, and came agayn vnto Damascus. Then after thre yeare, I returned to Ierusalem to se Peter, and abode with hym fiftene dayes. Other of the Apostles saw I none, saue Iames the Lordes brother. The thinges therfore which I write vnto you, beholde, before God I lye not. * After that I came into the coastes of Sirie and Cilicia, & was vnknowen as touchyng my persone vnto the congregacions of Iewrye, whiche were in Christe. But this they heard onely, that he which persecuted vs in tyme past, now preacheth the faithe, which he before destroyed. And they glorified God in me.

¶ The. 2. Chapiter.

Then. xiij. yeres thereafter, I went vp again to Ierusalē* with Barnabas, & toke Titus with me, I went vp also by reuelacion, & cōmened with them of the Gospell, whiche I preache amōg the Gētiles: but perfitly with them which were cōted chefe, least I should runne or had runne in vayne. Neyther Titus, which was with me, though he were a Greke yet was not compelled to be circumcised, and that because of incomers, being false brethren which came in priuely to spye out our libertie whiche we haue in Christ Iesu, that they might bryng vs into bondage. To whom we gaue no rowme, no not for the time (by way of subiection) because that the truthe of the Gospell myght continue with you. But of them whiche semed to be sōwhat, what they were in time passed, it maketh no matter to me. * God loketh on the outwarde apperaunce of no man. Neuertheles they which semed great, added added nothyng to me. But contrariwise, when they sawe that the Gospell ouer the vncircumcision was committed vnto me, as the gospell ouer the circumcision was committed vnto Peter: (* for he that was mighty in Peter, in the apostleship, ouer the circumcision, the same was mighty in me among the Gentils.) When they perceyued the grace that was geuen vnto me, then James, Cephas, and John, whiche semed to be pyllers, gaue to me and Barnabas, the right handes of that felowship that we shulde be Apostles among the Gentiles, and they in the circumcision, onely that we shulde remember the poore, * wherin also I was diligent to do the same. But when Peter was come to Antioche, I withstode him openly, because he was worthy to be blamed. For yer that certayne came from James, he did eat with the Gentils. But when they were come, he withdrewe, and separated him selfe from them, fearyng them whiche were of the circumcision. And the other Iewes dissembled as well as he: in so muche that Barnabas also was brought into their simulation. But whē I sawe that they went not the right waie, after the trueth of the Gospel, I said vnto Peter before them all: If thou beyng a Iew, liuest after the maner of the Gentiles, and not as do the Iewes: why causest thou the Gentiles to liue as do the Iewes? For we which are * Iewes by nature, and not sinners of the Gentiles, know that a man * is not iustified by the dedes of the lawe, but by the fayth of Iesus Christ. And we haue beleued on Iesus Christ, that we might be iustified by the faith of Christe, and not by the dedes of the lawe: because by the dedes of the lawe, no fleshe shal be iustified. If whyle we seke to be made righteous by Christ, we our selues are fownd sinners: is then Christ the minister of sinne? God forbid. For if I build againe the thinges which I destroyed, the make I my selfe a trespacer. For I (throughe the lawe) haue bene dead to the lawe, that I might liue vnto Christe. I am crucified with Christ. Neuertheles I liue: yet now not I, but Christ liueth in me. The life which I now liue in the flesh, I liue by the faith of the sone of God, * which loued me, and gaue him selfe for me. I despise not the grace of God. For if * righteousnes come of the lawe, then Christe is deade in vayne.

The.iij. Chapter.

O ye folyshe Galathyans: who hathe bewitched you, that ye shulde not beleue the trueth? To whom Iesus Christe was described before the eyes, and among you crucified? This onelye woulde I learne of you, whether ye receyued the spirite by the dedes of the lawe, or by the preachyng of the faith? Are ye such fooles, that after ye haue begon in the spirite, ye now end in the flesh? So many thinges ye haue suffered in vayne? if it be also in vayne. He therefore, he that ministreth to you the spirite, and worketh miracles among you, doth he it through the dedes of the lawe, or by preachyng of the fayth? * Euen as Abraham beleued God, and it was accounted to him for righteousnesse. Ye know therfore, that they whiche are of fayth, the same are the children of Abraham. For the scripture seyng afore hand that God would iustifie the Heathen through fayth, shewed before hand glad tidynges vnto Abraham, saiyng: * In the shal all nacions be blessed. So then they whiche be of fayth, are blessed with faythful Abraham. For as many as are of the dedes of the lawe, are subiect to the curse. For it is written: * cursed be every one that continueth not in all thinges which are written in the boke of the lawe, to fulfyll them. That no man is iustified by the lawe in the sight of God, it is euident: * For the iuste shall liue by fayth. The lawe is not of fayth: * but the man that fulfilleth the thinges contayned in the lawe, shall liue in them. Christe hath deliuered vs from the curse of the law, in as much as he was made accursed for vs. For it is written: * cursed is every one that hangeth on tree, that the blessing of Abraham might come on the Gentiles, through Iesus Christ, that we might receaue the promise of the spirit through fayth. Wherfore, I speake after the maner of men. Though it be but a mās testament, yet if it be alowed, no man despiseth it, or addeth any thyng therto. * To Abraham and his sede were the promises made. He saieth not in thy sedes, as many: but in thi sede, as of one, which is Christ. This I say, that the lawe which began afterward, beyōd * four hundred & thirty yeres, doth not disanull the testamēt, that was cōfirmed afore of God vnto Christward, to make the promise of none effecte. * For if the enheritaunce come of the lawe, it cometh not now of promise. But God gaue it vnto Abraham by promise. Wherfore then serueth the law? * It was added because of transgression (till the sede came, to whom the promise was made) & it was ordeined * by angels, in the hande of a mediatour. A mediatour is not a mediatour of one, but God is one. * Is the law then against the promise of god God forbid. For if there had ben a law geuē, which could haue geuē life: thē no doubt righteousnes shoulde come by the lawe. But the scripture concluded all thinges vnder sinne, that the promise by the faith of Iesus Christ should be geuen vnto them that beleue. But before that fayth came, we were kept vnder the law, and were shut vp vnto the fayth, which should afterwarde be declared. Wherfore the lawe was our schole maister vnto Christ, that we shulde be iustified by fayth. But after that fayth is come, we are no lenger vn-beathe the holy ghost. For ye are all children of God, because ye believe in Christ Jesu. For * as many of you as are baptised, have put on Christ. There is no Jewe, neither Gentile: there is neither bond nor free: there is neither man nor woman. For ye are all * one in Christ Jesu. If ye be Christes, then are ye Abrahams seede, and heyres according to the promise.

The.iiii. Chap.

NOw I say, that the heyre (as long as he is a child) differeth not fro a seruaunt, though he be Lord of all, but is vnder tutors, and gouernors, vntill the time that the father hath appointed. Euen so we also, whē we were children, were in bondage, vnder the ordinaunces of the worlde. But when the time was ful come, God * sent his sonne, made of a woman, & made bonde vnto the lawe, to redeme them, which were bonde vnto the lawe: that we (through the election) might receiue the enheritaūce, that belongeth to the naturall sonnes. Because ye are sonnes, * God hath sent the Spirite of his sonne into our hearte, crying: Abba, father. Wherfore now, thou art not a seruaunt: but a sonne. If thou be a sonne, thou art also an heyre of God, through Christe. Howbeit notwithstanding, whē ye knew not God, ye did seruice vnto them, which by nature are no Gods. But now after that ye haue knowen God (yea, rather are knowē of God) how is it, that ye turn againe vnto the weake and * beggerlye ordinaunces, whereunto agayne, ye desire a freshe, to be in bondage? Ye obserue dayes, and monethes, and times, and yeres. I am in feare of you, least I haue bestowed on you, labour in vayne. Brethren, I beseech you, be ye as I am: for I am as ye are. Ye haue not hurt me at al. Ye know how through infirmitye of the flesh I preached the Gospel vnto you at the first. And my temptation which was in the flesh, ye despised not, neither abhorred: but receiued me as an angel of God: euen as Christe Jesus. What is then your felicitie? for I beare you recorde, that if it had ben possible, ye would haue plucked out your owne eyes, & haue geuen them to me. Am I therefore become your enemy, because I tell you the trueth?

They are ielous ouer you amisse. Yea, they entende to exclude you, that ye should be feruent to themwarde. It is good alwayes to be feruent in a good thing, & not onely whē I am present with you. My little children, of whō I trauaile in birthe agayne, vntill Christe, be fashioned in you. I would I were with you now, & could change my voyce: for I stand in a doubt of you. Tell me, ye that desire to be vnder the lawe, do ye not hear of the lawe? For it is written, that Abraham had two sonnes * the one by a bonde mayde, & the other by a free woman. Yea, and he which was borne of the bonde woman: was borne after the flesshe: but he which was of the free woman, was borne by promise. Which thinges are spoken by an allegory. For these are two testamentes, the one from the mounte Syna, which gendreth vnto bondage, which is Agar. For mount Syna, is Agar in Arabia, and bordereth vpō the citie which is now called Hierusalem, and is in bondage with her children. But * Hierusalem which is above, is free: which is the mother of vs all. For it is written * Reioice thou barren, that beareste no children: breake forth and crye thou that trauaylest not. For the desolate hath many moe children, then she which hath an husbande. Wherfore, brethren, we are after Isaac, the children of promise. But as then he that was borne after the flesh, persecuted him that was borne after the spirite, euen so is it nowe. Neuertheles, what saith the scripture: * put away the bondwoman & her sonne. For the sonne of the bondwoman, shall not be heyre with the sonne of the free woman. So then brethren, we are not children of the bond woman: but of the free.

STAND fast therefore in the libertye, wherewith Christ hath made vs free, and wrappe not your selues againe in * the yoke of bondage. Beholde, I Paule say vnto you, that * if ye be circumcised, Christ shal profite you nothing at all. I testifye again to euery manne which is circumcised, that he is bounde to kepe the whole lawe. Christ is become but in vaine vnto you. Ye many of you as are iustified by the lawe, are fallen cleane from grace. We loke for and hope in the spirite, to be iustified through fayth. * For in Jesu Christe, neither is circumcision any thing worth, neither yet vncircumcisiō but fayth * which worketh by loue. Ye did runne well: who (may) let vnto you, that ye should not beleue the truth (content vnto no man.) Euen the counsel which ye came not of him that calleth you. * A litle leuen doth leuen the whole lumpe of dow. * I haue trust toward you in the Lord, that ye shal be none otherwise minded. But he that troubleth you, shal beare his iudgement, whatsoeuer he be. Brethren, if I yet preache circumcision, why do I then yet suffer persecution? Then is the slaunder of the crosse ceased. I would to God they were seperated from you, which trouble you. Brethren, ye were called vnto libertye: onely * let not your liberty be an occasion vnto the flesh: but by loue (of the spirite) serue one another. For al the law is fulfilled in one word, which is this: * Thou shalt loue thy neighbour as thy selfe. If ye bite & deuour one another: take hede, lest ye be lykewise consumed one of another. * I say: walk in the spirit, & fulfil not the lust of the flesshe. For the flesh lusteth contrary to the spirite, & * the spirit contrary to the flesshe. These are contrarye one to another, so that ye can not do what so euer ye would, but and if ye be ledde of the spirite, then are ye vnder the lawe. The dedes of the flesshe are manifeste, whiche are these: aduoutry, fornication, vnclennes, wantonnes, worshippyng of ymages, witchecrafte, hatred, variaunce, zele, wrath, stryfe, sedicion, sectes, enuiyng, murther, dronkennes, gluttony & such like: of the which I tell you before, as I haue told you in times past, that they which the comit suche thinges, shal not be enheritours of the kyngdome of God. Contrariye, the fruite of the Spirite, is loue, ioye, peace, long sufferyng, gentlenes, goodnes, faithfulnes, mekenes, temperaunce. * Against suche there is no law. They truly that are Christes haue crucified the flesh, with the affections & lustes. * If we liue in the spirit, let vs walk in the spirit. Let vs not be desirous of vain glory, prouokyng one another, enuiyng one an other.

BRethren, if a manne also be taken in any fault, ye which are spirituall, helpe to amend him in the spirit of mekenes: cõsidering thy self, lest thou also be tempted. * Beare ye one anothers burden, & so fulfil the law of Christ. For if any manne seme to him selfe that he is sumwhat, whe in dede he is nothing, the same deceiueth his owne mind. Let euery man proue his owne worke, and then shall he haue reioycyng onely in his owne selfe, and not in another. For * euery manne shall beare his owne burthē. Let him that is taught in the word, minister vnto him that teacheth him in al good thinges. Be not deceiued: God is not mocked. For * whatsoeuer a man soweth, that shall he also reape. For he that soweth in his flesshe, shal of the flesshe reape corruptiō. But he that soweth in the spirite, shal of the spirite reape life euerlastyng. Let vs not be weary of wel doyng. For when the time is come, we shall reape without weatines. While we haue therfore time, let vs do good to al men, & specially vnto them, which are of the houshold of faith. See how large a letter I haue written vnto you with mine owne hand. As many as desire with outward apearaunce to please carnally, them same constraine you to be circumcised only, lest they should suffer persecutiō for the crosse of Christ. For they thē selues which are circumcised kepe not the lawe, but desire to haue you circumcised that they might reioice in your flesh. God forbid that I should reioyce, but in the crosse of our lord Iesu Christ, whereby the worlde is crucified vnto me, & I to the worlde. For * in Christ Iesu neither circumcision auayleth any thing at all, nor vncircumcision, but a new creature. And as many as walke accordyng to this rule, peace be on them, and mercy, & vpon Israel, that partey of the god. Fro hencefoorth, let no man put me to busines. * For I beare in my bodye the markes of the Lord Iesu. Brethren, the grace of our Lorde Iesu Christ be with your spirite. Amen.

The Epistle of S. Paule the Apostle to the Ephesians.

The first Chapter.

PAule an Apostle of Iesus Christe, by the wil of God. To the saints which are at Ephesus, and to them whiche beleue on Iesus Christe. * Grace be with you, and peace from God our father, and from the lord Iesus Christ. * Blessed be God the father of our Lorde Iesus Christ, which hath blessed vs with al maner of spirituall blessyng in heauenly thinges by Christ, accordyng as he had chosen vs in him before the foundations of the worlde were layed, that we shoulde be holye, & without blame before him, through loue. Which ordeyned vs before, through Iesus Christe, to be heyres vnto him self, accordyng to the good pleasure of his will, to the prayse of the glory of his grace, wherwith he hath made vs accepted throughe the beloued. * By whom we haue redemtion through his bloude, euen the forgeuenes of sinnes, accordyng to the riches of his grace, wherof he hath ministred vnto vs abundauntly, in all wisdome and prudence. And hath opened vnto vs the mistery of his will, accordyng to his good pleasure, whiche he had purposed in him selfe, to haue declared * whē the tyme was ful come, that he might set vp al things perfitly by Christ, both the things which are in heauen, and the things which are in earth, euen by him, by whom we are made heyres, and were therto predestinate accordyng to the purpose of hym, by whose power al thynges are wrought, accordyng to the purpose of his owne will: that we (whiche beleued in Christe) shoulde be vnto the prayse of his glory. In whō also ye beleue, for asmuche as we haue hearde the word of trueth, euen the Gospel of your saluation: wherin, when ye had beleued, * ye were sealed with the holy spirite of promise, which is the earnest of our enheritaunce, for the recouerynge of the purchased possession, vnto the prayse of his glory. Wherfore I also (after that I heard of the faith which ye haue in the Lorde Iesu, & loue vnto al the saynts) * cease not to geue thankes for you, makyng mencion of you in my prayers: that the GOD of our Lord Iesus Christe, the father of glory, may geue vnto you the spirite of wisdome and reuelation, by the knowledge of hym selfe, and lyghten the eyes of your mindes, that ye may know what the * hope is, wherevnto he hathe called you, and how ryche the glorious is of his enheritaunce vpon the saynts, what is the exceding greatnes of his power to vs ward, which beleue, accordynge to the workynge of that his mighty power, whiche he wrought in Christe, when he raysed hym from the dead, * and set hym on his ryght hande in heauenly thinges, aboue [a] all rule and power, and might, and dominion, & aboue euery name that is named, not in this worlde onely, but also in the worlde to come: and * hath put all thinges vnder his feete, and hath made hym aboue all thinges, [b] the head of the congregation, why chefe vnto his bodye, and the fulnes of hym, that fylleth all in all.

And you hath he quickened, where as ye were dead in trespaces and sinnes, in the which in tymes passed ye walked, according to the course of this worlde, euen after the gouernour that ruleth in the ayre, the spirite that now worketh in the childrē of vnbeleefe, * among whom we all had our conuersation also in tymes passe, in the lustes of our flesh, & fulfilled the will of the flesshe, and of the mynde: & were by nature the children of wrath, euen as well as other. But God which is rich in mercy (for his great loue wherwith he loued vs, euen when we were deade by synne) quickened vs together in Christe (* by grace are ye saued) and raysed vs vp together with hym, and made vs sit together with him among them of heauē in Christ Iesu. That in time to come he might shew the exceadynge riches of his grace, in kyndnes to vs ward, through Christ Iesu. For by grace are ye made safe through fayeth, and that not of your selues. It is the gift of God, and cometh not of workes, least any man should boast him selfe. For we are his workemanshyp, created in Christe Iesu vnto * good workes, which God ordeined that we should walke in them. Wherfore, remember that ye beyng in time passed, gentiles, in the flesshe, were called vncircumcisiō [c] of that whyche is called * circumcision in the flesshe, which circumcision is made by handes: remember (I say) that at that tyme ye were without Christe, beyng aliaūtes from the commen wealth of Israel, and straungers from the testament of the promise, hauing no hope, & beyng without God in this worlde. But nowe by the meanes of Christ Iesu, ye which some time were farre of, are made nye, by the bloude of Christe. For he is peace, which hath made of bothe one, and hath broken downe the wall that was a stoppe betwene vs, and hath also put away through his flesshe, the cause of hatred, euen the lawe of commaundementes, conteyned in the lawe written, for to make of twayne one new man in him selfe, to make peace, and to reconcile both vnto God, in one body through the crosse, & slew hatred thereby, and came and preached peace to you, which were a farre of, & to them that were nye. For through him we both haue an entraunce in one spirite vnto the father. Now therefore ye are not straungers, and forayners: but citizens with the sayntes, of the houshold of god, and are built vpon the [d] foundation of the Apostles and Prophetes, * Iesus Christ hym selfe beyng the heade cornar stone, in whom, what buildynge soeuer is coupled together, it groweth vnto an holy temple in the Lorde, in whom, ye also are builded together, to be an habitation of God, through the holy ghost.

The. iij. Chapter.

For this cause, I Paule am a prisoner of Iesu Christ for you heathen: If ye haue heard of the ministracio of the grace of God * which is geuen me to youward, For * by reuelation shewed he the mistery vnto me, as I wrote afore in fewe wordes, whereby when ye read, ye may vnderstande my knowledge in the mistery of Christe, whyche mistery in tymes passed, was not opened vnto the sonnes of mē as it is nowe declared vnto his holye Apostles and Prophetes by the spirite: that the gentils should be enheritours also, and of the same bodye, and partakers of his promise in Christ, by the meanes of the Gospel, wherof I am made a minister, according to the gifte of the grace of god, which is geuen vnto me, after the working of his power. Vnto me the * least of all sayntes, is this grace geuen, that I should preach among the Gentils, the vnsearcheable riches of Christe, & to make all men se, what the felowshyp of the mistery is, whych from the beginnyng of the worlde, hath ben hid in god, which made all thinges through Iesus Christ, to the entent, that now vnto the rulers & powers in heauenly thinges myght be knowen by the congregation, the manifold wisdome of god, according to the eternal purpose, whych he wrought in Christ Iesu our Lord, by who we haue boldnes, and entraūce with the confidence which is by the fayth of hym. Wherfore I desire that ye fayntē not because of my tribulations * that I suffer for your sakes, whych is your prayse. For this cause I bow my knees vnto the father of our Lorde Iesus Christ, whyche is father ouer al that is called father in heauen & in earth, that he would graunte you according to the riches of his glory, that ye mai be strengthed with myght by his spirite, in the inner man, that Christ may dwel in your hertes by fayth, that ye beyng rooted & grounded in loue, myght be able to cōprehende with al sayntes, what is the breadth and length, depth, and heyght, and to know the excellent loue of the knowledge of Christe, that ye myght be fulfilled with al fulnes, whyche cometh of God. Vnto hym that is able to do exceadyng abundantly aboue al that we aske or thinke, according to the power that worketh in vs, be praise in the congregation by Christe Iesus, throughout all ages, worlde without ende. Amen.

The. iij. Chapter.

I therefore (which be a prysoner of the Lorde) exhorte you* that ye walke worthy of the vocation, wherewith ye are called, with all lowlinesse and meknesse, with humblenes of minde, forbearing one another throwe loue, and be diligent to kepe the vnitie of the spirite throwe the bonde of peace, being one body, and one spirite, euen as ye are called in one hope of your calling. One lorde, one fayth, one baptyme, one God and father of all, which is above all, and throwe all, & in you all. * Vnto euery one of vs is geuen grace, according to the measure of the gift of Christ. Wherefore he sayth, *when he went vp an hie, he led captiuitie captiue, and gaue giftes vnto men. That he ascended, what meaneth it: but that he also descended firste into the lowest partes of the earth? * He that descended, is euen the same also that ascended vp, above all heauens, to fulfill all thynges. And he gaue some Apostles, some Prophetes, some Euangelistes, some Shepherdes and teachers, to the edifying of the saynctes, to the worke and ministracion, euen to the edifying of the body of Christe, tyll we all come to the vnitie of faith, and knowlege of the sonne of God, vnto a perfecte man, vnto the measure of the full perfect age of Christ. That we henceforth should be no more chyldren* wauerynge, and caried about with euery wynde of doctrine, by the wylynes of menne, throwe craftines, whereby they lye a wayte for vs to deceyue vs. But lette vs folowe the truthe in loue, and in all thynges growe in hym, * which is the head, euen Christ in whō if all the body be coupled and knyt together throwe euery ioynte wherewith * one ministred to another (according to the operacio, as euery parte hath his measure) he encreaseth the body, vnto the edifyinge of it selfe throwe loue. * This I saye therefore, and testifie throwe the Lorde, that ye henceforth walke not, as* other Gentils, walke in vanite of their mynde, whyle they are blynded in their vnderstanding, being farre from a godly lyfe, by the meanes of ignorancie, that is in them, and because of the blyndnes of their hartes, whiche beyng past repentannce, haue geuen them selues ouer vnto wantonnes, to worke all maner of vnclenes, euen with greedines. But ye haue not so learned Christe. If so be that ye haue hearde of hym, & haue bene taught in hym, as the trueth is in Iesus (as concerninge the conuersacion in tyme past) to laye from you the olde man, which is corrupt accordyng to the deceauable lustes. * To be renued also in the spirite of your mynde, and * to put on that newe man, whiche after God is shapen in righteousnesse, and true holines. Wherefore, * put away lying, and speake euery man truthe vnto his neyghboure, for as muche as we are membres one of an other.

* Be angry, and synne not: let not the Sonne go down vpō your wrath, neither geue place vnto the backbiter. * Let him that stole, steale no more, * but let hym rather labour with his handes the thyng which is good, that he may geue vnto him that nedeth. * Let no filthy communication procede out of your mouthe, but that which is good to edifie with al, as oft as nede is, that it may minister grace vnto the hearers. And geue not ye the holy spirite of God* by whome ye are sealed vnto the day of redemption. Let all bitter nes & cruelnes, and wrath, and roryng, and cursed speakyng, be put away from you, with all maliciousnes. Be ye courteous one to another, mercyfull, forgeuing one another, euen as God for Christes sake hath forgeuen you.

Be ye* therefore followers of god, as deare chyldren, and walke ye in loue, euen as * Christ loued vs, and gaue him selfe for vs an offeryng and sacrifice of a swete sauour to God. * As for fornication and all vnclennes, or couetousnes, let it not be once named amōg you, as it becommeth saynctes: or fylthynes, or foolyshe talkyng, or iestyng, whiche are not comly, but rather geuing of thankes. For this ye knowe, that * no whoremonger, either vnclene persone, or couetous person, (which is a worshipper of ymages) hath any enheritaunce in the kyngdome of Christe and of God. * Let no man deceyue you with vayne wordes. For because of suche thinges commeth the wrath of God vpon the chyldren of disobedience. Be not ye therefore companions of them. Ye were sometyme darkenes, but now are ye lyght in the Lorde.* Walke as chyldren of light. For the frute of the spirite consisteth in all goodnes, and righteousnes and truthe,) * Searchyng what is acceptable vnto the Lorde. And haue no felowshyp with the vnfrutefull workes of darkenes, but rather rebuke them. For it is shame euen to name those thinges which are done of them in secrete: but all thinges, when they are brought forth by the lyght, are manifest. For whatsoeuer is manifest, that same is light. Wherfore, he sayth awake thou that slepest, & stande vp frō death and Christ shall geue the lyght. * Take hede therefore howe ye walke circumspectly: not as vnwyse, but as wyse menne redemyng the tyme, because the dayes are euyll. Wherfore, be ye not vnwyse, but vnderstande what the will of the Lorde is, and bee not dronke with wyne, wherein is excesse, but bee fylled with the spirite, speakyng vnto your selues * in psalmes and hymnes, and spirituall songes, synging and makyng melodye to the Lorde in your hertes, geuyng thankes alwayes for all thynges, vnto God the father, in the name of our Lorde Iesus Christe, submittyng youre selues one to another in the feare of God.

Ye women, submit yourselues vnto your owne husbandes, as vnto the Lorde. For the husbande is the wiues heade, euen as Christ is the heade of the congregation, & the same is he that ministreth saluation vnto the body. Therefore, as the congregation is in subiection to Christe, likewise let the wiues also be in subiection to their husbandes in all thinges. Ye husbandes, loue your wiues euen as Christ also loued the congregation, and gaue him selfe for it, to sanctifie it, & cleansed it in the fountayne of water throughe the woorde, to make it vnto him selfe a glorious congregation, without spotte or wrinkle, or anye suche thyng: but that it shulde be holye, and without blame. So ought men to loue their wiues as their owne bodies. He that loueth his wife, loueth him selfe. For no maane euer yet hated his owne flesche: but nourisheth & cherisheth it, euen as the Lorde dothe the congregation. For we are membres of his body, of his flesshe, and of his bones. *For this cause, shall a man leaue father and mother, and shalbe ioyned vnto his wife, and of two shalbe made one flesshe. This is a greate secrete, but I speake of Christe, and of the congregation. Neuertheles, do ye so, that euerye one loue his wife euen as him selfe, & let the wife reuerence her husband.

The. vi. Chapter.

Children, obey your fathers and mothers in the Lorde: for that is right. *Honour thy father and mother, (the same is the firste commaundement in the promise) that thou maist prospere, and liue long on earth. Ye fathers, moue not your children to wrathe: but *bryng them vp throughe the doctrine and information of the Lorde. Ye seruauntes, obey them that are your bodely maisters, with feare and tremblynge, euen with the singlenes of your herte, as vnto Christe: not doyng seruice vnto the eye, as they that go aboute to pleace men, but as the seruauntes of Christe, doyng the will of God from the hearte with good will, seruyng the Lorde, and not men. Knowyng this, that whatsoeuer good thinge anye man dothe, the same shall he receaue agayne of God, whether he be bonde or free. And ye maisters, do euen the same thinges vnto them, puttyng away threatenynges. Knowyng, that your maister also is in heauen, *neither is there any respect of person with him.

Finally my brethren, be strong throughe the Lorde, and throughe the power of his might. Put on all the armoure of God, that ye maye stande agaynst the assaultes of the deuill. For we wrestle not agaynste bloude and flesche: but agaynst rule, agaynst power, agaynst worldly rulers, euen gouernours of the darkenesse of this worlde, & vnto spirituall craftinesse in heauenlye thinges. Wherefore, take vnto you the whole armoure of God, that ye may be able to resist in the euil day, and (and perfourme all thynges) stande therfore, & your loynes girte with the veryte, hauynge on the brestplate of righteousnes, and hauyng shoes vpon your fete, that ye may be prepared for the gospel of peace: aboue all, take to you the shilde of fayth, wherwith ye may quenche all the fyry dartes of the wicked. And take the helmet of saluation, and the swearde of the spirite, which is the woorde of God. * And praye alwayes with all maner of prayer and supplication in the spirite, & watche thereunto with all instaunce and supplication for all saintes, and for me, that vtterance may be geuen vnto me, that I may open my mouth freely to vtter the secretes of my Gospel (wherof I am a messenger in bondes) that therin I maye speake freely, as I ought to speake. But that ye maye also knowe what condition I am in, and what I do. Tichicus the deare brother, and faythfull minister in the Lord, shal shewe you all thinges, whom I haue sente vnto you for the same purpose, that ye myghte knowe what case we stande in, and that he might cõfort your hertes. Peace be vnto the brethren and loue with fayth, from God the father, and from the lord Iesus Christ. Grace be with all them whiche loue our Lord Jesus Christ sincerely. Amen.

Sent from Rome vnto the Ephesians by Tichicus.

The Epistle of S. Paule the Apostle to the Philippians.

The first Chapter.

Paule and Timothe: the seruauntes of Jesu Christe. To all the saynctes in Christe Jesu, whiche are at Philippos, with the Bishops and Deacons. Grace be vnto you, and peace from GOD our father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. *I thanke my God with al remembraunce of you *alwayes in all my prayers for you, and praye with gladnes: because ye are come into the felowshippe of the Gospel, from the first day vntill nowe, * and am surelye certified of this, that he which hath begon a good worke in you, shall perfourme it vntil the day of Jesus Christe: as it becometh me so to iudge I of you all, because I haue you in my herte: forasmuche as ye all are companions of grace with me, euen in my bondes, and in the defendyng and stablishyng of the Gospel. For God is my recorde, how greatly I long after you all, from the very hart rote in Jesus christe. * And this I praye, that your loue maye encreace yet more and more in knowledge, and in all vnderstandyng, that ye maye accepte the thinges that are moste excellente, that ye maye may be pure, and ſuche as offende no man vntyll the daye of Chriſt: beyng fylled with the fruite of righteouſnes, whiche cometh by Jeſus Chriſte, vnto the glorye and prayſe of God. ¶ I woulde ye ſhoulde vnderſtande (brethren) that the thinges which happened vnto me, chaunced vnto the greate furtherance of the Goſpel. So that my bandes in Chriſt are manifeſte throughout all the iudgemente hall, and in all other places: In ſo much that many of the brethren in the Lorde, beyng encouraged through my bandes, dare more boldlye ſpeake the worde without feare. ¶ Some preache Chriſte of enuye and ſtrife, and ſome of good will. The one part preach Chriſt of ſtrife, and not ſincerelye, ſuppoſyng to adde more aduerſitye to my bandes. Agayne, the other part preache of loue, because thei know that I am ſet to defende the Goſpel. What then? So that Chriſte be preached any maner of waye, whether it be by occaſion, or of true meanyng, I am glad therof, yea, and will be glad. For I know, that this ſhal chaunce to my ſaluation, * throughe your prayer & miniſtryng of the ſpirite of Jeſu Chriſt, accordyng to my expectation, and hope, that in nothynge I ſhall be aſhamed: but that with all boldenelle, as alwayes, euen ſo nowe alſo) Chriſte ſhalbe magnified in my bodye: whether it be through life, or through death. For Chriſte is to me life, and deathe is to me aduantage. Yet thynke me to liue in the fleſh, that thing is to me fruitefull, for the worke, and what I ſhall chooſe I wot not. For I am conſtrayned of thoſe two thinges. * I deſire to be looſed, and to be with Chriſt, whiche is muche and farre better. Neuertheleſſe to abide in the fleſhe is more nedefull for you. And this am I ſure of, that I ſhall abide and continue wyth you al, for your furtherance and ioye of your faith, that your reioyſyng may be the more abundaunt throughe Jeſus Chriſte in me, by my commyng to you agayne. Onelye let your converſation be * as it becometh the Goſpel of Chriſt: that whether I come and ſe you, or elles be abſent, I maye yet heare of your conditions, that ye continue in one ſpirite, and in one ſoule, labouryng as we do, to maintayne the fayth of the Goſpel, and in nothyng feayryng your aduerſaries, which is to them a cauſe of perdicio, but to you of ſaluacion, and that of God. For vnto you it is geuen for Chriſtes ſake, that not onely ye ſhoulde beleue on him: but alſo that ye ſhoulde ſuffer for his ſake, hauyng euen ſuche a fight, as ye ſaw in me, and nowe here of me. ¶ The. 2. chapter.

IF there be therefore any conſolation in Chriſte, if there be any comforte of loue, if there be any felowſhip of the ſpirite, if there be any compaſſion and mercye, fulfill ye my ioye, that ye be lyke minded, hauyng one loue, beyng of one accorde, and of one mynde, that nothinge be done throughe ſtrife, or of vayne glorye, but in meekenes of minde, let euery man eſteme another better then him ſelfe. Loke not ye euery manne on his owne thinges, but euery manne on the thynges that are other mens. ¶ Let the ſame minde be in you, whyche was in Chriſt Jeſu: whiche when he was in the ſhape of God, thought it not robberye to be equal with God. Neuertheles, he made him ſelfe of no reputacion, takyng on him the ſhape of a ſeruaunt, and † became like vnto men, and was founde in his apparell as a man. He humbled him ſelfe, and became obedient vnto death, euen the death of the croſſe. Wherefore God alſo hath exalted him on hye, and geuen him a name, whiche is aboue all names: that * in the name of Jeſus † euerye knee ſhoulde bowe, bothe of thinges in heauen, and thinges in earth, and thinges vnder the earth, & that all tonges ſhould confeſſe that Jeſus Chriſt is the † Lorde, vnto the prayſe of God the father. ¶ Wherfore (my deareſt beloued) as ye haue alwayes obeyed, not when I was preſent onely, but nowe muche more in myne abſence, euen ſo, worke out your owne ſaluation with feare and trembling. For it is God whiche worcketh in you, bothe the will, and alſo the dede, euen of good will.

¶ Do all thinges without murmuring, and diſputyng, that ye maye be ſuche as no man can complayne on: and buteyond ſoones of God, without rebuke, in the middes of a croked and peruerſe nacion, amõg whom, ſe that ye ſhine as lightes in the worlde, holdyng faſte the worde of lyfe, that I maye † reioyce in the day of Chriſt, how that I haue not runne in vaine neyther haue laboured in vayne. Yea, and thoughe I be offered vp vpon the ſeruyce and ſacrifice of your fayeth: I reioyce, and reioyce with you all. For the ſame cauſe alſo do ye reioyce, and reioyce with me. ¶ I truſte in the Lorde Jeſus, for to ſende Timotheus ſhortly vnto you, † that I alſo maye be of good comforte, when I knowe what caſe ye ſtande in. For I haue no man that is ſo lyke minded to me, whiche wyth ſo pure affection, wil care for your matters. For all other ſeke their owne, and not the thinges whyche are Jeſus Chriſtes. Ye knowe the proofe of him, howe that as a ſon with the father, ſo hath he with me beſtowed his ſeruyce in the Goſpel. Him therfore I hope to ſend aſſone as I know how it wil go with me. I truſt in the Lorde, that I alſo my ſelfe ſhal come ſhortly. But I ſuppoſed it neceſſary to ſend brother Epaphroditus vnto you, my companion in labour, & felowe ſouldier, your apoſtle, which alſo miniſtreth to my neade. For he longed after you all, & was full of heuines, becauſe that ye had heard howe that he had ben ſick. And no doute he was ſick, in ſo much that he was nie to death. But God had mercy on him: & not on him only, but on me also, leaste I shulde haue sorowe vpon sorowe. I sent him therfore more diligently: that whē ye se him, ye maye reioyce againe, and that I mai be the lesse sorowfull. Receyue him therfore in the Lord with al gladnesse, and* make much of such, because that for the worke of Christ he went so farre, that he was nye vnto death, and regarded not his life: to fulfill that which was lacking on your part toward me.

Moreouer, (brethren) reioyce ye in the Lorde. It greeueth me not to write one thing often to you. For to you it is a sure thing. Beware of dogges, beware of euil workers. Beware of diuision.* For we are circumcision, which serue God* in the spirite, & reioyce in Christ Iesu, & haue no confidence in the flesh: though I might also reioyce in the flesh. If anie other man thinketh that he hath wherof he might trust in the flesh: I haue more reason. Circumcised the eyght daye, of the kinred of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin* an Ebrue borne of the Ebrues* as concerning the lawe, a Pharisee: as concerning zeale, I persecuted the congregation, as touching the righteousnes which is in the lawe, I was vnrebukable. But the thinges that were vauntage vnto me, those I counted losse for Christes sake. Ye, I thinke al thinges but losse for the excellency of christ Iesu my lord. For who I haue counted al thinges losse, and do iudge them but vile, that I may win Christe, and be founde in him, not hauinge mine owne righteousnes of the lawe: but that which is throughe the faith of Christ: euen the righteousnes which cometh of god through faith: that I maye knowe him, and the vertue of his resurrection, and felowship of his passions, while I am conformable vnto his (death) if by any meanes I might attaine vnto the resurrection of the dead. Not that I haue attained vnto it already, or that I am already perfect: but I folow, if that I may comprehend that, wherin I am comprehended of Christe Iesu. Brethren, I count not my selfe that I haue gotten it as yet, but this one thing I saye: I forget those thinges which are behinde, and endeuour my selfe vnto those thinges which are before, & according to the marke apointed (I presse) to the rewarde of the hye callinge of God throughe Christ Iesu. Let vs therefore as many as be perfect, be thus wise minded, and if we be otherwise minded, God shal open the same vnto you. Neuertheles, vnto that which we haue attained vnto, let vs proceede by one rule, that we maye be of one mynde. Brethren, be followers together of me, and loke on them which walke euen so, as ye haue vs for an example. For many walke (of whom I haue told you often, and now tell you weping) that they are the enemies of the crosse of Christe, whose end is damnacion, whose God is their belly, & glory to their shame, which are worldly minded. But our conuersation is in heuen, frō whence we loke for the sauiour, euen the Lord Jesus Christe, whiche shal* chaunge our vile body, that he may make it like to his glorious body according to the working wherby he is able also to subdue al thinges vnto him selfe.

The iiij. Chapter.

Therefore my brethren dearely beloued and longed for, my ioye and crowne, so continue in the Lorde, ye beloued. I praye Euodias, and beseche Syntiches, that they be of one accorde in the Lorde: Yea, and I beseche the faithfull yoke felowe, helpe the women which laboured with me in the Gospel, and with Clement also, and with other my labourers felowes* whose names are in the boke of life.

*Reioyce in the Lorde alwaye, and againe I saye, reioyce. Let your softnes be knowen vnto all men. The Lorde is euen at hande. Be careful for nothing: but in all praier and supplication let your petitions be manifest vnto God with geuing of thankes. And the peace of God (whiche passeth all vnderstandynge) kepe your hertes and mindes through Christ Iesu. Furthermore, brethren, whatsoeuer thinges are true, whatsoeuer thinges are honest, whatsoeuer thinges are iust, whatsoeuer thinges are pure, whatsoeuer thinges are cōuenient, whatsoeuer thinges are of honest report: if there be anye vertue, if there be anye praise, (of learninge) those same haue ye in your minde: whiche ye haue both learned and receiued, hearde also, and seene in me: those thinges do: and the god of peace shalbe with you. I reioice in the Lorde greatly, that now at the last your care is renued againe for me, in that wherin ye were also careful, but ye lacked opportunitie. I speake not because of necessitie. For I haue learned in whatsoeuer state I am, *therwith to be content. I knowe how to be lowe, and I know howe to excede. Euery where, and in al things I am instructed, bothe to be full, and to be hongrye, bothe to haue plenty, and to suffer nede. I can do all thinges through Christe, whiche strengthe neth me. Notwithstanding ye haue wel done that ye bare part with me in my tribulation. Ye of Philippos knowe also, that in the beginning of the Gospel, when I departed frō Macedonia, no congregation bare part with me, as concerning geuing and receiuing, but ye onely. For when I was in Thessalonica, ye sent once, and after warde againe vnto my necessitie: not that I desire giftes, but I desire abounding fruite on your part. Neuertheles, I receiued all, and haue plenty. I was ful filled after that I receiued of Epaphroditus the thinges which were sente frō you,

The fyꝛſt Chapter.

A PAule an apoſtle of Jeſu Chꝛiſte, by the will of God, and bꝛother Timotheus, To the ſainctes whiche are at Coloſſa, and bꝛethꝛen that beleue in Chꝛiſte. * Gꝛace be vnto you, and peace fꝛome God oure father, & fꝛome the Loꝛde Jeſu Chꝛiſte. * We geue thankes to God the father of oure Loꝛd Jeſus Chꝛiſt, * alwayes foꝛ you in oure pꝛayers. Foꝛ we haue heꝛde of youꝛ faith in Chꝛiſt Jeſu, and of the loue whiche ye beaꝛe to al ſainctes, foꝛ the hopes ſake whiche is layd vp in ſtoꝛe foꝛ you in heauen: of which hope, ye heꝛde befoꝛe by the tꝛue woꝛde of the Goſpell, whiche is come vnto you: euē as it is into al the woꝛld, and it is fꝛuteful, and gꝛoweth, as it is alſo amonge you, fꝛom the daye in the whiche ye heꝛd of it, and had experience in the gꝛace of God thꝛoweꝛ the tꝛueth, as ye learned of * Epaphꝛa, oure deaꝛe felowe ſeꝛuaunte, whiche is foꝛ you a faithful miniſter of Chꝛiſt, B whiche alſo declaꝛed vnto youꝛ loue, whiche ye haue in the ſpiꝛite. * ¶ Foꝛ this cauſe we alſo euer ſence the daye we heꝛde of it, haue not ceaſed to pꝛaye foꝛ you, and to deſiꝛe, that ye myght be fulfylled with the knowledge of his wyll, in all wyſedome and ſpiꝛituall vnderſtandyng, that ye myght walke woꝛthy of the Loꝛd, that in all thynges ye maye pleaſe * beynge fꝛutefull in all good woꝛkes, and encꝛeaſyng in the knowledge of God: ſtꝛyghthed with all myght, thꝛoweꝛ his glꝛioꝰ power, vnto all pacience and longe ſuffeꝛyng with ioyfulnes, * geuyng thankes vnto the father, whiche made vs mete to be paꝛtakeꝛs of the inheꝛitaunce of ſainctes in lyght. * Whiche hathe deliuered vs fꝛom the power of dacknes, and hathe tꝛanſlated vs into the kingdome of his deaꝛe ſonne, * by whom we haue redempcyon thꝛoweꝛ his bloude, euen the foꝛgeuenes of ſynnes, * whyche is the ymage of the inuiſible God, eyꝛſte begotten of cꝛeatuꝛes. * Foꝛ by him were all thynges cꝛeated, that aꝛe in heauen, and that aꝛe in eaꝛthe, viſible and inuiſible, whether they be maieſtie oꝛ Loꝛdeſhyppe, eyther rule oꝛ power. All thynges were cꝛeated by hym and foꝛ hym, and he is befoꝛe al thinges, and by hym all thynges haue their beynge. And * hee is the head of the body, euen of the congꝛegacion: he is the begynnyng and * eyꝛſte begotten of the dead, that in all thynges he myght haue the pꝛeeminence. Foꝛ it pleaſed the father, that in hym ſhould all fulneſ dwel, and by hym to * reconcyle all thynges vnto himſelfe, and to fyt at peaꝛe by him thꝛoweꝛ the bloud of his cꝛoſſe, both thinges in heauen and thynges in eaꝛth. And you * whiche were ſomtyme ſtaꝛe of, and enemyes, becauſe youꝛ myndes were ſet in euell woꝛkes, hathe he nowe yet reconcyled in the bodye of his fleſhe thꝛoweꝛ death, to make you holye, and vnblameable, and without faute in his owne ſyght, if ye continue gꝛounded and ſtabliſhed in the faith, and be not moued awaye fꝛom the hope of the Goſpell, wheꝛof ye haue heaꝛde, howe that it is pꝛeached amonge all cꝛeatuꝛes which aꝛe vnder heauen, wheꝛof I Paul D am made a miniſter. Nowe ioye I * in my ſuffeꝛynges foꝛ you, and fulfyll that which is behynde of the paſſions of Chꝛiſt in my fleſh, foꝛ his bodies ſake, whiche is the congꝛegacion, wheꝛof I am made a miniſter, accoꝛdynge to the oꝛdinaunce of God, which oꝛdinaunce was geuen me vnto you waꝛde, to fulfyll the woꝛde of God, that * miſtery which hath ben hyd ſence the woꝛlde began, and ſence the begynnynge of generacions: * but nowe is opened to his ſainctes, to whom God wolde make knowen what the glꝛioꝰ ꝛiches of this miſterie is amonge the Gentiles, whiche ꝛiches is Chꝛiſte in you, the hope of glꝛoye, whom we pꝛeache, waꝛnynge al men, and teachyng al men in al wyſedome, to make all men pefect in Chꝛiſt Jeſu. Wheꝛin I alſo laboure and ſtꝛyue euen as ſtꝛeteth me his ſtꝛength woꝛketh in me myghtyly.

Foꝛ though I be abſente in the fleſhe, yet am I with you in the ſpiꝛite, ioyenge and beholdynge youꝛ ooꝛdeꝛ, and youꝛ ſtedfaſt faith in Chꝛiſte. As ye haue theꝛfoꝛe ꝛeceaued Chꝛiſte Jeſu the Loꝛde, euen ſo walke ye in hym, B that ye be rooted and buylte in him, and ſtabliſhed thꝛoweꝛ faythe, as ye haue learned, and theꝛe in be pleenteous with geuynge thankes. * Be ware, leſt any man ſpoyle you thꝛoweꝛ philoſlosophie & vncreatedll vanitie, after the tradicion of men, and after the ordinaunces of the worlde, and not after Christe. For in hym dwelleth all the fulnes of the godhead bodely, and ye are complet in hym: whyche is the heade of all rule and power, by whom also ye are * circumcyded with circumcision whiche is done without handes, for as much as ye haue put of the synfull bodie of the flesshe thorowe the circumcision that is in Christe, in that* ye are buried with him thorowe baptisme, in whom ye are also risen agayne thorowe fayth, that is wrought by the operacion of God, whiche rayled him from death. * And ye when ye were dead thorowe synne and thorow the vncircumcision of your flesh, hath he quickened with him, and hath forgeuen vs all our trespasses, & hath put oute the hande writynge that was agaynste vs, contayned in the lawe written, and that hathe he taken out of the waye, and hathe fastened it to his crosse, and hathe* spoyled rule and power, and hath made a shewe of the openly, and hathe triumphed ouer them in his owne persone. Let no man therefore trouble your conference aboute meate and drynke, or for a pece of an holy daye: or of the newe moone, or of the Sabboth dayes, * whiche are shadowes of thynges to come: but the bodye is in Christe. Lette no man make you shote at a wronge marke by the humblenes and holynes of aungels, in the thinges whiche he hath not sene, beynge causeles puffe vp with his flesshlye mynde, and holdeth not the heade, wherof al the bodye by iointes and couples, receaueth norysshement, and is knit together, and encreaseth with the increasynge that commeth of God. Wherefore if ye be dead with Christ from the* ordinaunces of the worlde, why as though ye yet lyued in the worlde, are ye led with tradicions? Touche not, taste not, handell not: whiche all perishe thorowe the verye abuse: after the commaundementes and doctrines of men. Whyche thynges outwardly haue the similitude of the wysedome by superfluicion and humblenes of mynde, and by hurtynge of the bodye, and in that they do the flesshe no worshippe vnto the arde therof.

If ye be then risen agayne with Christe, seke those thynges whyche are aboue, where Christ sitteth* on the ryght hande of God. Set your affeccyon on heauenly thynges, and not on earthy thynges. For ye are deade, and youre lyfe is hyd with Christe in God. When soeuer Christe (whiche is oure lyfe) shall shewe hymselfe, then shall ye also appeare with him in glorye. Mortifye therfore youre earthye membres: fornicacion, vnclennes, vnnaturall lustes, euell concupiscence: and couetousnes, whiche is worshippynge of ymages, for which thinges sake, the wrath of God vseth to come on the vnobedient chyldren* amonge whome ye walked sometyme, when ye lyued in them. But nowe put ye also away fro me you all suche thynges: wrath, fearcenes, maliciousnes, cursed speakynge, filthy communicacion oute of youre mouthe. Lye not one to another, seynge that ye haue put of the olde man with hys workes, and haue* put on the newe man, whiche is renued into the knowledge and ymage of hym that made him, * where is neyther Gentill nor Jewe, circumcision nor vncircumcision, Barbarous or Scythian, bonde or free, but Christ is all in all thynges. Therfore as electe of God: holy and beloued, put on tender mercye, kyndnes, humblenes of mynde, mekenes, long sufferynge, forbearynge one another, and forgeuynge one another, if any haue a quarel agaynste another: as Christe forgaue you: euen so do ye. Above all these thynges put on* loue, which is the bonde of perfectenes. And the peace of God rule in your hertes, to the whiche peace ye are called in one bodye. And se that ye be thankfull. Lette the worde of Christe dwell in you plenteously with all wysedome. Teach and exhorte your owne selues* in Psalmes and hymnes, and spirituall songes, syngynge with grace in your hertes to the Lorde. And* whatsoeuer ye do (in worde or dede) do all in the name of the Lorde Jesu, geuynge thankes to God the father by him. * Ye wyues, submytte youre selues vnto your owne husbandes, as it is comely in the Lorde: Ye husbandes, loue youre wyues, and be not bytter vnto them. * Ye children, obey youre fathers and mothers in all thynges, for that is well pleasynge vnto the Lorde. Ye fathers, prouoke not youre children to anger, lest they be of a desperate mynde. * Ye seruauntes be obedient vnto them that are youre bodely maisters in all thynges: not with eye seruice, as men pleasers, but in singlenes of hert, feareyng God. And what soeuer ye do, do it hertely, as though ye dyd it to the Lorde, and not vnto men, knowyng, that of the Lorde ye shall receaue the rewarde of inheritaunce, for ye serue the Lord Christe. But he that doth synne: shal receaue for his synne. * There is* there any respect of persones with God.

wayes well fauored and, powdred with ſalt, that ye maye knowe, howe ye ought to aunſwere every man. Of all my buſynes shal ye be certified by Tichicus, the beloued brother and faythfull miniſter and felowe ſeruaunte in the Lorde, whome I haue ſente vnto you for the ſame purpoſe, that he myghte knowe what ye do, and that he myghte comforte your hertes with one Oneſimus, a faythfull and beloued brother: whiche is one of you. They ſhall shewe you of all thynges, whiche are adoynge here. * Ariſtarchus my priſon felowe ſaluteth you, and * Marcus, Barnabas ſyſters ſonne, touchynge whome, ye receaued commaundementes. For I beare him recorde, that he hathe a feruente mynde for you and them that are of Laodicia, and them that are of Hierapolis. Deare Lucas the Phiſicion greeteth you, and * Demas. Salute the brethren whyche are of Laodicia, and ſalute Nymphas, and the congregacion, whiche is in his houſe. And when the Epiſtle is reade of you, make that it be read alſo in the congregacion of the Laodicians: and that ye lykewyſe reade the Epiſtle of Laodicia. And ſaye to Archippus, take hede to the office that thou haſt receaued in the Lord that thou fulfyll it. The ſalutacion by the hande of me Paule: remember my bondes. The grace of our Lorde Jeſu Chriſte be with you. Amen.

Sente from Rome by Tichicus and Oneſimus.

The fyrſt Epiſtle of ſainct Paule the Apoſtle vnto the Theſſalonians.

The fyrſt Chapter.

Paul and Syluanus and Timothe. Vnto the congregacion of the Theſſalonians, in God the father, and in the Lorde Jeſus Chriſt. * Grace be vnto you, and peace from God our father, and from the Lorde Jeſus Chriſt. We geue God thankes * alwayes for you all, makynge mencion of you in our prayers without ceaſynge, and call you to remembraunce because of the worke of your fayth and labour in * loue, and becauſe ye haue continued in the hope * of oure Lorde Jeſus Chriſt, in the ſyght of God our father. We knowe brethren beloued of God howe that ye are electe. For our Goſpell came not vnto you by * worde onely, but alſo by power, and by the holye ghoſt, and by much certaintye, as * ye knowe: after what maner we behaued our ſelues amōg you, for your ſakes. And ye became folowers of vs, & of the Lord, receauynge the worde, with much affliccion, with ioye of the holye ghoſt: ſo that ye were an enſample to all that beleue in Macedonia and Achaia. For from you ſounded oute the worde of the Lorde, not in Macedonia and in Achaia onely: but youre fayth alſo, whiche ye haue vnto God, ſpred herſelfe abroade in all quarters, ſo that it nedeth vs not to ſpeake any thyng at all. For they them ſelues shewe of you, what maner of entryng in we had vnto you, and howe ye tourned to God from ymages, for to ſerue the lyuynge and trewe God, and for to loke for hys ſonne * frome heauen, whome he rayſed frome death: euen Jeſus, whiche delyuereth vs from * the wrath to come.

The ii. Chapter.

For ye your ſelues (* brethren,) knowe of our entraunce in vnto you, howe that it was not in vayne, but euen after that we had ſuffred before, and were * shamefully entreated at Philippos (as ye knowe) then were we bolde in oure God, to ſpeake vnto you the Goſpell of God, in * muche ſtryuynge. For oure exhortacion was not to brynge you to errour, nor yet to vnclennes, neyther was it wyth gyle: but as we were alowed of God, that the Goſpell ſhoulde be committed vnto vs: euen ſo we ſpeake, not as they that * pleaſe men, but God tryeth our hertes. Neyther led we oure conuerſacion at any tyme with flateryng wordes, as ye knowe: neyther by occaſyon of couetouſnes. * God is recorde neyther ſought we prayſe of menne, neither of you, nor yet of any other, when we myghte haue ben in auctoritie, as the Apoſtles of Chriſte, but we were tender amonge you, euen as a nource cheryſheth her children, ſo were we affectyoned towarde you, oure good will was to haue dealte vnto you, not the Goſpell of God onely: but alſo oure owne ſoules, becauſe ye were deare vnto vs. * Ye remember brethren oure labour, and trauayle. * For ye laboured daye and nyght, becauſe we ſholde not be chargeable vnto any of you, and preached vnto you the Goſpel of God. Ye are witneſſes, and ſo is God, howe holily and iuſtely and vnblameably we behaued oure ſelues amonge you that beleue: as ye knowe, howe that we dyde exhorte you vnto every one of you, as a father dothe vnto hys children, exhortynge, conſolynge, and beſechynge you, that ye wolde walke worthy of God, whyche hathe called you vnto hys kyngdome and glorye. For thys cauſe thanke we God alſo wythout ceaſynge, becauſe that when ye receaued of vs the worde of Goddes wherewith ye herde to knowe God ye receaued it not as the worde of man: but euen as it was in dede, the worde of God, which worketh also in you that beleue. For ye brethren became folowers of the congregacios of God, whyche in Iewrye are in Christe Iesu: for ye haue suffred lyke thynges of your kynsmen, as we our selues haue suffered of the Iewes. Whiche as they kylled the Lord Iesus, and theyr owne Prophetes, euen so haue they persecuted vs: and God they pleace not, and are contrarye to all men, and hynder vs that we should not speake vnto the gentils, that they myght be saued to fulfyll theyr synnes alwaye. For the* wrath of God is come on them, euen to the vttermost.

For as much brethren as we are kept frome you for a season, as concernyng the bodyly presence (but not in the herte) we endeuored the more to se you personally with great desyre. And therfore we wold haue come vnto you. I Paul ones & agayne: but Sathan withstode vs. For what is oure hope ofsoye or crowne of reioycynge? are not ye it in the presence of our Lord Iesus Christ at his commynge? yes, ye are our glorye and ioye.

The.iii. Chapter.

Wherfore, sence we could no lenger forbeare, we thought it good to remayne at* Athens alone, and sent Timothe oure brother and minister of God, and the helper forth of oure labour in the Gospell of Christe, to stablyche you and to comforte you concernynge oure faith.* that no man should be moued in these afflictions. For as ye your selues knowe, that we are euen appointed therunto. For when we were with you, we tolde you before, that we should suffre tribulacion, euē as it came to passe, and as ye know. For this cause, when I could no lenger forbeare, I sente, that I myght haue knowlege of your fayth, lest by some meanes the tempter hadde tempted you, and lest our labour had ben bestowed in vayne. But nowe lately, when Timothe came from you vnto vs, and declared to vs youre fayth and your loue, and howe that ye haue good remembraunce of vs alwayes, desyrynge to se vs, as we also desyre to se you: Therfore brethren, we receaued consolacion by you, in al our aduersytie and necessitie, through youre faith. For nowe are we alyue, if ye stande stedfastly in the Lord. For what thanke can we recompence to God agayne for you, ouer al the ioye, that we ioye for youre sakes before oure God: prayenge nyght and daye exceadyngly, that we myght se you presently, and myght fulfyll the thynges whiche are lacking vnto your faith. God hymselfe oure father, and oure Lorde Jesus Christ shall guyde our iourney vnto you: the Lorde also shall encreace you, and make you to loue oure in loue one towarde another and towarde al men, euen as we be towardes you, that we maye make youre heartes stable and vnblameable in holynes before God oure father, at the commynge of oure Lorde Jesus Christe with all sainctes.

The.iiii. Chapter.

Furthermore, we beseche you (brethren) and exhorte you by the Lorde Jesus, that ye encreace more and more, euen as ye haue receaued of vs, howe ye oughte to walke and to please God. For ye knowe, what commandementes we gaue you by oure Lorde Jesu Christe. For this is the wyll of God* euen your holynes, that ye shulde abstayne frome fornicacion, and that euery one of you should knowe* howe to kepe his vessell in holynes and honoure, and not in the lucte of concupiscence* as do the hethen, whiche knowe not God, that no man oppresse and defraude his brother in bargaynynge: because that the Lorde is the auenger of all suche thinges, as we tolde you before, and testified. For God hathe not called vs vnto vnclennes, but vnto holines. Ye therfore that despiseth, despiseth not man, but God whiche hath sent* his holy spirite amonge you. But as touchyng brotherlye* loue, ye nede not, that I wryte vnto you.* For ye are taughte of God to loue one another. Yea and that thynge verelye ye do vnto al the brethren whiche are in al Macedonia. We beseche you brethren, that ye encreace more and more, and that ye study to be quyet, and to medle with your owne busines, & * to worke with your owne handes, as we cōmaunded you, that ye may behaue your selues honestly toward them that are without, & that nothing be lackyng vnto you. For I wold not brethren, that ye should be ignorannt cōcernyng them whiche are fallen a slepe, that ye sorowe not as other do, whyche* haue no hope. For if we beleue, that Jesus dyed, and rose agayne: euen so the also whiche slepe by Jesus, will God bryng agayne with him. For this saye we vnto you, in the worde of the Lord, that we which shal* lyue, & shal remaine in the commynge of the Lorde, shall not come yer they which slepe. For the Lord himselfe shall descende from heaven with a shoute, and the voyce of the & Archangell and trompe of God. And the deade in Christe shall aryse fyrst: then we whiche shal lyue (euen we whiche shall remayne) shalbe caughte vp with them also in the cloudes, to mete the Lorde in the ayer. And so shall we euer be with the Lorde. Wherfore, comforte youre selues one another with these wordes.

The.v. Chapter.

Finallye, of the tymes and seasons (brethren) is no nede that I wryte vnto you: for ye your selues knowe perfectly, that* the day of the lord shal come euē as a theefe in the night. For whē they shal say, peace, & al thinges are safe, the shal* sodein destruccō come vpon them, as trouble commeth vpon a woman trauailyng with childe) and they shal not escape. But* ye brethren are not in darkenes, that that day should come on you as a theefe. 5 Ye are al the children of lyght, & the children of the day. We are not of the night, neyther of darkenes. * Therefore let vs not slepe as do other: but let vs watch, & be sober. For they that slepe, slepe in the nyghte: & they that be dronken, are dronken in the nyght. But let vs which are of the daye, be sober, armed with the brest plate of faith and loue, & with hope of saluacion for an helmet. For god hath not appointed vs to prouoke wrath vnto our selues, but to obtaine saluacion by the name of our Lorde Jesu Christ which dyed for vs: that whether we wake or slepe, we should liue together with him. Wherefore, comforte your selues together, and edifie euery one another, euen as ye do. * We beseche you brethren, that ye knowe them* which labour among you, and haue the ouersight of you in the Lorde, and geue you exhortacion, that ye haue them in hie reputacion aboue measure for their workes sake, and be at peace with them. * We desire you (brethren) warne them that are vnruly, comforte the feble mynded, lyfte vp the weake, be patient towarde all men. * See that none recompence euel for euel vnto any man: but euer folowe that which is good, both amonge youre selues, and to all men. * Reioyce euer. * Praye continually. In all thynges geue thankes. For this is the will of God thorowe Christe Jesu towarde you. Quenche not the spirite. * Despise not prophecyenges. Examen all thynges, kepe that which is good. Abstayne from all euell appearaunce. The very God of peace sanctifye you thorowe out. And I pray God that your hole spirite, and soule and body, maye be preserued: so that in nothinge ye maye be blamed in the commynge of our Lord Jesus Christ. * Faythfull is he which called you, which will also do it. Brethren, pray for vs. * Greete al the brethren with an holye kysse. I charge you in the Lord, that this Epistle be redde vnto the holye brethren. * The grace of the Lord Jesus Christe be with you. Amen.

The first Epistle vnto the Thessalonians was written frome Athens.

The seconde Epystle of Sainct Paule the Apostle to the Thessalonians.

The first Chapter.

PAul and Syluanus and Timotheus. Vnto the congregacion of the Thessalonians in God oure father, and in the Lorde Jesus Christ. * Grace be vnto you, and peace from God oure father, and from the Lorde Jesus Christe. We are bounde to * thancke God alwayes for you brethren (as it is mete, because that youre faith growth exceadingly, and euerye one of you swymmeth in loue towarde another betwene your selues, so that we our selues boaste of you in the congregacions of God, ouer your patience and faith in al your persecutions and tribulacions, that ye suffre, whyche is a token of the ryghteous iudgement of God, that ye are counted worthy of the kyngdom of God, for whiche ye also suffre. It is verely a ryghteous thynge with God that he recompence tribulacyon to them that trouble you: and to you, whyche are troubled, rest with vs, when the Lorde Jesus shall shewe hym selfe frome heauen, with the Aungels of his power, with flammyng fyre, whyche shall rendre vengeaunce vnto them that knowe not God, * and that obey not the Gospell of oure Lorde Jesus Christe, * whyche shalbe punyshed with euerlastynge damnacion, frome the presence of the Lorde, and frome the glory of his power, * when he shall come to be glorified in his saintes, and to become maruelous in all them that beleue: because our testimonie that we had to you, was beleued euen the same daye. * Wherefore, also we praye alwayes for you, that our God will make you worthy of this callyng, and fulfyl all delectacion of goodnes and the worcke of faith, with power: that the name of our Lorde Jesus Christe maye be glorified by you, and ye by hym, accordynge to the grace of oure God, and of the Lorde Jesus Christ.

The ii. Chapter.

WE beseche you (brethren) by the commynge of our Lorde Jesu Christe, and in that we shall assemble vnto him, that ye be not sodenly moued frome youre mynde, nor be troubled, neyther by spirite, neyther by worde, nor yet by letter, whiche should seme to come frome vs, as though the daye of Christ were at hande. Let no man deceaue you by any meanes, for the Lorde shall not come, except ther come * a departynge fyrste, and that the synful man be opened, the sonne of perdicion, whyche is an aduersarye: and is exalted aboue all that is called God, or that is worshypped: so that he doth syt * in the temple of God, boastyng hym selfe to be God. Remember ye not, that when I was yet with you, I tolde you these thynges? And nowe ye knowe what withholdeth: euen that he myght be bitered at his tyme. * For the mysterye of the iniquitie doth already worke: tyll he which nowe onelye letteth, be taken out of the waye. And then shall that wycked be bitered, * whom the Lorde shall consume with the spirite of his mouth, and shall destroye with the appearaunce of hys commynge: * euen hym whose commynge is after the worckynge of Satan, with all lyenge power * tyknes and wonders, and with al deceauablenes of vnrighteousnesse, amonge them that perysshe:

because they receaued not the loue of the truth, that they myght be saued. * And therefore God shall sende them stronge delusion, that they shoulde beleue lyes: that all they might be damned: which beleued not the truth: but had pleasure in vnrighteousnes. But we are bounde to geue thankes alwaye to God for you (brethren beloued of the Lorde) for because that God hath from the beginnynge chosen you to saluacion, thorowe sanctifienge of the spirite, and thorowe beleuynge of the trueth, whereunto he called you by oure Gospel to obtaine the glorye of our Lord Iesu Christ. Therefore brethren stande fast, & kepe the ordinances which ye haue learned: whether it were by oure preachynge, or by Epistle. Our Lorde Iesu Christ hym selfe, and God, and oure father (whiche hath loued vs, and hath geuen vs euerlastynge consolacion, and good hope thorowe grace) comforte your hertes, and stablyshe you in all good sayenge and doynge.

The. iii. Chapter.

FFurther more, brethren, praye for vs, * that the worde of God may haue passage, and be glorified, as it is also with you, and that we may be delyuered from vnreasonable and frowarde men. For all men haue not fayth: but the Lord is faithfull, which shal stablyshe you, & preserue you from euell. We haue confidence thorowe the Lorde to you warde, that ye both do, & will do the thinges whiche we commande you. And the Lord guide your hertes to the loue of God, & to the pacient waytyng for Christ. We require you brethren by the name of our Lorde Iesu Christ * that ye withdrawe youre selues from euery brother, that behaueth him selfe inordinatly, and not after the institution, whiche ye receaued of vs. For ye youre selues knowe, howe ye ought to folowe vs. For we behaued not our selues inordinatlye among you. Neither toke we bread of any mā for nought: but * wrought with laboure & sweate nyght & daye, because we wolde not be chargeable to anye of you: not but that we had auctoryte: but to make oure selues an ensample vnto you, to folowe vs. For when we were with you, thys we warned you of, that if any wolde not worke, the same should not eate. For we haue hearde say, that there are some whiche walke among you inordynatly, worckynge not at all, but beynge busybodyes. Them that are suche, we commaunde and exhorte, by oure Lorde Iesu Christe, that they worke with quyetnes, and eate their owne breade. * Brethren, be not ye werye in well doynge. * If any man obey not our sayenge: sende vs worde of hym by a letter: and * haue no company with hym, that he maye be ashamed. And counte hym not as an enemye, but warne him as a brother. The verye Lorde of peace geue you peace alwayes, by all meanes. The Lord be with you al. The salutacion of me Paul with mine owne hande. This is the token in all Epystles. So I write. * The grace of oure Lorde Iesus Christe be with you all. Amen.

The fyrst Chapter.

PAul an Apostle of Iesus Christ by * the commission of God our sauyoure & Lord Iesus Christe, * which is our hope. Vnto * Tymothe hys naturall sonne in the fayth. * Grace, mercy, and peace from God our father, and from the Lorde Iesus Christ oure Lorde. As I besought the to abyde styll at Ephesus (when I departed into * Macedonia) euen so do, that thou commaunde some, that they folowe no straunge doctrine, neyther geue hede * to fables and endles genealogyes, which brede doubtes more then Godly edifieng, whiche is by fayth: for the ende of the commaundement is * loue out of a * pure harte, and of a good conscience, and of fayth vnfayned: from the whiche thynges, because some haue erred, they are turned vnto vayne iangelynge, because they wolde be doctours of the lawe, and yet vnderstand not what they speake, neyther whereof they affirme. * We knowe, that * the lawe is good, if a man vse it lawfully: knowing this, * howe that the lawe is not geuen vnto a ryghteous man, but vnto the vnryghteous and disobediente, to the vngodly, and to sinners, to vnholy and vncleane: to murtherers of fathers, and murtherers of mothers, to manslears, to * whoremongers: to them that defyle the selues with mankynd: to menstealers: to lyars: to periured, and yf ther be any other thynge that is contrary to the wholsome doctrine, accordynge to the Gospel of the glorye of the blessed God, whiche Gospell is committed vnto me. ¶ And I thanke Christe Iesus our Lord, which hath made me stronge: for he counted me true, and put me in office, where as before I was a blasphemer, * and a persecuter, and a tyraunt. But yet I obtayned mercye, because I dyd it ignorauntly thorowe vnbeleefe. Neuertheles, the grace of our Lorde was exceadynge aboundaunte with fayth and loue, whiche is in Christ Iesus. This is a true sayeng (& by all meanes worthy to be receaued of vs) that * Christ Iesus came into the worlde, to saue synners, of whom I am chefe. Notwithstandynge for this cause obtayned I mercye, that Iesus Christe shoulde shewe on me all longe pacience, to declare an ensample vnto them, whiche should beleue on hym vnto eternall lyfe. ¶ Vnto the vnto God, kynge euerlastyng, immortal, * inuisible, wyse onely, be honoure and prayse for euer and euer. Amen.

This

This commaundemente commyt I vnto the sonne Timotheus accordyng, to the prophecyes, whiche in tyme past were prophesyed of the, that thou in them, woulcest fyght a good fyghte, hauynge fayth and good conscience: whiche some haue put awaye from them, and as concernynge fayth haue made wyppwracke. Of whose nombre is * Hymeneus and † Alexander, whome * I haue delyuered vnto Sathan, that they maye learne not to blaspheme.

The. ii. Chapter.

I Exhorte therfore, that aboue all thynges, prayers, supplycacions, intercessyons, and geuynge of thankes be made for all men: * for kynges, and for all that are in auctoryte that we maye lyue a quyete and peaceable lyfe, with all Godlynes and honestye. For that is good, and accepted in the syght of God our sauyoure, which wyl haue al men to be saued, & to come vnto the knowledge of the trueth. For there is * one God, and one † mediator betwene God and man, euē the man Christ Iesus, which gaue hym selfe a raunsome for all men, that it should be testified at his tyme, * whereunto I am ordayned a preacher and an Apostle. I tell the truth in Christe and lye not: beynge the teacher of the Gentiles with faith and verite. I wyll therfore that the men* praye euerye where, lyftynge vp pure handes, wythoute wrath or doubtynge. Lykewyse also the women, that they arraye them selues in comelye apparell with shamefastnes and discrete behaueoure, not with broyded heare, eyther golde or pearles, or costly araye: but as becometh women, that professe godlynesse, thorowe good workes. * Let the woman learne in sylence with all subiection. But I suffre not a woman to teache, neither to vsurpe auctoryte ouer the man: but to be in sylence. For Adam was fyrste fourmed, and then Eue. Adam also was not deceaued, but the woman was deceaued, and was subdued to the transgression. Notwythstandynge thorowe bearynge of chyldren, she shalbe saued, yf they continue in fayth and loue, and holynes, with discrecyon.

The. iii. Chapter.

This is a true sayenge: yf a man desyre the office of a Bysshoppe, he desyreth an honeste worcke. A Bysshop therfore muste be blameles: the husbande of one wyfe, dyligent, sober, discrete, a keper of hospitalite: apte to teache: not geuen to ouer muche wyne, no fyghter, not gredy of fylthy lucre: but gentyl, abhorrynge fyghtynge, abhorrynge couetousnes, one that ruleth wel his owne house, one that hathe chyldren in subiection with all reuerence. For yf a man can not rule his owne house, howe shal he care for the congregacion of God? He maye not be a yonge scoler, lest he swell & fall into the iudgement of the euell speaker. He must also haue a good reporte of them whiche are without, lest he fall into rebuke and snare of the euell speaker. Lykewyse must the mynisters be* honeste, not double tonged, not geuen vnto much wyne, neither gredy of fylthy lucre: but holdynge the mysterye of the fayth with a pure conscience. And let them fyrst be proued, and then let them minister so, that no man be able to reproue them. Euen so muste their wiues be honest, not euel speakers: but sober & faithful in all thinges. Let the deacons be the husbandes of one wyfe, and rule their children wel, and their owne houholdes. For * they that minister well, get them selues a good degree and great bolde faith, whiche is in Christe Iesu. These thynges wryte I vnto the, trustynge to come shortly vnto the: but and if I tarye longe, that thou mayst yet haue knowledge, howe thou oughtest to behaue thy selfe in the house of God, whiche is the congregacion of the lyuynge God, the piller and grounde of truthe. And without doubte greate is that misterie of Godlynes: * God was shewed in the flesh, was iustified in the spirite, was sene amonge the angels, was preached vnto the Gentyls, was beleued on in the worlde, and receaued vp in glorye.

The. iiii. Chapter.

The spirite speaketh euidently, that * in the latter tymes some shall † departe from the fayth, and shal geue hede vnto spirites of errour, and doctrines of deuyls which speake false thorowe ypocrisie, and haue their consciēce marked with an hotte yron, forbyddynge to marye, and commaundynge to abstaine from meates* which God hath created to be receaued† with geuynge thankes, of them whyche beleue, and knowe the truthe. For* all the creatures of God are good, and nothynge to be refused, if it be receaued with thankes geuynge. For it is sanctyfyed by the worde of God and prayer. If thou put the brethren in remembraunce of these thynges, thou shalte be a good minister of Iesu Christ* whiche hathe bene norished vp in the wordes of the fayth and of good doctryne, whyche thou haste contynually folowed. But* cast away vngodly and olde wyues tales. Exercise thy selfe rather vnto godlynes. For† bodely exercise profiteth lytle: but godlynes is profitable vnto all thynges, as a thynge whiche hathe promyses of the lyfe that is nowe, and of the lyfe to come. This is a sure sayenge, and by all meanes worthy to be alowed. For therfore we both laboure and suffre rebuke, because we haue a stedfast hope in the lyuynge God, whyche is the sauyoure of all men, specyallye of those that beleue. Suche thynges commaunde and Tyll I come, geue attendaunce to readynge, to exhortacyon, to doctryne. Despise not the gyfte that is in the, whiche was geuen the thorowe prophecye, with the layenge* on of handes by the auctho*ti of prieshode. These thynges exercise, and geue thy selfe vnto them, that it may be kenc howe thou profyteth in all thynges. Take hede vnto thy selfe, and vnto learnynge, & continue therin. For if thou walte to do, thou shalte saue thy selfe, and them that heare the.

The.v. Chapter.

REbuke not an elder, rygorously, * but exhorte hym as a father: the yonger men, as brethren: the elder women, as mothers: the yonger as systers, with all puirenes. Honour wyddowes, whych are true wyddowes. If any wydowes haue chyldren or nevewes, lette them learne fyrste to rule theyr owne houses godlye, * and to recompence theyr elders. For that is good and acceptable before God. She that is a true* wyddowe and freendles, putteth her truste in God, and contynueth in supplications and prayers nyght and daye. But she that lyueth in pleasure, is deade, euen yet alyue. And these thinges commaunde, that they may be wythout rebuke. But yf anye prouyde not for her owne (and specially for them of her houshold) the same hath denyed the faythe, and is worse then an infydell. Let no wyddowe be chosen vnder three score yeare olde, and suche a one as was the wyfe of one man, and well reported of men, in good workes: if she haue brought vp chyldren: * yf she haue lodged straungers, yf she haue washed the sayntes fete: yf she haue mynistred vnto them, whych were in aduersitye: yf she haue bene continuallye geuen vnto all maner of good workes. The yonger wyddowes refuse. For when they haue begon to waxe wanton agaynste Chryste, they wyll marry, hauynge damnacyon, because they haue caste awaye theyr fyrste faythe. And also they learne to go frome house to house: yee not yee only, but also tatlers & busybodies, speakynge thynges whiche are not comely. I wyll therfore that the yonger women * marye, to beare children, to guyde the house, and geue none occasyon to the aduersarye to speake euel. For many of them are alreadye turned backe, and are gone after Sathan. And if any man or woman that beleueth, haue widdowes, let them minister vnto the, and let not the congregacyon be charged: that there maye be sufficience for them that are wyddowes in dede. The elders that rule wel, are worthy of double honoure, moost specially they, whyche laboure in the worde and teachynge. For the scripture saith, * thou shalte not muzell the mouth of the oxe that treadeth oute the corne. And * the labourer is worthy of hys rewarde. Agaynste an elder, receaue none accusacion: but * vnder two or three witnesses. Them that synne rebuke openly, that other also may feare. I testifye before God, & the Lorde Iesus Christe, and the elect aungels, that thou obserue these thynges without partyalyte, * and do nothinge partially. * Laye handes sodenly on no man, neither be partaker of other mens synnes: kepe thy selfe pure. Drynke no leger water, but vse a lytle wyne for thy stomaches sake, & thine often diseases. Some mens synnes are open before hande, & go before vnto iudgemente: & some mens synnes folowe after. Likewyse also good workes are manifest before hande, & they that are otherwyse, can not be hyd.

The.vi. Chapter.

LEt as many * seruauntes as are vnder the yoke, counte theyr maisters worthy of all honoure, that the name of God and his doctrine be not euell spoken of. So that they whiche haue beleuyng maisters, despise them not, because they are brethren: but rather do serue, for as muche as they are beleuyng, and beloued, and partakers of the benefyte. These thynges teache and exhorte. * If any man folowe other doctrine, and enclyne not vnto the wholsome wordes of our Lorde Iesu Chriſte, and to the doctryne whyche is accordynge to godlynes, he is puffed vp, and knoweth nothinge: but wasteth his braynes about questions* & stryfe of wordes, wherof spryng enuie, strife, railynges, euel surmisynges, vaine disputacion of men that haue corrupte myndes, and that * are robbed of the trueth: which thinke, that lucre is godlynes. From them that are such, separate thy selfe. Godlynes is great riches, * yee a man be content with that he hath. * For we brought nothing into the worlde, neyther may we carye any thing out. But when we haue foode & rayment, we must therwith be content. They that will be riche fal into temptacion & snares, & into many foolyshe & noysome lustes, which drowne men into perdicion & destruction. For couetousnes of money is the rote of al euel: which whyle some lusted after, they erred from the faith, & tangled them selues with manye sorowes. But thou man of God, flye such thinges. Folowe ryghteousnes, godlynes, faith, loue, pacience, meekenes. Fyght the good fyght of faith. Laye hande on eternall lyfe, whereunto thou arte also called, and hast professed a good profession before many wytnesses. I gene the charge in the syght of God, * whyche quyckeneth all thynges, and before Iesu Chryste (whyche vnder Pontius Pilate witnessed a good wytnessynge) that thou kepe the commaundement, and be without spotte and vnrebukeable vntyl

¶ The. iii. Chapter.

This knowe, that * in the laste dayes shall come perilous times. For men shalbe lo-uers of their owne selues, couetous, boasters, proude, cursed speakers, disobediente to fathers, and mothers, vnthankefol, vngodlye, vnkynde, truce breakers, false accusers, diotenes, fierce, despisers of them, whiche are good, traitours, headie, hie minded, greedy vp-on voluptuousnes, more then the louers of God, hauing a similitude of godlynes, but haue denied the power therof: and suche abhorre. For of this sorte are they, * which entre into houses, and bring vnto bondage women laden with synne, which women are led with diuerse lustes, euer learning, and neuer able to come vnto the knowledge of the trueth. As Iannes, and Iambres withstode Moses, euen so do these also resist the truth: men they are of corrupt myndes, and lewde, as concerning the faith: but they shall preuaile no lenger. For their madnes shalbe opened vnto al men, euē as their's was, but thou hast fene the experience of my doctrine, fashō of liuyng, purpose, faith, longe suffering, loue, pacience, persecutions, and afflictions which happened vnto me at Antiochie, at Iconium, & at Listra: which persecutions I suffered patiently. And from them all, the Lorde deliuered me. Yea, and * all they that wil lyue godlie in Christ Iesu, shal suffre persecution. But the euel mā, and deceauers shal waxe worse and worse, while they deceiue, and are deceaued them selues. But continue thou in the thinges which thou hast learned, which also were committed vnto thee, knowynge of whom thou hast learned them, & for as much also as * of a child, thou hast knowen the holy scriptures which are able to make the learned vnto saluation, thorow the faith which is in Christ Iesu. * All scripture geuen by inspiration of God, is profitable to teache, to improue, to amende, and to instructe in righteousnes, that the mā of God may be perfect, and prepared vnto all good workes.

¶ The. iiii. Chapter.

I testifie therfore before God, and before the Lorde Iesu Christ, which shal iudge the quicke, and dead, at his appearing in his kingdom, preache thou the word, be feruente in season, and out of season. Improue, rebuke, exhort, with al longe suffering & doctrine.
For the time wil come, whē they shal not suffer wholsome doctrine: but after their owne lustes shal they (whose eares ytche) get them an heape of teachers, & shal withdraw their eares from the trueth, and shal be turned vnto fables. But watche thou, in all thinges suffre afflictions, do the worke of a Euangelist, fulfyll thine office vnto the vtmost. Be sober. For I am now readie to be offered, and the time of my departing, is at hande. I haue fought a good fight, I haue fulfylled my course, I haue kept the faythe.
From hence forth there is layde vp for me,
* a crowne of righteousnes, which the Lord (that is a righteous iudge) shal geue me at the daye: not to me onely, but vnto all them also that loue his commynge. Do thy diligence, that thou mayest come shortly vnto me. For Demas hathe forsaken me, and loueth this present worlde, and is departed vnto Thessalonica. Crescens is gone to Galacia, Titus vnto Dalmacia. Onely Lucas is with me. Take * Marke, and bring him with thee, for he is profitable vnto me, for the ministra cion. And Tychicus haue I sēt to Ephesus.
The cloke that I left at Troada with Carpus, (when thou comest) bring with the, and the bokes, but specially the parchement.
Alexander the coppersmith did me much euel: the Lord rewarde him according to his de-des, of whom be thou ware also. For he hath greatly withstande our wordes. At my first answering no mā assisted me, but all forsoke me. I praie God, that it may not be layde to their charges: * Notwithstanding the Lorde assisted me, and strengthed me, that by me the preaching shoulde be fulfylled to the vtmost, and that al the Gentyles shoulde heare. And I was deliuered out of the mouthe of the lion. And the Lorde shal deliuer me from al euel worke: and shal kepe me vnto his heauenlye kyngedome: To whome be prayse for euer.

PAule the seruaunt of God, and Apostle of Jesu Christ, according to the faith of Goddes electe, and according to the knowledge of the trueth, whiche is after godlines in the hope of eternal lyfe, which * God (that can not lye) promysed before the world beganne: but he hathe opened his word at the tyme appointed thorow teaching, which is committed vnto me, according to the commaundement of God our Sauiour, to * Titus his natural sonne after the common faith. Grace, mercy, and peace, from God the father, and from the Lorde Jesu Christ our sauioure. For this cause left I the in Creta, that thou shouldest reforme the thinges that are vnperfect, and shouldest * ordeine elders in euery citie, as I had appointed the. If any be blameles, the husband of one wife, hauing faythful children, which are not slaundred of riote, neither are disobedient. * For a bishop must be blameles, as the stewarde of God: not stubborne, not angrie * not geuen to much wine, no fighter, not geuen to filthy lucre: but a keper of hospitalitie, one that loueth goodnes, prudent, sobre, righteous, godly, temperate, and such as cleaueth to the true word of doctrine, that he may be able also to exhort by wholsome learninge, & to improue them that saye against it. For there are many vnruly & talkers of vanitie, & deceiuers of myndes, specially thei that are of the circumcision, whose mouthes muste be stopped * which peruert whole houses, teaching thinges which thei ought not, because of filthie lucre. One of them selues geuen a prophete of their owne, said: The Cretians are alwaies liars, euel beastes, slowe bellies. This wytnes is true, wherfore rebuke thou the sharply, that thei may be sounde in the faith, not taking hede to Jewes fables, and commaundementes of men that turne awaye the trueth: vnto the pure, are al thinges pure: but vnto them that are defyled, and vnbeleuing, is nothing pure: but euen the minde and conscience of them is defyled. Thei confesse that they know god: but with the dedes they deny him, seynge thei are abhominable, and disobedient, and vnapte vnto euery good worke.

PAule the prisoner of Jesu Christ, and brother Timothe, Vnto Philemō, the beloued, and our helper, and to the beloued Appia, and to Archippus oure felow soudiour, and to the congregatiō that is of thy house. * Grace be vnto you, & peace from God oure father, and from the Lorde Jesus Christ. For we haue great ioye, and consolacion in thy loue: because that by thee brother) the saintes harten are comforted.

Wherefore, though I might be bold in Christ to commaunde the that, which was thy dutye to do, yet for loues sake, I rather beseche the, thoughe I be as I am, euen olde Paule, and now a prisoner of Jesu Christ. I beseche the for my sonne * Onesimus, whom I haue begotten in my bondes (which in tyme passed was to the vnprofitable, but now profitable both to thee, and to me,) whom I haue sent home agayne. Thou therefore receiue him, that is to say, myne owne bowels, whom I would fayne haue retayned with me, that in thy steade he might haue ministred vnto me in the bondes of the Gospel. Neuertheles, without thy mynde wold I do nothing, that the good which thou doest, should not be as it were of necessitie, but willingly. For happely he therefore departed for a season, that thou shouldest receaue him for euer, not now as a seruaunt: but aboue a seruaunte, euen a brother beloued, specially to me, but howe much more vnto thee, both in the flesshe, and also in the Lorde? If thou counte me therefore a felow, receaue him as my selfe. If he haue done the any hurt, or oweth the ought, that laye to my charge. (I Paul haue written it with myne owne hande,) I wil recompence it. So that I do not saye to thee, how that thou owest vnto me, euen thine owne selfe also. Euen so brother, let me enioye thee in the Lorde: Comforte my bowels in the lord. Trusting in thine obedience: I wrote vnto the, knowing, that thou wilt also do more then I saye: Moreouer, prepare me lodging, for I trust that thorow the helpe of your prayers, I shalbe geuen vnto you. There salute the, Epaphras my felow prysoner in Christ Jesu, Marcus, Aristarcus, Demas, Lucas, my helpers. The grace of oure Lorde Jesu Christ be with your spirit. Amen.

The Epistle of S. Paule the Apostle vnto the Hebrues.

GOd in time past diuerslye, & manywayes, spake vnto the fathers by prophetes: but in these last e daies he hath spoke vnto vs by his own son, ... who hath made heire of al thinges, * by who also he hath made the worlde, * which (so) being the brightenes of his glory, & the very image of his substaūce, ruling al thinges with the word of his power, hath by his own person purged our synnes, and sitteth on the right hande of the maiestie on hie being so much more excellēt then the angels, as he hath by inheritaunce obtained a more excellēt name then they. For vnto which of the angels said he at any time: * Thou art my sonne, this day haue I begotte the? (And againe, * I wil be his father, & he shalbe my sonne. And againe when he bringeth in the first begotten sonne into the world, he saith: * And let al the angels of god worship him. And vnto the angels he saieth: * He maketh his angels spirites, & his ministers a flame of fyre. But vnto the sonne, he saieth, * Thy seat (O god) shalbe for euer, euer. The scepter of thy kingdō is a right scepter. Thou hast loued righteousnes, & hated iniquitye. Wherefore, God, euen thy God hath anoynted the with the oyle of gladnes, aboue thy felowes. * And thou lorde in the beginning hast

Thei shal perish, but thou endurest, but thei al shall waxe olde also, as doth a garment, and as a vesture shalt thou chaunge them, & thei shalbe chaunged. But thou art euen the same, and the yeres shal not fayle. Vnto which of the angels said he at any tyme: * Sit on my right hande, til I make thine enemies thy fotestole? ¶ The ii. Chapter.

Wherefore we oughte to gene the more earnest hede to the thinges that are spoken vnto vs, least at any time we perysshe. For yf the word whiche was spoken by angels was stedfast: And euery transgression, and disobedience receiued a iust recompence of reward, how shal we escape, yf we despise so greate saluation, which at the first began to be preached of the Lord him selfe, and was confyrmed vnto vs warde, by them that heard it? * God bearing witnes therto, both with signes, and wonders also, and with diuerse miracles, and giftes of the holy ghoste, according to his owne will. For vnto the Aungels hath he not subdued the world to come, where of we speake, but one in a certaine place witnessed, saiyng: * What is man: that thou art mindful of him? Or the sonne of man, that thou visitest him? Thou madest him a lytle lower then the Angels, thou hast crowned him with honour, and glorie, and * hast set him aboue the workes of thy handes. Thou hast put all thinges in subiection vnder hys feete. In that he put al thinges vnder hym, he left nothing that is not put vnder him. Neuertheles, we se not yet al thinges subdued vnto him, but him that was made lesse then the Angels, we see that it was Jesus, which is crowned with glorye, and honoure for the suffering of deathe: that he by the grace of God, shoulde taste of deathe, for all men. For it became him, for whō are al thinges, and by whome are al thinges (after that he had brought many sōnes vnto glorye) that he shuld make the Lord of their saluacio perfect, thorow afflictions. For bothe he that sanctifieth, and thei which are sanctified, are al of one. For which cause (take) he is not a shamed to cal them brethren, saiyng: I wyll declare thy name vnto my brethren, * in the middes of the cōgregacio wil I praise the. And againe: I wil put my trust in hym. And againe: beholde, here am I, and the children whome God hath geuen me. For as muche then as the children are partakers of the fleshe and blonde, he also him selfe lykewyse toke part with them that (thorow death) he myghte expell him that had lordshyp ouer death, that is to saye, the Deuel, and that he might deliuer them, which thorowe feare of death were all their lyfe tyme subdued vnto bōdage. For he in no place taketh on him the Angels, but the seede of Abraham taketh he on him. Wherefore, in all thinges it became him to be made lyke vnto his brethrē, that he might be merciful, and a faithful hie preest in thinges concerning God, for to pourge the peoples synnes. For in that it is tuned hym selfe to be tempted, he is able to succoure them also that are tempted.

Psal. viii. a. and. cxliiii. b. Heb. ii. b. i. Cor. xv. d. Psal. xxii. c. Iohn. xx. d.

Therefore holy brethren, partakers of the celestial callynge, consyder the ambassadoure, and hie preest of our professiō, Christ Jesus, how that he is faithful vnto him that put him in the office, euen as was Moses in al his house. For loke how much honour the that hath builded a house) hath more then the house it selfe: so much honour is he counted worthie of more then Moses. For euery house is builded of some mā. But he that ordined al thinges is God. And Moses verely was faithful in al his house, as a minister, to beare witnes of those thinges which were to be spoken afterwarde. But Christe as a son, hathe rule ouer the house, whose house are we, yf we holde fast the cōfidence, and the * reioysynge of that hope, vnto the ende. Wherefore (as the holy ghost saieth: to daie, yf ye wil heare his voice, harden not your hartes, as in the prouokynge, in the daie of temptacion, in the wildernes, where your fathers tempted me, proued me, and sawe my workes, forty yere. Wherefore, I was greued with that generacion, & said: Thei do al way erre in their hartes: thei verely have not knowen my waies, so that I sware in my wrath: thei should not enter into my rest.

Rom v a.

Take hede brethren, least at any time there be in any of you, a frowarde hart, vnbeleefe, that he should departe from the lyuing God: but exhort ye one another daylye, while it is called to day, lest any of you waxe harde harted thorow the deceitfulnes of synne. We are made partakers of Christe, yf we kepe sure (vnto the ende) the beginning of the substaunce, so long as it is said: To day yf ye wil heare his voice, harden not your hartes, as in the prouoking, for some whē ther hard, did prouoke: howbeit not al that came oute of Egipt by Moses. But with whome was he displeased forty yeres? Was he not displeased with them that had synned, whose carkases were ouerthrowen in the desart? To whō sware he that thei should not enter into his rest, but vnto them that were not obedient? And we se, that thei could not enter in, because of vnbeleefe.

¶ The iiii. Chapter.

bese dyd appoynted. For vnto vs it is declared, as wel as vnto them. But it profyted not them, that thei harde the worde: because they which harde it, coupled it not with faith, For we which haue beleued, do enter into his rest, as he said. Euen as I haue swoine in my wrath, thei shal not entre into my rest. And that spake he verely lōge after that the worldes were made: and the foundacion of the worlde laied. For he spake in a certayne place of the .vii. day, on this wyse. * And God did rest the .vii. day from al his workes. And in this place againe: Thei shal not entre into my rest. Seing therfore it followeth: that some must enter therinto, and thei (to whome it was first preached) entred not therin, for vnbeleues sake, he appoynted a certaine daie after so longe a time, saying, in Dauid (as it is rehearsed,) this daye ye ye wil heare his voice, harden not your hartes. For yf Iosua had geuen them rest, then would he not afterwarde haue spoken of another daye. There remaineth therfore yet a rest to the people of God: For he that is entred into his rest, hath ceased from all his owne workes, as God did from his. Let vs study therfore to enter in to that rest, lest any mā fal after the same ensample of vnbeleue. For the worde of God is quicke, and mightie in operacion, & sharper then anye two edged sweorde: and entreth throughe, euē vnto the deuiding a sōder of the soule, & the spirit, & of the ioyntes, & the mary: & is a discerner of the thoughtes, & of the intentes of the hart: neither is ther any creature that is not manifest in the sight of him: But al thinges are naked, and open vnto the eyes of him, of whome we speake. Seing the, that we haue a great high the priest which is entred into heauen euen Iesus the sonne of God, let vs holde the profession: For our hope. For we haue not an high priest which can not haue compassion ouer infirmities, but * was in al poyntes tempted, like as we are: but yet without synne. Let vs therefore go boldly vnto the * seate of Grace, that we may obtaine mercy, and fynde grace to helpe in tyme of nede.

For euery hie priest that is taken from amonge men, is ordeined for mē, in thinges pertaining to God, * to offre giftes, & sacrifices for synne, which can haue compassion on the ignorant, and on them that erre out of the waye, for as much as he him selfe also is compassed with infirmitie. And for the same infirmities sake, he is bounde to offre for synnes, as wel for him selfe, as for the people. And no man taketh honour vnto him self but he that is called of God, as was Aaron. Euen so Christ also glorified not him selfe, to be made the hie priest: but he that said vnto him, thou art my sonne, this daie haue I begotten the, * glorified him. As he saith also in another place: * thou art a priest for euer after the order of Melchisedech. * Whiche in the daies of his flesshe, whan he had offred vp prayers, & supplicacions, with stroge cryinge, and teares (vnto him that was able to saue him ero death) & was hard because of his reuerence, though he were the sonne of God) yet learned he obedience, by those thinges which he suffred: and he beyng perfect, was the cause of eternal saluacion vnto all them that obeied him: and is called of God an hie priest, after the order of Melchisedech.

Wherof we would speake many thinges, but thei are harde to be vttered: seynge ye are dul of hearing. For when as cōcerning the time, ye ought to be teachers, yet haue ye nede againe, that we teache you the first principles of the worde of God: & are become suche as haue nede of * mylke: & not of stroge meat: for euery mā that is fed with milke, is inexpert in the worde of righteousnes. For he is but a babe. But stronge meate belongeth to them that are perfect, euen those, which (by reason of vse) haue their wittes exercised to discerne both good and euel.

Therfore leauing the doctrine that pertaineth to the beginning of christē men, let vs go forthe vnto perfection, not layng againe the foundacion of repentaunce from dead workes, and of faith towarde God, of baptisynge, of doctrine, and of layng on of handes, and of resurrection from death, & of eternal iudgemēt. And so wil we do. * yf God permit. For it can not be, that thei which were once lightned, and haue tasted of the heauenly gift, and were become partakers of the holy ghost, and haue tasted of the good worde of god, of & the power of the worlde to come: * ye they fal away (and as concerning them selues crucifye the sonne of God afresh, and make a mocke of him) that they should be renued againe by repentaunce. For the earth which drinketh in the raine, that commeth oft vpon it, and bringeth forth herbes, mete for them that dresse it, receiueth blessing of God. But that grounde which beareth thornes, & briers, is reproued, and is nie vnto cursynge: whose ende is to be burned. Neuertheles, (deare frendes) we trust to be better of you, and thinges which accompanie saluacion, though we thus speake. For god is not vnrighteous * that he wold forget your worke and labour, that proceadeth of loue, which loue ye shewe in his name, which haue ministred vnto the saincles, & yet ministre. Yea, & we desyre that euery one of you shew the same diligence, to the ful stablishynge of hope, euē vnto the ende, that ye faint not, but be followers of them, which thorow faith & pacience, receyue the inheritaunce of the promyse.

If now therfore perfectiō came by the preisthode of the Leuites (for vnder that preisthode the people receiued the lawe) what neadeth it furthermore, that an other preist should rise to be called after the order of Melchisedech, and not after the order of Aaron? For yf the preisthode be translated, then of necessitie must the lawe be translated also. For he of whō these thinges are spokē pertaineth vnto an other tribe, of whō neuer man serued at the aultare. For it is euidente that our Lorde sprange* of the tribe of Iuda, of which tribe spake Moses nothing cōcerning preisthode. And it is yet a more euident thing, yf after the similitude of Melchisedech, there arise another preist, whiche is not made after the law of the carnal cōmaūdement, but after the power of the endelesse lyfe. But now hath he obtained a preisthode so much the more excellēt, as he is the media-come of a better Testament, which was cõfirmed in better promisses. For yf that first testamẽt had bene suche, that no fault could haue bene founde in it, then should no place haue bene sought for the seconde. For in rebuking them, he saieth vnto them: * Beholde the daie is come (saieth the lord,) and I wil fynish vpon the house of Israel, and vpõ the house of Juda, a new testament, not lyke the testament that I made with their fathers in that daie, when I toke them by the handes, to leade them out of the lande of Egipt.

Jer. xxxi. f

For thei continued not in my testamente, and I regarded them not, saith the Lorde. For this is the testament that I wil make with the house of Israel: After those daies (saith the Lord) I wyl put my lawes in their myndes, and in their hartes, I wil write thẽ, and I wil be their God, and thei shalbe my people. And thei shall not teache euery man his neighbour, and euery man his brother, saiynge: know the Lorde: for thei shal know me, from the least, vnto the most of them. For I wil be mercifull ouer their vnrighteousnes, and their synnes, and their iniquities wyll I thinke vpon no more. In that he saith a new Testament, he hath worne oute the olde. For that which is worne oute, and waxed olde, is readie to vanishe away.

C The. ix. Chapter.

A Then the olde testament then had verely ordinaunces, and seruinges of God, & worldly holines. For * there was a fore tabernacle made, wherein was the light, & the table, and the shew bread which is called holy.

Exo. xxv. b.

But within the seconde vaile was there a tabernacle, which is called holiest of al: which he had the golden censer, and the arke of the testament, euer layde rounde about with gold, wherein was the golden pot with * Mãna, and * Aarons rodde, that sprounge, and * the tables of the testament. Ouer the arke were the Cherubins of glorie, shadowynge the seate of grace. Of which thinges we cã not now speake particularlye.

Exo. xvi. g. Leui. xvii. a. Exo. xl. c.

When these thinges were thus ordeyned, the priestes wente alwaies into the first tabernacle, which executed the seruice of the holy thinges. But into the seconde went the hie priest alone, * ones euery yere: not without bloude, * which he offred for him selfe, and for the ignorãces of the people.

Exo. xxx. c. Leui. xv. b

C Wherwith the holy ghost this signified, that the waye of holye thynges was not yet opened, while as yet the first tabernacle was standing, which was a similitude for the time then present, in which were offred giftes, and sacrifices, that coulde not make the minister perfect, as pertaiynge to the conscience, with onely meates, & drinkes, and diuers washinges, and iustitienges of the flesh, which were ordeyned vntyll the tyme of reformation.

Heb. ix. and. x. a

D But * Christe beyng an hie priest of good thinges to come, came by a greater, and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hãdes: that is to say, not of this building, neither by the bloude of goates, and calues: but * by his owne bloude, he entred in ones into the holy place, and founde eternal redemption.

i. Peter. i. b.

For yf * the bloude of oxen, & of goates, and the asshes of a yõge cowe, whẽ it was sprinkled, purifieth the vncleane, as touching the purifiyng of the flesshe: how much more shal the bloude of Christ (which thorow the eternall spirit offred him selfe without spot to God) to pourge your conscience from deade workes, for to serue the lyuynge God?

Leui. i. vi. c

And for this cause is he the * mediatour of the newe testament, that thorow death which chaũced, for the redemption of those transgressours that were vnder the first testamẽt, thei which are called might receyue the promyse of eternal inheritaunce.

i. Tim. ii. a

For where as is a testamẽt, there must also (of necessitie) be the death of him that maketh the Testament. For the testamẽt taketh auctho ritie whẽ men are dead: for it is yet of no value, as longe as he that maketh the testamẽt is aliue: for which cause also, neither the first testamẽt was ordeined without bloude. For when Moses had declared al the cõmaundemẽt to al the people, according to the law, he toke the bloude of calues, & of goates, with water and purple, wol & yeope, and sprinkled both the booke, & all the people, saiyng: * this is the bloude of the testamẽt which god hath appointed vnto you: Moreouer, he sprinkled the tabernacle with bloude also, & al the ministring vessels. And almost al thinges are by the lawe pourged with bloude, & without shedding of bloude, is no remission. It is nede then that the similitudes of heauenly thinges be purifyed with such thinges, but that the heauenly thinges them selues be purifyed with better sacrifices then are those. For Christ is not entred into the holy places that are made with hãdes, (which are similitudes of true thynges) but is entred into very heauẽ, for to appeare now in the sight of God for vs, not to offre him selfe often, as * the hie priest entreth into the holy place, euery yere with straunge bloude. For then must he haue often suffered synne the world began. But now in the ende of the world hath he appeared ones, to put synne to flyght by the offring vp of him selfe. And as it is appointed vnto al men, that thei shal ones die, and then commeth the iudgement:

take away sinnes. But this man, after he hath offered one sacrifice for synnes, is set downe for euer* on the right hand of God, and from hence forthe tarieth, till his foes be made his fotestole. For with one offering hath he made perfect for euer, them that are sanctified. The holy ghost him selfe also beareth vs record, euen when he told before. This is the testament that I will make vnto them: After those dayes, (saieth the Lorde) I will put my lawes in their hertes, and in their mindes will I write them, and their synnes and iniquities will I remembre no more. And where remissiō of these thinges is, there is no more offering for synne. Seyng therfore brethren, that by the meanes of the bloud of Jesu* we haue liberty to enter into the holy place, by the new and liuynge waye, whiche he hath prepared for vs, throughe the vaile (that is to saye, by his flesshe.) And seyng also that we haue an hie preiste, whiche is ruler ouer the house of GOD, let vs drawe nye with a true hert in a sure fayeth, sprinkeled in oure hertes, and the euill conscience put awaye, and washed in our bodies with pure water, let vs kepe the profession of our hope, without wauerynge, (for he is faythfull that promised) and let vs consider one another, to the entente that we may prouoke vnto loue, and to good workes, not forsakynge the felowship that we haue among our selues, as the manner of some is: but let vs exhort one another, & that so much the more, because ye se that the day draweth nye.
For if we sinne wilfully, after that we haue receaued the knowlege of the truth, there remayneth no more sacrifice for sinnes, but a fearefull loking for iudgemente, and vyolente fyre, whiche shal deuour the aduersaries. He that despiseth Moses law, dieth without mercy* vnder two or three witnesses, how much worse (suppose ye) shall he be punished whiche treadeth vnder foote the sonne of GOD: & counteth the bloude of the testament, where with he was sanctified, as an vnholye thing, and doth dishonour to the spirit of grace? For we know him that hath said, *It belongeth vnto me to take vengeaunce: I will recompence (sayth the Lorde) And agayne, the Lorde shall iudge his people. It is a fearefull thing to fall into the handes of the liuyng God. Call to remembraunce the dayes that are passed, in the whiche after ye had receaued lyght, ye endured a great fight of aduersities, partlye whyle all men wondred and gased at you for the shame and tribulation that was done vnto you, partly, whyle ye became companions of them whiche so passed their tyme. For ye became partakers also of the affliction which happened throughe my bondes, and toke in worthe the spoylyng of your goodes, & that wyth gladnesse, knowyng in your selues, how that ye haue in heauen a better, and an endu-rynge substaūce. Cast not away therfore your confidence, which hath a greate recompence of reward. For ye haue nede of pacience: that after ye haue done the will of GOD, ye myght receaue the promise. For yet a verye little while, and he that shall come, will come and wil not tarye. But *the iuste shall lyue by fayeth. And if he withdraw him selfe, my soule shall haue no pleasure in hym. It is not we that withdrawe our selues vnto dampnation, but we partayne vnto fayeth, to the winnyng of the soule.

The. xi. Chapter.

Fayeth is a sure confidence of things whiche are hoped for, and a certaintie of thin-ges which are nyt sene. For by it the elders obtayned a good reporte. Throughe fayeth we vnderstande, that *the worlde was ordeyned by the worde of God, and that things which are seene, were made of thinges which were not sene. By fayeth Abel offered vnto God a more plenteous sacrifice then Cayn: by whiche he obtayned witnes that he was ryghte-ous, God testifieyng of his gyftes: by which also he beyng dead, yet speketh. By faith was Enoch (translated, that he shulde not see death: neither was he found, for God had taken him away. For afore he was taken away, he obtayned a good reporte, that he pleased God: but without fayeth it can not be, that any man shulde please him. For he that cometh to God, must beleue that God is, & that he is a rewarder of the that seke him. By fayeth Noe beyng warned of God, eschued the thinges whiche were lefte yet sene, and prepared the arke, to the savyng of his howsholde, throughe the whiche arke, he condempned the worlde, and became heyre of the righteousnes, which is according to fayth. By fayth* Abraham, when he was called, obeyed, to go out into a place, whiche he should afterwarde receive to inheritaunce: and he went out, not knowynge whether he shoulde go. By fayth he removed into the lande of promise, as into a straunge countrey, when he had dwelt in tabernacles: and so did Isaac, & Jacob, heyres with him of the same promise. For he loked for a citye havyng a foundation, whose builder and maker is God. * Throughe fayth Sara also receaved strengthe to conceave and be wyth childe, and was delivered of a childe, when she was paste age, because she judged hym faythfull whiche had promised. And therefore sprang there of one sene of one whiche was as good as dead)* so many in multitude, as are the starres in the skie, and as the sand the whiche is by the sea shore innumerable. These all dyed according to fayth, when thei had not receaved the promises: but *saw them a farre of, and beleved theim, and saluted thē, and confessed *that they were straungers and pilgrimes on thearth. For thei that saw such thinges, declare that they seke a countrey. Also, if they had bene mindeful of the contrey, from whence they came out, thei had leasure to have returned againe: but now they desyre a better (that is to say) a heavenly. Wherefore God him selfe is not ashamed * to be called their God, for he hath prepared for them a citye. *By fayeth Abraham offered up Isaac, when he was proved, and he offered him he-yng his onelye begotten sonne, in whom he had receaved the promises, unto hym it was saied: In Isaac shal thy sede be called: for he considered, that God was able to rayse up a-gayne from deathe. Wherefore receaved he him also, for an example of the resurrection. By fayeth did Isaac bleste Jacob and Esau, concernyng thinges to come. *By fayeth Jacob when he was a dyeng, blessed both the sonnes of Joseph, and bowed him selfe towarde the toppe of his scepter. *By fayeth Joseph, when he dyed, remembred the departyng of the children of Israel, and gave commaundement of his bones. * By fayth Moses when he was borne, was hid three monethes of his father and mother, because thei sawe that he was a propre childe, neither feared thei the kinges cōmaundement. * By faith Moses when he was great, refused to be called the sonne of Pharaos daughter, & chose rather to suffer adversitye wyth the people of God, then to enioy the pleasure of synne for a season, & esteemed the rebuke of Christ greater then the treasures of Egipt. For he had respen unto the reward. * By fayth he forsoke Egipt, & feared not the fearcenes of the king. For he endured even as thoughe he had sene him, which is invisible. * Throughe fayeth he ordeined the passeover, & the effusiō of bloud, lest he that destroyed the firste borne, shoulde touch them. * By fayth thei passed throughe the red sea, as by drye lande: which when the Egiptians had assayed to do: thei were drowned. * By fayeth the walles of Hierycho fel downe after thei were compassed about seuen dayes. * By fayth the harlot Rahab perished not with thē that were disobedient, when she had receaved the spies to lodgyng peaceably. And what shal I more say: for the time wil be to short for me to tel of Gedeō of* Barach, & of* Sampson, and of * Jephthe, * of Dauid also * & Samuel, & of the prophetes. * Which throughe fayth subdued kingdomes, wrought righteousnes: obtained the promises* stopped the mouthes of lyons: *quenched the violēce of fire: *escaped the edge of the sweorde *out of weakenes were made strong, waxed baliant in fight: turned to flight the armies of the aliantes: *the women receiued their dead, raised to life againe. * Other were racked, & would not be deliuered, that they might enherit a better resurrection. Again, other were tried with mockinges & scourgynges, moreover wyth bonds & prisonmēt: * were stoned, were hewē a sunder, were tēpted, were slaine with sweord walked up & downe in shepe skinnes & goats skins, being destitute, troubled, & vexed: which men the worlde was not worthy of, they wandred in wildernesses, & mountaynes, & in dens & caues of thearth. And these al through faith obteined good reporte, & receiued not the promise, because God had promised a better thing for vs, that thei without us should not be made perfecte.

The xi. Chapter.

Wherefore, let us also (seyng that we are compassed with so great a multitude of witnesses) * laie away al that presseth downe, and the sinne that hangeth so faste on, let us runne with pacience vnto the battayle that is set before vs, lokynge vnto Jesus the capitayne, and finisher of all our fayth, whiche (for the ioye that was set before him) abode the crosse: and despised the shame, & is set downe * on the right hande of the throne of God. Consider therefore, how that he endured such speaking against him of sinners, lest ye should be wery, and faynte in your myndes. For ye have not yet resisted vnto bloude, striuyng a-gaynst synne. And have forgotten the exhortation, which speaketh vnto you as vnto children: my sonne despise not the chastenynge of the Lorde, neither faynte when thou arte rebuked of him: for whom the Lord loveth, him he chasteneth: yea, he scourgeth every sonne, that he receaueth. If ye endure chastenyng, GOD offereth hym selfe vnto you, as vnto sonnes.

The first Chapter.

I. IAmes the seruaunte of God, and of the Lord Jesus Christe, sendeth gretinge to the .xij. tribes whyche are scattered abroade. ❡ My brethren, counte it for an exceding ioye, when ye fall into diuers temptations: knowyng thys, that* the tryng of your fayth, geadeth pacience: & let pacience haue her perfect worke, that ye maye be perfect and sounde, lackyng nothyng. If any of you lack wisdom, let hym aske of him that geueth it, euen God, which geueth to all men indifferently, and calleth no man in the teeth, and it shall be geuen him. But let him aske in fayeth, and wauer not. For he that doubteth, is like a waue of the sea, whiche is toste of the windes, & caried wyth violence. Neither let that man thinke, that he shal receiue any thing of the Lord. A wauerynge mynded man, is vnstable in al his waies. Let the brother which is of low degree, reioyce when he is exalted. Agayne, let him that is riche, reioice when he is made lowe. * For euen as the floure of the grasse, shal he passe away. For as the sunne ryseth wyth heate, & the grasse wythereth, and hys floure falleth awaye, and the beautye of the fashion of it perysheth: euen so shal the ryche man perishe in his wayes. ❡ Happye is the man that endureth temptacion: for when he is tried, he shal receaue the crowne of life, which the Lorde hath promised to them that loue hym. * Let no man saye when he is tempted, that he is tempted of god, for as God can not be tempted with euil, so nether he him self tempteth any man: But euerye man is tempted, when he is drawe away, & enticed of his owne concupiscence. Then, when lust hath conceiued, he bringeth forth sinne: sinne when it is fynished, bringeth forth death. Do not erre my dear brethren, * + Euery good gift, and euery perfect gyft is from aboue, and cometh downe from the father of lyghtes, with whom is no variablenes, nyther is he chaunged vnto darknes. + Of hys owne wyl begat he vs wyth the word of truth, that we should be the firste frutes of his creatures. ❡ Wherfore (dear brethren) + let euery man be swift to heare, slowe to speake, slow to wrath. For the wrath of man worketh not that whych is righteous before God. + Wherfore lay apart all filthynes and superfluity of maliciousnes: and receaue with mekenes the word that is graffed in you, whyche is able to saue your soules. & + And + se ye that be doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceyuyng your owne selues. For + if any man heare the word, and declareth not the same by his woorkes, he is lyke vnto a man, beholdyng hys bodely face in a glasse. For assone as he hath loked on hym selfe, he goeth his way, and forgetteth immediatly what his fashion was. + But who so loketh in the perfect lawe of libertie, and continueth therin, (if he be not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the worke) the same shalbe happy in his dede. If any man among you, seme to be deuout, and refreyneth not his tong, but deceiueth his owne harte, thys mans deuocion is in vayne. Pure deuocion, and undefiled before God the father is this: to visite the fatherles and widowes in their aduersitye, and to kepe him selfe vnspotted of the worlde. ❡

The .ij. Chapter.

II. MY brethren, esteme not the fayth of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Lord of glory, + wyth the respect of persones. For if there come into your cõpany, a man wearyng a golden ryng, clothed in goodly apparel, and there come in also a poore man in vyle rayment, and ye haue a respect to hym that weareth the gay clothyng, and saye vnto him: Sit thou here in a good place: and saye vnto the poore, Stande thou there, or syt here vnder my foteschole: are ye not parcyall in your selues, and haue iudged after euell thoughtes?

Herken my deare beloued brethren. Hath not God chosen the poore of this worlde, such as are ryche in fayth, and heyres of the kyngdome, whyche he promised to them that loue hym. But ye haue despised the poore. Do not ryche men execute tyranny vpon you, & draw you before the iudgement seates? Do not they speake euyl of that good name, whych is called vpon ouer you

If ye fulfil the royal lawe, accordyng to the scripture. * Thou shalt loue thy neyghboure as thy selfe, ye do well. But if ye regard one person more then another, ye cõmit sinne, & are rebuked of the lawe as trangressours. Who so euer shall kepe the whole lawe, + and yet

yet fayle in one payne, he is giltye of al. For he that ſaied: Thou ſhalt not commit aduoutery: ſaied alſo, thou ſhalt not kyll. Though thou do no aduoutry: yet if thou kyll, thou art become a tranſgreſſour of the law. So ſpeake ye, and ſo do, as they that ſhall be iudged by the law of liberty. For he ſhal haue iudgemēt without mercy, * that ſheweth no mercy, and mercy reioyceth againſt iudgment. What auayleth it my brethren, though a man ſaye he hath fayth, if he haue no dedes? Can fayth ſaue him? If a brother, or a ſiſter be naked, & deſtitute of dayly fode, and one of you ſaye to them, depart in peace. God ſend you warmnes and fode, notwithſtandyng ye geue them not thoſe thinges which are nedefull to the bodye, what ſhal it helpe? Euen ſo fayeth, if it haue no dedes: is dead in it ſelfe. But ſome man wil ſaye: thou haſt a fayeth, and I haue dedes: ſhew me thy fayth by thy dedes: and I wil ſhew the my fayth by my dedes. Beleueſt thou that there is one God? Thou doeſt wel. The deuils alſo beleue and tremble. But wilt thou vnderſtande (O thou vayne man) that fayth without dedes is dead? Was not Abraham our father iuſtified throughe workes, when he had * offred Iſaac his ſonne vpō the aultare? Thou ſeeſt how that fayth wrought with his dedes, and throughe the dedes was the fayth made perfect: and the ſcripture was fulfilled, which ſayeth: * Abraham beleued in God, and it was reputed vnto him for righteouſnes, and he was called the friend of god. * Ye ſe then, how that of dedes a man is iuſtified, and not of fayth only. Likewiſe alſo was not Rahab the harlot iuſtified through workes, * when ſhe had receaued the meſſengers, and had ſent them out another waye? For as the bodye without the ſpirite is dead, euen ſo fayth without workes is deade alſo.

The. iij. Chapter.

My brethren * be not euery man a maiſter, knowyng how that we ſhall receiue the greater dampnacion: for in many thynges we ſinne all. * If a manne ſinne not in worde, the ſame is a perfect man, and able alſo to tame al the body. Behold, we put bittes into the horſes mouthes, that they maye obeye vs, and we turne about all the body of them. Behold alſo the ſhippes, which though they be ſo great and are driuen of ſtarke windes, yet are they turned about wyth a verye ſmall helme, whether ſoeuer the violence of the gouerner wil. Euen ſo, the tong is a litle membre alſo, and boaſteth great thynges.

Beholde, how great a thyng a litle fyre kyndleth, and the tonge is fyre, euen a worlde of wickednelle. So is the tonge ſet amonge our membres, that it defyleth the whole body, and ſetteth a fyre all that we haue of nature, and is it ſelfe ſet a fyre euen of Hell.

All the natures of beaſtes, and of byrdes, and of ſerpentes, and thinges of the ſea, are meked and tamed of the nature of man. But the tonge can no man tame. It is an vnruelye euil, full of deadlye poyſon. Therwith bleſſe we God the father, and therwyth curſe we men, * which are made after the ſimilitude of God. Out of one mouth proceadeth bleſſyng and curſyng. My brethren, theſe thinges ought not ſo to be. Doth a fountaine ſend forth at one place ſwete water, and bitter alſo? Can the figge tree (my brethren) beare Oliue berries: either a vyne beare figges? So can no fountayne geue both ſalt water, and freſh alſo. If any man be wiſe, and endued wyth knowledge among you, lette hym ſhew his workes out of good conuerſation, wyth mekeneſſe of wiſedome. But if ye haue bitter enuyng and ſtrife in your hart, reioyce not: neither be liars agaynſt the truth. For ſuche wiſedome deſcendeth not from aboue: but is earthy, naturall, and deuilyſhe. For where enuyng and ſtrife is, there is vnſtablenes, and all maner of euil workes. But the wiſdome that is from aboue, is firſt pure, then peaceable, gentle, and eaſy to be intreated, full of mercy, and good fruites, wythout iudging, wythout ſimulation: yea, and the fruite of rygh teouſneſſe is ſowen in peace, of them that maintayne peace.

The. iiij. Chapter.

From whence commeth warre, and fyghtyng among you come thei not here hence? euen of your luſtes that fyghte in your membres, Ye luſte, and haue not. Ye enuy and haue indignation, and can not obtayne. Ye fyght & warre. Ye haue not, becauſe ye aſke not. Ye aſke and receaue not, becauſe ye aſke amiſſe: euē to conſume vpon your luſtes. Ye aduouterers, and women, that breake matrimony: knowe ye not how that * the frendſhyp of the worlde, is enmitye with God? whoſoeuer therfore will be frende of the worlde, is made the enemye of God. Either do ye thinke that the ſcripture ſayeth in vayne: The ſpirite that dwelleth in vs, luſteth euen contrarye to enuye: but geueth more grace. Wherefore he ſayeth, God reſiſteth the proude, but geueth grace vnto the lowlye. Submit your ſelues therfore to God: but reſiſt the deuil, and he wyll flee from you. Drawe nye to God, and he wyll drawe nye to you. Cleanſe your handes, ye ſynners, & purge your hertes ye wauerynge minded. Suffer afflictions: and mourne, and wepe. Let your laughter be turned to mourning, and your ioye to heauineſſe. * Humble your ſelues in the ſyghte of the Lorde, and he ſhall lyft you vp. Backebite not one another, brethren. He that backebiteth his brother, and he that iudgeth his brother, backebiteth the lawe, and iudgeth the lawe. But and if thou iudge the lawe, thou art not an obſeruer of the lawe, but a iudge. There is one lawe geuer (and iudge) whiche is able to saue and to destroye. * What art thou that iudgest another? Go to nowe, ye that saie, * to daye and to morowe, let us go into suche a citye, and continue there a yere, and bye and sell, and wynne: & yet can not ye tell, what shal happen on the morowe. For what thing is your life? It is euen a vapoure, that appeareth for a litle tyme: and then vanysheth away. For that ye ought to say: * If the Lorde will, and if we lyue, let us do this or that. But nowe ye reioyce in your boastings. All suche reioycyng is euyll. Therfore * to him that knoweth howe to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is synne.

GO to nowe ye ryche men, wepe & howle on your wretchednes, that shall come vpon you. Your riches is corrupte, your garmentes are mothe eaten. Your golde and siluer is cankered, and the rust of them shall be a witnes vnto you, and shall eate your flesshe as it were fire. Ye haue heaped treasure together (euen in the to your selues) in your last daies. Behold * the hyre of the labourers which haue reaped downe your feldes (which hire is of you kept backe by fraude) crieth, and the cryes of them which haue reaped are entred into the eares of the Lorde Sabbaoth. Ye haue lyued in pleasure on the earth, and ben wanton. Ye haue nourished your hertes, as in a daye of slaughter. Ye haue condemned and killed the iuster and he hath not resisted you. Be patient therfore brethren, vnto the commyng of the Lorde. Behold, the husbandman wayteth for the precious fruite of the earth, and hath long pacience therupon, tyll he receiue the early & the latter raine. Be ye also patiente therfore, and settle your hertes, for the commyng of the Lorde draweth nye. Grudge not one againste another brethren, lest ye be dāned. Behold, the iudge standeth before the doore. Take (my brethren) the prophetes for an ensample of sufferynge aduersitye, and of pacience, whiche spake in the name of the Lorde. Behold, * we compte them happy whiche endure. Ye haue hearde of the pacience of Job, and haue knowē what ende the Lorde made. For the Lorde is very pitifull and mercifull. But aboue all thinges my brethren * sweare not, neyther by heauen, neither by earth, neither any other othe. Let your yea, be yea, and your nay, nay: lest ye fall into iudgement. If any of you be vexed, let him praye. If any of you be merye, let him synge Psalmes. If any be diseased among you, let him call for the elders of the congregacion and let them praye ouer him, * & anoynt him with oyle in the name of the Lorde, and the prayer of faith shall saue the sicke, and the Lorde shal raise him vp: and if he haue committed synnes, they shall be forgeuen him.

* Knowlege your faultes one to another, and praye one for another, that ye may be healed. For the feruente prayer of a righteous man auayleth muche. Helias was a man subiect to infirmities, euē as we are, and he prayed in his prayer that it might not rayne: * and it rayned not on the earth by the space of three yeres & sixe monethes. And he prayed againe, and the heauen gaue rayne, & the earth brought forth her fruite. Brethren, if any of you do erre, fro the trueth, and another conuerte him, let the same know, that he which conuerteth the sinner from going astray out of his waye, shall saue a Soule from death, and shall hide the multitude of sinnes.

The ende of the Epistle of S. Iames.

The first Epistle of Peter the Apostle.

The first Chapter.

PEter an Apostle of Iesu Christe, to them that dwel * here & there as straūgers, throughout Pontus, Galacia, Capadocia, Asia, and Bithinia, electe accordyng to the foreknowlege of god the father, through the sanctifying of the spirite vnto obedience * and sprinkelinge of the bloud of Iesus Christ, * Grace be with you, and peace be multiplied. * Blessed be God the father of our Lord Iesus Christ, which accordyng to his abundant mercy, begate vs again vnto * a liuely hope (by that, that Iesus Christ rose againe from death) to an enheritaunce immortall, and vndefiled, and that vnfadeth not, reserued in heauen for you, which are kept by the power of God, through faieth vnto saluation, whiche is prepared already to be shewed in the laste tyme, in the whyche ye reioyce, thoughe nowe for a season, (if nede requyre) ye are in heauinesse through the manifolde temptations, that the triall of your faith beyng muche more precious then golde that perisheth (thoughe it be * tried with fyre) might be founde vnto laude, glorye, and honoure, at the appearynge of Iesus Christe, whom ye haue not seene, and yet loue him in whom, euen nowe, * thoughe ye se him not, yet do you beleue, and reioice with ioye vnspeakable, and glorious, receiuyng the ende of your faithe, euen the saluation of your soules.

Of which saluation haue * the prophetes enquired and searched, whiche prophecied of the grace that shulde come vnto you you, searchynge when or what time the spirite of Christe (whiche was in them) ment & signified, whiche spirite testified before, the passions that shulde happen vnto Christe, and the glory that shulde folowe after, vnto whiche prophetes it was also declared, that not vnto them selues, but vnto vs they shuld minister the thinges whiche are nowe shewed vnto you of them, (whiche by the holy ghoste sent downe from heuen) haue suche the Gospel preached vnto you the thinges, which the angels desire to beholde.

Wherefore * girde vp the loynes of youre minde, be sober, and truste perfectly on the grace that is brought vnto you (by the declaryng of Iesus Christe) as obedient children, that ye geue not your selues ouer vnto your olde lustes, by which ye were ledde, whē as yet ye were ignorant of Christe: but as he whiche called you is holye, euen so be ye holy also in all maner of conuersation, because it is written: * Be ye holye, for I am holye. And if so be that ye call on the father, whiche without respecte of persone, iudgeth * according vnto euery mans worcke, se that ye passe the time of your pilgrimage in feare.

For as muche as ye knowe howe that ye were not redemed with corruptible thinges, as siluer and golde, from your vaine conuersation, whiche ye receiued by the tradicion of the fathers: but * with the precious bloud of Christe, as of a lambe vndefiled, and without spotte, which was ordeined before hand, euen before the worlde was made: but was declared in the last times * for your sakes, which by his meanes do beleue on god, that raised him vp frō death, and * glorified him, that ye might haue faieth and hope toward God: euen ye whiche haue purified your soules through the Spirite, in obeying the truethe vnto brotherly loue vnfayned, se that ye loue one another with a pure heart feruentlye: for ye, are borne a newe, not of mortall sede, but of immortal, by the worde of God, which liueth and lasteth for euer. * For all flesh is grasse, and all the glory of man, as the flower of grasse. The grasse withereth, and the flower falleth awaye, but the worde of the Lord endureth euer. And this is the worde, whiche by the gospel was preached vnto you.

The. ii. Chapter.

Wherefore laye aside al maliciousnes, and all gile, and cayndnesse, and enuye, and all backebityng: * and as newe borne babes, desire ye that milke (not of the bodye, but of the soule) whiche is without deceite: that ye may growe therby vnto saluation. If so be that ye haue tasted how gracious the lorde is, to whom ye come, as vnto a liuyng stone, disalowed of men, but chosen of God & precious: and ye as liuyng stones are made a spirituall house, and holy priesthode, for to offer vp spirituall sacrifices, acceptable to god by Iesus Christe. Wherefore it is conteyned also in the scripture * beholde, I put in Syon a stone elect and precious: and he that beleueth on him, shall not be confounded. Vnto you therefore, which beleue, he is precious: but vnto them which beleue not: * the stone whiche the buylders refused, the same is begon to be the heade of the corner, and a stone that menne stumble at, and a rocke wherat they be offended, which stumble at the worde, and beleue not that wherevnto they were set. But ye are a chosen generacion, a royall * priesthode, * an holy nacion, a people which are wonne that ye should shew the vertues of him, that called you out of darkenes, into his marueilous light. * Which in time passe were not a people, but are now the people of God: which sometime had not obteined mercy, but now haue obteined mercy.

Dearely beloued, I beseche you as straungers and pilgrimes, abstaine * from fleshly lustes, whiche fight against the soule, & se that ye haue honest conuersation among the Gentiles, that where as they backebite you as euil doers, * they may se your good workes, and praise God in the day of visitacion. Submit your selues therefore vnto all maner ordinaunces of man, for the Lordes sake, whether it be vnto the king, as vnto the chefe head, other vnto rulers, as vnto them that are sente of him, for the punishement of euil doers, but for the laude of them that do well. For so is the will of God, that with well doing, ye may stoppe the mouthes of foolish and ignorant men, as free, and not as hauinge the libertye for a cloke of maliciousnesse, but euen as the seruauntes of God. Honoure all men: Loue brotherly fellowship. Feare God, honoure the king. Seruauntes obey your maisters with feare, not only if they be good and curteous: but also though they be froward. For this is thanke worthie, if a man for conscience toward god, endure griefe, and suffer wrōg vndeserued. For what prayse is it, if when ye be buffeted for your faultes, ye take it patiently. But if whē ye do wel, ye suffer wrong, & take it patiently, this is thy thanke with god. For hereunto verely were ye called: for Christ also suffered for vs, leauinge vs an example that ye shulde folowe his steppes, which did not sinne, neither was there gyle founde in his mouthe: which when he was reuiled, reuiled not again: when he suffered, he threatened not, but committed the vengeaunce to him that iudgeth righteously, * which his owne selfe bare our synnes in his bodye on the tree, that we beyng deliuered from sinne, shulde liue vnto righteousnes. By whose stripes ye were healed. For ye were as sheepe going astraye: but are nowe turned vnto the shepeherde, and bisshoppe of your soules.

Likewise * ye wyues, be in subiection to your husbandes, that euen they which obey not the worde, may without the worde be wonne by the conuersation of the wiues, while they behold your chast conuersation coupled with feare. Whose apparayl shall not be outward with broyded heare, and hangynge on of golde, eyther in puttyng on of gorgious apparaile: but let the hid man which is in the heart be without all corruption, to wit the spirite of a meke and quiete: whiche spirite is before God a thing much set by. For after this maner in the olde tyme, did the holy women which trusted in God tyre them selues, and were obedient vnto their husbandes, euē as Sara obeyed Abraham, & called him lorde: whose doughters ye are, as long as ye doo wel, and are not afraied for any terrour. Likewise ye men, dwel with the accordyng to knowledge: geuyng honour vnto the wife, as vnto the weaker vessel, as vnto the that ar heyres with of the grace of lyfe, that your prayers be not hindered. * In conclusion, be ye all of one mynde, of one hearte loue, as brethren, be pitifull, be curteous, (meke) not rendryng euil for euil, or rebuke for rebuke: but contrariwise, blesse: knowynge that ye are therunto called, euen that ye shulde be heyres of the blessyng. * For he that bothe long after lyfe, and loueth to se good dayes, let him refrayne his tong from euil, and his lyppes, that they speak no gile. Let him eschue euil, & do good, let him seke peace, and ensue it. For the eyes of the Lorde are ouer the righteous, and his eares (are open) vnto their prayers. Agayne: the face of the Lord is ouer them that do euil. Who ouer, who is it that will harme you, if ye folow that which is good? Yea, happy are ye, if any trouble happen vnto you for righteousnes sake: * Be not ye afrayed for any terrour of them, neither be ye troubled, but sanctify the Lord God in your hertes. * Be redy alwaies to geue an answere to euery man that axeth you a reason, of the hope that is in you, and that with mekenes and feare, hauyng a good conscience, * that where as they backebite you as euill doers, they may be ashamed, that falsely accuse your good conuersation in Christ. * For it is better (if the wil of God be so) that ye suffer for well doyng, then for euil doing. * For as much as Christ hath once suffered for vs, the iust for the vniust, to bryng vs to God, (and was killed as pertayning to the flesshe: but was quickened in the spirite. In which spirite he also went & preached vnto the spirites that were in prison, which sometyme had bene disobedient, when the long suffering of God was once looked for, in the dayes of Noe, * while the Arke was a prepayryng: * wherin fewe, that is to say, eyght soules, were saued by the water, like as * baptisme also now saueth vs, not the puttyng awaye of the fylthe of the flesshe, but one that a good conscience consenteth to God, by the resurrection of Iesus Christe, which he is on the right hand of God, and is gone into heauen, * aungels, powers, & mightes subdued vnto him.

For as much then as Christ hath suffered for vs in the flesh, arme ye your selues likewise with the same mynd. For he which suffereth in the flesshe, ceaseth from synne, that he hence forwarde shulde liue (as much tyme as remayneth in the flesshe) not after the lustes of men, but after the wyll of God. For it is sufficient for vs, that we haue spent the tyme that is past of the lyfe, after the wyll of the * Gentiles, walkyng in wantonnes, lustes, in excesse of wynes, in excesse of eatyng, in excesse of drinking (in dronkennes) and in abhominable ydolatrye. And it semde to them an inconuenient thing, that ye runne not also with them, vnto the same excesse of ryote, & therefore speake they euil of you, which shal geue accompte to hym that is redy to iudge quick and dead. For vnto this purpose verely was the Gospel preached also vnto the dead, that they shold be iudged like other men in the flesh, but shoulde liue before God, in the spirite. The ende of all things is at hande. * Be ye therefore sober, and watche vnto prayer. But aboue all thynges, haue feruent loue amonge your selues. For loue shal couer the multitude of synnes. * Be ye harborous one to another, * without grudgynge. As euery man hath receaued the gift, euen so minister the same one to another, as good ministers of the manifold grace of God. If any man speake, let hym talke as the wordes of God. * If any man minister, let him do it as * of the ability, which god ministreth vnto him. That God in all thinges may be glorified through Iesu Christ. * to whom be praise and dominion for euer and euer. Amen.

Dearely beloued, maruayle not that ye are proued by fyre (whiche thing is to trye you) as though some straung thing happened vnto you: but reioyce, in as muche as ye are partakers of Christes passion: that when his glorye appeareth, ye may be merry and glad. * If ye be raised vpon for the name of Christ: happy are ye: For the glory and the spirit of god resteth vpon you. On their part he is euill spoken of, but on your parte he is glorified. But let none of you be punished as a murtherer, or as a thefe, or an euil doer, or as a busy body in other mens matters. If any man suffer as a christen man, let hym not be ashamed: but let hym glorifie God on his behalfe. For the tyme is come, that iudgement must begyn at the the houre of God. Yet it firſt begin at vs, what ſhall the ende be of them which beleue not the Goſpell of God? And* if the righteous ſcarcely be ſaued, where ſhall the vngodly and the ſynner appeare? Wherefore, let them that are troubled, according to the will of God, commyt their ſoules to hym with welldoyng, as vnto a faythfull creatour.

The elders whiche are among you, I exhorte which am alſo an elder, and a witneſſe of the afflictions of Chriſte, and alſo a partaker of the glorye that ſhalbe opened.

1a.xx.c

* Fede ye Chriſtes flocke, attendyng vpon it (not) wyth conſtraynt, but wyllyngly: after a godly ſorte, not for deſire of filthy lucre but of a good mynde, not* as though ye were lordes ouer the parysshes, but ſ that ye be an enſample to the flocke: and that with good wyll. And when the chefe Shepherde ſhall appeare, ye ſhall receaue * an incorruptible crowne of glorye. Likewiſe ye yonger, ſubmyt your ſelues vnto the elders. Submitte your ſelues euery man, one to another, knitte your ſelues together in lowlines of mynde. For God reſiſteth the proude, and geueth grace to the humble. Submit your ſelues therefore, vnder the mighty hande of God, that he may exalte you, when the tyme is come. * Caſt all your care vpon hym, for he careth for you. Be ſober & watch, for your aduerſary the deuyll, as a roaryng lyon* walketh aboute, ſeekyng whome he may deuoure, ſ whome reſiſted faſt in the faythe, knowyng that the ſame afflictions are appoynted vnto your brethren that are in the worlde. But the God of all grace, whiche hath called vs vnto his eternall glorye by Chriſte Jeſus, ſhal his own ſelfe (after that ye haue ſuffred a lytle affliction) make you perfect: ſtedfaſt, ſtrength and ſtablyſhe you. To him be glorye & dominiō for euer, & euer. Amē. & By Syluanus, a faithfull brother vnto you, (as I ſuppoſe) haue I wrytē briefely, exhortyng and teſtifyng, howe that this is the true grace of God, wherin ye ſtande. ¶ The firſt Chapter.

Symon Peter a ſeruaunte, and an Apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſte, to them whiche haue obteyned lyke precious fayth with vs, through the righteouſnes of oure God and ſauiour Jeſus Chriſte. * Grace be vnto you, and peace be multiplied through the knowledge of God and of Jeſus our Lorde. According as his godly power hath geuen vnto vs, all thynges that pertayne vnto life & godlines, through the knowledge of him that hath called vs by glorye and vertue, by the whiche are geuen vnto vs excellent, and moſte great promiſes, that by the meanes therof ye might be* partakers of the godly nature, if ye flye the corruption of worldly luſte. And beſyde this geue all diligence in your fayth miniſter vertue, in vertue knowledge, * in knowledge ſ peraunce, in ſperaunce pacience, in pacience godlines, in godlines brotherly kyndnes, in brotherly kyndnes loue. For if theſe thinges be among you, and bee plenteous, they wyll make you, that ye neyther ſhalbe yole nor vnfrutefull in the knowledge of our Lorde Jeſus Chriſt. But he that lacketh theſe thinges is blynde, and gropeth for the way with his hande, and hath forgotten, that he was purged from his olde ſynnes. Wherefore brethren, geue the more diligence, for to make your calling and election ſure: by good workes. For if ye do ſuch thynges, ye ſhall neuer fall. For, and by this meanes, an entryng in, ſhalbe miniſtred vnto you abound auntly, into the euerlaſting kyngdome of our Lorde and ſauioure Jeſus Chriſte. Wherefore, I will not be negligent to put you alwaies in remembraunce of ſuche thinges, though ye knowe them your ſelues, and be ſtabliſhed in the preſent truth. Notwithſtanding, I thynke it mete (as longe as I am in* this tabernacle) to ſtere you vp by puttyng you in remembraunce, for as much as I am ſure, that ſhortly I muſte put of this my tabernacle, ſ euen as oure Lorde Jeſus Chriſte hewed me, I will euer alſo geue my diligence, that ye may haue wherwith to ſtere vp the remembraunce of theſe thinges, after my departyng. * For we haue not followed deceatfull fables, when we opened vnto you the power and cōmyng of our lord Jeſus Chriſt but* with our eyes we ſawe his maieſtie, euē then verely when he receaued of God the father, honour and glorye, and when there came ſuche a voyce to hym, from the excellent glorye. * This is my dere beloued ſonne, in whom I haue delite. This voyce we herde come fro heauen, when we were with hym in the holy mount. We haue alſo a ryght ſure worde of prophecy, wherunto if ye take hede, as vnto a *lyght that ſhyneth in a darke place, ye do wel vntyll the daye dawne, and the daye ſtarre aryſe in your hertes. Yo that ye firſt knowe this, that no prophecy in the ſcripture, hath any priuate interpretacion. For the ſcripture came neuer by the wyll of man, but holy menne of God ſpake, as they were moued by the holy ghoſte.

the people, euen as * there shalbe false teachers amonge you, whiche priuily shal bring in damnable sectes (euen denyenge the Lorde that hath bought them) and bryng vpon them selues swift damnacion, and many shall follow their dampnable wayes, by whome the waye of truthe shalbe euell spoken of, and throughe couetousnes shall they with fayned wordes make marchaundyse of you, whose iudgement is nowe not farre of, and their damnacion sleepeth not. For if God spared not the aungels that synned, but cast them downe into hell, & deliuered them into chaynes of darkenes to be punished to be kept vnto iudgement, and spared not the olde worlde, but saued * Noe the eyght preacher of righteousnes, and brought in the floude vpon the worlde of the vngodly, and turned the cities of Sodome & Gomor into ashes, ouerthrewe them, damned them, and made an ensample vnto those that after should lyue vngodly. And iust * & vexed with the vncleanly conuersacion of the wicked, delyuered he. For he beyng righteous, and dwelling among them in seyng and heryng, vexed his righteous soule from day to day, with their vnlawfull dedes. * The lord knoweth howe to deliuer the godly out of temptacions, and to reserue the vniust vnto the daye of iudgement for to be punished, but chiefly them that walke after the flesshe in the lust of vncleanes, and despise auctorite. Presumptuous are they, and stubborne, whiche feare not to speake euell of them that excell in worshyppe. Where the aungels whiche are greater, both in power and myght, accuse not of the Lorde euyll iudgement against them selues. But these as brute beastes, naturally brought to the to be taken & destroied, speake euil of the thinges that they vnderstand not, and shall perysshe in their owne destruccion, and receaue the reward of vnrighteousnes. They count it a pleasure to lyue deliciously for a season. Spottes they are and filthynes, whiche lyue at pleasure in their owne dissemable wayes, feasting and scorning you, hauing eyes full of aduoutrie, and that cannot cease from synne, begilyng vnstable soules. Herten they haue exercised with robberye. They are cursed childzen, whiche haue forsaken the ryght waye, and are gone astray, folowing the * waye of Balaam, the sonne of Bosor, whiche loued the rewarde of vnrighteousnes, but was rebuked of his iniquitie. The same is dumme beast, speaking with mans voyce, forbade the madnesse of the Prophet. * These are welles without water, cloudes that are caried with a tempest, to whome the myst of darckenes is reserued for euer. For when they haue spoken the great swellynge wordes of vanitie, they entise throughe the lustes in the voluptuousnes of the flesshe, them that were cleane escaped, euen them that walke in in errour, while they promes them libertie, where as they them selues are the bonde seruauntes of corruption. * For of whom a man is ouercome, vnto the same is he brought in bondage. For yf they (after they haue escaped from the fylthynes of the worlde through the knowlege of the Lorde and the sauiour Iesu Christ) are yet tangled agayne therin, & ouercome * then is the latter ende worse with them, then the beginning. For it had bene better for them, not to haue knowen the waye of righteousnes, then after they haue knowen it, to turne backe from the holy commaundement that was geuen vnto them. But the same is happened vnto them that is sayd to bee spoken by the true prouerbe. * The dogge is turned to his owne vomet agayne, and the sowe that was washed is turned againe to her walowyng in the myre.

The .iii. Chapiter

This is the seconde Epistle that I nowe write vnto you dearly beloued, wherwith I stire vp your sincere minde, by putting you in remembraunce, that ye maye be myndfull of the wordes (whiche were tolde before of the holy prophetes) and also the commaundement of vs, whiche be Apostles of the Lorde and sauiour. * This first vnderstande, that there shall come in the laste dayes, mockers in disceatfulnesse, whiche will walke after their owne lustes, and say: Where is the promes of his comming? For synce the fathers slept, all thinges continue in the same estate, wherein they were at the beginning. For this they knowe not (and that wilfully) howe that the heauens a great whyle ago were, & the earth out of the water appeared by thorow the water, by the worde of GOD: by the whiche thinges the world that then was, perysshed, beyng ouerrunne with water. * But the heauens and earth whiche are nowe, bee kept by his worde in store, and reserued vnto fyre, against the daye of iudgement and perdicion of vngodly men. Dearly beloued, be not ignorant of this one thyng, how that * one day is with the Lorde as a thousand yeare, and a thousand yeare as one daye. The Lorde hath promysed, is not slacke, as some men counte slackenes, but is patient to vs warde, for as muche as he would haue no man lost, but will receaue all men to repentaunce. Howbeit * the daye of the Lorde will come as a theefe in the nyght, in the whiche daye, the heauens shal passe away in maner of a tempest, and the elementes shall melte with heate, the earthe also, & the workes that are therin, shal burne. Seyng then that all these thinges shall perysshe, what maner persones ought ye to be in holy conuersacion, and godlines, lokyng for, & hastyng vnto the comming of the daye of God, by whome the heauens shall perysshe with fire, and the elementes shall melte with heate? Neuertheles, * we (according to his promyse) loke for

The first Epistle of Iayntt Iohn the Apostle.

¶ The first Chapitter.

THat which was from the beginning, whiche we haue hearde, whiche we haue seene with oure eyes, whiche we haue loked vpō, & our hādes haue handled of the worde of the lyfe. And the lyfe appeared, and we haue seene and beare witnesse, and shewe vnto you * that eternall lyfe, whiche was with the father, and appeared vnto vs. That whiche we haue seene and hearde, declare we vnto you, that ye also maye haue felowshyp with vs, and that oure felowshyp maye be with the father, and hys sonne Iesus Christ. And this wryte we vnto you, that ye maye reioyce, and that your ioye may be full. And this is the tydynges whiche we haue heard of hym, and declare vnto you, that God is lyght, and in him is no darckenes at all. If we say that we haue felowshyp with him, and walke in darckenes, we lye, and doo not the truthe. But and if we walke in lyght, euen as he is in lyght, then haue we felowshyp with him, and * the bloud of Iesus Christ his sonne, cleanseth vs from all sinne. * If we saye that we haue no synne, we deceaue oure selues, & the truth is not in vs. * If we knowledge our sinnes, he is faithfull, & iust, to forgeue vs our sinnes, and to clense vs from all vnrighteousnes. If we saye we haue not sinned, we make him a lyer, and his worde is not in vs.

¶ The .2. Chapitter.

MY litle children, these thynges wryte I vnto you, that ye sinne not. And if any man synne, we haue an aduocate with the father, Iesus Christ the righteous, and he it is that obteyneth grace for our sinnes, not for our sinnes only, but also for the sinnes of all the worlde. And hereby we are sure that we knowe him if we kepe his commaundementes. * He that saieth I knowe him, & kepeth not his commaundementes, is a liar, and the veryte is not in him. But whoso kepeth his worde, in him is the loue of God perfect in dede, hereby know we that we are in him. He that saieth, he abideth in hym, ought to walke euen as he walked. Brethren, I wryte no newe commaundement vnto you but the olde commaundement, whiche ye haue had from the beginning. The olde commaundement is the worde which ye haue hearde from the beginning. Agayne, a newe commaundement I wryte vnto you, that is true in hym, and the same is true also in you for the darckenesse is paste, and the true light nowe shyneth. * He that saieth, howe that he is in the lyght, and yet hateth his brother, is in darckenes, euen vntill this tyme. He that loueth his brother, abydeth in the lyght, and there is no occasion of euell in hym. He that * hateth his brother, is in darckenesse, and walketh in darkenesse, and cannot tell whether he goeth, because that darkenes hath blynded his eyes. Babes I wryte vnto you, howe that your synnes are forgeuen you, for his names sake. I wryte vnto you fathers, howe that ye haue knowen hym that is from the begynnyng. I wryte vnto you yong men, howe that ye haue ouercome the wicked. I wryte vnto you lytle children, howe that ye haue knowen the father. I haue written vnto you fathers, howe that ye haue knowen him that is from the begynnyng. I haue wryten vnto youngemen, howe that ye are stronge, and the worde of God abydeth in you, and ye haue ouercome the wycked. Loue not that ye loue not * the worlde, neyther the thynges that are in the worlde. If any man loue the worlde, the loue of the father is not in hym. For all that is in the worlde, (as the lust of the flesshe, and the lust of the eyes, and the pryde of lyfe) is not of the father, but of the worlde. And the worlde passeth awaye, and the lust therof, but he that fulfylleth the will of God abydeth for euer. Lytle children, it is the last tyme, and as ye haue heard howe that Antechriste shall come, euen nowe are there many begonne to be Antechristes already, whereby we knowe, that it is the last tyme. * They went out from vs, but they were not of vs. For if they had bene of vs, they wolde no doubte, haue contynued with vs. But that it myght appeare, that they were not of vs. Nathelesse, ye haue an anoynt of hym that is holy, and ye knowe all thynges. I haue not written vnto you, as though ye knew not the truth, but as though ye knew it, & know also that no lye commeth of truth. Who is a lyar, but he that denieth that Iesus is Christ? The same is Antechrist, that denyeth the father, & the sonne. Who soeuer denyeth the sonne, the sonne hath not the father. ¶ He that knowlegeth the sonne, hath the father also. ¶ Let therfore abyde in you that same whiche ye hearde from the beginning. If that whych ye heard from the beginning, shall remayne in you, ye also shall continue in the sonne, and in the father. And this is the promyse that he hath promysed vs, even eternall lyfe. These thynges haue I written vnto you, concernyng them that deceaue you. And the annoynting, whiche ye haue receaued of hym that dwelleth in you. And ye nede not, that any man teache you, but as the annoyntyng teacheth you of all thynges, and it is true, and no lye, and as it hath taught, euen so byde therin. And nowe babes abyde in him, that when he shall appere, we may be bolde, and not to be made ashamed of hym at his comming. ¶ If ye knowe that he is ryghteous, knowe also that euerye one whiche doth righteousnes, is borne of hym.

BEholde, what loue the Father hath shewed on vs, that we should be called* and be in deede the* sonnes of GOD. For this cause the worlde knoweth you not, because it knoweth not hym. Derely beloued, nowe are we the sonnes of God, and yet it doth not appeare, what we shall be. ¶ But we knowe that when it shall appeare, we shalbe lyke hym: For we shall se hym as he is. And euery man that hath this hope in hym, pourgeth hym selfe, euen as he also is pure. Whosoeuer cōmitteth synne, committeth vnrighteousnes also, & synne is vnryghteousnes. And ye knowe that he appeared, to take away our sinnes, and in him is no synne. As many as byde in hym synne not, but whosoeuer synneth, hath not sene hym, neither knoweth hym. Babes, let no man deceaue you, he that doth ryghteousnes, is ryghteous, euen as he is ryghteous. He that committeth synne, is of the deuyll, * for the deuyll synneth sence the beginning. For this purpose appeared the sonne of God, to lowse the workes of the deuell. Whosoeuer is borne of God, synneth not: for his seede remayneth in hym, and he cannot synne, because he is borne of God. In this are the chyldren of God knowen, and the chyldren of the deuil, whosoeuer doth not ryghteousnes is not of God, neyther he that loueth not his brother. For this is the tydynges, that ye hearde from the beginning, that ye should loue one another not as* Cayn, whiche was of that wicked, & slewe his brother. And wherfore slewe he him? Because his owne workes were euill, & his brothers good. Marueyle not my brethren though the worlde hate you. We knowe that we are translated from death vnto lyfe, because we loue the brethren. * He that loueth not his brother, abydeth in death. Whosoeuer hateth his brother, is a manslear. And ye knowe that no manslear, hath eternall lyfe abydyng in him. Hereby perceaue we loue, because he gaue his life for vs, and we ought to gene our liues for the brethren. But whoso hath this worldes good, and* seeth his brother haue nede, and shutteth vp his compassiō from hym, howe dwelleth the loue of God in hym? My babes, let vs not loue in worde, neyther in tong, but in dede and in verite. Hereby we knowe, that we are of the verite, and can quiet our hartes before hym. For if our hert condemne vs, God is greater then our hert, and knoweth all thynges. Derely beloued, if our herte condemne vs not, then haue we trust to God warde, and* whatsoeuer we aske we receaue of him, because we kepe his commaundementes, and do those thinges whiche are pleasaunt in his sight. And this is his cōmaundement, that we beleue on the name of his sonne Jesus Christe, and loue one another, as he gaue commaundement. And he that kepeth his cōmaundemētes, dwelleth in him, and he in him, and hereby we knowe that he abideth in vs, euen by the spirite, whiche he hath geuen vs.

¶ The. iiij. Chapiter.

DEarly beloued* beleue not euery spirite: but proue the spirites, whether they are of God or not, for* many false prophetes are gone out into the world. Hereby shal ye know the spirite of God. Euery spirite that confesseth that Jesus Christe is come in the flesshe, is of God. And euery spirite that confesseth not that Jesus Christe is come in the flesshe, is not of God. And this is that spirite of Antichrist, of whome ye haue heard, howe that he should come, and euen nowe, already is he in the worlde. ¶ Ye are chyldren of God, and haue ouercome them: for greater is he that is in you, then he that is in the worlde. They are of the worlde, therfore speake they of the worlde, and the worlde heareth them. We are of God. He that knoweth God, heareth vs: he that is not of god, heareth vs not. Hereby knowe we the spirite of verite, and the spirite of errour. ¶ Derely beloued let vs loue one another, for loue commeth of God. And euery one that loueth, is borne of God, & knoweth God. He that loueth not, knoweth not God, for God is loue. In this appeared the loue of God, to vs warde: because that * God sent his only begoten sonne, into the worlde, that we myght lyue thorowe hym. Herein is loue, not that we loued God, but that he loued vs, and sent his sonne to be the agrement for our synnes. Derely beloued, if God so loued vs, we ought also to loue one another. * No man hath sene god at any time. If we loue one another, God dwelleth in vs, and his loue is perfect in vs. Hereby knowe we that we dwel in him, and he in vs, because he hath geuen vs of his spirite. And we haue sene, and do testifye, that the father sent the sonne conne to be the sauioure of the worlde. Whosoeuer cõfesseth that Jesus is the sonne of god, in him dwelleth god, and he in God. And we haue knowē, & beleued the loue that god hath to vs. God is loue, & he that dwelleth in loue, dwelleth in God, and God in hym. Herein is the loue perfect in vs, that we moulde haue truste in the daye of Judgement, for as he is, euen so are we in this worlde. There is no feare in loue, but perfect loue casteth out feare, for feare hath paynefulnes. He that feareth, is not perfect in loue. We loue hym, for he loued vs firste. If a man saye I loue God, and yet hate his brother, he is a lyar. For howe can he that loueth not his brother, whome he hath sene, loue God whome he hath not sene? And this commaundement haue we of hym, that he whiche loueth God, moulde loue his brother also.

Whosoeuer beleueth that Jesus is Christ is borne of God. And euery one that loueth hym whiche begatte, loueth hym also, whiche was begotten of hym * By this we know, that we loue the children of God, whē we loue God, and kepe his commaundemētes. For this is the loue of GOD, that we kepe his commaundementes, and* his commaundementes are not greuous. * For all that is borne of God, ouercommeth the worlde. And this is the * victorye that ouercommeth the worlde, euen our fayth. Who is it that ouercommeth the worlde, but he whiche beleueth, that Jesus is the sonne of God? This Jesus Christ is he that came by water & bloud, not by water only, but by water and bloude. And it is the spirite that beareth witnesse, because the spirite is truthe. For there are thre whiche beare recorde in heauen, the Father, the worde, and the holy ghoste. And these thre are one. And thre whiche beare recorde in earth, the spirite, and water, and bloude: and these thre are one. If we receaue the witnes of men, the witnes of God is greater. For this is the witnes of God that is greater, whiche he testified of his sonne. He that beleueth on the sonne of God, hath the witnes in hym selfe. He that beleueth not God, hath made hym a lyar, because he beleued not the recorde that God gaue of his sonne. And this is the recorde, howe that God hath geuē vnto vs eternall lyfe, and this lyfe is in hys sonne. He that hath the sonne, hath lyfe, and he that hath not the sonne of God, hath not lyfe. These thynges haue I written vnto you that beleue on the name of the sonne of God, that ye maye knowe howe that ye haue eternal lyfe, and that ye may beleue on the name of the sonne of God. And this is the truste that we haue in hym: that * if we aske any thyng, accordynge to his will, he heareth vs. And if we knowe that he heareth vs, whatsoeuer we aske, we knowe that we haue the petitions, that we desire of hym. If any man se his brother sinne, a sinne not vnto death, let him aske, and he shall geue hym lyfe for them that sinne not vnto death. There is a synne vnto death, for whiche cause I not that a man moulde praye. All vnrighteousnes is synne, & there is a sinne not vnto death. We knowe, that whosoeuer is borne of God, synneth not, but he that is begotten of God, kepeth himselfe, and that wicked toucheth hym not. We knowe that we are of God, and the worlde is all togethes set on wickednes. We knowe that the sonne of God is come, and hath geuen vs a mynde to knowe him, whiche is true, and we are in hym that is true, thrōugh his sonne Jesu Christe. This same is very God, and eternall lyfe. Babes kepe your selues from Images. Amen.

The elder to the elene Lady and her chyldren, whom I loue in the truth, and not I only, but also all that haue knowen the truthe, for the truthes sake, whiche dwelleth in vs, and shal be in vs for euer. With vs shalbe, grace, mercye, and peace, from God the father, and from the Lord Jesus Christe, the sonne of the father, in truthe and loue. I reioyced greatly, that I founde of thy chyldren, walkyng in truthe, as we haue receaued a commaundemēt of the father. And nowe beseche I the Lady, not as though I wrote a newe commaundement vnto the, but that same whiche we haue hearde from the begynnyng, that we shoulde * loue one another. And this is the loue, that we should walke after his commaundemente. This cōmaundemēt is (that as ye haue heard frō the beginning) ye should walke in it. For many deceauers are entred into the worlde, whiche confesse not that Jesus Christe is come in the flesshe: This is a deceyuer & an Antichrist. Loke on your selues, that we lose not that we haue wrought, but that we maye haue a ful rewarde. Whosoeuer trangresseth and byeth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God. He that endureth in the doctrine of Christ, hath both the father, and the sonne. If there come anye vnto you, and bryng not this learnyng, hym receaue not to house, neither byd him God spede. For he that byddeth him god spede, is partaker of hys euilldedes. * Beholde, I haue tolde you before, that ye should not be ashamed in the day of the lord. I had manye thinges to write vnto you, neuertheles, I would not write with paper & ynke, but I trust to come vnto you, and speake with you mouth to mouth, that our ioye may be full. The thirde Epistle of Iohn.

THe elder vnto the beloued Gaius whome I loue in the truthe. Beloued, I wysshe in all thynges that thou prosperedest, and faredest wel, euen as thy soule prospereth. For I reioyced greatly, when the brethren came, and testified of the truthe that is in the, howe thou walkeste in the truthe. I haue no greater ioye, then for to heare howe that my sonnes walke in verite. Beloued, thou doest faithfully, whatsoeuer thou doest to the brethren, and to straungers, whiche beare witnesse of thy loue before the congregacion. Whiche brethren, if thou bringe forwardes of their iourney (after a godly sorte) thou shalt do wel, because that for his names sake they went forth, and toke nothyng of the Gentyles. We therfore ought to receyue such, that we might be helpers to the truthe. I wrote vnto the congregacion, but Diotrephes whiche louyth to haue the preheminence among them, receaueth vs not. Wherfore if I come I wyll declare his dedes which he doeth, iestyng on vs with malicious wordes, neyther is there with contente. Not only he hym selfe receaueth not the brethren, but also he forbyddeth them that wolde, and thrusteth them out of the congregacion. Beloued, folowe not that whiche is euell, but that whiche is good. He that doeth well is of God, but he that doeth euel seeth not God. Demetrius hath good reporte of al men, and of the truthe it selfe, yee, and we our selues also beare recorde, and ye knowe, that our recorde is true. I had many thynges to wryte, but I will not with yncke and penne wryte vnto the. I trust I shall shortly se the, and we shall speake mouthe to mouthe. Peace be vnto the. The louers salute the. Grete the louers by name.

IVdas the seruaunt of Iesus Christe, the brother of Iames. To them whiche are called and sanctyfied in God the father and preserued in Iesu Christe. Mercy vnto you & peace and loue be multiplied. Beloued, when I gaue all diligence to wryte vnto you of the common saluacion, it was nedefull for me to wryte vnto you, to exhorte you, that ye shoulde contynually labour in the faithe, whiche was once geuen vnto the sayntes. For there are certain vngodly men, crastily crept in, of which it was written afore tyme vnto such iudgemẽt. They turne the grace of our God vnto wantonnes, and deny God (whiche is the only Lorde) and our Lorde Iesus Christ. My mynde is therfore to put you in remembraunce, for as much as ye once knowe this, howe that the Lorde, (after that he had deliuered the people out of Egipt) destroyed them which afterward beleued not. The Aungels also whiche kept not their first estate, but lefte their owne habitacion, he hath reserued in euerlastyng chaynes vnder darkenes, vnto the iudgement of the great daye, * euen as Sodome and Gomorre, and the cyties about them (which in lyke maner defyled them selues with fornicacion, and folowed straunge fleshe) are set forthe for an example, and suffer the payne of eternal fire. Gen.xix.a

Likewise, these being discerned by dreames, defyle the flesshe, dispyse rulers, & speake euel of thē that are in auctorite. Yet Michael the archaungel, when he stroue against the dyuel, and disputed about the body of Moses, durste not geue rayling sentence, but sayde: the Lord rebuke the. C But these, speake euell of those thynges whiche they knowe not, and what thynges they knowe naturally (as beastes whiche are without reason) in those thynges they corrupte them selues. Woo vnto them, for they haue folowed the way of * Cain, and are vtterly geuen to the errour of Balaam for lucres sake, * and perysshe in the treason of Chore. These are spottes, which of your kind eate feast together without feare, liuing lawlesse, and after their owne pleasure. Clowdes they are withoute water, carried about of wyndes, trees without fruite, at gatherynge time wythered, twyse deade, and plucked vp by the rootes. They are the raging wawes of the sea, fomyng out their owne shame. They are wanderyng starres, to whome is reserued the myste of darkenes for euer. Enoch the seuenth from Ada, prophecied before of such, sayng: * Beholde the Lorde shall come with thousandes of sayntes, to geue iudgement against all men, and to rebuke all that are vngodly among them of all their vngodly deades, which they haue vngodly committed, and of all their cruell speakynges, whiche vngodly synners, haue spoken against hym. These are murmurers, complaynars, walkyng after their owne lustes, whose mouthes speake proude thynges. They haue men in great reuerence, because of aduauntage. But ye beloued, remembre the wordes whiche were spoken before of the Apostles of our Lorde Iesu Christe, howe that they tolde you * that there should be begylers in the last tyme, whiche shoulde walke after their owne vngodly lustes. These are makers of sectes fleshly, hauing no spirite. But ye dearly beloued, edyfie your selues in your moste holy faith, prayyng in the holy ghost, & kepe your selues in the loue of God, lokyng for the mercye of oure Lorde Iesus Christ, vnto eternall lyfe. And haue compassion of some, (separating them, and other saue with feare, pullyng them out of the fire, and haue compassion on the other) and hate the spotte

The Reuelacion of Saint Iohn the diuine.

THe reuelacion of Iesus Christe, whiche GOD gaue vnto him, for to shewe vnto his seruaunte, thynges whiche must shortly come to passe: & whan he had sent, he shewed by his aungel vnto his seruaunt Iohn, whiche bare recorde of the worde of God, and of the testimony of Iesus Christ, and of all thinges that he sawe. Happy is he that readeth, & they that heare the wordes of the prophecie, and kepe those thinges whiche are written therin. For the tyme is at hande. Iohn to the seuē congregacions in Asia. Grace be vnto you & peace, from him whiche is, and whiche was, & whiche is to come, & from the seuen spirites, whiche are before his throne, and from Iesus Christe, whiche is a faythfull witnes, and first begotten of the dead, and Lorde ouer the kynges of the earth. Vnto hym that loued vs and washed vs from oure sinnes, in his owne bloud, and made vs kynges and priestes vnto God his father, be glorye and dominion for euermore. Amen. Beholde, he commeth with clowdes, and all eyes shall se hym, and they also whiche pearced hym. And all kynredes of the erth shal wayle ouer him. Euen so. Amē. I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning & the ending, sayth the Lorde Almyghty, whiche is, and whiche was, and whiche is to come. I Iohn your brother, and companion in tribulacion, and in the kyngdome and pacience in Iesu Christe, was in the Ile that is called Pathmos, for the worde of God, and for the witnessyng of Iesu Christe: I was in the spirite on a Sondaye, and herde behynd me a great voyce, as it had bene of a trompe, saying: I am Alpha and Omega, the first & the laste. What thou seest, wryte in a booke, and sende it vnto the seuen congregacions, whiche are in Asia, vnto Ephesus, and vnto Smyrna, and vnto Pergamos, and vnto Thyatira, and vnto Sardis, and vnto Philadelphia, and vnto Laodicia. And I turned backe to se the voyce that spake vnto me. And when I was turned, I sawe seuen golden candelsticke, and in the middes of the candelsticke, one like vnto the sonne of man, clothed with a lynnen garment downe to the fete, & gyrde about the pappes, with a golde gyrdle. His head, & his heares were white as white wol, & as snow, & his eies were as a flame of fyer, and his fete lyke vnto brasse, as though they brent in a fornace, and his voyce as the sounde of many waters. And he had in his right hande seuen starres. And out of his mouthe, went a sharpe two edged sweard. And his face shone, euē as the sonne in his strength. And when I sawe him, I fell at his fete, euen as deade. And he layde hys right hande vpon me, saying vnto me: feare not. I am the fyrst and the laste, and I am alyue, and was dead. And beholde, I am alyue for euer more, and haue the keyes of hell and of death. Wryte therfore the thynges which thou hast sene, and the thynges whiche are, & the thynges whiche must be fulfilled hereafter. The misterye of the seuen starres whiche thou sawest in my right hande, and the seuen golden candelsticke. The seuen starres, are the messengers of the seuen congregacions. And the seuen candelsticke whiche thou sawest, are the seuen congregacions.

¶ The. ij. Chapiter.

VNto the messenger of the congregacion of Ephesus, wryte: these thynges sayth he, that holdeth the seuen starres in his right hande, and that walketh in the myddes of the seuen golde candelsticke, I knowe thy workes, and thy labour, and thy pacience, & howe thou canst not forbeare them which are euel: & hast examined them whiche saye they are Apostles, and are not: and hast founde them lyers, and hast suffred. And hast pacience, & for my names sake hast laboured, & hast not fainted. Neuertheles, I haue somwhat agaynst the, because thou hast left thy first loue. Remembre therfore, from whence thou art fallen repent, and do the first workes. Or els I wyll come vnto the shortly, and wyll remoue thy candelsticke out of his place, except thou repente. But this thou hast, because thou hatest the dedes of the Nicolaitans, whiche dedes I also hate. Let him that hath eares, heare, what the spirite sayth vnto the cōgregacions. To hym that ouercommeth, wil I geue the to eate of the tree of life, which is in the middes of the paradise of God. And vnto the angel of the congregacion of Smyrna wryte: These thynges sayeth he that is first, and the laste, whiche was deade, and is alyue. I knowe thy workes & tribulacion, and pouertie, but thou art ryche. And I know the blasphemy of the, whiche call them selues Iewes, and are not, but are the cōgregacio of Sathā. Feare none of those thinges, which thou shalt suffre. Beholde, the deuyll shal cast some of you in prison, to tempt you, and ye shall haue tribulacion tē dayes. Be fythfull vnto the death, and I will geue the a crowne of lyfe. Let hym that hath eares, heare, what the spirite sayeth to the congregacions. He that ouercommeth shall not be hurte of the seconde death.

And to the messenger of the congregacion in Pergamus

D Pergamus write: This sayth he, which hath the sharpe sweorde with two edges. I knowe thy workes, & wher thou dwellest, euen where Sathans seate is, and thou kepest my name, & hast not denyed my faythe. And in my dayes Antipas was a faythfull wytnes of mine, which was slayne among you, where Satan dwelleth. But I have a fewe thynges against thee, because thou hast there them that maintayne the doctrine of Balaam* whiche taught in Balak, to put occasion of synne, before the childrē of Israel, that they should eate of meate dedycate vnto idols, and commit fornication. Euen so hast thou the that mayntaine the doctrine of the Nycolaitans, whiche thynges I hate. But be conuerted, or els I will come vnto the shortly, and will fyghte against them with the sweorde of my mouth. Let him that hath eares, heare, what the spirite sayeth vnto the congregations. To hym that ouercommeth, will I geue to eate of Manna that is hyd, and will geue hym a whyte stone, and in the stone a newe name written, whiche no man knoweth, sauing he that receyueth it. And vnto the messenger of the congregacion of Thyatira write: This sayeth the sonne of God, whiche hath eyes lyke vnto a flamme of fyer, and his fete are lyke brasse: I knowe thy workes and thy loue, seruice, and fayth, & thy patience, and thy deades, which are mo at the last, then at the first. Notwithstandyng, I have a few thinges against the, because thou sufferest that woman* Jesabel, whiche called her selfe a Prophetesse, to teache and to deceyue my seruauntes, to make them cōmyt fornication, and to eate meates offered vnto idols. And I gaue her space to repent of her fornication, and she repented not. Beholde, I wyll cast her into a bed, and them that commit fornication with her, into great aduersyte, except they turne from their deades. And I will kyll her children with death. And all the congregations shall knowe, that I am he whiche searcheth the raynes and hertes. And I wyll geue vnto euery one of you, according vnto his workes. Vnto you I saye, and vnto other of them, of Thyatira, as many as have not this learnyng, & which have not knowen the depenes of Sathan (as they saye) I will put vpon you none other burthen, but that whiche ye have alredy. Holde fast till I come, and whosoeuer ouercommeth, and kepeth my workes vnto the ende, to hym will I geue power ouer nations* and he shall rule them with a rodde of yron, and as the vessels of a potter, shall they be broken to shyuers. Euen as I receaued of my father, so will I geue hym the morning starre. Lette hym that hath eares, heare, what the spirite sayeth to the congregations. [illegible] Chap. 3.

AND vnto the messenger of the congregacion that is at Sardis, write: This sayeth he that hath the seuē spirites of God, and the seuen starres, I knowe thy workes, thou hast a name that thou lyuest, and thou arte deade. Be awake, and strength the thynges which remayne that are ready to dye. For I have not founde thy workes perfecte before my God. Remember therfore, howe thou hast receaued and heard, and holde fast, and repente. If thou shalt not watche, I will come on the as a theefe, and thou shalt not knowe what houre I will come vpō the. Thou hast a fewe names in Sardis, whiche have not defyled their garmentes, and they shall walke with me in whyte, for they are worthy. He that ouercommeth, shalbe thus clothed in whyte araye, and I will not put out his name out of the booke of lyfe, and I will confesse his name before my father, and before his angels. Let hym that hath eares, heare, what the spirite sayeth vnto the congregations. And write vnto the aungel of the congregation of Philadelphia. This sayeth he that is holy and true, whiche hath the kaye of Dauid,* which openeth and no maane shutteth, and shutteth, and no man openeth. I knowe thy workes. Beholde, I have set before the an open dore, and no man can shutte it, for thou hast a lytle strength, and hast kept my sayinges, and hast not denyed my name. Beholde, I make them of the cōgregacion of Satā, which cal themselues Iewes, & are not, but do lie: behold, I will make the that they shal come, & worship before thy feete, and shall knowe that I have loued the. Because thou hast kept the worde of my patience, therfore I will kepe the from the houre of temptation, whiche will come vpon all the worlde, to tempte them that dwell vpon the earth. Behold, I come shortly. Holde that whiche thou hast, that no man take awaye thy crowne. Him that ouercommeth, will I make a pyller in the temple of my God, and he shall go no more out. And I will write vpon hym the name of my God, and the name of the cytie of my God, newe Jerusalem, whiche commeth downe out of heauen from my God, and I will write vpon hym my newe name. Lette hym that hath eares, heare, what the spirite sayeth vnto the congregations. And vnto the messenger of the congregacion, whiche is in Laodycia, write: This sayeth (Amen) the faythfull and true wytnes, the begynnyng of the creatures of God. I knowe thy workes, that thou art neyther colde nor hote. I would thou were colde or hote. So then because thou arte betwene both, and neyther colde nor hote, I will spewe the out of my mouthe, because thou sayest: I am ryche, and encreased with goodes, and have nede of nothyng, and knowest not, howe thou art wretched and miserable, and poore, and blynde, and naked. I counsell the to bye of me golde tryed in the fyre, that thou mayest be ryche, and white rayment, ment, that thou mayest be * clothed, that thy filthye nakednes do not appeare, and annoynt thyne eyes with eye salue that thou maiest se. As many as I loue, I rebuke, and chastē. Be fermente therfore, and repent. Beholde, I stande at the dore & knocke. If any man heare my voyce, and open the dore, I will come into hym, and wil supp with hym, and he with me. To hym that ouercommeth will I graunte to sytt with me in my seate, euen as I ouercame, & am sitten with my father in his seate. Lette hym that hath eares, heare, what the spirite sayeth vnto the congregacions.

AFter this I loked, and beholde, a doore was open in heauen, and the first voyce whiche I hearde, was as it were of a trompet, talkyng with me, whiche sayde: come vp hether, and I will shewe the thinges whiche must be fulfilled hereafter. And immediatly I was in the spirite, and beholde, a seate was set in heauen, and one sat on the seate. And he that sat, was to loke vpon, lyke vnto a Jaspar stone, and a Sardyne stone. And there was a rayne bowe about the seate, in syght lyke to an Emeralde. And about the seate were .xxiiij seates. And vpon the seates .xxiiij. Elders sytting, clothed in whyte raymente, and hadde on their heades crownes of golde. And out of the seates proceaded lyghtenynges, and thōdrynges, and voyces, and there were .vij. lampes of fyre, burnyng before the seate, whiche are the .vij. spirites of God. And before the seat, there was a sea of glasse, like vnto christall, and in the middes of the seate, and round about the seate, were foure beastes full of eyes, before and behynde. And the first beaste was lyke a Lyon, and the seconde beaste, lyke a Calfe, and the thirde beaste, had a face as a man, & the iiij. beast, was lyke a flying Egle. And the foure beastes, had eche one of them, vi. wynges about hym, and they were full of eyes within. And they had no reste, daye, nether nyght, sayng: * Holy, holy, holy, Lorde God almyghty, whiche was, and is, and is to come. And when those beastes gaue glory and honour, and thankes, to hym that sat on the seate (whiche lyueth for euer and euer,) the xxiiij. elders fell downe before hym that sat on the throne, and worshipped him that lyueth for euer, & cast their crownes before the trone, saying: thou art worthy O Lorde our God to receiue glory, and honoure, & power, for thou hast created all thynges, and for thy wylles sake they are, and were created.

¶ The. v. Chapitel.

AND I sawe in the ryght hande of hym that sate in the throne, a booke written within, and on the backe syde, sealed with seuen seales. And I sawe a strong Aungell, whiche preached with a loude voyce: Who is worthy to open the booke, and to lose the seales thereof, and no man in heauen nor in earth, nether vnder the earth, was able to open the booke, neyther to loke therein. And I wept muche, because no man was founde worthye to open, and to rede the booke, neyther to loke thereon. And one of the elders sayde vnto me, wepe not: Beholde, a Lyō of the tribe of Juda, the rote of Dauid, hath obtayned to open the boke, and to lose the seuen seales therof. And I beheld, & lo, in the myddes of the seate, and of the foure beastes, and in the myddes of the elders, stode a lambe, as though he hadde bene kylled, hauyng seuen hornes, and seuen eyes, whiche are the seuen spirites of God, sent into all the worlde. And he came, and toke the boke out of the ryght hande of hym, that sat vpon the seate. And when he had taken the booke, the foure beastes, and xxiiij. Elders, fell downe before the Lambe, hauing (euery one of them,) Harpes and golden vialles, full of odoures, whiche are the prayers of sayntes, and they soung a newe songe, saying: thou art worthy to take the booke, and to open the seales therof, for thou waste kylled, and hast redemed vs by thy bloude, out of all kyndredes, and tongues, and people, and nacions, & hast made vs vnto our God, kynges, and priestes, and we shal reygne on the earth. And I beheld, & I hearde the voyce of many angelles about the trone, and about the beast and the elders, and I heard. M. thousandes, saying with a loude voyce, worthy is the lāb that was killed to receiue power and riches, and wysedome, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessyng. And all the creatures whiche are in heauen, and on the earth, and vnder the earth, and in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I saying: blessyng, honor, glory, and power, be vnto hym, that sytteth vpon the seate, and vnto the lambe for euermore. And the foure beastes sayd. Amen. And the xxiiij. elders fell vpon their faces, & worshipped hym that lyueth for euer more.

¶ The. vi. Chapitel.

AND I sawe, when the lambe opened one of the seales, and I heard one of the foure beastes saye, as it were the noyse of thonder, come & se, and I sawe. And beholde there was a whyte horse, and he that sat on hym, had a bowe, and a crowne was geuē vnto him, and he went forth conquerynge & for to ouercome. And when he had opened the seconde seale, I heard the seconde beaste saye: come and se. And there went out another horse that was read, and power was geuen to hym that sat theron, to take peace from the earth, and that they should kyll one another. And there was geuen vnto hym a greate sworde. And when he had opened the thirde seale, I heard the .iij. beast say: come and se. And I beheld, & lo, a blacke horse, and he that sat on hym, had a paire of balāces in his hand. And I heard a boyce in the myddes of the. iiii. beastes saye. a measure of wheat for a peny, and thre measures of barly for a peny, and oyle and wyne, see thou hurt not the/ And whē he had opened the iii. seale, I heard the voice of the fourth beast saye: come and se. And I loked/ and beholde, a pale horse, and his name that sat on him was death, and hell folowed after hym, and power was geuen vnto them, ouer the fourth part of the earth, to kyll with swoorde and with honger, and with death, that commeth of wemyn of the earth/ And when he had opened the. b. seale, I sawe vnder the aulter, * the soules of them that were kylled for the woorde of god, and for the testymony whiche they had, & they cried with a loude voyce, saying: howe long tarieste thou Lord, holy and true, to iudge, and to auenge our blond, on them that dwel on the earth? And long whyte garmentes, were geuē vnto euery one of them/ and it was sayde vnto them, that they should reste yet for a litle season, vntil the nomber of their felowes, & brethren, and of them that shuld be kylled, as they were, were fulfylled. And I beheld, when he had opened the. vi. seale, and lo, there was a great earthquake, & the sonne was as blacke as sacke cloth, made of heare. And the Mone wexed all, euen as blonde, and the starres of heauen, fell vnto the yearth, euen as a figge tree, casteth from her vnripnesse figges, when she is shaken of a myghty wynde/ And heauen vanyshed away, as a scroll, when it is rolled together/ And all mountaines and iles, were moued out of their places/ And the kynges of the yearth, and the great menne, and the ryche men, and the chiefe captaines, and the myghtymen, and euery bondman, and euery freman, hyd them selues in dennes, and in rockes of the hylles: * and sayde to the hylles and rockes, fall on vs, and hyde vs from the presence of hym that sytteth on the seate, and from the wrathe of the Lambe, for the greate daye of his wrath is come, & who is able to endure?

The. vii. Chapitre.

AND after that, I sawe foure Aungels stande on the foure corners of the yearth, holdyng the foure wyndes of the yearth, that the wynde shuld not blowe on the yearth neither on the sea, neyther on any tree/ And I sawe another Aungell ascende from the rysyng of the sonne, which had the seale of the lyuyng God, and he cryed with a loude voyce, to the foure aungels (to whome power was geuen to hurte the yearth and the sea) saying: hurte not the yearth, neyther the sea, neyther the trees, till we haue sealed the seruauntes of our God, in their foreheades/ And I harde the nomber of them, whiche were sealed, and there were sealed an. c. and xliiii. M. of all the tribes of the children of Israel. Of the tribe of Iuda, were sealed. xii. M. Of the tryde of Ruben, were sealed. xii. M. Of the tryde of Gad, were sealed. xii. M. Of the tryde of Aser, were sealed. xii. M. Of the tribe of Nephthalim, were sealed. xii. M. Of the tryde of Manasses, were sealed. xii. M. Of the tryde of Symeon, were sealed. xii. M. Of the tryde of Leui, were sealed. xii. M. Of the tryde of Issachar, were sealed. xii. M. Of the tryde of Zabulon, were sealed. xii. M. Of the tryde of Joseph, were sealed. xii. M. Of the tribe of Benjamin, were sealed. xii. M. After this I beheld, and lo, a greate multitude, (whiche no man coulde nombre) of all nacions and people, and tongues, stode before the seate, and before the Lambe, clothed with longe whyte garmentes, and palmes in their handes, and cried with a loude voyce, saying: saluacion be ascryebed to hym, that sitteth vpon the seate of our God, and vnto the Lambe/ And all the angels, stode in the compasse of the seate, and of the elders, and of the foure beastes, and fell before the seate, on their faces, and worshypped God, saying: Amen. Blessyng, & glory, and wisdome, and thankes, and honour, and power, and myght, be vnto our God, for euermore. Amen. * And one of the elders answered, saying vnto me: what are these whiche are arayed in long whyte garmentes, and whence came they? And I sayd vnto hym: Lorde thou wotest/ And he said to me: these are they, which came out of great tribulacion, and made their garmentes large, and made them whyte by the blond of the Lambe: therefore are they in the presence of the seate of God, and serue hym daye and nyght, in his temple, and he that sitteth in the seate, shall dwell among the/ They shall honger no more, neyther thirste, neyther shall the sonne lyght on them, neyther anye heate. For the Lambe, whiche is in the myddes of the seate, shall fede them, and shall leade them vnto fountaynes of lyuyng water, & God shall wype away all teares from their eyes.

The. viii. Chapitre.

AND when he had opened the. viii. seale, there was silence in heauen, aboute the space of halfe an houre/ And I sawe. vii. aungels standyng before God, and to them were geuen seuen trompettes. And another aungell came & stode before the aulter, hauyng a golden senser, and muche of odours was geuen vnto hym, that he should offre of the prayers of all Saimes, vpō the golden aulter, which was before the seate, And the smoke of the odours, whiche came of the prayers of all Saimes, ascended vp before God out of the aungels hande. And the aungell toke the sensar, and fylled it with fyre of the aulter, and cast it into the yearth, and voyces were made, and thonderynges and lyghtenynges, & earthquake/ And the seuen aungels, whiche had the seuen trompettes, prepared them selues to blowe. The first aungel blewe, and there was made hayle and fyre, whiche were myngled

wich blonde: and they were caste into the earth, and the thyrde part of the yearth, was set on fyre, and the thirde part of trees was brent, and all grene gresse was brent. And the seconde aungell blewe, and as it were a great mountayne, burnyng with fyre, was cast into the sea, & the thirde part of the sea tourned to bloud, & the third part of creatures, which had lyfe, dyed, and the thyrde part of shippes, were destroyed. And the thyrd aungell blewe, and there fell a great starre from heauen, burnyng as it were a lampe, and it fell into the. iij.
part of the riuers, & into fountaines of waters, and the name of the starre is called wormwod.
And the third part was turned to wormwood.
And many men dyed of the waters, because they were made bytter. And the fourth aungel blew, and the thyrde part of the sonne was smitten, and the third part of the moone, and the third part of starres, so that the third part of them was darkened. And the daye was smytten, that the. iii. part of it, should not lyght, and lykewise the nyght. And I beheld, and hard an angell, flying through the myddes of heauen, saying with a loude voyce: Wo, wo, to the inhabiters of the yearth, because of the voyces es come of the trompe of the thre aungels, whiche were yet to blowe.

The. ix. Chapiter.

AND the fift aungell blewe, & I sawe a star fall from heauen vnto the earth. And to him was geuen the key of the bottomles pit, and he opened the bottomlesse pyt, and the smoke of the pit arose, as the smoke of a great fornace. And the sonne and the aire, were darkened, by the reason of the smoke of the pyt. And there came out of the smoke locustes vpon the yearth, and vnto them was geuen power, as the scorpions of the earth haue power. And it was commanded them, that they should not hurte the gresse of the yearth, neyther anye grene thyng, neyther any tree: but only those men, whiche haue not the seale in their foreheades. And to them was comanded, that they should not kyll them, but that they should be vexed. v. monethes, and their paine was as the paine that cometh of a scorpion, when he hath stonge a man. And in those dayes, shall men seke death, and shall not fynde it, and shall de-syre to dye, and death shal flye from them. And the similitude of the locustes, was lyke vnto horses, prepared vnto battayle, and on their heades were as it were crownes, lyke vnto gold, & their faces were, as it had bene the faces of men. And they had heere as the heere of women. And their teeth were as the teeth of lyons. And they had habbergions, as it were habbergions of yron. And the sound of their wynges, was as the sound of charettes, whē many horses runne together to battayle. And they had tayles, lyke vnto scorpions, and there were stynges in their tailes. And their power was to hurte men, fyue monethes. And they had a kyng ouer them, whiche is the aungell of the bottomles pyt, whose name in the He-brue tongue is Abadon, but in the Greke tōgue, Apollion, that is to saye: a destroyer. One wo is past, and beholde, two woes come yet after this. And the fyft aungell blewe, and I heard a voyce from the foure cornes of the golden aultre, whiche is before God, saying to the syxt aungell, whiche had the trompe: Lose the foure aungels whiche are bounde in the great riuer Euphrates. And the foure angels were loced, which were prepared for an houre, for a daye, for a moneth, & for a yeare, for to slaye the third part of men. And the nōber of horsemen of warre, were. ix. thousand times. x. M. And I heard the nombre of them, and thus I sawe the horses in a vision, & thē that sate on them, hauyng fyry habbergions of a Iacinct colour, & brimstone, & the heades of the horses, were as the heades of lyons.
And out of their mouthes went forth fyre and smoke, & brymstone. And of these thre was the third part of mē killed: that is to say, of fyre, smoke, & brimstone, which proceded out of the mouthes of thē: for their power was in their mouthes, and in their tailes, for their tailes were like vnto serpētes, & had heades, & with them they did hurt. And the remnaunt of the mē, which were not killed by these plages, repē-ted not of the deedes of their handes, that they should not worshyp deuyls, & Images of gold and syluer, & braste, & stone, & of wode, whiche neyther can se, neyther heare, neither go. Also they repented not of their murther, & of their sorcery, neyther of their fornication, neyther of their theefte.

The. x. Chapter.

AND I sawe another mighty aungel come downe from heauen, clothed with a cloud, and the rayn bowe vpon his head. And his face as it were the sunne, and his fete as it were pylers of fyre, and he had in his handē a lytle booke open, and he put his ryght fote vpon the sea, and his left fote on the earth.
And cryed with a loude voyce, as when a lyon roareth. And when he had cryed, seuen thonders spake their voyces. And when the seuen thonders had spoke their voyces, I was about to write, and I heard a voyce fro heauen, saying vnto me, seale vp those thynges, whiche the seuen thonders spake, and wryte them not. And the aungel which I sawe stōde vpō the sea, & vpon the earth, lift vp his hād to heauē, & sware by hym, that liueth for euer more, whiche created heauen, & the thinges that therin are. And the earth, & the thynges that therein are, and the sea, and the thynges whiche therin are: that there should be no lēger tyme, but in the dayes of the voyce of the seuenth angel, when he shall begyn to blow: euē the mistery of God shalbe fynished, as he declared by his seruauntes the Prophetes.

Luke. xxiii. d

C And the voyce whiche I herde from heaven, spake vnto me agayne, and sayde: go & take the lytle booke, whiche is open in the hande of the angel, whiche standeth vpon the sea, and vpon the earth. And I went vnto the aungel, & sayd to him: geue me the lytle boke, and he sayd vnto me, take it, & eate it vp, & it shal make thy belly bytter, but it shalbe in thy mouth as swete as honye. And I toke the litle boke out of his hand and eate it vp, & it was in my mouth as swete as honye, & as sone as I had eaten it, my belly was bitter. And he sayde vnto me, thou muste prophesy agayn among the people, & nacions, and tongues, and to many kynges.

C The xi. Chapitre.

AND then was geuen me a rede like vnto a rod, and it was sayd vnto me. Ryse, and mete the temple of God, and the aultar, and them that worshippe therein, and the quyer whiche is without the temple, caste out and mete it not, for it is geue vnto the Gentyles, and the holy cyte, shal they treade vnder foote. xlii. monethes. And I wyll geue power vnto my two wytnesses, & they shall prophesy a thousand, two hundred and lx. dayes, clothed in sackecloth. These are two olyue trees, and two candelsticks, stantyng before the God of the earth. And if any man wyll hurte them, fyre shall procede out of their mouthes, and consume their enemies. And if any man wyll hurte them, this wyse must he be killed. These have power to shut heaven, that it rayne not in the dayes of their prophesying, and have power ouer waters to turne them to bloude, and to smyte the earth with all maner plagues, as often as they wyll. And when they have fynished their testimony, the beaste that came out of the bottomelesse pytte, shall make warre against them, and shall ouercome them, and kyll them. And their bodyes shal lye in the stretes of the great cyte, which spiritually is called Sodome and Egypt, where oure Lorde was crucified. And they of the people, and kynredes, and tongues, and they of the nacions shall se their bodies, thre dayes and an halfe, and shall not suffre their bodies to be put in graues. And they that dwell vpon the earth, shall reioyce ouer them and be glad, and shall sende gyftes one to another, for these two prophetes vexed them that dwelt on the earth. C And after thre dayes & an halfe, the spirite of lyfe from God entred into them. And they stode vp vpon their fete, and great feare came vpon them, whiche sawe them. And they herde a great voyce from heaven, saying vnto them: Come vp hyther. And they ascended vp into heaven in a cloude, and their enemyes sawe them. And the same houre was there a great earthquake, and the tenth parte of the cyte fell, and in the earthquake, were slayne names of men, seuen. M. and the remnant were feared, and gaue glory to the God of heaven. The seconde woo is past, and beholde, the thyrde woo wyll come anone. And the seuenth aungel blewe, and there were made great voyces in heaven, saying: the kyngdomes of this worlde are oure Lordes, and his Christes, and he shal reigne for euer more. Amen. And the. xxiiii. elders, which sit before God on their seates, fell vpon their faces, and worshipped God, saying: we geue the thankes O Lord God almyghty, whiche art and wast, and art to come, for thou hast receaued thy great myght, and hast raygned. And the nacions were angry, and thy wrath is come, and the tyme of the deade that they should be iudged, and that thou shouldest geue rewarde vnto thy seruauntes, the prophetes and sainctes, and to them that feare thy name, small and great, and shouldest destroye them, whiche destroye the earth. And the temple of God was opened in heaven, and there were seene in his temple, the arke of his testament, & there folowed lightenynges, and voyces, and thondrynges, and earthquake, and mighe hayle.

C The xii. Chapitre.

AND there appeared a greate wonder in heaven: A woman clothed with the sunne and the moone, vnder her feete, and vpon her head, a crowne of. xii. starres. And she was with childe, and cried trauelyng in byrth, and payned redy to be delyuered. And there appeared another wonder in heaven, for beholde, a great red dragon, hauing. vii. heades, and ten hornes, and seuen crownes vpon his heades, and his tayle drue the thirde part of the starres of heaven, and cast them to the earth. And the dragon stode before the woma which was redy to be delyuered, for to deuoure her chylde, as sone as it was borne. And she brought forth a man chylde, whiche shoulde rule all nacions with a rod of yron. And her sonne was taken vp vnto GOD, and to his seate. And the woman fled into wylderuesse, where she had a place prepared of God, that they should fede her there, a thousande two hundred and lx. dayes. And there was a great battayl in heaven, Michael and his aungels, fought with the Dragon, and the Dragon fought and his aungels, and preuayled not, neyther was their place founde anye more in heaven. And the great dragon, that old serpent, called the deuell and Sathanas, was cast out, Whiche deceaueth all the world. And he was cast into the earth, and his aungels were cast out also with him. And I herde a loud voyce, saying in heaven: Now is come saluacion and strength, & the kingdo of our God, & the power of his Christe. For the accuser of our brethren is cast down, which accused them before our God, day & night. And they ouercame him by the blood of the Lambe, and by the word of their testimony, and they loued not their lyues vnto the death. Therefore reioyce heauens and

and ye that dwell in them. Wo to the inhabiters of the earth, and of the sea: for the deuil is come downe vnto you, whiche hathe great wrathe, because he knoweth that he hath but a shorte time. And when the dragon sawe that he was cast vnto the earth, he persecuted the woman, which brought forth the man childe. And to the woman were geuen two winges of a great Egle, that she might flye into the wildernes into her place, where she is nourished for a time, times, and halfe a tyme, frō the presence of the serpent. And the dragon cast out of his mouth water, after the woma, as it had bene a riuer, because he wold haue bene caught of the floude. And the earth holped the woman, & the earth opened her mouth & swalowed vp the riuer, whiche the dragon cast out of his mouth. And the dragon was wroth with the woman, and went, and made warre with the remnaunt of her seede, which kepe the cōmaundementes of God, and haue the testimonie of Jesus Christ. And he stode on the sea sande. ¶ The. xiii. Chapter.

AND I saw a beast ryse out of the sea, hauing seuen heades, and ten hornes, & vpon his hornes x. crownes, and vpon his heade, the name of blasphemy. And the beast which I saw, was like a cat of the mountaine, and his fete were as the fete of a beare, and his mouth, as the mouth of a lion. And the dragō gaue his power, and his seat, & great auctoritie: and I saw one of his heades as it wer wounded to death, and his deadly wounde was healed. And all the world wōdred at the beast, and they worshipped the dragon, which gaue power vnto the beast, and they worshipped the beast, saying: who is lyke vnto the beast? who is able to warre with him? And there was geuen vnto him a mouthe, that spake greate thinges, and blasphemies, & power was geuen vnto him, to do. xlii. monethes. And he opened his mouthe vnto blasphemie against God, to blaspheme his name, & his tabernacle, & them that dwell in heauen. And it was geuen vnto him to make warre with the saintes, and to ouercome them. And power was geuen him ouer al kinred, and people, & tonge, and nacion, & al that dwel vpon the earth worshippe him: whose names are not written in the boke of lyfe, of the lambe, which was killed from the beginning of the world. If any man haue an eare, let him heare. He that leadeth into captiuite, shal go into captiuite: he that killeth with a swearde, muste be killed with a swearde. Here is the patience, and the faith of the saintes. And I beheldе another beast comming vp out of the earthe, & he had two hornes lyke a lambe, and he spake as did the dragon. And he did all that the first beaste could do in his presence, and he caused the earthe, and them which dwelt therin, to worshyp the fyrste beaste, whose deadly wounde was healed. And he did great wōders, so that he made fyre come downe from heauen in the syght of men. And deceaued them that dwelt on the earthe, by the meanes of those sygnes whiche he had power to do in the syght of the beast, saying to them that dwelte on the earth: that they shoulde make an ymage vnto the beast, which had the wounde of a swearde, and dyd lyue. And he had power to gene a spyrite vnto the ymage of the beaste, and that the ymage of the beaste shoulde speake, and shoulde cause that as manye as wolde worshippe the ymage of the beaste shoulde be kylled. And he made all, bothe small and great, riche and pore, free and bonde, to receaue a marke in their right handes, or in their foreheddes. And that no man myght bye or sel, saue he that had the marke, or the name of the beast, eyther the nomber of his name. Here is wysedome. Let him that hathe wyt, counte the nombre of the beast. For it is the nombre of a man, and his nombre is syxe hundred threscore and sixe.

AND I loked, and loe, a lambe stode on the mounte Sion, and with him an hundred and. xliiii. thousande, hauyng his name, and hys father's name written in their foreheades. And I hearde a voyce from heauen, as the sounds of many waters, and as the voyce of a great thonder. And I harde the voyce of harpers, harping with theyr harpes. And they songe as it were a newe songe, before the seate, and before the foure beastes, and the elders, and no man could learne that sōg, but the hundred and. xliiii. M. which were redemed from the earthe. These are they, which were not defyled with women, for they are virgins. These folowe the lambe whyther soeuer he goeth. These were redemed frō men, beyng the fyrst frutes vnto God, and to the lambe, and in their mouthes was founde no gyle. For they are without spot before the throne of God. And I sawe another aungel flye in the myddes of heauen, hauing the euerlasting Gospel, to preache vnto them that syt and dwell on the earthe, and to al nacions, kyndredes, and tonges, and people, saying with a loude voyce: Feare God, and geue honour to him, for the houre of hys iudgemente is come: and worshyp him that made heauen, and earth, the sea, and fountaynes of waters. And there folowed an other angel saying, Babilon is fallen, is fallē, that greate cirye, for she made all nacions drinke of the wyne of her fornicacion. And the iii. aungell folowed them, saiyng with a loude voyce: If any man worshyp the beaste, and his ymage, and receaue his marke in hys forehead, or on his hāde, the same shal drinke the wyne of the wrathe of God, whiche is powred in the cup of his wrathe. And he shal be punished for ever, and brimstone, before the holy angels, and before the lambe. And the smoke of their torment ascendeth vp euermore. And they haue no rest daie nor nyghte, which worship the beast, and his ymage, and whosoeuer receaueth the print of his name. Here is the patience of saintes. Here are they that kepe the commaundementes, and the faith of Iesu. And I hearde a voyce from heauen, saiyng vnto me, write. Blessed are the deade, which hereafter die in the Lord, euē so saieth the spirit, that they rest from their labours, but their workes folow them. And I loked, & beholde, a white cloude, and vpon the cloude one sytting like vnto the sonne of man, hauing on his heade a golden crowne, & in his hande a sharpe sickle. And an other angel came out of the temple, crieng with a loude voice to him that sat on the cloude. * Thrust in thy sickle, and reape, for the time is come to reape, for the corne of the earth is ripe. And he that sat on the cloude thrust in his sickell on the earth, and the earth was reaped. And another angel came out of the temple, which is in heauen, hauing also a sharpe sickle. And another angel came out from the aultare, whiche had power ouer fyre, and cried with a loude crye to him that had the sharpe sickle, & said: thrust in thy sharpe sickle, and gather the clusters of the earth, for her grapes are ripe. And the angel thrust in his sharpe sickle on the earthe, and cut downe the grapes of the vineyarde of the earth: and cast them into the great winefat of the wrathe of God, and the winefat was trode without the citie, & bloude came out of the fat euen vnto the horse bridles, by the space of a thousande, and. vi. C. furlonges.

And I saw another sygne in heaue great, and maruelous, seuen Aungels, hauing the seuen last plages, for in them is fulfylled the wrath of God. And I sawe as it were a glassye sea, mingled with fyre, and them that had gotten victorie of the beast, & his image, and of the nomber of his name, stande on the glassy sea, hauing the harpes of God, & they sange the songe of Moses, the seruaunte of God, & the songe of the Lambe, saiyng: Great, and maruailous are thy workes, * Lord God almightie, iuste, and true are thy wayes, thou King of saintes. Who shall not feare, O Lord, and glorifie thy name? For thou only art holy, and al gentiles shal come, and worship before the, for thy iudgementes are made manifest. And after that, I loked, and behold, the temple of the tabernacle of testimonye was open in heauen, and the seuen Aungels came out of the temple, which had the seuen plages, clothed in pure, and bright lynnen, and hauing their breastes girded with golde girdles. And one of the foure beastes gaue vnto the seuen angels, seuen golden bialles full of the wrathe of God, whiche lyueth for euermore. And the temple was full of the smoke of the glorie of God, and of his power, and no man was able to enter into the temple, till the seuen plages of the seuen angels were fulfylled.

And I hearde a great voice oute of the temple, saiyng to the seuen aungels: Go your waies, poure out your bialles of wrath vpon the earth. And the fyrste angel went, and powred out his bial vpon the earthe, and there fell a noysome, and a sore botche vpon the men whiche had the marke of the beaste, and vpon them whiche worshipped his ymage. And the secode angel shed out his bial vpon the sea, and it turned as it were into the bloude of a dead man: and euery liuing thing died in the sea. And the thirde angel shed out his bial vpon the riuers, and fountaynes of waters, and they turned to bloude. And I hearde an aungel saye: Lorde, which art, and waste, thou arte righteous and holy, because thou hast geuen suche iudgementes, for they shed out the bloude of saintes, and Prophetes, and therefore hast thou geuen them bloude to drincke: for they are worthye. And I hearde another saye: euen so Lorde God almightie: true and righteous are thy iudgementes. And the fourthe aungel powred out his bial on the sunne, and power was geuen vnto him, to vexe men with heat of fyre, and the men vexed in great heate: and spake euel of the name of God, whiche hathe power ouer those plages, and they repented not of their euel dedes, to geue him glorie. And the fyfte aungel powred out his bial vpon the seate of the beaste, and his kyngedom was darcke, and they gnew their tonges for sorowe, and blasphemed the God of heauen for their sorow, and payne of their sores, and repented not of their dedes. And the sixte angel powred out his bial vpon the great riuer Euphrates, and the water dried vp, that the wayes of the kynges of the east Would be prepared. And I sawe there vncleane spirites like frogges come out of the mouthe of the dragon, and out of the mouth of the beaste, and out of the mouth of the false prophete. For they are the spirites of deuels, working miracles to go out vnto the kinges of the earth and of the whole worlde, to gather them to the battayle of that greate daye of God almighty. * Behold, I come as a theefe. Happy is he that watcheth, and kepeth his garmentes, lest he walke naked, and men se his filthynes. And he gathered them together into a place called in the Hebrue tonge Armagedon. And the seuenth angel powred out his bial into the ayre. And there came a great voice out of heauen from the seate, saying: It is done. And there followed voyces, thonderinges, and lightenynges, and there was a greate earth quake, such as was not since men were vpon the earth, so mightie an earthquake, and so great. And the great citie was deuided into three parties, and the cities of al nacions fel. And great Babylon came in remembraunce before God, to geue vnto her the cup of the wine of the fearcenes of his wrath. Euery yle also fled away, and the mountaynes were not founde. And there fell a great hayle (as it had bene talentes) out of heauen vpon the men, and the men blaspheмed God: because of the plage of the hayle, for it was great, and the plage of it sore.

AND there came one of the angels, which had the seuen vialles, and talked with me, saying vnto me: come, I will shew vnto the, the iudgement of the great whore that sytteth vpon many waters, with whome haue cōmitted fornicacō the kinges of the earth, and the inhabiters of the earthe, are dronke with the wyne of her fornication. And the spirite caried me away into the wildernes. And I sawe a woman sytt vpon a scarlet coloured beast, ful of names of blaspheмie, whiche had seuen heades, and ten hornes. And the woman was arayed in purple, & scarlet colour, and decked with golde, precious stone, and pearles, and had a cup of golde in her hāde, ful of abhominations, and filthines of her fornicacō. And in her forehead was a name written, a mistery, great Babylon, the mother of whoredome, and abhominations of the earth. And I sawe the woman dronke with the bloude of saincts, and with the bloude of the witnesses of Jesu. And when I sawe her, I wondred with great marualle. And the angel said vnto me: wherefore marueilest thou? I will shew the, the mistery of the woman, & of the beast that beareth her, which hath seuen heades, and ten hornes. The beast that thou sawest, was, and is not, and shal ascende out of the bottomlesse pit, and shal go into perdicion. And they that dwel on the earth, shal wonder (whose names are not writte in the boke of life, from the beginning of the worlde) when they behold the beaste that was and is not. And here is a mynde that hath wysedom. The seuen heades are seuen mountaynes, on which the woman sytteth, they are also seuen kinges: Fiue are fallen, and one is, and another is not yet come. And when he commeth, he muste continue a whyte space. And the beast that was, and is not, is euen the eight, and is one of the seuen, and shall go into destruccion. And the ten hornes which thou sawest are ten kinges, which haue receaued no kingdō as yet, but shal receaue power as kinges at one houre with the beaste. These haue one mynde, and shal geue their power, & strength vnto the beaste. These shall fight with the lambe, and the lambe shall ouercome them. For he is Lord of Lordes, & king of kinges: and they that are on his side, are called, and chosen, and faithful. And he said vnto me: the waters which thou sawest, where the whore sytteth, are people, and tonges, and nacions, & tōges. And the ten hornes which thou sawest vpon the beast, are they that shal hate the whore, & shal make her desolate, and naked, & shal eate her flesshe, & burne her with fyre. For God hathe put in their hartes to fulfyl his wil, and to do with one consēt, & to geue their kingedom vnto the beast, vntyl the wordes of God be fulfylled. And the woman which thou sawest, is that great cytye, which reigneth ouer the kinges of the earth.

AND after that, I saw another angel come from heauen, hauing great power, and the earth was lightened with his brightnes. And he cryed mightely with a stronge voice, saying: Great Babylon is fallen, is fallē, & is become the habitation of diuels, & the hold of al foule spirites, and a cage of all vncleane & hateful birdes, for al nacions haue dronke of the wine of the wrath of her fornicacō. And the kinges of the earthe haue cōmitted fornication with her, and the marchaūtes of the earth are wexed rich of the aboūdaūce of her pleasures. And I heard another voice from heauen, say, come away frō her my people, that ye be not partakers of her synnes, & that ye receaue not of her plages. For her synnes are gone vp to heauē, & god hath remēbred her wickednes. Reward her euen as she rewarded you, & geue her double accordyng to her workes. And poure in double to her in the same cup which she filled vnto you. And as much as she glorified her selfe, and liued wantonly, so much powre ye in: for her punishmēt, & sorow: for she said in her hert: I syt being a quene, & am no widdow, & shall se no sorow. Therefore shal her plages come in one day, death, and sorow, & hunger, & she shalbe brent with fyre: for strōg is the Lorde God, which shal iudge her. And the kinges of the earth shal bewepe her, & waile her, which haue cōmitted fornication with her, & haue lyued wantonly with her, whē they shall se the smoke of her burning, & shal stande a farre off, for feare of her punishmēt, saying: Alas, alas, that great citie Babilō, that mighty citie: for at one houre is thy iudgemēt come. And the marchaūtes of the earth shal wepe, & waile ouer them selues, for no man wil bie their ware any more, the ware of golde, and syluer, and precious stones, pether of pearle, & raynes, & purple, and thatlet, and all thyne wod, and al maner vessels of yuorie, and al maner ves-

of moste precious wod, and of braſſe, and yron, and marble, and cinamon, and odours, and oyntmentes, and frankencence, and wine, and oyle: and fyne flour, and wheate, beaſtes, and ſheepe, and horſes, and charettes, and bodies, and ſoules of men. And the apples that thy ſoule luſteth after, are departed fro the. And all thinges which were delitie: and had in price, are departed from the, and thou ſhalt fynde them no more. The marchauntes of theſe thinges which were wexed ryche, ſhall ſtande a farre of from her, for feare of the punyſhment of her, weping, and wailynge, and ſaiyng: * Alas, Alas, that great cytye: that was clothed in raynes, and purple, and crarlet, and decked with golde, and precious ſtones, and pearles: for at one houre ſo great riches be come to nought. And every ſhip gouernoure, and all thei that occupied ſhippes, and ſhipmen which worke in the ſea, ſtode a farre of, & cried, when theiſaw the ſmoke of her burnynge, ſaiyng: what citie is lyke vnto this great cityes and they caſte duſte on theyr heades and cried, weepynge, and waylynge, and ſaid: * Alas, Alas, that great cytie, wherin were made ryche al that had ſhippes in the ſea, by the reaſon of her coſtlines, for at one houre is ſhe made deſolate. Reioyce ouer her thou heauen, and ye holy Apoſtels, and Prophetes: for God hathe geuen your iudgement on her. And a mightie angel toke vp a ſtone lyke a great mylſtone, and caſte it into the ſea, ſaiyng: with ſuche violence ſhal that great citie Babilon be caſte, ſhalbe ſoūd nomore. And the voice of harpers, and muſitions, and of pipers, and trompetters ſhalbe harde nomore in the: and no craftes man, of whatſoeuer craft he be, ſhalbe founde any more in the. And the ſounde of a mylſhal be harde nomore in the, and candel lyght ſhalbe burning nomore in thee, and the voyce of the bridegrome, & of the bride, ſhalbe harde nomore in the: for thy marchauntes were the great men of the earthe. And with thine inchauntement were deceaued all nacions: and in her was founde the bloude of the Prophetes, and of the ſainctes, and of al that were ſlayne vpon the earth.

AND after that I hearde a great voyce of muche people in heauen, ſaiyng: Alleluya, ſaluacion, and glory, and honoure, and power be aſcribed to the Lord our God, for true and righteous are his iudgementes, for he hath iudged the great whore which did corrupt the earth with her fornicacion, and hath auenged the bloude of his ſeruauntes of her hande. And againe thei ſaid: Alleluya. And ſmoke roſe vp for euermore. And the .xxiiii. elders, and the iiii. beaſtes fell downe, & worſhipped God, that ſat on the ſeate, ſaiyng: Amen, Alleluya. And a voyce came out of the ſeate ſaiyng: prayſe our Lord God, al ye that are his ſeruauntes, & ye that feare him both ſmal & great. And I harde the voyce of muche people, euen as the voyce of many waters, & as the voyce of ſtronge thundringes, ſaiyng Alleluya, for the Lord our God omnipotente raigneth. Let vs be glad, and reioyce, and geue honoure to him, for the mariage of the lambe is come, and his wyfe made her ſelfe readie. And to her was graūted, that ſhe ſhold be arayed with pure, and goodly raines. For the raines is the righteouſnes of ſainctes. And he ſaid vnto me, write, * happy are they which are called vnto the ſupper of the lambes mariage. And he ſaid vnto me: theſe are the true ſaiynges of God. And I fell at his feete to worſhip him. And he ſaid vnto me: ſe thou do it not. For I am thy felow ſeruaunt, and one of thy brethren, euen of them that haue the teſtimonie of Ieſus. Worſhip God. For the teſtimoure of Ieſus is the ſpirite of prophecie. And I ſaw heauen open, & behold, a white horſe, & he that ſat vpō him, was called faithful, and true, and in righteouſnes he doth iudge, and make battaile. His eyes were as a flame of fyre, and on his heade were many crownes, and he had a name written, that no man knew but he him ſelfe. * And he was clothed with a veſture, dipte in bloude, & his name is called the word of God. And the warriours which were in heauen, folowed him, vpon the white horſes, clothed with white, & pure raynes, & out of his mouth went a ſharpe two edged ſweard, that with it he ſhuld ſmite the heathen. And he ſhal rule them with a rod of yron, and he trode the wyne fat of fearſnes and wrath of almighty God. And hath on his veſture, and on his thighe a name writte: King of kinges, and Lord of Lordes. And I ſaw an angel ſtande in the ſonne, & he cryed with a loude voice, ſaiyng: to all the foules that flye by the middes of heauen: come and gather your ſelues together vnto the ſupper of the great God, that ye may eat fleſh of kinges, & the fleſh of the hie captaines, and the fleſh of mightie men, and the fleſh of horſes, and of them that ſit on them, & the fleſh of all free men, & bōde men, & of ſmal, & great. And I ſaw the beaſt, and the kynges of the earth, & their warriers gathered together to make battel againſt him that ſat on the horſe, and againſt his ſouldiars. And the beaſt was take, & with him the falſe prophete that wrought miracles before him, with which he deceiued them that receiued the beaſtes marke, & them that worſhipped his ymage. Theſe both were caſt quicke into a ponde of fyre, burning with brimſtone: and the remnaunt were ſlayne with the ſwearde of him that ſat vpon the horſe, which ſweard proceded out of his mouthe, & al the foules were fulefylled with their fleſh.

¶ And I sawe an aungell come downe from heauen, hauynge the keye of the bottomlesse pyt, and a greate chayne in his hande: And he toke the dragon that olde serpente, whyche is the deuel and Satan, and he bounde hym a thousande yeres: and caste him into a bottomlesse pyt, and he shutte him vp, and set a seale on him that he should deceaue the people nomoze, till the thousande yeres were fulfylled. And after that he muste be loced for a lytel season. B And I sawe seates, and they sat vpon them, and iudgement was geuen vnto them: and I sawe the soules of them that were beheaded for the wytnes of Jesu, and for the worde of God, and whyche had not worshypped the beast, neyther his ymage, neyther had taken his marke vpon theyr foreheades, or in their handes: & they lyued and raygned with Christe a. M. yeres: but the other of the dead men lyued not agayne, vntyll the thousande yere were fynyshed. This is that fyrst resurrection. Blessed and holye is he, that hathe parte in the fyrst resurrection. For on suche shall the seconde death haue no power, but they shalbe the preestes of God, and of Christe, and shall raygne with him a thousande yeres. C

And when the. M. yeares are expired, Satan shalbe lowsed out of his prison, and shall go out to deceaue the people, whiche are in the iiii. quarters of the earth, Gog and Magog, to gather them together to battell, whose nombre is as the sande of the sea: and they went vp in the plaine of the earth: and compassed the tentes of the saintes about, and the beloued cytye. And fyre came downe from God out of heauen, and deuoured them: and the deuel that deceaued them, was cast into a lake of fyre and brymstone, where the beaste and the false prophetes, shal be tormented daye and nyghte for euermore. And I sawe a greate whyte seate, and hym that sat ouer it, from whose face fled away both the erth and heauen, & theyr place was nomoze found. D

And I sawe the dead, both greate and small stande before God. And the bokes were opened, and another boke was opened, which is the booke of lyfe, and the dead were iudged of those thynges whyche were written in the bokes, according to theyr dedes. And the sea gaue vp the dead whyche were in her, and death, and hell deliuered vp the dead, whyche were in them: and they were iudged euerye man according to his dedes. And death and hell were cast into the lake of fyre. This is the seconde death. And whosoeuer was not founde written in the booke of lyfe, was cast into the lake of fyre.

The. xxi. Chap.

¶ And I sawe a newe heauen & a new earth. For the fyrste heauen, and the fyrst earth were vanyshed awaye, and there was nomoze Sea. And I Jhon sawe the holy citye, newe Jerusalem, come downe from God out of heauen, prepared as a bryde garnysshed for her husbande. And I hearde a greate voyce out of heauen, sayeng: Beholde the tabernacle of God is with menne, and he will dwell with them. And they shalbe his people, and God himselfe shalbe with them & be their God. And God shall wype awaye all teares from their eyen. And there shalbe nomoze death, neyther sorowe, neyther crienge, neither shall there be any moze payn, for the olde thinges are gone. And he that sate vpon the seate, sayde: Beholde, I make all thinges newe. And he sayd vnto me: wryte, for these wordes are faythfull and true. And he saide vnto me: It is done, I am Alpha and Omega, the begynnynge and the ende, I will geue to hym that is a thyrst, of the well of the water of lyfe, freely. He that ouercommeth shall enherit all thynges, and I will be his God, and he shalbe my sonne. But the fearfull and vnbeleuinge, and the abhominable, and murtherers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and ydolaters, and all lyars shall haue theyr parte in the lake, whyche burneth with fyre and brymstone, whiche is the seconde death. And there came vnto me one of the seuen aungels whyche had the seuen vyalles full of the seuen laste plages: and talked with me, sayenge: come hyther. I will shewe thee the bride, the lambes wyfe. And he caried me awaye in the spirite to a greate and and an hye mountayne, and he shewed me the greate citie holy Jerusalem, descendynge out of heauen from God: hauyng the brightenes of God. And her lyghte was lyke vnto a stone most precious, euē lyke a Jasper, cleare as Cristall: and had walles greate and hye, and had. xii. gates, and at the gates. xii. aungels: and names written, whyche are the names of the xii. tribes of Israel: on the East parte. iii. gates, and on the Northparte. iii. gates, and toward the South. iii. gates, and from the west. iii. gates, and the wal of the citie had. xii. foundacions: and in them the xii. names of the lambes. xii. Apostles. And he that talked with me, had a golden reede to measure the citie withal, and the gates therof, & the wall therof. And the citie was built iiii. square, and the length was as large as the breedth, and he measured the citie with the golden reede. xii. M. furlonges, & the length and the breedth, & the heyght of it, were equal. And he measured the wal therof: an. C. xliiii. cubites: the measure that the angel had, was after the measure that mā breedth. And the buildynge of the wall of it was Jasper. And the citie was pure golde lyke vnto cleare glasse. And the foundacions of the wall of the citie were garnysshed with all maner of pretious stones. The fyrste foundacion was Jasper, the second Saphyre, the third a Calcedony, the fourth an Emeralde, the fyfte Sardonix, the syxt Sardeon, the seuenth Chrisolyte, the .xi. Topas, the .xii. Chrisoprasus, the .xiii. Iacinctus, the .xiiii. Amatist. And twelue gates were twelue pearles, euery gate was of one pearle, and the strete of the citie was pure golde as it were glasse. And I sawe no temple therin. For the Lorde God almyghty and the lambe are the temple of it. And the citie hath no nede of the sonne, neither of the moone to lighte it. For the brightenesse of God did lighte it, and the lambe was the lyghte of it. And the people which are saued, shall walke in the lyghte of it. And the kynges of the earth shall bringe their glorye and honoure vnto it. And the gates of it, are not shut by day. For there shalbe no nyght there. And into it shal they bringe the glorye and honoure of nacyons. And there shall enter into it, none vncleane thynge, neyther whatsoeuer worketh abhominacion or maketh lyes: but they onely, which are written in the lambes boke of lyfe.

And he shewed me a pure ryuer of water of lyfe, clere as Crystall: proceadynge oute of the seate of God, and the lambe. In the myddes of the strete of it, and of either syde of the ryuer, stode there wood of lyfe: whi the bare twelue maner of frutes: and gaue frute euerye moneth: and the leaues of the wood serued to heale the people wythall. And there shalbe no more curse, but the seate of God and the lambe shalbe in it: and his seruauntes shall serue him. And they shall se his face, and his name shalbe in their foreheddes. And there shalbe no nyght there, and they nede no candle, neither lyghte of the sonne: for the Lorde God geueth them lyght, and they shall raygne for euermore. And he sayde vnto me: these sayenges are faithful and true. And the Lorde God of the holye Prophetes sent his Aungell to shewe vnto his seruauntes, the thynges which must shortly be fulfilled. Beholde, I come shortly. Happy is he that kepeth the sayenge of the prophecye of this boke. I am John, which sawe these thynges and herd them. And when I had herde and sene, I fell downe to worshippe before the fete of the angel, which shewed me these thinges. And he sayd vnto me: se thou do it not, for I am thy felow seruaunt & thy felowe seruaunt of thy brethre the Prophetes, and of them which kepe the sayenges of the prophecy of this boke. But worshippe God. And he sayde vnto me: seale not the sayenges of the prophecye of this boke. For the tyme is at hande. He that doeth euell, lette him do euell still: and he which is fylthy, lette him be fylthy still: and he that is righteous, lette him be more righteous, and he that is holye, lette him be more holye. And beholde, I come shortly, and my rewarde is with me, to geue euery man accordynge as his dedes shalbe. I am Alpha and Omega, the begynnynge and the ende, the first and the laste. Blessed are they that do his commaundementes, that their power maye be in the tree of lyfe, and maye entre in thorowe the gates into the cytie. For wythoute shalbe dogges and inchaunters, and whoremongers, and murtherers, and ydolaters, and whosoeuer loueth or maketh lies. I Iesus sente myne aungel, to testifie vnto you these thynges in the congregacions. I am the roote and the generacion of David, and the bryght morninge starre. And the Spirite and the bryde sayd: come. And lette him that heareth, saye also, come. And lette him that is a thyrst: come. And let whosoeuer will, take of the water of lyfe, frely. I testifie vnto euery man that heareth the wordes of the prophecye of this boke: If any man shall adde vnto these thinges, God shall adde vnto him the plages that are written in this boke. And if any man shall mingle of the wordes of the boke of this prophecye, God shall take awaye his parte out of the boke of lyfe, and out of the holy citie, & from the thynges whyche are written in this boke. He whyche testifieth these thynges sayth, Surely I come quickly. Amen.

Euen so come Lorde Iesu. The grace of our Lorde Iesu Christ be with you all. Amen.
